The second point I would like to make, in answer to the gentleman, relates to his statement that he has talked to a number of local officials who favor this bill. I would like to tell the gentleman that every State organization that is involved—and I am speaking of the organization of boroughs, of townships, of cities and of school directors—is one hundred per cent on record as being against this because those people are in a position to know the impact this would have upon their ability to maintain adequate local government for their people.

Now, Mr. President, I would like to yield to the gentleman from Centre, Senator Hays.

Mr. HAYS. Thank you, Senator Seyler.

Mr. President, I do not know whether or not this is a personal vendetta in which I may get hurt. However, since a week or more ago I had sort of promised the Senator from Washington that I would offer an amendment and have not offered it, I think I should say that upon looking over the bill, I felt a little like my mother used to when she was darning my socks and pants over for the tenth or twelfth time and she did not think they were worth mending. I came to the conclusion that this was not worth amending.

We think of this as a ceiling. Really, I want to point out that there are two ceilings involved in this bill. One is a very obvious ceiling; the ceiling on a budget of a local borough, township, county or school district. The other ceiling is not quite as obvious. This is a ceiling on the ambitions and hopes that people, through their elected officials, have for themselves and for their children. This, it seems to me, is the important ceiling that we should keep in mind.

It seems to me, as Senator Seyler has pointed out, that this is really a blow at local government, and one of the great strengths of American democracy is local government.

On the question of referring to the courts, I have in my hand the Centre County Legal Journal for June 28th. I would point out that about half of this Legal Journal is made up of—for example, this is on the matter of the approval of an increase in the tax rate for the school district of the township of Ferguson, Centre County, Pennsylvania, in the Court of Common Pleas. The school district of the township of Ferguson, Centre County, and the taxpayers of said district, are asking for an increase in the millage on real estate in said school district for the 1961-1962 school year to twenty-six mills, which is eleven mills more than the amount allowed by the Act of May 21, 1943.

If this is going on in this year, 1961, think how our courts would be clogged in 1970 and 1980 and dates such as those. It seems to me, if we are to strengthen local government, we have to give local government officials something to get their teeth into. My colleagues in the Senate, I am sure, know there is nothing that makes you strive so much as voting for taxes. Therefore, it seems to me that this should remain the responsibility of locally elected government officials.

There are two ceilings involved here. One is the obvious tax ceiling and the other is a ceiling on the hopes and ambitions that people, through their elected officials, have for themselves and their children. Therefore, I urge you to vote "no" on this legislation.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, as I was listening to the debate on this bill, it occurred to me that at the present time the Select Committees on Education, both in the House and in the Senate, are considering the report of the Governor's Committee on Education. I am sure every Member of this Senate has received a copy of this report. This report shows that for the past ten years, the expenses of the State Government for public education have risen on the ratio of three dollars to one dollar raised by local communities.

The report, after one year of study, recommends that in the future any additional costs for public education from this level on should be born equally by the Commonwealth and by the local municipality. If we are going to carry out the recommendations of the Governor's Committee on Education, and if we are going to follow out the principle that in the future any increase in the cost of public education shall be borne equally by the local communities and by the State, I certainly am not going to vote for a bill which would hamper a local community in determining just what taxes they need for education and for other purposes. I intend to vote against this bill.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, in answer to several of the statements which were made, let me say this with reference to the organizations. I would say that it is true that the organizations—that is, the political subdivision organizations and probably the school directors organization—are opposed to this legislation. However, you Members of the Senate, who have been around here for a long time, know very well that you never found an organization that was out for anything more than an increase in the tax rate. They are never for a reduction and they are never for a ceiling.

With reference to another statement which was made here that we would be hamstringing political subdivisions, let me say that I have placed a hatch tentatively on top, but it is not nailed down tight because if any political subdivision wishes to increase their revenue over and above this ceiling, they have the right to go to court. I know the court will use its best discretion when it comes to handing down a decision. If they are afraid to go to court and ask the court for an increase, there is something wrong.

I believe that the time has come when we must take a firm stand. I think this is good legislation. I hope the Members of the Senate on both sides will give me a lift and pass it.

And the question recurring,
shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—12

Berger, Camiel, DiSilvestro,	Haluska, Kalman, Lane,	McCreesh, McGinnis, McMenamin,	Murray, Sarraf, Stalsey,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative, and the bill was defeated.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from York, Mr. Seyler, will state it.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, does this action by the Pennsylvania Senate reverse the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Seyler, do you understand that the bill failed of passage?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, following along that line of thought, I might inquire whether the bill was intended to embellish the decision of the Supreme Court?

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, it looks like we reversed the decision of the Supreme Court by the vote here.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Supreme Court decision stands and this bill fails.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I just want to point out that we did better percentage-wise than the Supreme Court did. We were twenty-five to twenty-two and they were five to four.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HALUSKA asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, with reference to House Bill No. 1438 and House Bill No. 1221, which are in the Committee on Local Government, of which I am Chairman, I wish to announce that on Monday morning, at 10:00 a.m., there will be a public hearing held on these bills. If need be, the hearings will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday at the same hour. We do not want to delay action on these public hearings or cut anyone off.

However, I talked to all the Members of my Committee and we came to one agreement. We hope it will meet with the approval of those who may come to the hearings. The agreement is that we will have no demonstrations and we desire no large groups. We have other work to do. We have agreed that each group have five members: the proponents, the department heads and the opponents. If need be, either group may have an additional man. We certainly will give them the opportunity to be heard. However, we would like to thoroughly review this bill; its contents, its merits and its demerits, as quickly as possible.

Therefore, at 10:00 a.m., next Monday, the first public hearing will be held in the Democratic Caucus Room, on the first floor.

We shall first hear from the proponents of the bill, then from the department heads, and then from the opponents. I also want to inform the press, radio and television that they are welcome to appear either as reporters or as witnesses.

In order for no one to act under any misapprehension, there will be a bona fide court reporter at those hearings who will take down every word from every person. Every person who may be a witness must permit himself to be interrogated. Our Committee wishes to have all the information possible regarding these bills and their effect.

I repeat, Mr. President, that we want no demonstrations. We hope to have an orderly meeting and everyone will have the privilege and the opportunity to be heard.

INTERROGATION

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Senator Haluska.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HALUSKA. I certainly will, Mr. President.

Mr. PECHAN. Senator Haluska, I just want to make sure whether we are playing for keeps this time. Are you going to be there at 10:00 a.m. this coming Monday?

Mr. HALUSKA. I cannot speak for the Committee, but I will be there, God willing.

Mr. PECHAN. Thank you very much.

STATEMENT BY THE CHAIR

The PRESIDING OFFICER. For those in the audience who did not hear the remarks and who are interested in House bill No. 1438 and House bill No. 1221, I will repeat that there will be a meeting of the Local Government Committee, to be held at 10:00 a.m., Daylight Saving Time, on Monday, in the Democratic Caucus Room, which is on the first floor of this Capitol Building. There will be public hearings.

Each group—meaning the proponents, the opponents and the department heads—will be allowed five members to present their views. I believe that just about covers it.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, it was not definitely decided but—and there certainly was discussion in that direction last week—in order to permit the Select Committee on Education to work unhampered, it was possible that we might be in recess next week. I have not had a chance to confer on that subject since coming back this week. However, I would assume that whether or not that recess should take place, this Committee meeting and hearing will be held.

Am I correct, Mr. President?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I can answer the gentleman by stating that from my source of information, these meetings will take place whether the Legislature is in Session or not.

I am informing the Members of the Legislature that our present plans are to meet on Monday, July 10; on Tuesday, July 11; on Wednesday, July 12; and possibly on Thursday, July 13.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does that answer your point of information, Senator Berger?

Mr. BERGER. Yes, Mr. President, unless something happens tomorrow.

HB 257—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL RECOMMITTED

SB. 322 (Pr. No. 339)—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President I move that Senate Bill No. 322 be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, on the motion, I stated when the bill was introduced and again when it was reported out that I had hoped there would be some substantial, clarifying amendments to it.

I have had a great deal of correspondence which was highly in favor of this proposed legislation. It is a very drastic piece of legislation, I admit, but properly administered I think would have some salutary effect upon the crimes which are sought to be controlled by it.

I also said that in connection with this bill there was another bill, amending the Barr-Walker Act, which would limit the right of parole to offenders who had been convicted and imprisoned for this crime. That bill, however, has not been reported from committee. I believe that the bills should travel together because they are very important to each other. Consequently, I am not opposing the motion to recommit. However, I do hope that in committee there will be some amendment suggested that will answer some of the objections which have been made to the bill and also, that we can consider the limitation of parole in this type of offense to the extent at least as provided for in the companion bill.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am a co-sponsor of this bill, and I seconded the motion to recommit.

I must say that the bill has some merit. However, it is quite drastic. Therefore, I am seconding this motion.

I do believe, Mr. President, that this is a major problem in government, and we must do something as far as the Barr-Walker Act is concerned and also this particular piece of legislation. I believe that actually this is a task for the Joint State Government Commission. I believe the commission should study the ramifications of this particular problem and make a report to the Legislature so that we can proceed, because our one objective is to protect the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania from crimes which might be committed at any time.

Although I reluctantly second this motion, I do feel that this bill is not the legislation to properly do the job.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I can think of three important reasons why this legislation is bad. Also, I think it is rather cruel and unusual punishment which was not thought about by the people who brought this Country into being. Because of that, I think this is the wrong approach to the problem. The removal of organic organs does not get to the heart of the problem. The problem is one of the psyche, and I think that problem should be dealt with on the basis of an approach to the whole situation rather than on the basis of trying to remove any vital part of the body. This goes back to the days when they cut off a hand, an ear, or something of that nature of a person who was a pickpocket.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I beg the indulgence of the Chair, if I may interrupt the gentleman.

I stated my reasons for not opposing the motion only. I may say that if there is going to be an exposition on cruel and unusual punishment and that sort of thing regarding this bill, I might oppose the motion to recommit. I have not done it. However, if there is going to be a long record made of this type of thing, which in my opinion is out of order, then, Mr. President, I might take a different viewpoint.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Berger and Senator Weiner, a motion to recommit is not debatable. It has been moved and seconded that the bill be recommitted.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I will subside in one moment. I do not think it is ever out of order to give your reasons why you want a bill to go back to committee for further study. However, this being the desire of the sponsor, I will subside.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the bill was recommitted.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 351—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER. asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, now that this bill has passed, I just want to make a slight observation for the record.

This bill brings the Pennsylvania Liquor Code into conformity with the United States Customs Act. If, for example, you take a trip outside of this Country, you are entitled, under the United States Customs Act, to bring back one gallon of untaxed liquor. When you get off the ship in New York, Philadelphia, or any place, and you put this into your automobile and take it somewhere else, you are violating the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania because you do not have affixed thereto the tax stamp of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board. They can not only take the liquor from you, but they can take your automobile as well. This is the way the Act is set up.

All this bill does is bring into line with the Federal law. If you can demonstrate that you purchased this liquor in a foreign country, the bill specifically states that you are in conformity with the law and you can take the liquor to your home in your automobile or give it to a friend without running the risk of losing not only the liquor, but also your automobile. It is the general rule that you forfeit the vehicle in which the illegal liquor is carried when it is found.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 672—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. LANE.

SB 688 and 690—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. SEYLER.

SB 704, 705, 706 and 707—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 704, Senate Bill No. 705, Senate Bill No. 706 and Senate Bill No. 707 go over in their order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, the idea of Senate Bill No. 704 and the succeeding bills in the same category is all right. However, the amendments which have been placed in the bill do not go far enough in order to make the bill do what it was intended to do and yet eliminate the possibility that certain completely divergent types of businesses would not be hampered by the use of the words "hospital and sanitarium" and so forth.

Consequently, Mr. President, I would suggest that these bills go over in their order with the thought that they may be amended so that they might become more acceptable.

Therefore, I have requested that this bill go over in its order, and also Senate Bill No. 705, Senate Bill No. 706 and Senate Bill No. 707 on page 8 of the Calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bills will go over in their order.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

SB 805 (Pr. No. 983)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I rise to oppose the passage of this bill. We are setting up a board which is already set up, but we are giving it more power and more influence. This board is going to determine the claims of various people against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The reason that I am against this bill is that this board is composed of people from various professions and occupations. It is not a board composed of judges. However, this bill states that when an appeal is taken from this board to the Dauphin County Court, the judges of the Dauphin County Court will not have the opportunity to examine the appeal de novo. I believe that this tendency in this Commonwealth to deny appellants the right to appeal de novo is not in the best interests of justice.

I do not have full confidence in the decisions of boards and commissions. I like to have my constituents have their rights heard completely from the beginning in front of a court—a court of judges—and that is why I oppose this bill.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, may we be at ease?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease. (The Senate was at ease.)

BILL ON THIRD READING POSTPONED

SB 670 (Pr. No. 780)—Without objection, the bill was called up from the Postponed Calendar by Mr. LANE.

BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDED

SB 670 (Pr. No. 780)—Read at length the third time.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I might advise the Senate that the amendments which I am about to offer have to do with the family court plan for Allegheny County. We have received information from the Board of Judges of that county that these amendments will put the bill in proper form whereby the Board of Judges will, in all probability, approve this type of legislation.

Mr. President, if the amendments are adopted, I will then move that Senate Bill No. 670, Printer's No. 780, as amended, be returned to the Third Reading Postponed Calendar.

Messrs. LANE and DEVLIN, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Title, page 1, first line of Title, by striking out "family court division in the Court of Common Pleas" and inserting: Family Court

Amend Title, page 1, sixth line of Title, by striking out "branch".

Amend Title, page 1, next to last line of Title, by striking out "division".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

There were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

Upon motion of Mr. LANE, seconded by Mr. DEVLIN, and agreed to, the bill, as amended, was placed on the Third Reading Postponed Calendar.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. VAN SANT, WADE, MURRAY and KALMAN, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 846, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 17, 1921 (P. L. 682), entitled "The Insurance Company Law of 1921," permitting stock insurance companies to issue stock without par value, eliminating the five dollar ($5.00) minimum par value requirement, permitting par value stock to be issued at not less than par, further defining profits for purposes of declaring and paying dividends, and clarifying certain other provisions relating to capital stock, capital and paid in surplus.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

Messrs. PECHAN and SHAFER, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 847, entitled:

An Act relating to financial affairs of taxing districts as herein defined and certain school districts; changing the fiscal years of such taxing districts and school districts; regulating the time for making and reporting of budgets, financial statements, and the audits of accounts, the settlement of tax accounts, and the return of delinquent taxes; providing for tax levies and discounts from and penalties and interest on taxes, and providing for a special fiscal period in order to effectuate a change of fiscal years in said taxing districts.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

MEETING OF COMMITTEE ON LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I request a five minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Committee on Local Government, to be held in the rear of the Senate Chamber.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, while the Committee on Local Government is holding its meeting, I would request that we continue with the business of the Session.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, we will continue with the business of the Session.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, the two bills which I am about to introduce deal with a subject on which action is long overdue in the legislative annals of Pennsylvania.

You know, we have passed many laws during this Session regarding highway safety. However, we forgot the most important culprits; namely, those automobile mechanics who pretend to know all about automobiles and then they fashion a weapon of death by omission or commission. For this reason, it is high time that the law catches up with these people. For this reason, also, I must lament this situation by offering two bills.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STIEFEL, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 848, entitled:

An Act relating to the repairing of motor vehicles; providing for the licensing and registration of persons, firms and corporations engaged in such service and for the revocation and suspension of such licenses and registration subject to appeal, and for their reinstatement; defining the powers and duties of the State Board of Examiners of Motor Vehicle Repairmen and the Department of Public Instruction and providing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

He also, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 849, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," by creating the State Board of Examiners of Motor Vehicle Repairmen as a departmental administrative board in the Department of Public Instruction and prescribing its powers and duties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. WADE, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Highways, reported, as committed, HB 1331.

Mr. RIPP, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Local Government, reported, as committed, SB 671 and HB 1284.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT
COMMISSION TO MAKE A STUDY OF COMPULSIVE DISORDERS, SUCH AS ALCOHOLISM, DRUG ADDICTION AND GAMBLING

Messrs. LANE, WEINER and SEYLER, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 81), which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, July 7, 1961.

WHEREAS, Various institutions, agencies and professional workers have attested to an alarming increase in the number of persons afflicted with compulsive disorders, such as alcoholism, drug addiction and gambling; and

WHEREAS, Precise knowledge as to the extent of and the reasons for the apparent increase in these disorders is woefully inadequate for the purposes of establishing appropriate emergency and long range preventive programs; and

WHEREAS, Compulsive disorders involve fields of professional interest other than alcoholism, drug addiction, and gambling, such as excessive use of tobacco, prostitution, certain sex offenses and other psychopathic behavior, and consequently require the attention of not only local and private agencies but also that of the State Departments of Health, Public Welfare; Justice, Labor and Industry and Public Instruction; and

WHEREAS, The damage done by these behavioral disorders to thousands of homes and hundreds of thousands of individuals is incalculable; and

WHEREAS, The concomitant economic losses undoubtedly run into vast sums of money as may be involved in work time lost, reduced and inferior work output, accidents, welfare payments, plus the cost of crime; and

WHEREAS, Present resources for treatment, rehabilitation, research, professional training and prevention are grossly inadequate; and

WHEREAS, It is urgent that we develop an emergency program beyond the present efforts and equally urgent that we organize long range programs in all pertinent areas of responsibility; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study and investigate the problems relating to compulsive disorders, including but not limited to the study of pertinent statistics, the nature and effectiveness of present State, community or private organizational efforts, with its objective in such study being the presentation of a master plan for present and long range needs in the fields under study, with special emphasis on treatment, rehabilitation, cooperation with law enforcement, research, professional training and prevention; and be it further

RESOLVED, That in the furtherance of such study the Joint State Government Commission be directed to seek the cooperation of all State departments and agencies and any community or private organizations which may be of assistance in the study of compulsive disorders; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the 1963 Session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At this time, the Chair requests Senator Rooney to approach the rostrum.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE A. SMITH, Pastor of Saint Paul's Church of Christ, Fort Washington, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty and everlasting God, our Creator and Judge, Who hast called us into service as leaders of men in this Commonwealth, we turn our hearts and minds to Thee again as we begin another day in these halls of government. We are mindful of Thine infinite goodness toward us and toward all men, and we praise Thee this day for the strength of mind and body in us as we set our hands to the business of this day. Help us, in the midst of our manifold interests and duties, to remember that we are sons of Thine. By what we do and by what we are, assist us to render Thee faithful and noble service. Deliver us from indolence and weakness, from narrowness and prejudice, from self-interest and unconcern for the needy. Teach us, O God, to look away from ourselves to the hopes and aspirations of others. Grant us power so to use our varied gifts and privileges as to brighten and ennoble the life of our Commonwealth and people.

May this day find in us all a brotherly spirit, in spite of our differences, and may its end be crowned with a feeling of work nobly done.

In the Spirit of our Lord and Savior, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 351—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON THIRD READING, DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

SB 477 (Pr. No. 1002)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I would like to speak in opposition to Senate Bill No. 477, Printer's No. 1002.

The reason I am opposed to this bill is because I know there are two factions involved. Some of the building and loan associations want this bill and many of the banks do not want it. However, I am speaking on behalf of the shareholders in the building and loan associations. During the depression years, we had a lot of building and loan associations go broke. It was because they invested quite widely in things such as large apartment houses and other investments of that nature.

This bill would take away the restrictions on building and loan associations as to what they could invest the money of the shareholders in; that is, the people who save their money in building and loan associations. If all Pennsylvania building and loan associations had insurance on their deposits, I could vote for this bill. However, a great majority of our Pennsylvania building and loan associations do not have the Federal insurance. If we permit these State building and loan associations to go into the speculative lending and real estate business, I think we will be faced with the things that happened before. It is going to be the shareholders' money that will go down the drain.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am going to vote against this bill. I consider it a bad bill until such time when all deposits in the State building and loan associations are insured as to the depositor.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I intend to vote against this bill primarily for one reason. This is the first time that building and loan associations would be permitted to place mortgages on undeveloped land. I do not think that the savings of small people should go toward that type of investment.

Therefore, Mr. President, I intend to vote "no" on this bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. CAMIEL. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no" on this bill.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. RIPP. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL RECOMMITTED

HB 1769 (Pr. No. 2301)—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that House Bill No. 1769 be recommitted to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, our reason for moving for the recommitment of this bill is that there is an Act before the Congress of the United States to deal with this problem. They have taken no action. This bill would be meaningless unless they do take some action. We will be here in Session if they take action within the next few weeks. Therefore, we can bring this back and act on it then. We are doing a needless job at this time.

I, therefore, have moved that the bill be recommitted to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, may I interrogate the Majority Leader?

Mr. WEINER. I will allow myself to be interrogated, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would like to inquire whether the waters comprising Pymatuning Lake are interstate waters?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, this matter is the subject of a compact between the States. As a result of that, it comes under the jurisdiction of the Federal Government and the Congress, which are also a party to this compact. In order for us to carry out the requirements of this bill, we must have the necessary legislation which is before them now.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would like to correct what I said. I did not mean to infer that they are interstate waters. Of course, we know that Ohio and Pennsylvania about the waters of the dam. However, I wondered whether or not it was necessary for the approval of the Federal Government of a compact between the States, involving a private impoundment. That was my question.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the answer to the question is that there is a piece of legislation that directly relates to this measure. It is a Senate Bill, on which no action has been taken, and I understand this measure is now before them. If we were to pass this today, and it would go to the Governor's desk and he would sign it, it would be absolutely meaningless unless the Congress took some action.

We held this matter last week when it came out. I have checked further today—just about twenty minutes before we came to the floor—with the Governor's Office, and I have been advised that they have taken no action on it. We are sending it back to committee not because we want to kill the bill, but because when the Congress acts, we will be very happy to bring it out and pass it so that it will fit right in with the action of the Congress.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I have no objection to the motion or the recommittal of the bill. I wish enlightenment on that point only.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the bill was recommitted.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION No. 62, AS AMENDED, CALLED UP

Mr. WEINER, without objection, called up from page 20 of the Calendar, House Concurrent Resolution No. 62, as amended, entitled:

Congress Memorialized to Adopt the Equal Rights for Women Amendment

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the resolution, as amended?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I was always under the impression that women did have equal rights. However, apparently, the Congress is not aware of it. Therefore, we would like to memorialize them to do so.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would not dare to attempt to correct the statement made by the Majority Leader as to his belief. However, it was always my impression that the rights were very unequal and that women's rights were highly superior to those of the men.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Being a bachelor, the Chair is not in a position to rule on that.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think being in that unique position, you could probably enlighten the rest of us. We would be very happy to hear from you either privately or publicly.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate concur in the resolution, as amended?

SENATE CONCURS IN HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION No. 62,, AS AMENDED

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do concur in this resolution, as amended.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, that the clerk return said resolution to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has concurred in the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION, ENTITLED "PROPOSED INHERITANCE AND ESTATE TAX ACT OF 1961"

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like at this time to transmit a copy of the proposed Inheritance and Estate Tax Act of 1961, together with official comments of the Joint State Government Commission.

The communication was read by the Clerk as follows:

GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION
P. O. Box 61
Room 450—Capitol Building
Harrisburg
July 10, 1961

To the Honorable, the Senate of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of the Proposed Inheritance and Estate Tax Act of 1961, together with the official Comments of the Commission.

Respectfully submitted,

HARRIS G. BRETH
Chairman

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This communication will be noted in the Journal, and the Proposed Inheritance and Estate Tax Act of 1961 will be printed in the Appendix thereto.

REGULAR ORDER OF BUSINESS RESUMED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Consideration of today's Calendar being completed, we will now revert to the regular order of business.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DONOLOW asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, those of us who fight so diligently for justice do it because we hate the avenue of injustice. Since June the 1, Mr. President, I have been investigating one of the most vicious practices that has ever been undertaken in this Commonwealth. This vicious practice, Mr. President, finds itself in the halls of higher education in some of our universities and colleges.

The reason I am introducing this resolution at this time is because I am going to conclude my comments by asking my colleagues on the Senate floor to withhold any adoption of an appropriation to any college or university in Pennsylvania until we discover the problem that I am going to set forth.

Mr. President, sometime ago, the deans of our institutions in Pennsylvania—especially in the pharmacy schools—entered into a secret resolution whereby a youngster who applied and was getting his education at one institution and desired, after his first or second year, to transfer to another institution could not do so unless the dean of the original institution gave his approval.

I am going to make this clear. This does not mean approval for marks and this does not mean approval for behavior. This means the dean's personal approval, based on no facts other than his own personal feelings at the time. If the dean of the original institution refused to give his approval, that youngster could not be accepted by any other college. This was the understanding.

When this resolution was presented, I have been told that a number of deans were opposed to it. They felt that to pass such a resolution would mean that any dean could curtail the education of any youngster at his own whim; that young people could be put into educational slavery; and that if a youngster was dismissed from a school for a personal reason, that youngster could not enroll in any other college or university unless the dean of the original school gave his approval.

When this was discussed at the meeting of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, all the deans agreed that no such thing would ever take place. They said: "What dean would ever withhold the education of a youngster without any very definite reason?"

Mr. President, I want to report here today that in Pennsylvania, in one of our institutions, is one of the most vicious men of education who ever held the title of dean. I am referring to the Dean of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, Doctor Tice, who has ruined the education of more than ten youngsters to date because of personal reasons only; not because of marks and not because of behavior, but because they wanted to transfer from his institution to another college. His classic remark is: "As long as I am Dean, you will remain in this institution and you will not be permitted to transfer anywhere else."

This seems shocking. This is not understandable in a democratic form of government. It seems that I am hiding something. However, Mr. President, this is the fact. We, with our moneys and we with our appropriations, have built an educational Frankenstein. We have failed to look into what these deans are doing at their meetings.

I say, Mr. President, if any commercial or industrial organization in this State would attempt to control the flow of its customers like these deans are controlling the movement of students, we would ask for a State and Federal investigation of such a practice.

Mr. President, I do not want to give the idea that I am opposed to education. I think education is the greatest weapon we have to make America great. I also think democracy should be practiced in education. To think that a youngster cannot have free transfer and free movement because one man is going to control his education, I think is not the type of monster that we are interested in building.

Mr. President, my resolution asks that a five-man Committee of Senators be appointed to look into this situation to see how deep this control and this understanding between deans is.

I ask in my resolution that there be no appropriation made for this. I do not think it is necessary to spend money to look into this.

I want to end up by saying one thing. Whenever we in this Legislature have looked into education, it has seemed that we are treading on the grounds of the Lord; that we are not permitted to look into it and that it is sacrilegious to question the deans or question presidents of colleges.

Mr. President, education is an important part of American life. Education is an important part of the life of our youngsters. The amount of money we are spending in this Commonwealth for education is an indication of how important we think education is. However, I think we spend the money without looking into what is being done and how the deans are handling the universities and the colleges. I think it is about time that we start now.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am offering this resolution and ask that you assign it to the appropriate committee.

SENATE RESOLUTION

SENATE COMMITTEE TO EXAMINE SECRET AGREEMENT PROHIBITING STUDENTS FROM TRANSFERRING FROM ONE UNIVERSITY OR PROFESSIONAL SCHOOL TO ANOTHER

Mr. DONOLOW offered the following resolution (Serial No. 82), which was read and referred to the Committee on Law and Order:

In the Senate, July 10, 1961.

A preliminary investigation discloses that a number of professional schools and universities in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have entered into a secret agreement whereby a student who is in attendance at one university or professional school is prohibited from transferring to another school or university unless the dean of the original school gives his approval to the student for such transfer. This agreement has led to one of the most vicious practices ever undertaken by educational institutions in the history of our Country. It has literally placed the young students of our Commonwealth into serfdom.

A further examination of the problem has disclosed that one dean in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is actually controlling the freedom of students who are desirous of transferring from one university or professional school to another. This practice is un-American and has actually placed our young people into educational slavery.

It has also been disclosed that a number of deans in the Commonwealth have withheld their approval for the transfer of students who have requested such transfers and have refused them for no other reason than selfish and personal feelings whereby a student has been deprived of his freedom to secure an education from the institution of his choice.

It has been further disclosed that a number of deans have dismissed students from their institutions for personal reasons and because of their refusal to grant approval to a student to matriculate at another institution, said student has been deprived of continuing his higher education. This practice has become widespread and there are a number of young people in Pennsylvania today who have been precluded from registering at a university or professional school because of the stubborn refusal of a former dean to grant approval.

If such practice were undertaken by any industrial or commercial firm in this Commonwealth to control their customers from going from one enterprise to another, there would be an outcry for immediate criminal prosecution by State and Federal Governments.

The Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania needs factual information in order to determine how widespread this practice is and to what extent the youth of this Commonwealth are being controlled in their free selection of educational institutions; therefore be it shall constitute a committee, to examine this entire vicious and undemocratic practice; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the committee shall elect a chairman and such additional officers as it may deem necessary; that the committee may hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations at such places as it shall deem necessary within this Commonwealth. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before the committee, or to produce any books, papers, records or documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such case. Each member of the committee shall have the power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the committee shall report its findings, together with appropriate recommendations for legislation, if necessary, as soon as possible prior to the Senate voting on the appropriations for such colleges, universities and professional institutions; and be it further

RESOLVED, That there shall be no appropriation granted to the committee for this examination.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, over the past seventy-five years, many studies have been made by the Federal Government and the State Government with reference to a proposed canal from Lake Erie to Pittsburgh, at the Ohio River.

Mr. President, I am about to introduce a resolution and ask the Chair to refer it to the proper committee. I am presenting this resolution on behalf of my colleagues, Senator Shafer, Senator Sesler and myself.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE REVALUATION OF THE REPORT OF THE STATE PLANNING BOARD CONCERNING THE PROJECTED LAKE ERIE AND OHIO RIVER CANAL

Messrs. PECHAN, SHAFER and SESLER offered the following resolution (Serial No. 83), which was read and referred to the Committee on State Government:

In the Senate, July 10, 1961.

In 1957, the State Planning Board of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania conducted a study to determine the practicability of a barge or ship canal connecting Lake Erie and the Ohio River and the effect of such a canal on the future economic status of the areas it would serve and affect, including in particular the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It was the conclusion of said study, made by the engineering firm of Ford, Bacon & Davis and approved by said board, that the construction of such a canal was not practicable and that its effect would be prejudicial and adverse to the economic and other interests of this Commonwealth and its citizens.

During the past seventy-five years, the Federal Government has made a number of studies contemplating the construction of such a canal and during this present year, it appears that proponents of the canal are seeking an allocation of funds by the Federal Government to pay for another such study, looking to the construction of a canal by the Beaver-Mahoning route.

In order that the Governor of the Commonwealth, the General Assembly, the interested State Departments and the public may be properly apprised of the impact and effects of such a canal upon the economy of western Pennsylvania and of our Commonwealth as a whole, it is essential that the aforementioned study made by the State Planning Board in 1957 be reevaluated, it appearing that we shall thereby be enabled to determine on rational grounds our position in relation to said project; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate hereby requests that the study and report upon the projected Lake Erie and Ohio River canal made for and under directions of the State Planning Board by the engineering firm of Ford, Bacon & Davis in 1957 and thereafter approved by said board be reevaluated so as to restate the relevant facts and figures as of the year 1961; and be it further

RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the State Planning Board and to the Governor.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, today, in our Country, we find that people are living longer and that our elderly and senior citizens are remaining alive a great deal longer due to the technical advances made in medical science and also the many advantages that are available today, in our modern form of life, which were unavailable in past years.

I, therefore, think there are some things which we should do or at least recognize the existence of this group of people. There are many things,—the normal facilities which you and I take for granted in our everyday lives and which are easy for us to use—such as the telephone directory or the newspapers, which are printed in very small print and in which it is very difficult for these elderly people to participate. It also appears that these are the very people who would have the time to spend reading the newspapers or to call their friends. Public advertisements, which might be of some moment to them, are all in extremely small print. They are very difficult for these older people to read or to view.

Therefore, Mr. President, I think some step should be taken in order to aid these people. I ask that the resolution I am about to offer be sent to the appropriate committee.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO MAKE A STUDY OF USING LARGER TYPE IN CERTAIN PUBLICATIONS

Mr. WEINER offered the following resolution (Serial No. 84), which was read and referred to the Committee on State Government:

In the Senate, July 10, 1961.

There appears to be a growing need by a large part of our senior citizens and the older portion of our population for the use of larger and more legible type in the use of certain publications. These publications include telephone directories, legal advertising in newspapers, city directories and similar publications. The older portion of our population is finding it more and more difficult to use these various publications, due to the smallness of the type used in preparing them for publication. These senior citizens are all part of the buying public; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission be instructed to make a study of the necessity of using a larger type in the printing of public advertisements, telephone directories, legal advertising and similar publications which are used extensively by a large portion of our older citizens; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission report the result of its study at the first session of the Senate in 1962.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. KROMER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. KROMER. Mr. President, the coal industry in Pennsylvania is at its lowest ebb, although I will grant that the industry on a Nation-wide basis is likewise in a period of doldrums, with consumption steadily on the decrease over the last fifteen years.

It can be expected that as the years pass, consumption of coal will rise, providing national policy does not further hamstring this very basic industry. Will Pennsylvania benefit from this anticipated increased production? Is there anything that can be done to recapture for Pennsylvania a larger share of the present day market?

From 1890 to 1915, Pennsylvania produced approximately thirty-eight per cent of all coal produced in this Nation. From 1915 to 1959, our share of the national output has dropped to less than sixteen per cent. For example, in 1950 we produced over twenty per cent of the national output, while West Virginia produced over twenty-seven per cent and Virginia produced over three per cent. In 1959, Pennsylvania's share had dropped to fifteen per cent, while that of West Virginia had increased to twenty-nine per cent and that of Virginia to over seven per cent.

Pennsylvania has adequate coal reserves. It has the manpower and the capital and know-how to produce far more coal than its present rate of production. Those of its mines that are idle and those of its mines that are working, but on a reduced work schedule, are idle or on a reduced schedule because of two basic factors.

From a geological standpoint, the average thickness of coal seams and coal reserves is greater in competitive States than in Pennsylvania. Taking strip or open pit mining for example, the average thickness of seams in Pennsylvania is thirty-eight inches, while those of Virginia and West Virginia are between six and seven feet. Obviously, this means that all other factors being equal, from a production standpoint, it costs less to produce a ton of coal in both of these competitive States than it does in Pennsylvania. A similar comparison would show a similar result in the deep mining industry.

From a geographical standpoint, the great markets of the northeastern seaboard and of the eastern Great Lakes trade should belong to Pennsylvania, while the great markets of the southern industrial complex and the western Great Lakes trade should belong to the Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky coal fields.

In 1959, the average value of bituminous strip mined coal f.o.b. the mine in Pennsylvania was $3.73, some thirty-one cents lower than a like value in 1950. At the same time, the average value in West Virginia in 1959 was $3.74, some fifty-six cents less than in 1950. In Virginia, it was $3.65, some $1.32 less than in 1950. The over-all reduction in price over those nine years can be charged to the competition received from natural gas moving out of the Texas fields into the eastern and northern markets, and residual fuel moving from Venezuela and other foreign countries into the eastern utility markets, but the interesting thing to note is that West Virginia and Virginia now produce coal at a competitive rate with Pennsylvania in the stripping industry. A like comparison would show a similar result in deep mine produced coal.

As these at-the-mine values continue to place the Pennsylvania producer at a disadvantage from a competitive standpoint with producers from other States, and as surely they must if technological advances in the future keep pace with those in the past, Pennsylvania stands to lose a great industry with a consequent loss of employment which will result in irreparable harm to the Commonwealth and our geographic advantage will have become meaningless.

As a stimulus to the opening up of the southern bituminous coal fields, as early as 1896 the railroads established a minimum freight rate differential between the Fairmont rate district of West Virginia and the Clearfield rate district which embraces generally the central Pennsylvania bituminous coal fields. The net result of the differential was to enable producers from the southern fields to compete with our Pennsylvania fields in the search for coal markets by allowing them to transport a ton of coal between 100 and 125 miles further for but twenty-two cents.

Although this may have been an impetus to the opening up of the southern fields, which in the interest of the national economy was feasible in 1896, the maintenance of such a differential up to the present time with little or no change has obviously worked to the disadvantage of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Rate structures are complicated and hypothecate one upon the other, but the results are apparent.

The lake ports are, for example, among the most lucrative markets for coal and Pennsylvania's proximity to this area would, under normal conditions, make it a natural supplier. However, rail rates for local shipments to Sandusky, Ohio, and Toledo, Ohio are so arranged that coal shipped from the Clearfield district must pay the same rate for a haul that is 29 to 106 miles shorter than that from the West Virginia fields. Shipments originating from the Pocahontas, West Virginia district and the New River, Kentucky district, with hauls averaging 132 miles more than from the Pittsburgh district to these two cities, are costing only twenty-five cents more per ton.

Transshipment rates to western areas or to Canada over the Great Lakes show an even more startling situation. Coal from the Clearfield district to Cleveland costs up to thirty-seven cents more than coal from the southern fields, although the average is 170 miles less from the Clearfield district than from the southern area. An extreme case of this disadvantage is found in the Harlan, Kentucky district rate to Sandusky, where the southern producers ship coal 233 miles further than do Clearfield region producers for thirty-seven cents less. Is it any wonder that shipments to lake ports from this Commonwealth have shown a thirty per cent decrease over the past forty-nine years while the southern fields have shown phenomenal increases?

A like situation exists to the great east coast markets. The Clearfield district, more than 100 miles closer to New York and 98 miles closer to Philadelphia, has only a twenty-two to twenty-five cent lower rate than coal from the Fairmont, West Virginia district.

Over the years, complaints of these unrealistic freight rate differentials have been made by bituminous producers from Pennsylvania to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the folly of a policy which steadily maintains an unrealistic differential in the face of rising rail rates generally has been called to the attention of the Commission. As late as 1955, a complaint, filed by members of the Eastern Bituminous Coal Association and joined in by other Pennsylvania producers, was dismissed by the Commission.

If Pennsylvania is to maintain its already reduced share of the national bituminous coal output, and if it is to recapture its fair share of its traditional markets, its competitive disadvantage must be relieved.

Therefore, Mr. President, I hereby present for the consideration of the Senate, and House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, this resolution.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE PUC AND THE ICC TO MAKE A STUDY OF THE BITUMINOUS COAL FREIGHT RATES

Mr. KROMER offered the following resolution (Serial No. 126), which was read and referred to the Committee on State Government:

In the Senate, July 10, 1961.

WHEREAS, There has been in existence for many years a relatively high level of railroad freight rates on bituminous coal from origins in the State of Pennsylvania to destinations in Pennsylvania and to destinations in the New England and other Middle Atlantic States as well as to Delaware, the District of Columbia and portions of the State of Maryland; and

WHEREAS, There has been a constantly growing influx of foreign residual oil into the market territory served by the bituminous coal industry of Pennsylvania; and

WHEREAS, Foreign residual oil, which is displacing substantial quantities of Pennsylvania bituminous coal, amounted to approximately 55 million tons of coal equivalent in 1960; and

WHEREAS, There has also been in existence for many years, in fact since about 1900, railroad established freight rate differentials on bituminous coal between origin districts in the States of West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania to the destination territory indicated heretofore; and

WHEREAS, These freight rate differentials have become outmoded and unrealistic under changed conditions existing now as against those which existed at the time of their original establishment; and

WHEREAS, The original purpose of the differentials in rates was to permit longer-haul districts to compete with shorter-haul districts in common markets and were made in relatively small amounts to permit this result; and

WHEREAS, At present the bituminous coal producers located in origin districts outside the State of Pennsylvania are able, under the existing narrow differentials, to undersell Pennsylvania coal producers by a substantial margin in common markets; and

WHEREAS, The action of the railroads in maintaining a high level of coal freight rates and narrow differentials between competing districts and the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission and Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission in upholding these rates and differentials has enured to the benefit of the importers and distributors of residual oil and to producers of coal in origin districts outside the State of Pennsylvania, to the detriment of producers of bituminous coal in Pennsylvania; and

WHEREAS, These rates and differentials have resulted in the closing of mines in Pennsylvania, with consequent unemployment in the mining and related industries, and have resulted in substantial quantities of bituminous coal from outside Pennsylvania being consumed within the State as well as in the other markets referred to herein; and

WHEREAS, This entire matter should be made the subject of a complete study by the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission, to the end that lawful and proper freight rates and differentials be established; therefore be it

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission be requested to make an up-to-date study of the entire matter of bituminous coal freight rates and differentials from the origin districts in Pennsylvania and the origin districts in West Virginia and Ohio, with which the Pennsylvania districts compete, to the market territory outlined herein and that lawful and proper freight rates and differentials be established for the future; and be it further

RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission, and to the Governor and the Attorney General of the State of Pennsylvania.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, the bill which I am about to present, on behalf of myself, Senator Fleming, Senator Taylor, Senator Bell, Senator Pechan, Senator Wade and Senator Propert, is a Congressional Reapportionment Bill. We realize, Mr. President, that this is a very, very difficult subject to solve and that there has been a committee working on this for some time. However, Mr. President, I understand from what I read in the newspaper today that a bill has been prepared by Mr. Otis Morse, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, for presentation into the Senate or into the House. I am not sure which.

However, Mr. President, I do understand that one of the salient features of the Morse bill is that it retains six Congressional seats in Philadelphia County. I wish to point out that one of the salient features of our bill is that it does not provide for six seats in Philadelphia County. I may say further that I believe—and I am reasonably certain—that the retention of six seats in Philadelphia County would not be acceptable to the Republican Members of the Senate.

Undoubtedly, Mr. President, the Morse bill does not meet with the approval of all Democrats or of all Republicans and, undoubtedly, this bill will not meet with the approval of all Republicans or all Democrats. It will form a basis, however, I hope, for the Reapportionment Committee to go to work and try to compromise the differences. We believe it is a pretty good bill. It certainly is not perfect, but on that basis I am presenting this bill.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. BERGER, FLEMING, TAYLOR, BELL, PECHAN, PROPERT and WADE, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 850, entitled:

An Act to apportion the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania into congressional districts.

Which was committed to the Committee on Reapportionment.

Messrs. MAHADY and PROPERT, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 851, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 5, 1933 (P. L. 457), entitled "Building and Loan Code," authorizing the payment of bonus dividends to any class or classes of stock.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, at this time I request unanimous consent, on behalf of Senator Rooney, who has presided over this Body in a very able manner this afternoon, and myself, to present a bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thank you for those very kind words, Senator Wade. There being no objection, you may proceed.

Messrs. WADE and ROONEY, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 852, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies, with the approval of the Governor, to sell and convey land situate in Derry Township, Mifflin County, Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Messrs. RIPP, BERGER, WEINER and PECHAN, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 853, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 28, 1937 (P. L. 1019), entitled "Statutory Construction Act" changing the effective date of appropriations and laws having appropriation items, when an effective date is not specified in the law itself.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, a few weeks ago, Senator Stiefel made a speech and introduced a bill which made my blood pressure go up pretty high because he proposed to move the statuary from the front of this Capitol Building. This statuary was created by a great son of Centre County; namely, George Grey Barnard. When I was just about to respond to him, he took the wind out of my sail by proposing to put in its place a statue of Governor Curtin, also from Centre County.

However, Mr. President, I could not keep the aroused sentiment, from my county, down because of this attempt. Therefore, I must bring to the attention of the Senate—and Senator Stiefel and Senator Lane, in particular—the reaction we received from some newspapers up there.

First of all, the Centre Daily Times said briefly, as follows:

"They're casting stones at Centre County's own George Grey Barnard again."

The Centre Democrat, incidentally, more or less belies its name a little and, to my knowledge, has not been too active in its support of what some of us call the Democratic Party in recent years. Nevertheless, it is a good Centre County newspaper. It relates this problem somewhat in the following fashion:

"The Civil War 100 years ago was a conflict among men. The centennial observance of it is turning out to be a conflict among statues. And Bellefonte—because of its historical heritage—is right in the middle of it.

"State Senators Israel Stiefel and William J.

Lane, both Democrats, have introduced a bill (No. 723) into the State Senate which, if passed, will 'give proper recognition to the pre-eminent part taken by Pennsylvanians in the defense of the union during the Civil War.' This would be done, according to their bill, by the State Department of Property and Supplies 'taking measures to provide for two heroic-sized bronze statues of Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Gregg Curtin' which would be placed on either side of the main entrance to the State Capitol, 'the statue of Lincoln symbolizing the principle of national unity which he upheld and the statue of Governor Curtin symbolizing Pennsylvania's constant and strong support of that principle under his able leadership.'"

The Editor stated further, as follows:

"This is a remarkable tribute by two Democratic State Senators—honoring the first Republican President of the United States and the first Republican Governor of Pennsylvania.

"But insofar as Andrew Gregg Curtin (of Bellefonte) is concerned, this is not entirely a reflection on the political acumen of Senators Stiefel and Lane, for although Curtin may have been Pennsylvania's first Republican governor, alas, he died a Democrat. This removes all charges of 'political favoritism' as to which 'party' is going to be honored with statues at the entrance to the State Capitol.

"Even with the removal of the Barnard statuary, there is still the problem of getting the $50,000 to buy the Lincoln-Curtin statues.

"However, that problem can be solved thusly: Bring the Barnard statuary back to Centre County—birthplace of the sculptor. Replace it at the Capitol entrance with Barnard's statue of Lincoln, which now reposes at Cincinnati.

"This leaves the question of where the Senators can get the statue of Curtin. Bellefonte has a statue of him on its 'Diamond.' He cost $40,000 at the going value of a dollar in 1906. At today's 'inflated' monetary rate, he could, herefore, bring $80,000. If this does not appeal to the pocketbook of the State Treasury, the Commonwealth may be able to negotiate with the Vicksburg, Mississippi battlefield site and purchase its bust of Curtin which reposes there as part of the memorial to Pennsylvania troops who fought there in 1863."

Mr. President, I hope the committee which is considering this bill will take these remarks into consideration, also.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, the Scranton Times published an interesting article, giving the background of this statuary. I do not have the clipping, but next week I will bring it along and I will present it to the Senate.

I am fully in support of the idea of shipping this statuary to Bellefonte, if they want it, provided it does not stand in the entrance of the State Capitol. I can hardly perceive the significance or the connection between the State Capitol of Pennsylvania and this group in marble, which costs thousands of dollars to repair from year to year. I mean, it does not tell any story. After all, when we see, year in and year out, thousands upon thousands of youngsters coming into the State Capitol to visit and to enjoy its magnificence, I just wonder what passes in the minds of these youngsters when they look at this statuary and do not even know the meaning of it.

I have nothing against Barnard. He was a great man, a great sculptor, and a great son of Bellefonte. I am fully in accord with the idea of shipping it to even east of the Suez. However, since it is a distance to east of the Suez, let it go to Bellefonte.

If Senator Hays will join me, I will be glad to sponsor a measure which would present to the people of Bellefonte the statuary which is now in front of the State Capitol.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I would like to inform my good friend, Senator Hays, on this one point. We—Senator Stiefel and myself—feel that although Abraham Lincoln was a great Republican President, should he be living today we are quite sure that he would be a very prominent Democrat. The same goes for Governor Curtin, because we feel that both of them were great liberals and the Democratic Party stands for liberalism. We are adopting Governor Curtin and Abraham Lincoln as members of our Party.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I just wanted to point out, as was mentioned here today, there was a bill submitted on reapportionment. This is a very difficult subject to deal with as everyone has his own ideas and own impressions about this.

For example, here in the Senate, the Members from Philadelphia are limited by the Constitution to eight Members, despite the fact that there are over two and one-half million people living in the city of Philadelphia. In the Congress, you do not have that situation. The Congress is open to whatever the magic number happens to be, whether it be two hundred and fifty thousand or three hundred and some thousand.

Each person can introduce a bill, and I am sure that from the fifty Members here, we would get fifty bills on reapportionment and everyone would be favorable or, at least, deal with their own district.

Unfortunately, the legislatures today—not only the Pennsylvania Legislature, but in the national assembly in Congress—are made up primarily of persons who come from the rural areas. This has always augured ill for the people who come from the big cities. It has taken the city of Philadelphia, for example, fifty or sixty years to cover ground which should have been covered within five or ten years.

It just happened by an accident of birth that I, for example, was born in the city of Philadelphia, and other Members here happen to come from areas that are less populated. This could have happened to anyone here. For this reason, the cities throughout this Country have suffered. As a matter of fact, one or two of the large cities are bankrupt today because of not only the poor treatment they have received at the hands of the State Legislature, but because of the poor treatment and lack of understanding at the National level as well.

It is not for any selfish reasons that we particularly want to keep the membership from the city the same. Take, for example, the city of Pittsburgh and the majority that the Democratic Party holds in this city, and yet they end up with two Republicans and two Democrats. Perhaps that is as it should be. However, the vote would not bear that out.

When you get into this area of reapportioning the Congress,—and we must, the way things stand at the moment, lose three Congressmen from the State of Pennsylvania—it is very difficult to solve this problem. A solution which has been suggested is that possibly we could have Twenty-six Districts set up with the division made there, and have the Twenty-seventh District vote at-large. That might be a solution to the problem, but you do get into a political situation because neither Party wants to give up the position that it now holds or the areas it now serves. One of the biggest problems is that you sometimes have, as a junior member, someone who is well-qualified to speak for his Party, who well represents them, and you hate to lose him.

This is a problem that we will deal with. I am sure it will not be within this very week, but it will probably be in the coming weeks of this Session of the Legislature. This is one of the areas in which we have not completed our work and I am sure that we will. I am sure the bill that was introduced today is fair and tries to deal with the problem, from the point of view of the people who presented it, and to present a fair picture. It is not going to be easy, and it is not a problem of simple solution where you punish one area, or make weight, and give further ammunition or people to the other area.

The State of Pennsylvania, unfortunately, is increasing at a decreasing rate. Therefore, the cities and the areas are suffering. Take, for example, an area like Luzerne County, just to name one. There are statistics, which I saw very recently, showing that the city of Wilkes-Barre has lost 40,000 people in a ten-year period. I am sure the same story can be repeated over and over again. I can name Lackawanna County, Greene County, and some of the other areas where the mining industry has lost some of its place.

I would like to bring to the attention of all of the Members, not only of the Senate but of the General Assembly, that we tread cautiously and that we try to decide this thing not from a political basis or with bias because one-fifth of the population happens to live in the city of Philadelphia. If you will look at the tax picture, you will see that a great deal of the money that is dispensed by this State—and all that the Governor does in any Administration, whether it be Democratic or Republican, is to dispense the money that comes to him, as revolving funds are dispensed. For example, one-half of the tax dollar is spent on education. Therefore, we had better tread easy, and make sure that the people who are going to Washington to represent the State at the National level are people who have in mind the interest of not only the State, but of some of the heavily populated areas as well because if they suffer, we will all suffer and the State will receive that much less. We will then have to tax our own citizens to again supply these funds.

We, as a State, because of the setup about which I spoke earlier, do not receive our fair share of the tax dollar that goes into Washington for the very same reason that the city of Philadelphia does not receive its fair share under the present setup or the present formulae that exist. Therefore, we had better go very carefully and make sure that our decision is not based entirely on the political situation, but more for the welfare and the understanding of all of the citizens of this State.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, just one brief statement, if you please, before you call for Announcements by the Secretary. I am in complete accord with most of the remarks that were made by Senator Weiner on this knotty problem of reapportionment. It is one that has to be worked out upon the basis which is the very best that we can find for the representation of the people of Pennsylvania in the Congress.

I do deplore, however, the emphasis that he possibly unwittingly placed upon the differences between the urban and the rural areas which, I think, have been too greatly emphasized both in the press and in public declarations. It is my opinion that we are all interested equally in the prosperity and the good of our great cities, as well as the prosperity and the good of our rural areas and our smaller cities and boroughs.

For that reason, Mr. President, I want to say here and now that we have tried, and will continue to try conscientiously, to resolve those problems which come up in legislation affecting the cities of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton and all of them which deserve our utmost consideration. I believe this has been borne out by the consideration we have given to the Philadelphia program over the past several years. Perhaps they did not get everything they thought they should have at the hands of the Commonwealth. Nevertheless, Mr. President, I feel the problems have been considered conscientiously and resolved as nearly as possible equitably between the two divergent points of view—that of the urban and that of the rural and semi-rural areas in Pennsylvania.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE SECRETARY

The following announcements were read by the Secretary of the Senate:

COMMITTEE MEETINGS—TUESDAY, JULY 11, 1961

Eastern Daylight
Saving Time	Committee	Room

NOTICE—TUESDAY, JULY 11, 1961

The Committee on Local Government will continue its hearing on House Bills No. 1221 and No. 1438 on July 11, 1961, starting at 10:00 a.m. and until 1:00 p.m., Daylight Saving Time, in the Democratic Caucus Room.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, July 11, 1961, at 11:30 a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 4:20 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, July 10, 1961

The House met at 2 p. m., e. s. t.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O Thou great Eternal God and Father of us all, it is with humble hearts and dedicated minds that we look to Thee. We pray that in our search for the desires of life we may not lose sight of the rich treasures which Thou hast to give. O God, grant to each of us the blessed peace which goes beyond the understanding of man, the assurance of Thy continued presence, and the realization that the power which Thou hast to give will enable great accomplishments for Thee as well as for our fellowmen. In Thy dear name, we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. Are there any corrections to the Journal of Tuesday, June 6, 1961? If not, and without objection, the Journal is approved.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Thursday, June 29, 1961, will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, to be transcribed for third reading.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. COMER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the last week we were in session there were charges made on the floor of the House by one of our members in regard to operations in the highway department.

Secretary of Highways Park Martin, has issued a statement and he has requested that I read this on the floor of the House. I quote:

On June 27, 1961 the Honorable Thomas W. King, Jr. delivered a speech in the House of Representatives, which speech was directed at the policy now in effect in the Department of Highways in reference to the use of Van Port limestone, which is found in certain counties in western Pennsylvania. On conclusion of his remarks in reference to the use of Van Port limestone, Mr. King criticized the construction of the Erie Throughway, which is limited access highway Number 90 on the Interstate System.

As part of his criticism of the construction of the Erie Throughway, Mr. King said in part, and I quote—"Also, I would suggest to Mr. Martin that he send his trusted men out into the field where millions of dollars of the taxpayers money is spent in highway construction and maintenance to investigate complaints, which I have received, concerning payoffs between State Highway inspectors and road contractors."

In concluding his remarks, Mr. King referred to an article in The Pittsburgh Press on June 26, 1961, which he said quotes Mr. Walter May of the United States Congressional Highway Investigating Committee as saying—"Throw a dart at the map of the United States; wherever it hits we can find something wrong with the road building program." He further quotes remarks made by Mr. May in regard to investigation of conditions on highway construction in the State of New Mexico.

I first discussed the matter of the use of Van Port limestone on work of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways with Mr. King, when he visited my office on May 4, 1961, accompanied by Representatives Albert McCandless and J. E. Willard, at which time Deputy Secretary and Chief Engineer Fred S. Poorman was present. At this meeting the policy of the Department was fully explained. Following this meeting, Mr. King sent a memorandum to our Departmental Laboratory posing a number of questions in reference to the use of Van Port limestone. These questions were answered in writing under date of May 11, 1961, by Mr. William Anderson of our Laboratory. The answers to the questions raised by Mr. King may be summarized by saying that he was informed that the Department of Highways permits the use of Van Port limestone in all Portland Cement concrete pavements; all Portland Cement concrete bridge decks and sub-structures; all miscellaneous concrete structures; tile under drains; sub-bases; stone and aggregate base courses; binder courses for all pre-mixed, road-mixed, mixed-in-place and penetrated bituminous surface courses; all surface treatments where the average daily traffic count is under 500; all mixed-in-place surface course and seal coats where the average daily traffic count is under 500; all penetrated surface courses where the average daily traffic is under 500. Van Port limestone, blended on a 50-50 basis with slag or crushed gravel, is permitted in all surface treatments where the average daily traffic count is over 500, and in all wearing courses and sealed coats where the average daily traffic count is over 500. Van Port limestone, at the present time, is not permitted in bituminous concrete wearing courses.

It can be seen from the foregoing that Van Port limestone is not prohibited in highway construction on State highways, but there is a limitation in its use in wearing courses. The reason for this limitation is the fact that experience has shown that Van Port limestone after a period of time polishes and becomes slippery. Natural sand is permitted in mixtures of Van Port limestone for bituminous pavement. The problem of polishing of Van Port Limestone is not new—it dates back as far as 1944 and in more recent years, starting in 1952, it has been the subject of increasing concern to the Department of Highways. In order to get a report from a qualified outside source, the Department of Highways turned to the National Crushed Stone Association, which maintains laboratories in Washington, D. C., and requested them to carry out a series of tests on the polishing characteristics of Van Port limestone in pavement surfaces. These tests have been underway for several months, and, while not concluded, all indications to date are to the effect that Van Port limestone is subject to polishing resulting in a slippery pavement under certain weather conditions and constituting a hazard to the motoring public in the Department's opinion.

In addition to the research by the National Crushed Stone Association, in the fall of 1959 the Department of Highways turned to the Engineering Department of The Pennsylvania State University to make road tests with their skid testing machine on certain State Highways where Van Port limestone had been used in the surface course. Nineteen such tests were made by the Engineering Department of the University, and all have proven that polishing does take place resulting in slippery conditions. Until some method is developed which can insure the use of Van Port limestone in the wearing surface of roads with a volume of more than 500 cars per day, the Department of Highways has felt it necessary to restrict its use on that type of highway. The Department regrets that it has been necessary to impose this limitation on the use of Van Port limestone, as it is as much to the interest of the Department of Highways to have a good source of supply of limestone in the western part of the State, as it is to the producers of limestone to have it used. The Department of Highways feels its first obligation is to the motoring public to build highways that will have the maximum degree of safety from the danger of skidding.

It can be seen from the foregoing, that the limitation of use of Van Port limestone is not a broad sweeping limitation, but only a restriction on certain categories of highway surfaces.

From the use of Van Port limestone, Mr. King then reaches into Erie County to criticize the construction of the Erie Throughway—Interstate Route 90. The history of the Erie Throughway dates back prior to 1956, when it was first designed by the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission as a toll facility. Following the passage of the Act of Congress creating the system of Interstate and Defense Highways in August of 1956, this project was taken over by the Department of Highways and plans were then readjusted for its construction as a toll-free limited access highway. First contracts were awarded in 1957 and all contracts with the exception of those for paved shoulders were let by the end of 1958. Thus the project was in construction prior to this Administration.

Erie County and adjoining counties in northwestern Pennsylvania have a long history of unstable soil conditions. This has been evidenced for many years by the large number of spring break-ups in highways after a winter season. There is a considerable amount of blue clay, which when dry is quite stable, but when wet it becomes very unstable. The region in question has also a granular soil, which in road construction may be difficult to compact. I am informed by those in the Department who have been connected with the construction of the Erie Throughway, that from the beginning they have experienced severe soil problems. Much unsuitable material has been removed and replaced by material brought in from borrow pits. There has not been any cave-in as alleged by Mr. King. There has been some minor pavement settlements at certain points, none of which are of a serious nature. The Department anticipates that due to the soil conditions, it will have a maintenance problem for a few years until the soil has become stabilized.

When this project started, it was designed to have stabilized granular shoulders. However, due to the poor soil conditions, in 1959 with the agreement of the Bureau of Public Roads to participate in the cost on a 90-10 basis, 46 miles of the Erie Throughway were changed to have paved shoulders. When the contract was awarded to convert to paved shoulders, due to the use of machines to process the base course, it was found more advantageous to remove the existing barrier. The barrier was replaced when the paved shoulders were completed at no extra cost. This probably accounts for Mr. King's statement in reference to the removal of the guard rail to build new shoulders or berms.

Mr. King states that "there is evidence of poorly built highways where the shoulders were built with boulders instead of approved base materials." There is absolutely no evidence of the use of boulders at any time in the construction of the shoulders of the Erie Throughway. A boulder is defined by Webster's Dictionary as "A piece of rock larger than a cobblestone." Material was brought in for the construction of the earth shoulders in which a few stones, probably three or four inches in thickness, have been found.

The most serious allegation made by Mr. King is the one I quoted in the beginning of this statement, and which I wish to emphasize by repeating again—"Also, I would suggest to Mr. Martin that he send his trusted men out into the field where millions of dollars of the taxpayers money is spent in highway construction and maintenance to investigate complaints, which I have received, concerning payoffs between State Highway inspectors and road contractors."

Almost immediately after Mr. King completed his speech, the Attorney General sent an investigator from the Department of Justice to interview Mr. King to obtain from him what information he had in support of this statement and to ask for the names of the contractors or inspectors who might have been involved in the so-called payoffs referred to by Mr. King in order that an investigation could be launched. I am informed by the Department of Justice, that Mr. King was unable to or did not choose to give specific information which would assist the Department of Justice to investigate this allegation.

On the morning of June 28th following Mr. King's speech, I wrote to the Attorney General and asked that the allegations be investigated by the Justice Department. The State Police on June 30th were directed to interview Mr. King, again requesting him to supply any information he had as to this allegation. I am informed that two representatives of the State Police visited Mr. King on July 1st, and again he would disclose no evidence, nor could he or would he give them any leads to help them investigate this allegation, beyond the suggestion that the Highways Department subpoena all contractors who had worked on the Erie Throughway. Unsupported allegations of the type made by Mr. King, impugning the honesty, not only of the contractors, but of the inspectors of the Department of Highways, are harmful to the name of the Department of Highways, to the State of Pennsylvania, and also to the morale of the Department's employees. To the best of my knowledge, the Erie Throughway has been built according to specifications.

Unless Mr. King is willing to substantiate his statements or to disclose the course of his alleged information, he should retract them publicly on the floor of the Legislature. This is the honorable course to follow.

In Mr. King's reference to statements made by Mr. May of the Congressional Highway Investigating Committee relative to New Mexico, it can only be assumed that this type of reference by Mr. King is to place this Department under the same cloud that exists over three or four State Departments of Highways where some misconduct has been exposed by the Committee. Otherwise, why did Mr. King go so far afield? If the purpose is to intimidate the Department of Highways so it will change its policy on the use of Van Port limestone, it is necessary for me to inform Mr. King that we will not be coerced into changing our policy. When we are satisfied that we can use Van Port limestone without restriction and at the same time protect the interest of the motoring public, then we will do so.

It has been my purpose as Secretary of Highways, consistent with the policy of Governor Lawrence, to insist upon honesty in the Highways Department, and I can assure Mr. King and the Members of the Legislature that when there is any evidence of collusion or misconduct on the part of our employees between themselves and contractors or otherwise, that I will move immediately to correct the situation. But, by the same token, I will not stand idly by when loose, unsupported statements, which impugn the integrity and honesty of our employees are made, without rising to their defense.

I thank this honored body for permitting this statement to be read in regular assembly, and request that it be made part of the record. Copies of this statement will be available to any Member of the Legislature who requests one.

I want to thank the House, Mr. Speaker. As I said earlier, this statement was sent over to the House by the Secretary of Highways, Park Martin.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest that all departments, heads of all departments, having communications which they desire to address to the members of the House, send them to the Speaker.

The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would request permission to start today's voting by turning to page 17, bills on third reading, and I call up House bill 108 for the purpose of amendment.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 108, entitled:

An Act permitting certain ambulances fire apparatus rescue vehicles and other emergency vehicles to pass over turnpikes toll roads and toll bridges without paying tolls providing for reimbursement by the Commonwealth in lieu of such tolls imposing duties upon the Secretary of Highways and providing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GALLAGHER asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 1, last line of Title, by inserting after "Highways": making an appropriation

Amend Bill, page 2, by inserting after line 20:

Section 4. The sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000), or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated out of the General Fund to the Department of Highways for the purpose of paying the reimbursements of tolls provided for in this act.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill together with the amendments be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, if the motion is to send the bill with the amendments without our accepting or adopting the amendments now, that is all right with me, that is, on this side.

As I understand the amendments, it will take $10,000 out of the general fund for the free passage of vehicles on the turnpike to reimburse the turnpike, and it is very questionable whether that ought to be done. I think the Appropriations Committee should be allowed to discuss these amendments before they are included in this bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 313, entitled:

An Act amending the "Soil Conservation Law" approved May 15, 1945 (P. L. 547), imposing powers and duties on the commission * * * and making editorial corrections.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Rules.

The motion was agreed to.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. Dougherty for Mr. MIHM for the week because of illness.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 971, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), limiting the prohibition against any penalty for speed contests and drag races and reducing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, House bill 971, on which we are now about to vote, makes a significant change in the anti-drag-racing bill which was passed by this House and was signed into law on January 8, 1960.

This bill, Mr. Speaker, would change the established misdemeanor of drag racing to become a mere summary procedure. This bill, Mr. Speaker, would change the fine which this House established from $100 to $500 to a fine of no more than $100. Moreover, this bill would diminish the criminal penalty assigned to this misdemeanor from a maximum of three years to a maximum of merely 30 days.

I rise, therefore, Mr. Speaker, in total opposition to House bill 971. I come from Pittsburgh, where we have had, in the last several years, a serious problem in handling the youngsters who think that automobiles are high-powered and fascinating toys to be used as racing vehicles on the highways of this Commonwealth.

I speak not only for myself before this microphone, Mr. Speaker, but I have been in communication with the heads of the government of the city of Pittsburgh, specifically, the Director of Public Safety, whose job it is to guard the health and welfare of the citizens of Pittsburgh. I am informed by him, Mr. Speaker, that on one of those bridges, a brand new bridge, recently asphalted to eight lanes, the police have had to make a minimum of 20 arrests, in the past year, of youngsters who have utilized this public bridge as a drag-racing strip. We have had a number of serious accidents. We have even had two or three deaths which were possibly attributable to drag-racing procedures on the part of our young people.

After this House and the other house and after the Governor signed into law this law which we are now asked to amend, we were able, in Pittsburgh, to diminish the problem of drag racing, because we were able to punish severely those people who were found to be indulging in it. Mr. Speaker, if we now weaken the established law we bind the hands of our peace officials. We say to those irresponsible motorists, both young and old, you may go ahead and race your motor vehicles on our highways and destroy life and property, and the only thing we shall do to you is possibly take you before a magistrate in a summary procedure, fine you up to $100, and maybe give you 30 days.

I ask, Mr. Speaker, that every member of this House of Representatives who values the life of his children, of his wife, and of himself, vote against this measure today.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Hartley.

Mr. HARTLEY. Mr. Speaker, it is not a question of drag racing. No one wants to take away any powers the police have with the enforcing of drag racing, but this interpretation of drag racing has never been established.

Here in Philadelphia we have traffic problems of drag racing where old men are drag racing. Now this is not quite true. They do not know they are in a drag race.

They can be picked up between one red light and another and we have interpretations all over the field.

This is why I feel at this time this bill should be changed. We have had all kinds of people, even people who should have been arrested for drag racing and no speed limit attached to the prosecution. If we could get an interpretation or the police could get one we would be in fairly good shape. We are not trying to do away with the drag-race bill. We are trying to interpret it, what it should be and how it should be enforced. I ask everybody to vote for this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Doughten.

Mr. DOUGHTEN. Mr. Speaker, the present act regulating drag racing has some ambiguity.

In the first place, drag racing has never been defined and, in the second place, while it does in some of its language talk about a racing contest, it also could be applied to just one person competing against his own speed record.

I have no argument against the purposes of the existing law, but from my observation of its enforcement in Philadelphia, I find that the police are arresting people who are starting from a traffic signal and accusing them of drag racing. Now we find it is a very serious offense to be charged with because it is indictable. It is a misdemeanor and it puts too big a weapon in the hands of, say, a rookie policeman to arrest people who are leaving a traffic light, a stop sign, and arrest them for drag racing.

Now that has been happening in Philadelphia, and good citizens who lead unblemished lives have found themselves indicted with a criminal record. I have discussed this matter with the district attorney in Philadelphia and, while he likes the law the way it is as far as being a misdemeanor, he does think the overall law should be amended so that an indictment would state that first an attempt was made to arrest two people who are participating in a contest. There must be two people involved in this drag racing.

So I say, under the circumstances where innocent men can be indicted, we should change that law for the time being until we come up with a better act.

In the interim, I ask all people on both sides of the aisle here to change this pernicious piece of legislation and vote for this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick.

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, being one of the co-sponsors of this drag-racing bill last session, I must rise and ask you to oppose this bill.

As far as my county is concerned, we found out that drag racing has been deterrent to drag racers. It has been very effective. No motorist has been abused by any police officer or by the courts.

Therefore, I ask each and every member on both sides of the House to vote against this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. O'Dell.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, a great many members of the House follow "Li'l Abner" in the comic paper. Occasionally the rather dominant figure of "General Bull Moose" is in the paper. And he always makes the statement, "What's good for General Bull Moose is good for the U. S. A." Well, it seems to the other 66 counties in Pennsylvania that Philadelphia County feels that what's good for Philadelphia is good for the rest of the Commonwealth.

I remember last year voting for this drag-race bill and I want to say, and I think my two colleagues from Erie City will agree with me, that this bill has cut down to a considerable extent the drag racing on the main drag of our city. From 12 o'clock on at night, it was almost impossible to cross the street because these young "punks" were out drag racing. Practically once or twice a month there have been arrests this past year and drag racing has almost become a thing of the past in Erie. And I cannot see why the other 66 counties should have to suffer because the police in Philadelphia are not competent, or do not want to be competent, to enforce this drag-racing bill the way it should be enforced.

I ask all the members on both sides of the House to vote against the bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill, Mr. Doughten?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Doughten, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DOUGHTEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I want to make sure that I understand the gentleman's amendments. Now take a situation where I am operating a motor vehicle and have stopped for the light and there is a car next to me. I take off from a stopped position at a normal rate of speed, having no intention of engaging in a drag race or speed contest with the car opposite me, but the car opposite me decides that he wants to race, nevertheless, and he takes off at a greater acceleration. Now in that instance, inasmuch as I did not participate in this speed contest, your amendment, as I understand it, would not make it a violation of the Vehicle Code. Is that correct?

Mr. DOUGHTEN. That is correct.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, Mr. Speaker, what is the necessity that two persons be involved?

Mr. DOUGHTEN. Wait a minute. Maybe I misunderstood the gentleman's question. Repeat that last question, if you will. I went along with you all the way until the end but I am afraid I came up with the wrong end of the hook.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman want me to restate that question?

Mr. DOUGHTEN. Not the whole thing, just the question at the end.

Mr. McCORMACK. My question is, what is the reason why it is necessary that two persons be involved in a contest before one of those persons is in violation of the Vehicle Code? Why must there be two?

Mr. DOUGHTEN. The act itself talks about speed contests in the existing law. Then in the second place, in answer to the gentleman's hypothetical question, where one party is innocent and the other party wants to race, both parties could be arrested, and I have discussed this matter with the assistant district attorney of Philadelphia, Mr. Arlen Spector, and posed to him the same hypothetical question. He said both had been arrested, are being arrested, but they usually sort them out before the matter goes to the grand jury. And I told him I was not very well pleased with such a solution.

Mr. McCORMACK. No further interrogation.

Mr. Speaker, I would like very briefly to speak in opposition to this amendment.

As I recall it, this is part of the Governor's highway safety program and it received a substantial majority of votes when we originally enacted this bill.

Now, in order for us to justify reducing the penalty or restricting the definition, I think it is incumbent upon the sponsors of this amendment to come forth and to give us specific cases where there have been injustices perpetrated as a result of the present law. I have heard statements made that there was some unfairness, that there were arrests made that were not proper, but I have heard of no specific cases documented that would justify us to adopt an amendment such as this.

This bill was debated lengthily on the floor when it came up for passage in the 1959 session and it was agreed by the majority that it was a good bill. Now unless you can document the cases where injustices have been perpetrated that would justify our changing or reducing the penalty involved, I think that this is a bad amendment to the present law and we should, therefore, vote against it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Capitolo.

Mr. CAPITOLO. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to get into any controversy with my good friend, the Honorable Mr. Kornick, or anyone who is against this bill, but I have a concrete example that happened to a real personal friend of mine, who has a heart condition and is fifty years old. He was waiting for the light to turn and there was another car beside him. So, when the light turned green he started out and this other car started out speeding, you know, sort of fast. So a policeman stopped him about a block away, pulled him over and said, "I am arresting you both for drag racing." So the fellow said, "How can you arrest me for drag racing when I was waiting for the light to turn?" "Well," he said, "I saw this young fellow racing out and you must have been racing with him."

Anyhow, they were arrested; they were brought to city hall to be fingerprinted and photographed, and the next morning the case was brought before a magistrate. Of course he had a chance in court to explain to the magistrate that he was not drag racing. In fact, they had no other alternative but to hold him for court.

This bill would eliminate that; it would give the magistrate the alternative to fine him and not hold him for Court.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs.

Mr. ISAACS. I would like to debate the bill, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, apropos to the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, this bill was debated at length on the floor in the 1959 session and I, personally, brought out on the floor of the House in the 1959 session just exactly what would happen if this bill passed. That is the situation which has developed in Philadelphia and which is being brought to light here today. The bill was loosely written. I do not believe that drag racing was defined. It was a bad bill as it was enacted, and I intend to support the measure before the House today.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Hartley.

Mr. HARTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to pinpoint a case in which I was involved, but I was not arrested.

We happened to be working on the river on a boat, at eleven-thirty one night, and when we were going home, we stopped to have something to eat. On the way home one of my boys went one way, and I went the other. He lives at 8th Street on Erie Avenue. It just so happened that when I got home I got a phone call that my son had already been arrested. I said, "What for?" He said, "Drag racing." I said, "Is he crazy?" He said, "No, he is not crazy. He said I was drag racing." I said, "Was there another fellow arrested too?" He said, "No."

This is what came about in court. There was no other person arrested; there were not two people drag racing; but this is what happened. At two o'clock in the morning I finally ended up going the bail, because I had to get him out of jail, get a copy of the charge. They handcuffed him and took him down, put him in jail, fingerprinted and mugged him. Think how they take these boys, and this is not a boy, this is a twenty-eight-year old who drives a truck for a living; he does not need to drag race. But, however, this is what happens to some people. So, what happens? We get home at three o'clock in the morning.

The next day you are held for bail, you have a record, you have a police record.

Now, what are you going to do, have a police record on people who are innocent? This is a case of an innocent man with a police record. I am going to ask you to vote for this bill. Vote to keep it as it is and they will still pay $100 fine and spend thirty days in jail and still lose their license. What more penalty do you want? You do not want to hang them.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1604, entitled:

An Act amending the "Intangible Personal Property Tax Law" approved June 17, 1913 (P. L. 507), increasing assessments when returns are filed later than a certain date.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. TOMPKINS asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5), page 3, line 3, by striking out "fifteenth day of February" and inserting: last day for filing such return as fixed by law

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5), page 3, line 7, by inserting after "assessment" provided that the penalty herein imposed shall not apply to cities and counties coextensive with each other, but whose separate penalties shall apply.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1617, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), providing for the issuance of temporary registration plates or markers for vehicles which are not to be registered in Pennsylvania and removing the requirement that application for annual registration plates must be made for such vehicles.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1697, entitled:

An Act amending "The County Code" approved August 9, 1955 (P. L. 323), authorizing the creation of county historical commissions to promote places of historical interest within the county.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GALLAGHER asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1997), page 2, line 10, by striking out "five" and inserting six Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1997), page 2, line 13, by inserting after "relations" Three members shall be registered electors in the Democratic Party and three members shall be registered electors in the Republican Party.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1997), page 2, line 15, by striking out "two" and inserting three Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1997), page 3, line 1, by striking out Three" and inserting and such appointment shall be of an elector registered in the same party as his predecessor. Four Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1997), page 3, line 15, by inserting after "resolutions" Such employes shall be registered electors of the Democratic Party and Republican Party and shall be equally divided in number.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1790, entitled:

An Act amending the "Pennsylvania Election Code" approved June 3, 1937 (P. L. 1333), providing for the use of different colored ballots and machine labels so as to distinguish political parties in primary elections.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EILBERG. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, this is not a question, but would the gentleman first explain the bill to the House in all of its ramifications?

Mr. EILBERG. The primary purpose of the bill, as far as I am concerned, is that a great many people in Philadelphia, at least, go into the voting machine in a primary election and do not record their vote at all. From the information I have, many people, a surprising percentage, go into the voting machine in primary election day and simply record no vote at all. Our thought is that, if the parties are identified by color, the registered voter, regardless of the party, is at least drawn to the party of his registration, so that there is a greater likelihood he will vote for candidates of his choice and of his party.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, does the bill provide that as far as the voting machine is concerned the names of the candidates would be in different colors depending on which party they belong to? Is that correct?

Mr. EILBERG. The bill reads on page 4 that "in the case of the primary ballot labels they may be printed in different colored ink upon different colored material so as to distinguish the primary ballots of each party from the other." The only intention of this bill is to have one color for one party and one color for the other.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. This is different from the bill that Representative Cioffi had last week where he objected to registration cards being in separate colors, is that right?

Mr. EILBERG. Yes.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. You will have them all separate colors?

Mr. EILBERG. You are absolutely correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Does the gentleman know how much extra it will cost the counties throughout Pennsylvania to have the ballots in different colors?

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe that there should be any difference in cost. The ballots now have to be printed in some color and what is proposed here is that they be printed and there should not be any additional expense.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Now in counties where they use paper ballots I take it that the Democratic ballot will be one color and the Republican ballot another, is that right?

Mr. EILBERG. I would say so, but let me say also that this is a may bill, Mr. Speaker, and the county commissioners would have the authority to determine what the colors would be.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Does the bill provide for different colored ballots in the general elections as well as in the primaries?

Mr. EILBERG. It does not.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. It only applies to primary elections?

Mr. EILBERG. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. What color would be assigned to the Democratic Party and what color would be assigned to the Republican Party?

Mr. EILBERG. I will go back to the bill and I think you will find where the county board of elections will decide what colors will be assigned.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that this bill is a foolish piece of legislation. I think it is ridiculous and an unnecessary cost. Really I think the people of Pennsylvania will laugh at a bill like this, and I think we should vote it down.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, I would like to reply to the gentleman on one point. In the recent contested election in Philadelphia between Representative Greenlee and the Republican candidate Apothaker, there was great interest in the outcome of that particular election. Both parties worked furiously. In one division in that district only 50 percent of the people who came to the polls to vote actually recorded a vote. Now it is this that we are trying to overcome, Mr. Speaker; we are trying to get all the people who come to the polls to have their vote recorded.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1214, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Employees' Retirement Code of 1959" approved June 1, 1959 (P. L. 350), further defining "school employe" to include certain municipal employes and providing further for the purchase of credit for past service.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. EILBERG asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 1, line 4 of title, by striking out "municipal" and inserting officials and

Amend Title, page 1, line 4 of title, by inserting after "employees" of cities of the first class

Amend Title, page 1, line 5 of title, by inserting after "service" and making an exception thereof from the provision relating to mandatory retirement

Amend Section 1 (Section 102), page 3, line 3, by striking out "municipality" and inserting city of the first class

Amend Section 1 (Section 102), page 3, line 5, by striking out "municipality" and inserting city of the first class

Amend Section 2 (Section 302), page 4, lines 15 to 20, page 5, lines 1 to 17, and page 6, lines 1 to 3, by striking out all of said lines and inserting upon which he became eligible for membership in the school employees' retirement system if he shall pay into the fund in addition to the regular contributions required in section 301 of this article a sum equal to the contributions which would have been collected from such contributor for such services. The contributions required to be paid for such service credits may be paid in a lump sum or by installments agreed upon by the contributor and the retirement board. The rate of contribution shall be determined on the basis of the age of the contributor as of the beginning date of the period for which such past service credit is obtained and shall remain constant thereafter. The school district employer and the Commonwealth shall pay into the fund an amount which would have been contributed on behalf of the employe for such service. All contributions shall be based only upon the annual salary received by the employe from the school district.

Section 3 Subsection (2) of section 401 of the act is amended to read

Section 401. Superannuation Retirement Allowances—

(2) Every contributor who has attained or who shall attain age seventy (70) shall be retired for super-annuation by the retirement board forthwith or at the end of the school term at which age seventy (70) is attained. Provided, however, That the provisions of this subsection (2) of section 401 shall not be applicable in the case of a contributor who as an official of a city of the first class either elected or appointive or as a subordinate of such official by statute, is required to perform services for a school district and such city of the first class concurrently and for which such school service he is paid an annual salary separately by the school district

Section 4 This act shall take effect immediately

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1251, entitled:

An Act amending the "State Employees' Retirement Code of 1959" approved June 1, 1959 (P. L. 392), further providing for the reduction of superannuation and withdrawal allowances.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, originally, House bills 1382 and 1383 were scheduled to be held over, but upon checking as to the transfer of money into the retirement fund, we find that it is covered by the present law in another section of the code and therefore these two bills do not have to be amended as was originally planned. Therefore, 1382 and 1383 are satisfactory and can be voted on and will not have to be amended in the manner that was discussed in the two caucuses.

I ask for an affirmative vote, Mr. Speaker.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1382, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Employees' Retirement Code of 1959" approved June 1, 1959 (P. L. 350), by further providing for optional membership.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion. The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. BACHMAN, HOLLIDAY, WEIDNER, Mrs. KOOKER, Messrs. KORNICK, GEORGE, McNALLY and McINROY asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 1, fourth line of Title, by inserting after "tractors" changing the permitted length of vehicles operated in combination and

Amend Bill by inserting between enacting clause and line 1:

Section 1. Subsection (c) of section 902, act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), known as "The Vehicle Code," amended July 21, 1959 (P. L. 551) and October 13, 1959 (P. L. 1312), is amended to read:

Section 902. Size of Vehicles, Tractors and Loads.—

(c) No motor vehicle or tractor, except motor buses,

motor omnibuses and fire department equipment, shall exceed a total maximum length, including any load thereon, of four hundred twenty (420) inches. [excepting that a semi-trailer designed exclusively for carrying motor vehicles, may exceed such total maximum length by not more than thirty (30) inches, and excepting that semi-trailers designed exclusively for carrying livestock may exceed such total maximum length by not more than sixty (60) inches and] No semi-trailer shall exceed a total maximum length, including any load thereon, of four hundred eighty (480) inches, excepting that a refrigerating device attached to the front exterior of a semi-trailer shall be disregarded in measuring the length of the semi-trailer, if the presence or absence of such device would not affect the length of the combination of vehicles in which such semi-trailer is operated. No combination of two (2) vehicles or tractors, inclusive of load and bumpers coupled together, shall exceed a total maximum length of six hundred (600) inches. Nothing in this subsection shall prohibit the transportation by a combination of vehicles of articles impossible of dismemberment, which do not exceed seventy (70) feet.

(1) No motor vehicle or tractor, except a tractor of the first class, shall be operated upon a highway drawing, or having attached thereto, more than one (1) other vehicle: Provided, That a trailer not exceeding ten (10) feet in length may be attached to one (1) motor vehicle for the purpose of towing another vehicle requiring service, to which such trailer is also attached: And provided further, That not more than two truck tractors, empty commercial motor vehicles, or the chassis therefor, may be attached to and transported by a truck tractor, commercial motor vehicle, or the chassis therefor, if the rear wheels of the vehicles so transported are the only wheels thereof which touch the road surface and the overall length of such combination of vehicles does not exceed fifty (50) feet in length.

(2) The distance between any two (2) vehicles, or between a tractor and another vehicle, one of which is towing or drawing the other, shall not exceed fifteen (15) feet from one (1) vehicle to the other, except when the load on the towed vehicle is coupled directly to and is not more than five (5) feet from the towing vehicle. Whenever the connection consists of a chain, rope, bar or cable, there shall be displayed, upon such connection, a flag not less than twelve (12) inches in length and width. Every trailer, while being drawn upon the highway, shall be so attached to the vehicle drawing the same as to prevent the wheels of such trailer from deflecting more than six (6) inches from the path of the drawing vehicle's wheels.

Penalty.—Any person violating any of the provisions of subsection (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e) of this section, shall, upon summary conviction before a magistrate, be sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars ($10.00) and costs of prosecution, and in default of the payment thereof, shall undergo imprisonment for not more than five (5) days. Such fine shall be in addition to any penalty imposed by any other section or subsection of this act.

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 2, by striking out "act of April 29 1959 (P. L. 58) known as "The Vehicle Code" and inserting: of the act

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, rise?

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, before I state my point or order, may I place one question to the sponsor of the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the sponsor of the amendments permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, are these the amendments that authorize the use of 40-foot trailers in the State of Pennsylvania?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. They are, Mr. Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I will proceed with my point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the amendments are illegal and improper because they are in violation both of the rules of this House and of the Constitution of this State.

Rule 57 of this House says:

"No bill shall be amended so as to change its original purpose.

"No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment.

"Any member may move to amend a bill or resolution, provided the proposed amendment is germane to the subject."

I respectfully submit that on all three counts this amendment is illegal and improper.

The bill that is being amended is a bill that deals exclusively with speed limits. The amendment that is being offered is an amendment that has no correlation, no relationship, no connection whatsoever with speed limits and deals with the length of tractor-trailers on the highways of this Commonwealth. Therefore, the amendment, (1) changes the original purpose of this bill, which is to establish speed limits; (2) the amendment is on a subject that is completely different than that contained in the bill that is before us; and (3) the amendment is not germane to the subject, which, I reiterate, has to do with speed limits in this State.

If the Chair, and I respectfully request the Chair's attention on this argument, if the Chair were to rule that this is a proper amendment, the Chair would, in effect, be saying that any bill may be amended, provided some section in the existing law is affected by the amendment. Such a declaration would be very sweeping and contrary to the rules of this House and contrary to the Constitution of this State.

I distinguish in this respect between an amendment and an original bill. An original bill can cover, of course, every section in the existing law. It can seek to amend, the original bill can seek to amend, every section in an existing law. But an amendment to a bill must be germane to the material that is contained in the bill; it must not change the purpose of that bill and it must deal exactly with the subject matter that is under consideration.

The subject under consideration in the bill is speed limits, nothing more and nothing less. The amendment offered is an amendment that deals completely with a subject that is alien, that is foreign, to the question of speed limits.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, rise?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, with regard to the gentleman's remarks.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would be interested in hearing the gentleman.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I do not expect to shed too much light on the ruling that the Chair has the province to make here. I would like to point out to the members that this amendment amends the title of the bill. I admit what the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, has said about the original bill, that it covers only speed, is correct.

However, this amendment does amend both the title and the content of this motor vehicle bill so that it would permit 40-foot trailers. I would point out, perhaps the fact that we have done something before is not grounds to do it again, but it is my understanding that, in the waning days of past sessions of this legislature, this device or these tactics have been used on many occasions whereby bills have been amended for purposes which were not exactly germane to the original bill. I think this is a long tried and true method for doing what we are doing here today. I will admit that the circumstances under which we are doing it are perhaps different. Usually, I think it is the majority party amending a bill of their own just for speed during the last days of the session. Here I hope it is a bipartisan effort to get something before this House which we have not yet been able to get before the House through normal channels.

Mr. Speaker, I join with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, in requesting a ruling from the Chair on this matter.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, may I just say in reply, sir, that simply because we are in the waning days of the session, we hope, we cannot resort to procedures or devices that are improper in the interest of passing legislation.

This House should lay great stress upon precedent, and I want to place before this House precedent for the proposition that I am making today. I refer you to Decisions of the House of Representatives on Points of Order, point of order No. 12, which states: "On the question of agreeing to a bill on third reading the point of order was raised, that: Inasmuch as the subject and purpose of the Senate Bill, as it passed the Senate, was the express declaration restricted to amending the Public Service Company Law in the matter only of changes in utility rates and charges, the further amendments incorporated in the said bill by the House Committee on Public Utilities are reported and contained in a House Bill, divesting the Senate from its present authority in the matter of removals of Public Service Commissioners from office; conferring new powers and imposing new duties on the Superior Court in appeals from Commission orders; and requiring Commission approval as conditions precedent to utility security issues, a subject entirely new and not comprehended in any degree in the original or any amendatory provision of the Public Service Company Law, the Senate Bill, as reported by the House Committee, was further amended as to the title thereof."

This goes to the point that Mr. Williams raised. Here was a situation where, likewise, the title was amended.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if, in the instance to which he refers, the matter was not referred to the House and the House did not sustain the point of order?

Mr. FINEMAN. That is correct, sir. Now, for the enlightenment of the House—

The SPEAKER. It did not sustain the point of order.

Mr. FINEMAN. You did not understand my point of order, sir?

The SPEAKER. I say that on the precedent that you—

Mr. FINEMAN. The Chair referred the question to the House and the House upheld the unconstitutionality of the bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair begs to differ with the gentleman.

For what purpose does the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, rise?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, is reading from page 214 of the Pennsylvania Manual of the 1959-1960 session, and, if he will refer to the bottom left-hand corner of that page, he will see that the point of order was not sustained by the House.

The SPEAKER. The point of order was not sustained by the House.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. So he is arguing as precedent something which goes just opposite to what he is arguing.

Mr. FINEMAN. That may be so, sir. If I am in error about the result, the point is that this is precedent for raising the question. The question was well taken and I am satisfied to leave it to the disposition of this House, but in doing so I think the House should have the benefit of this note. On point 12 it says: "In further explanation of the point of order, under the Rules of the National House of Representatives a rule similar in substance to that of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives provides: 'And no motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment.'"

"Under this section it was ruled by Speakers Reed, Clark and Cannon that an amendment must be germane to the particular section"—to the particular section, I repeat—"of the law to which it is offered and that an amendment relating to the terms of the laws rather than to the terms of the bill was not germane to a bill amending a general law upon a specific point."

Now, that is exactly my point, the amendments are not germane to the particular section. They are not even germane to the subject that the bill covers. How can you ask the members of this House to vote on something that is patently unconstitutional?

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman raise the point of constitutionality?

Mr. FINEMAN. I do, sir.

The SPEAKER. That places an entirely different light on the subject. Had the gentleman simply raised the question of germaneness, it was within the province of the Chair to determine. Under the rules of the House, the gentleman having raised the point of constitutionality of the amendment, the matter is referred to the House.

Mr. FINEMAN. I thank the Chair.

The SPEAKER. All of the members of the House will understand that the House is now considering the matter of the constitutionality of the amendments which have been offered.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Is it my understanding that this matter will now be referred to the House for a vote on the constitutionality of these amendments?

The SPEAKER. All questions relating to the constitutionality of any pending amendment or measure are automatically referred to the House for decision.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I would, of course, like to ask for a roll call vote on that question. Second, is it in order to speak on the question?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order to debate the question.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. I merely want to make it clear to the members on both sides of the House that regardless of the merits of the amendments presently before the House, they are concerned with a very important question. Should you rule that these amendments at this time are not constitutional, you will have set a precedent which I think each one of you may some day rue because you may be in the same position.

I reiterate that this procedure has been followed in the past by this very House and that the rulings of this House in the past, as recently as in 1959, have been that this type of procedure was proper for the House to follow.

Those of you who are concerned with the merits of this amendment will have to vote that this amendment is constitutional or you will not get a chance to vote on the merits of the amendment itself. Thank you.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I disagree with the gentleman from Bucks that this House in voting on this question will be establishing a precedent, and I want to bring to the attention of the members on both sides of the aisle that, in voting that these amendments are unconstitutional, you are voting in a manner that is consistent both with the rules of this House and with the Constitution of the State. If you are to vote that the amendments are constitutional, you will be voting contrary to the rules of this House and contrary to the Constitution of this State. I ask the members of this House to uphold their obligation to support the Constitution and not to vote in a manner that will fly in the teeth of the Constitution.

I ask the members on both sides to vote against the constitutionality of these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the argument that the gentleman from Philadelphia puts forth regarding the constitutionality of these amendments I think is completely outside the orbit of what is before the House. We are not voting on the constitutionality of the amendments; we are voting on the constitutional question as to whether or not these amendments are germane to the bill to which they are trying to attach them, not on the constitutionality of the amendments themselves.

The question of germaneness is under the House Rule; the question of the constitutionality is on the purpose of the bill.

The SPEAKER. As I understand, the gentleman says under the Constitution: "No law shall be passed except by bill, and no bill shall be so altered or amended, on its passage through either House, as to change its original purpose."

That involves the amendment, and the gentleman contends that the amendment itself is unconstitutional. Is that not correct?

Mr. FINEMAN. The amendment is unconstitutional in that it seeks to change the purpose of the original bill.

The SPEAKER. That is the proposition. The Chair may not be in agreement with the gentleman from Philadelphia, but that is the gravamen of his contention, that the amendment per se is itself unconstitutional.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I still maintain my original argument, that the amendment itself is not unconstitutional and that the purpose of the amendment itself is germane to the Motor Vehicle Code of which this bill now before us is one part of that particular original code.

The SPEAKER. That is the question that the gentleman presents to the House.

Mr. TOMPKINS. We ask the members to vote down this question.

The SPEAKER. The constitutional point takes it away from the jurisdiction of the Chair and transfers it to the jurisdiction to this House.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, rise?

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, the amplification system is such that I did not quite catch all of the colloquy between the Speaker and the gentleman from Cameron.

Is it my understanding that the situation at the present time is that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, has raised the point of the constitutionality of the offering of this amendment since in his opinion it would change the purpose of the bill, that is, Senate bill 104?

The SPEAKER. In the understanding of the Chair, that is exactly correct.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I believe I am in order to speak on the question of constitutionality.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order.

Mr. A. M. LEE. I would just say briefly, Mr. Speaker, that I believe the point raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, is not properly raised. The constitutional provision says that amendments may not be offered which change the original purpose of the bill. It is my understanding that this amendment offered by the gentleman from Bucks does not change the original purpose. The original purpose of Senate bill 104 still remains in the bill. The only thing that this amendment would do would be to add an amendment to another section of the vehicle code and, therefore, in effect, add another purpose to this bill without changing the original purpose. Therefore, it is my opinion, for what it is worth, that the offering of this amendment is constitutional.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, this is what you call fine shading. The purpose of the bill, the purpose of any bill, is that which is expressed in the exact language as it comes over to us from the other chamber. The other chamber did not have for its purpose any matter concerning the length of trailers or tractors. They sent us a bill which deals exclusively with speed limits. That is their purpose. By altering this bill in a section of the Motor Vehicle Code other than that dealing with speed limits, we are unequivocally, without reservation, changing the purpose of this bill.

I ask that the members vote down this amendment because it is clearly unconstitutional.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I believe that I can cite an instance in this session, the 1961 Session, of this Legislature, where this House did exactly what is proposed here today. That was, I believe, on House bill 1032, which amended the Fish Commission Act to allow for open hearings. And I believe amendments were offered to that bill which increased the membership of the Fish Commission.

This was an amendment to an entirely different section of the act, and I do not think that is one bit different than what we are doing here today.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, rise?

Mr. McCORMACK. I object to this running debate between two people. Under the rules of the House we are only supposed to speak once on arguing the constitutionality.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is correct. The Chair has been very lenient and liberal. It is a very important question, and the Chair would not desire to shut down too closely on the gentlemen until they have had their say.

Mr. McCORMACK. But, Mr. Speaker, I would like—

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, once before in this session I got involved in a constitutional issue. I think once the House decides on the constitutionality of the question, it establishes a precedent after which we are unable to get a decision from the attorney general's office.

Now this involves the constitutionality of an amendment that would amend the vehicle code. And we are dealing with codes here, not just pieces of legislation that are not related to any other part of our laws. And for that reason it is a more serious question than should it occur when any other bill that is not a part of the code is being considered.

It, therefore, seems to me prudent on our parts that we should be given the opportunity of going into the case law on this subject and briefing it and coming in here with decisions. Now it is impossible for us as attorneys to do it on such short notice.

I, therefore, think that we ought, before we decide any question of constitutionality on whether this is germane to the vehicle code, to get an opinion from the attorney general. And if we are not able to do that, I would like myself to brief the law on it, and I, therefore, if I am in order, move to lay this amendment on the table.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would be compelled to hold that a motion to lay the bill and the amendment on the table was in order.

Does the gentleman make such a motion?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw the motion to lay it on the table.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner, rise?

Mr. HEFFNER. I rise for the purpose of talking on the constitutional question.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, this is the second time this session that the question of the constitutionality of a bill is going to be decided by this House.

I agree with my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, when he said it is impossible for a member this day to decide whether or not this bill is constitutional. Frankly, it puts us all in an impossible situation.

I say to the members of this House that the last time this question was raised we did not decide the constitutional issue; we decided a political issue on a bill which was before the House, and I say to those members here today, if you vote in favor of Mr. Fineman's position, then you are voting against 40-foot trailers in Pennsylvania. Vote the merits of this bill and vote against this division.

Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to say as far as the germaneness of the proposed amendment is concerned, we have compiled a very lengthy statement based on various decisions; and also the opinion of the attorney general. But that was on a different matter. The question of constitutionality is before the House.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. GELFAND. Would the question of germaneness be in contravention of the question of the constitutionality of this amendment? Will they both be dealing with the same problem?

The SPEAKER. They both would be dealing with the same problem from different angles.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, would the amendment under consideration add a new section to the bill under consideration?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. It would.

Mr. GELFAND. Would the bill under consideration, as it is presently written, only deal with section 1002 of the Motor Vehicle Code?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. It would.

Mr. GELFAND. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, on page 214 of the Pennsylvania Manual the question arose as to whether or not the addition of a section to a bill under consideration would be germane and in contravention to the rules of the House, and since you have already indicated that the two questions deal with the same problem from a different angle, I would like to bring this to your attention.

The Speaker decided that the first section being under consideration, it was not in order to strike out all of the enacting clause and insert a new bill containing several different sections which are not germane to the first section of the bill under consideration.

Under the circumstances, since we already have a decision which is set forth in the Pennsylvania Manual, which has been decided by another House before us, which should act as precedent in this situation, I believe that we are compelled to find that the amendment is not in order and purports contravention of the provisions of the constitution, because what it purports to do is to add a new section to a bill under consideration and thereby change the intent and purpose of the bill under consideration. This, accordingly, would be a violation of the precept of the constitution and also be a violation of the decisions which have been earlier made by this House.

Accordingly, I would request in consideration of the motion before the House that we vote in favor of it, and vote that this amendment is not constitutional, because it does do what the constitution specifically forbids, and that is, change the intent and purpose of legislation under consideration.

I thank you.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Would it be in order for the Speaker under unanimous consent of this House to enlighten the House on the ruling which the Speaker says he has done considerable research upon before we vote on this motion?

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. I think the request of the gentleman is highly improper and out of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has a point and he is out of order.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. McCORMACK. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, when a point of order is being discussed that the amendment is unconstitutional, it is not in order to raise another point of order.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is the point of order raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, and that is the only question before the House.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I want to set the record straight on House bill 1032, of which I was a sponsor.

The gentleman from Bucks said the same thing was done with that bill that was being attempted to be done by this, change the intent of the bill.

That bill was amended at the very closing minutes of one of the day's sessions and the House was practically gone. The amendments had not been submitted to me and when I studied them, and they were in the bill, I raised the point and subsequently they were withdrawn. The bill was restored to its original condition because I intended to take up the very same point that is being taken up now.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Carbon, Mr. Bonner.

Mr. BONNER. Mr. Speaker, I am not an authority on the constitutionality of this bill, but I would like to ask an authority on it and I desire to question Representative McCormack of Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCORMACK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BONNER. Mr. Speaker, the question resolves here of whether the intent and the purpose of this amendment changes the original intent of the bill. I would like to ask, if my memory serves me right, during the last session did I hear Representative McCormack on a highway advertising bill desire to get off the bill and ask consent of the House because it changed the original intent?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I remember it quite clearly. It was the billboard bill and I was the sponsor of the bill. The bill was reported out of committee entirely different from the bill that I sponsored and I asked leave to withdraw my name, but at no time was the constitutionality of that bill questioned. It was just that it was not the same bill that I sponsored.

Mr. BONNER. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, consent to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FINEMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Philadelphia familiar with the history of an appropriation bill in the 1959 session in which the debatable issue of referendum on county health units was added to an appropriation bill?

Mr. FINEMAN. I am not familiar with it, no, sir.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Is the gentleman from Philadelphia unfamiliar with the amendment which was put in through the cooperation of the Philadelphia delegation when they added thereto the Philadelphia hospital appropriation?

Mr. FINEMAN. I am unfamiliar with the events that preceded or occurred subsequent to the passage of the bill at this point because it is not before me, my mind is not directed to that intention and I have no knowledge of the relationship of what transpired on that bill with this one.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. That is all, Mr. Speaker. I am quite certain the gentleman from Philadelphia has a keen memory when he desires to exercise his memory.

I will refresh his memory: In 1959 we had an appropriation bill which left the House and when it went over to the Senate a great compromise occurred. That compromise was to put in an appropriation for the Philadelphia General Hospital. In order to get that appropriation through they had to have an appropriation—

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker—

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I am not yielding, Mr. Speaker. I am not through—

Mr. FINEMAN. I know the gentleman is not through, I am going to try to make him be through, though. I am raising a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair can only entertain one point of order at a time.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. Which one of you thinks you have the floor?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I do not yield the floor, I have the floor, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FINEMAN. I am raising the question of the propriety of the gentleman's remarks, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, in order to point out the constitutionality of this amendment, I am giving you some historical and legal background to follow it up. I have a perfect right to speak and not be interrupted because the gentleman is so much afraid that I may speak about a 40-foot bill. I am speaking about constitutionality and not about 40 feet.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would hold that so far the gentleman from Allegheny is in order and will proceed.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

When I was interrupted, I was pointing out the background of the legislative history of the appropriation bill in 1959 wherein an amendment for the Philadelphia hospital was added and at the same time an amendment was added providing for a referendum on county health units. My point is this: If this particular addition to the appropriation bill whereby people are voting on county health units throughout the State was unconstitutional, we have many, many a lawyer in this State who was against the purpose of that amendment and that particular issue would have been raised and raised very quickly.

To summarize, if the gentleman from Philadelphia can point out in the constitution any phrase wherein you cannot add to the purpose of a bill, I will vote on his side. Article III, section 1, merely says you cannot defeat or alter the purpose of the bill. We are not altering the purpose of the bill, we are adding thereto. There is no question about the constitutionality of this amendment. The only question is: How are you going to vote politically, that is all.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is on the point of order raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, that the amendments offered by the gentleman from Bucks to Senate bill 104 are unconstitutional.

Those voting "aye" vote to sustain the point of order made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, thereby declaring the amendments to be unconstitutional.

Those voting "no" will vote that the point of order is not well taken, thereby declaring the amendments to be constitutional.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we ask for a roll call.

The SPEAKER. A vote will be taken. Does the House understand the question?

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, will you phrase the question again as to how we are going to vote?

The SPEAKER. If you vote "aye," you are voting for the gentleman from Philadelphia. If you vote "no," you vote for the gentleman from Bucks.

On the question,

Will the House sustain the point of order raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. FINEMAN and A. W. JOHNSON and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the point of order was not sustained and the amendments were declared constitutional.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. A. D. Williams, Jr.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, perhaps to save time I will myself request the Speaker to rule whether or not these amendments are germane to the bill.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman raises a point of order on his own amendments as to whether they are germane.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. I thought it might save time, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I withdraw the point of order.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is on the amendments. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, raises a point of order that the amendments proposed by the gentleman from Bucks are not germane. The Chair will simply say that in keeping with a long line of precedents on the part of the House and in conformity with an expressed decision made by the attorney general's office in times past, in accordance with Mason's Manual which establishes legislation precedents, the Chair would be compelled to hold that these amendments are germane, that the subject of the bill is the vehicle code. The subject is not a particular amendment to the vehicle code, but the subject is the vehicle code and, therefore, the amendments are germane. Perhaps for the sake of precedent the Chair will submit for the record the following:

Article 3, section 1 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania reads as follows:

"No law shall be passed except by bill and no bill shall be so altered or amended on its passage through either house as to change its original purpose."

In an opinion recently written by Deputy Attorney General Harrington Adams on the question of germaneness of proposed amendments to a bill, he quoted from authorities as follows:

In 82 Corpus Juris Secundum Statutes, section 30, it is said:

"A constitutional provision that a bill shall not be so altered or amended, in the course of its enactment, as to change its original purpose does not prevent the insertion of amendments germane to, and within the scope of, the original."

"A constitutional provision that a bill shall not be so altered or amended, in the course of its enactment, as to change its original purpose is not to be so construed as to prevent the introduction of matter merely extending the purpose or scope of operation of the bill, or limiting it, or the substitution of a measure or insertion of amendments having the same purpose as the original or germane to, and within the scope of, the original; and a bill thus limited and extended by the amendments of the two houses in its scope or purpose, or otherwise amended, but embracing no matter not germane to the original purpose or the subject of legislation as expressed in the title of the act which it purports to amend, may become a valid law. Also, such a restriction should not be so embraced as to prevent the substitution for a bill which is essentially amendatory in character of another related to the same subject and having the same general effect on existing laws, although some changes may be proposed by the substitute which would not have resulted from the passage of the original."

"The 'purpose' contemplated in such a constitutional provision is the general purpose of the bill, and not the mere details through which and by which that purpose is manifested and effectuated. Such a constitutional provision should be given a reasonable construction so as not unnecessarily to embarrass proper legislation. * * *"

In 158 American Law Report, in the annotation appearing at page 421, in discussing constitutional provisions against changing the purpose of the bill during passage, it is said:

"III. Types of alterations or amendments which do not change original purpose:

"a. Immaterial changes, 424.

"b. Extension of scope, 426.

"c. Limitation of scope, 428.

"d. Changes in time, 428.

"e. Substitution of other measures having the same purpose as original measures, 429.

"f. Additions of matters germane to original purpose, 429."

In the case of Black Hawk Consol. Mines Co. v. Gallegos, 191 Pacific 2d 996 (1948), the Court at page 1005 said:

"The purpose of Article 4, Section 15 of the New Mexico Constitution prohibiting the altering or amending a bill on its passage so as to change its purpose is, solely to prohibit amendments not germane to subject of legislation expressed in the title of act purported to be amended.

"See Stein v. Leeper, 78 Ala. 517; Hall v. Steel, 82 Ala. 562, 2 So. 650; Alabama State Bridge Corp. v. Smith, 217 Ala. 311, 116 So. 695."

In Cone v. Garner, 3 S.W. 2d 1 (1927), the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, which is identical with Article III, Sec. 1 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, reads:

"No law shall be passed except by bill, and no bill shall be so altered or amended on its passage through either house as to change its purpose."

At page 4 the Court said:

"It is said that the object of this section of the Constitution was that the Senate and House of Representatives of the state might not be hampered or embarrassed in amending and perfecting their bills and thus be driven to accomplish by a number of bills that which might well be accomplished by one bill, but the purpose of the section was to forbid amendments which should not be germane to the subject of legislation expressed in the title of the act which it purports to amend. Hickey v. State, 114 Ark. 526, 170 S.W. 562."

In a later case, the Supreme Court of Arkansas, in Pope v. Oliver, 117 S.W. 2d 1072 (1938), said, in speaking of an alleged violation of Section 21 of Article V of the State Constitution, that:

"* * * The purpose of this provision in our Constitution is to prevent amendments to a bill which would not be germane to the subject of the legislation expressed in the title of the Act, which it purports to amend. Loftin v. Watson, 32 Ark. 414; Hickey v. State, 114 Ark. 526, 170 S.W. 562; Cone v. Garner, 175 Ark. 860, 3 S.W. 2d 1; Matthews v. Byrd, 187 Ark. 458, 60 S.W. 2d 909."

Rule 57 of the House reads, in part, as follows:

"No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment."

Also:

"Any member may move to amend a bill—provided the proposed amendment is germane to the subject."

Mason's Manual, Section 402, Section 3, defines "germane" as follows:

"To be germane, the amendment is required only to relate to the same subject—it may entirely change the effect of the measure and still be germane to the subject. This principle is supported by the established precedents of the House." Legislative Journal, May 25th, 1931, p. 5401 and numerous others.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Luzerne Mr. Bachman.

Mr. BACHMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to speak on the amendments.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order.

Mr. BACHMAN. Mr. Speaker, I represent an area of Pennsylvania which has been hard hit by unemployment—the Hazleton area. In my legislative district is located the Highway Trailer Company plant, manufacturers of trailers and employers of 400 men. This company formerly hired more than 700 people but now, under the threat of our failure to authorize 40-foot trailers, they may be forced out of existence. I have been informed that the same company will employ more than one thousand workers if the 40-foot trailers are made legal in this Commonwealth. I cannot, Mr. Speaker, in good conscience vote against the interest of my people, and, therefore, I must vote for these amendments. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Stimmel.

Mr. STIMMEL. Mr. Speaker, I would add to this amendment. I feel that many communities, like my community in Lehigh County, are affected in a like manner. I would like to read a letter from the Industrial Corporation of Lehigh County. The letter from the Industrial Development Corporation is addressed to me, the Honorable R. P. Stimmel, and all the other members of the Lehigh County delegation and reads as follows:

Dear Mr. Stimmel,

For almost a year we have been working with an industrial prospect and, just recently, we reached the point in our negotiations where it seemed that we would be able to bring a branch plant of a nationally-known firm to Allentown. This morning I received the attached letter—the problem is self-explanatory.

Knowing the trucking business as I do, it is difficult to understand why Pennsylvania insists on being the only state in the East which is unwilling to modernize its laws so new model tractors can move a 40-foot trailer without exceeding the present overall length of 50 feet.

I trust that you will use your influence to get this bill out of committee and work diligently for a favorable vote on the floor. We, as a community organization interested in bringing new industry to Lehigh County, will greatly appreciate anything you can do to support a revision of this out-moded law.

Very sincerely yours, Cy Gutman, I. C. Gutman, President, Industrial Development Corporation of Lehigh County.

The letter sent to him reads as follows: The name of the prospect company is withheld for confidential reasons but is addressed to Mr. John W. Trauch, Secretary of the Lehigh Economic Advancement Project, Inc., 462 Walnut Street, Allentown, Pa.

Dear Mr. Trauch: We would like to ask your assistance in connection with a matter pertaining to our proposed plant at Allentown, Penna.

It is my understanding that there is before the Pennsylvania Legislature three bills dealing with the length of a tractor-trailer combination that can move in the State of Pennsylvania.

The present law permits 50 feet overall length but has a restrictive clause stating that the trailer cannot exceed 35 feet. This means that even with the modern tractors you cannot use a 40-foot trailer although the overall length would be within the 50-foot limitation. Pennsylvania is the only State in the East having this 35-foot trailer limitation.

Forty-foot trailers are in wide use today. It is imperative that we have the availability of use of 40-foot trailers due to the nature of our products.

This 35-foot limitation places an undue burden on Interstate traffic and will cost us money on every load we ship from Allentown if we have to live with this 35-foot limitation. In view of the general use of 40-foot trailers and the fact that the State of Pennsylvania already has an overall 50-foot law it certainly seems to us that the 35-foot trailer limitation should be removed. I do not know what the state has to gain by the present restriction. It would seem to me that they must be losing business because of this. On many light density articles it is very important to be able to use 40-foot trailers.

We will appreciate it if you would lend your support by contacting the proper people in the Legislature to support the amendment from the present law to permit the 50-foot law to go into effect without restriction as to length of trailers. It has been suggested that you should also solicit the assistance of Mayor Gross in behalf of this matter. I am therefore sending you an extra copy of this letter should you feel that he would be willing to help in this.

Yours very truly, Traffic Manager, of this company that will, we hope, move into Allentown.

Now, here is a situation just as simple. This again is a situation where we are going to either help or deter business. We are either going to get these businesses in Pennsylvania if we give them the right climate, or we are going to lose them. This will help, with taxes. It deals with the practical matter of loading light material into a truck. In this case it would not even increase the weight but it will increase the size so that they can possibly transport their products. I urge you to vote for the amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley.

Mr. MORLEY. Mr. Speaker, one of the startling and frightening aspects of this whole discussion here, both the other day and today, was the fact that not once at any time, by anybody, have the people of Pennsylvania been mentioned. We have listened to constitutional questions, we have listened to jobs in trailer plants, we have listened to profits for truckers, we have listened to 101 things, but not once, anywhere in this discussion have the people of Pennsylvania even been mentioned. They have been relegated to the status of William Graham Sumner's forgotten man, of whom he said, "He works, he votes, he sometimes prays, but he always pays."

But, Mr. Speaker, he should not be forced to pay with his life. This problem before us is, without a doubt, one of the most serious problems, not only in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, but in the Nation. It involves the lives and the safety of our people. This equipment they speak about is the most inherently hazardous piece of equipment on the highways that has been known for years. What these people seek to do is to increase the forces tending to throw this thing into a skid or a jackknife, and decrease the ability of the driver of that rig to pull it out. The minute that trailer starts to slide or skid, those forces change from a longitudinal direction into a lateral direction and as they gather speed they gang up. By adding five feet, plus two tons of load, you increase by 10,000 foot pounds the forces tending to pull that thing into a skid or a jackknife.

This problem has been dealt with since the advent of the automobile. I have been familiar with it to a degree, more or less, since the First World War when this equipment was first introduced. It has always been a problem. We have broadened our roads, we have stiffened up the structural strength of them and we have passed laws, we have set up highway enforcement agencies. Right here in this session of the legislation we passed the radar bill, which affects every person in Pennsylvania. A lot of you members did not like that bill. A lot of people thought that it was bearing down too hard or that it is a harassment to the people of Pennsylvania. But in view of this problem and the seriousness of it, this House agreed that it was necessary. We knew it was not an absolute control, but we thought that if there was any possibility of cutting down this total, of saving lives, of protecting the safety of the people of Pennsylvania, it is worthwhile.

Now here we are headed in exactly the opposite direction. Why? Not because the majority of the men who use this equipment want it, but because certain fringe interests in the transportation industry and a few trailer manufacturers lobbied for this bill. It seems to me that it is about time that we stop trying to pick cherries with our backs to the tree, that we face up to the fact that this is one of not only Pennsylvania's but the Nation's biggest problems.

Now no group, no selfish interest group, owns the highways of Pennsylvania. They belong to all of the people. This House intends to say to the forgotten man that he is not forgotten and that we are not going to sweep the tears and the tragedy under the rug. We are not going to turn our highways over to these people.

Mr. Speaker, when any group of people fails to exercise the degree of self-discipline and self-control and respect for the rights of others that is the backbone of our whole free society, this House has not only a responsibility but a duty to do something about it.

I ask that the members of this House do that duty and vote against the amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I want to speak, too, in favor of the people. I have not heard much mention about the people in this debate, until now, either. But I am concerned about the people in Berks County, in particular, and all over the State who are unemployed and unable to feed their families properly because of the limitations that are placed upon the manufacturers of these trailers at the present time. We have hundreds of people in Berks County who are laid off because Brown Trailer has closed shop and moved out. We have another plant down there, Parish Pressed Steel Division of the Dana Corporation that normally employed several thousand people but is working at curtailed operations right now because of this ban. We are surrounded by States that do permit the 40-foot trailer and a 50-foot overall length. I believe that some people are trying to confuse the issue on this length, because the overall length remains at 50 feet. Now, are all the surrounding States wrong? Are we right in keeping this restricted legislation that we have at the present time? We have been preaching about creating a favorable business climate here and full employment for the people of Pennsylvania, and if we are for the people, we want to see them work and earn an honest living, then let us do something for them and vote to get in line with the other States around us and give them work. Support the amendment.

The SPEAKER. Someone, sometime, must close this debate. The amendments having been offered by the gentleman from Bucks, he should be permitted to close the debate.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Perry, Mr. Holman. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, desire to be recognized afterward?

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley, consent to be interrogated?

Mr. MORLEY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, from the gentleman's knowledge of the trucking industry and the vehicle code, will this amendment in any way increase the length of the overall unit?

Mr. MORLEY. Mr. Speaker, the length of the overall unit has very little to do with the problem. It is the ratio, the length of one unit to the other.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I asked a particular question and I would like an answer. Does it increase the overall length of the combined equipment?

Mr. MORLEY. It will not increase the overall length, but it will increase the inherent hazard of the vehicle tremendously.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, will this amendment in any way increase the load limit of tractor-trailers in the State of Pennsylvania?

Mr. MORLEY. Will the gentleman please repeat that question? I could not hear it.

Mr. HOLMAN. Will this amendment in any way increase the weight limit of any tractor-trailer operated on the roads of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

Mr. MORLEY. It will increase the location of the weight, it will put it further away from the king pin and fifth wheel, and it treats the leverage tending to throw the weight into a skid or a jackknife.

Mr. HOLMAN. Will it increase the weight on the axle?

Mr. MORLEY. It might; it depends upon the distribution of the weight. It could seriously increase the weight on the axle, depending on the distribution, and make the vehicle more hazardous.

Mr. HOLMAN. Will it increase the total weight of the vehicle?

Mr. MORLEY. No, sir, it would not increase the total weight of the vehicle.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman have knowledge of any other State in the country that does not permit a 40-foot trailer?

Mr. MORLEY. I am not familiar with the regulations in other States of the Nation. I base my judgments on surveys that I made while I was a safety engineer for the corps of engineers. We used various types of vehicles and we found it to be the most hazardous piece of equipment on the highways.

Mr. HOLMAN. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

To me the argument of highway safety can be carried to ridiculous extremes. From my understanding of this amendment, it in no way increases the total weight of tractor-trailers. The modern tractor-trailer can shift the weight on the axle and it will in no way affect the highways of the Commonwealth. There is no other State, to my knowledge, in the United States that does not have a 40-foot-trailer limit.

And Mr. Morley raises the question of the people. Well, I would like to join in the comments of the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Bachman. As the gentleman from Luzerne knows, I also have personal knowledge of the plight of the people in the Hazleton area. I am very, very familiar with the personal sacrifice that the people of the greater Hazleton area and all Luzerne County have gone through to try to bring industry into this Commonwealth, into their locality. I am very familiar with the person sacrifice of the leaders of the Hazleton Industrial Development Corporation and of Can-Do, their two industrial bodies, in bringing Highway Trailers to the Hazleton area. I am very, very familiar with the vast time expended by a gentleman by the name of Victor C. Diehm of Hazleton who was one of the masterminds of the industrial development program in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. This means a great deal to the Luzerne County area and to the Hazleton area in particular. It means a great deal to many, many other sections of this Commonwealth, including my own Perry County, which is a very small county, smaller than the entire population of the city of Hazleton. Perry County employs very few people in industry. We do not have too much industry. The depressed area bills that we have passed in this legislature have applied to Perry County, but in reality they do not work too satisfactorily in our area; we are primarily rural and not industrial.

The trucking industry in our particular county employs 1,394 people. It has 1,747 trucks registered. It had a total payroll in 1960 of $6,750,000, more than the rest of the industry in our county combined. The investment of the trucking industry in Perry County is $6,114,000. Now when you are talking of the people, and the people who are unemployed, and the people who try to make a living in the financially depressed areas of this Commonwealth, I think that far surpasses any possible safety hazard. I do not agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia that it exists. I do not think this in any way will increase the hazards of the trucking industry on the highway.

I respectfully request the members on both sides of the aisle, on behalf of my own constituents of Perry County and on behalf of the constituents of Luzerne County and many other depressed areas in this Commonwealth, to support the amendments of the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, may I, initially, briefly answer this argument dealing with the economies of the situation.

I wonder how many of the men who argued in favor of these amendments on the basis of the provisions of the amendments allowing for a decrease in the tempo of our economy I wonder how many of those men have given thought to the question of how many drivers are going to lose their jobs by virtue of the fact that you are going to have rigs carrying larger loads and employing less drivers as a consequence thereof.

Now you state that this does not increase the amount of the load. I want to state to this House that this bill is nothing but a prelude, a first step towards a request that the pay-load, that the authorized amount of cargo, the weight, the tonnage, be increased. You will find that there will be not too long from now a bill presented to the members of this House increasing the authorized poundage from 65,000 pounds to 73,000 pounds. And this is merely the first step. For what other reason would they seek to increase the length of the tractor-trailers? Only to allow them to carry more weight.

But aside from the economies involved, I oppose these amendments, for the simple reason that in my judgment there is a safety element involved here. I do feel that the allowance of 40-foot trailers on our highways, which are already inadequate to accommodate the existing legal limits of our trucking industry, I feel that they are going to chop up our highways; they are going to peril the lives of our citizens on the road. I do not know how many members of this House drive to Harrisburg, but this past winter on the many trips I made to Harrisburg there were innumerable jack-knifing incidents where large tractor-trailers were lying across the road, having been jack-knifed as a result of going into a slide and not being able to cope with it.

Now I am no expert and I am not truly knowledgeable as to the physical dynamics involved, but it strikes my layman mind that when you have a 15-foot tractor and a 35-foot trailer it is the 15-foot tractor that generally supports the entire rig; it is the 15-foot tractor that acts as the anchor for the entire rig. And if you are going to reduce the length of that tractor to 10 feet to make it a snub-nosed cab, as they call it, instead of a 15-foot cab, and increase the overall length of the trailer, you are merely increasing the whiplash injury, or, rather, the whiplash type of effect that results when that weight goes into a spin or into a slide.

It is for this reason that I firmly and sincerely believe that this will give incidence to a larger number of accidents involving these larger rigs.

Now this is aside from the fact that unquestionably in the eastern part of the country where the streets were not designed originally to accommodate these larger types of rigs, there is going to be created traffic hazards and traffic problems. How often have I seen in the city of Philadelphia these 35-foot trailers trying to traverse a corner and not being able to make it, which necessitated their backing up, going forward again, and backing up again. That problem is going to be compounded if you are going to increase the overall length of this rig.

Now you say the overall length is not going to be increased, and, although that is true, you are increasing the length of that part of the rig that is not maneuverable. The only part of the rig that is maneuverable is the cab. That is the part that makes the turn, that is the part that guides the whole rig, and you are going to find these large rigs unable to traverse these corners.

Down in Philadelphia on Aramingo Avenue, we have a string of loading platforms. These 35-foot trailers have to be backed up in order to allow traffic to proceed through the street, and I might state that these rigs are so long now that they extend out into the street, and, in order to allow traffic to proceed through, the cab or the tractor has to be placed at a 90-degree angle with the trailer. Now what is going to happen if you increase this by another five feet? You are going to shut off completely this avenue of ingress and egress and you are going to stop the flow of traffic and increase the traffic problems.

Now there must be a reason why our own Secretary of Highways Park Martin, whose integrity and whose ability we all respect, has opposed the passage of any 40-foot law. He said it is going to chew up our highways, it is going to create additional hazards on the highways and there very definitely is a safety factor.

For these reasons, among others, I ask the members of the House to vote "no" on these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Holliday.

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Mr. Speaker, this House has expended a great deal of time in debating an issue over which there should be no controversy.

It cannot be denied that the overwhelming majority of Pennsylvania business and industrial groups need the 40-foot trailer to maintain their competitive status with other States.

It cannot be denied that the delay in legalizing this efficient instrument of commerce has already cost this State thousands of dollars in terms of employment in areas that can least afford such loss.

It cannot be denied that further delay is going to cause more and more losses of employment, not only in the trailer building industries, but in those which manufacture tractors, and in the businesses of truck owners who use them. It will mean layoffs in industrial plants which will route their production to units in other States whose transport laws are up-to-date.

If we, Mr. Speaker, are all pledged in advancing Pennsylvania's industrial growth, and I believe we all are, I do not see how we can view this measure as a partisan one, or as a favor to one particular mode of transportation.

The 40-foot trailer law is simply a vital, industrial need for Pennsylvania. Its passage can hurt no one; it can help millions. It should pass, and promptly.

Now, Mr. Speaker, there has been quite a bit of talk here about the maneuverability of trailers and tractors. I have been away from the business for a number of years, although I did put in 18 years in the truck and trailer business with two of the largest manufacturers in the world. So I used to know something about it, and I think that anybody who knows anything about it will realize and will know that with the longer trailer you will really get a better load distribution than you had with the shorter trailer. Your maneuverability will be just the same, and, as far as 15-foot tractors are concerned, those tractors are pretty much a thing of the past, and the cab over the engine, I would say, would be the principal tractor being put out by the truck manufacturers.

Another thing, Mr. Speaker, I believe every State in the Union, except seven, have the 40-foot trailer. I have heard that every State except two, that is, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, have the 40-foot trailer. Now Pennsylvania has 40-foot trailers operating on the highways right today. Every one of these trailers that you see hauling passenger cars is over 40 feet. Therefore, 40-foot trailers are now operating on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. Now if this law is not passed, those trailers cannot get off the Pennsylvania Turnpike and, therefore, it is going to cost business in the State of Pennsylvania.

Now there are a great many things you could argue for and against these trailers; you can say, as did the gentleman from Philadelphia, that they have to park at right angles on certain streets. That is all true. But I think that anybody who has seen a good tractor-trailer operator handle his truck and trailer, back it into places that you could hardly back your own pleasure car in, know that the truck and trailer industry is in good hands and the men behind the wheels are looking out for the safety of the people on the highways.

Mr. Speaker, I urge every person in this House to vote for the amendment. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick.

Mr. KORNICK. My remarks probably will not change anyone's mind as to how they are going to vote—

The SPEAKER. No souls are saved after the first two hours.

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to remind the members of the House that we in Fayette County next week, July 17, are going to dedicate the new Fruehauf trailer plant, so, therefore, we in Fayette County must in all good conscience vote for this measure.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Taylor.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I get up after hearing your committee's debate on this big truck bill. I have been fighting this big truck bill for a long, long time but I am surprised to see some of the boys here today who have been selling fresh fish to the railroad companies and today are trying to sell fish to the big trucks.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, with the understanding that he is to close the debate.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I am going to try to be brief at the risk of losing a few votes.

A respected member of this House, now deceased, the Honorable Willard Agnew, who was our minority leader at the beginning of this session, had what I thought was a very good habit of using visual presentation, if he at all could. I would like to show to the members of this House just what we are talking about in a visual form.

The picture up top is the present law of Pennsylvania showing a 35-foot trailer and a 15-foot tractor. This is legal in all 50 States of the United States.

At the bottom is what we are talking about in this amendment, the 40-foot trailer, the 10-foot, cab-over-engine tractor. Total length, as you can see, for both rigs is exactly 50 feet. The bottom one is legal in 46 States. It is illegal in Pennsylvania, it is illegal in West Virginia, but for $1 you can use it in West Virginia. I think that shows visually what we are talking about.

I would like to just cover a few things that have not been mentioned today. One is that we, this year, voted $8 million additional for the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority. I have here the booklet prepared by them and by the Department of Commerce, showing how many jobs have been created by the factories we have in Pennsylvania under this program. Three of the biggest ones that we have, one in Bucks County, one in Connellsville and Uniontown, and one, I think, in Fayette County, three of the biggest plants we have in Pennsylvania under this program, manufacture 40-foot trailers. Now what do they do with the 40-foot trailers when they finish manufacturing them? They put them on the highways of Pennsylvania to take them out where they can be used in every other State in the Union. And what do our police officers, both local and State, do? They wink. They close their eyes, because these trailers are illegal in Pennsylvania, yet we have three huge plants manufacturing them. It is a ridiculous situation and we are condoning it.

Do you people know that under Pennsylvania law today we can haul a hog to market in a 40-foot trailer, but we cannot bring the bacon home when it is in cans. It has to be in a 35-foot trailer. That is how ridiculous this situation is.

This, I think, places us in an enviable situation. We have industrial plants that make these trailers in Pennsylvania and that is business and jobs for Pennsylvania. We have shippers who ship light commodities who will never go over the weight load who need the extra space in these trailers which are legal every place else. We have the labor unions behind us on this bill. I understand the steel workers are for it, the automobile workers are for it, and I know that in my own county the joint AFL-CIO is for it. So we have something here that everybody, or at least almost everybody, is for.

At the present time we have erected a 35-foot wall around Pennsylvania. It is a ridiculous wall and we had better rip it down today.

The one last thing I want to mention that has not been touched upon at all is the advent, and it is the growing thing in the trucking and railroad industry, and that is the advent of the piggy-back operation. The piggy-back operation, whereby a trailer unit is carried on a flat-bed railroad car, has been and is being standardized throughout the United States on the basis of 20 and 40 foot lengths, and the Pennsylvania 35-foot trailers just waste space and cost money.

One other thing in that same field is what they call containerization. This is another growing thing whereby they have trailer units of 20 or 40 feet in length—and if you have a 20-foot one, you put two of them together. We ship throughout the United States, and we ship to foreign countries in these containers. The container itself leaves the country, or leaves the State; it goes all over the country by railroad. The 35-foot trailer just fails to fit in with the economics of that type of operation.

I think we have a chance here to do something, to make jobs in Pennsylvania, to make some of this industrial climate we talk about all the time. I hope you will pass these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would remind Mr. Morley that the Chair distinctly asked that everybody who wanted to speak—

Mr. MORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman for a minute on that sketch he showed to the House. I think it is distorted. It gives the House the wrong impression. I would like to ask him a few questions.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would say all right, under the circumstances, but we wish that the gentleman had gone along with the Chair and permitted the gentleman from Bucks to close the debate. Proceed.

Mr. MORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know if the gentleman knows where the fifth wheel of the king pin is located on either one of those rigs?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. The fifth wheel? You have got me.

Mr. MORLEY. That is all, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Messrs. KORNICK, TRUSIO, WILLIAM JAMES LONG and COOLEY offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 10, 1961.

On July 6 of this year, Harry Cochran a former member of this distinguished body passed away at the age of 78. A Democratic member for thirty years, Mr. Cochran represented the people of the second district of Fayette County.

Harry Cochran was first elected to the General Assembly in 1913 but he was active in politics prior to that, having been elected Burgess of Dawson in 1906. He was also a member of the Democratic National Committee.

Prior to his death, Mr. Cochran was active in club and civic work. He was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the James Cochran Lodge of Free Masons, the Elks and the Board of Directors of the Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

All of us who had the pleasure of knowing Harry Cochran deeply mourn his passing for he was a man that was well respected by all as evidenced by his being reelected to the General Assembly by his constituents time after time; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives extend its deepest sympathy to Harry Cochran's widow, the former Winifred Ann MacFarland upon the death of her beloved husband; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Mrs. Winifred Cochran at her home in Dawson, Fayette County, Pennsylvania.

REPORT OF JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION

The SPEAKER laid before the House the report of the Joint State Government Commission.

The communication was read by the clerk as follows:

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of the Proposed Inheritance and Estate Tax Act of 1961, together with the official Comments of the Commission.

Respectfully submitted,

HARRIS G. BRETH, Chairman.

SENATE

TUESDAY, JULY 11, 1961

The Senate met at 11:30 a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE A. SMITH, Pastor of Saint Paul's United Church of Christ, Fort Washington, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Gracious and eternal God, Lord of all creation and Ruler of mankind, we invoke Thy blessing once again at the beginning of a new day of labor. Thou art holy and good beyond our comprehension, yet we, Thy erring children, seek Thy presence and favor now. Be pleased, O Father, to hear our prayer as we face the work before us.

Let not the vigor and freshness of this noon hour, or the glow of good health, or the prosperity of our undertakings deceive us into a false sense and trust in our own strength. All good gifts have come from Thee. Assist us, then, O God, to use our powers of mind and heart for the good of all as we deliberate here. Drive away from us all wrong desires and deliver us from selfish motives. Separate our deeds from the gloom of darkness, and as Thou dost awaken our bodies from sleep, so awaken our souls from sin. May the light of Thy truth shine in upon us as the light of noonday shines in upon us now.

Keep us ever mindful of our responsibilities in this august Body, and grant us always the courage to fulfill our duties in honor. Enliven us as we go about our business, and at the end of this day bring us to our beds content and unashamed, for Thy Name's sake. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. LANE, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BELL, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, we, in southeastern Pennsylvania, have long had a problem of adequate bridges or tunnels across the Delaware River. Between Philadelphia and New Castle, Delaware, which is approximately forty to forty-five miles, there is no bridge or tunnel. Delaware County has a river crossing facility in the form of a ferry which, again, is not adequate.

The resolution I am about to offer, Mr. President, seeks to have the Governor of Pennsylvania instruct the Secretary of Highways to take immediate action. It also seeks to have the Delaware River Port Authority take immediate action to start working on the construction of a bridge or tunnel and the necessary access highways.

Mr. President, I am agreeable that this resolution be referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE CONSTRUCTION OF A DELAWARE RIVER BRIDGE OR TUNNEL IN DELAWARE COUNTY

Mr. BELL offered the following resolution (Serial No. 85), which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, July 11, 1961.

Whereas, There exists a great need for a bridge or tunnel from Delaware County across the Delaware River to New Jersey; and

Whereas, The best location for such a crossing is in the vicinity of the City of Chester; and

Whereas, The construction of such a crossing would materially aid employment and the industrial and business economy of south eastern Pennsylvania in general and Delaware County in particular; and

Whereas, Such a crossing would greatly aid and assist the motor transport industry in opening access to New York City, New England and New Jersey; and

Whereas, This bridge or tunnel would greatly convenience Delaware County motorists in reaching New Jersey destinations; and

Whereas, The construction of such a bridge or tunnel is within the jurisdiction of the Governor of Pennsylvania, The Delaware River Port Authority, and the Governor of New Jersey; and

Whereas, It is essential that action on this project proceed without further delay; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Governor of Pennsylvania direct the Secretary of Highways to initiate plans immediately and proceed with construction of access roads to a crossing site; and be it further

Resolved, That the Delaware River Port Authority expedite the construction of a Delaware River bridge or tunnel in Delaware County, preferably in the vicinity of the City of Chester.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. WADE, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on State Government, reported, as committed, HB 1206 and 1207.

BILL POSTPONED

HB 1139 (Pr. No. 1271)—Upon motion of Mr. WEINER, seconded by Mr. LANE, and agreed to, the bill was placed on the Third Reading Postponed Calendar.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1181 (Pr. No. 2462)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. President, before we vote on House bill No. 1181, I want to make certain that something very important is included in the record of today's proceedings.

Certainly it is difficult to stand on the floor of the Senate and ask anybody to vote against a measure to create an Anthracite Mine Law Study Commission. We need it. It is good for the industry, it is good for those who work in it, and I would be reluctant to seek negative votes. However, I do think the record should show the history of the changes in this bill.

I was quite happy that the sponsors of the bill saw fit to stipulate in it that one of the men representing the operators should be from the independents, many of which we have in Schuylkill, Dauphin and Northumberland Counties.

You will recall that the Majority Leader amended the bill to exclude the provision for representation of the independents in this industry. I protested that, but was told in no uncertain terms that the independents could not be spelled out in the bill. However, a compromise suggestion was made that inasmuch as the independent operator was being removed from the bill, the number to be appointed to the commission would be increased from three to four, implying that we wanted the Governor to make an independent operator or his representative the fourth man, so to speak.

If I vote for this bill, Mr. President, unless somebody sees fit to correct me, I would like the record to show that the intent of the Senate was to increase the number of operators' representatives from three to four, with the express hope that the Governor, when the commission is appointed, would see that the independents are represented thereon.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not want to correct my friend and colleague, Senator Wagner. However, I think it ill behooves us to tell the Governor, whom we have made the appointing authority, what position he should take in this matter. I know he is fair. I know he will do the proper thing in this situation. That is the reason why we have expanded this Commission so that all facets of the industry may be included and may present their point of view in this matter.

It is with that in mind that we ask that this measure go to his desk as quickly as possible. It must go back to the House for them to confirm our action by concurring in our amendment. With that in mind, I would ask that we enact this measure as speedily as possible so they can act on it and the Governor can take whatever actions he feels are indicated.

I would not like to force him to take any one group in the industry. I feel this is a mine study group and, as such, I think will have, of necessity, to include all facets of the industry, or else the work that they will do will have very little or no validity when it is reported back for the proper people to take the proper steps.

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. President, the point I particularly wanted to make was the reason for the number being changed from three to four. I think Senator Weiner has confirmed that, and we ought to have a pretty good understanding on the part of the Senate.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 1414 (Pr. No. 1963)—Read at length the third time, On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, this bill authorizes the Governor to abolish certain special funds and transfer the balances in those funds, and in the bond fund, for the purpose of extinguishing the public debt. Mr. President, this is a very good proposal and I believe those funds should be transferred and extinguished. However, I also believe it is a legislative prerogative, inasmuch as the Legislature created those special funds.

For that reason, Mr. President, I would like to have information, if possible, on what funds are involved and the balances in the funds which are to be transferred. That could be very simply done by presentation of a bill and having those funds abolished and the amounts transferred to the General Fund, as would be the case with this bill.

Consequently, Mr. President, until I can obtain that information, I am going to ask that the bill go over in its order with the thought that the Legislature, in accomplishing this, should do it in the same manner as the funds were created.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bill, on third reading, will go over in its order.

HB 1515—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1533 (Pr. No. 1899)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

The House met at 11 a. m., e. s. t.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O God of Infinite Wisdom and Compassionate Love, in this noontide hour we come to Thee asking Thy presence and Thy blessing upon this session of this House of Representatives. Pour out Thy tender care and concern on each bowed head, we pray, and give each one the awareness of Thy nearness and continued guidance in life. But, O God, we humbly pray that, in the complexity of the problems which face the members of this House, Thou wilt ever stand as a beacon to light the way. Fill them with the competency of Thy divine wisdom and grant them the courage to do the task which needs to be done. In Thy blessed name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Monday, July 10, 1961, will be postponed until printed.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. A. W. JOHNSON, FETTEROLF, HEFFNER and TOMPKINS. HOUSE BILL No. 1826.

An Act making an appropriation to the joint commission appointed by the House of Representatives and the Senate to conduct a full investigation of the licensing activities of the Department of Public Instruction.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. A. W. JOHNSON, FETTEROLF, HEFFNER and TOMPKINS. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 89.

In the House of Representatives, July 10, 1961.

The dismissal, on July 6, 1961, of William J. Kilroy of Philadelphia, as administrative officer of the Bureau of Professional Licensing, for interference with the procedures of the licensing boards has cast doubt on the integrity of that bureau.

It would be a public calamity if the Bureau of Professional Licensing, which issues licenses in such vital fields as the medical profession and nursing, should become subverted by the kind of influence-peddling and political manipulation which led to the dismissal of William J. Kilroy.

Dr. Charles H. Boehm, Superintendent of Public Instruction, in his letter of dismissal to Kilroy referred to testimony given by Eli G. Travis, Philadelphia contractor, that Travis had given seven hundred fifty dollars ($750) to Harold V. Varani, recently dismissed as Chief of the Division of Architecture and Engineering in the Philadelphia Department of Public Property, at Varani's request so that Varani could get a civil engineering license from the State.

Eli G. Travis also gave testimony that William J. Kilroy was the man Varani said was helping out.

It has been established by the Justice Department that Kilroy wrote to Michael Baker, Jr., Chairman of the State Registration Board of Professional Engineers in behalf of Varani.

Both Varani and Kilroy, testifying before Dr. Boehm, are reported to have denied knowing one another.

This would indicate that Kilroy might have been acting as an agent for an influence-peddling ring, evidently controlled by the Democratic party machine in Philadelphia, headed by Congressman William J. Green, Jr., political sponsor of Kilroy.

Dr. Boehm in his letter of dismissal of Kilroy and subsequent statements to newspaper reporters has left many questions unanswered.

Attorney General Anne X. Alpern has announced that more employes in the Bureau of Professional Licensing face dismissal as a result of serious irregularities in connection with licensing procedures.

The public has the right to know the full details on the Kilroy case as well as full information about any other influence-peddling leading to the debasement of standards of the sixteen licensing boards.

The only guarantee that the public will get all the facts is a legislative investigation of that bureau; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint five members of the House, three from the majority party and two from the minority party, and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint five members of the Senate, three from the majority party and two from the minority party, who shall constitute a joint commission, to conduct forthwith a full investigation of the licensing activities of the Department of Public Instruction, to determine the extent of political influence upon licensing boards and what effect such political influence and pressure has had upon the granting of licenses; and be it further

Resolved, That the commission may meet, hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigation whether the General Assembly is in session or in adjournment. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the commission and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the commission deems necessary. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before this commission or to produce any books, papers, records, or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the commission shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the commission; and be it further

Resolved, That the commission make a report of its findings to the 1962 Session of the General Assembly, together with its recommendations for appropriate legislation or administrative procedures, or both, or any other action necessary to insure the future integrity of the Bureau of Professional Licensing.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I use this moment of time to speak to the House about our schedule today?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would be pleased if the majority leader would do so.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we have a series of bills which have been agreed to be voted on, some Senate bills and then some bills that are on final passage, and bills that are on the postponed calendar.

Following that we will break for respective caucuses, covering final passage calendar and covering Senate bills that have not been covered by the respective caucuses at this point. I believe the request will be for one hour or one hour and 15 minutes for caucus when we do break. Then there will be perhaps 15 more bills to vote, counting the final passage postponed calendar, before we break for caucus.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 417, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 23, 1949 (P. L. 1669), entitled as amended, "An act to provide revenue for school districts of the first class by imposing a tax on persons engaging in certain businesses, professions, occupations, trades, vocations and commercial activities therein . . ." establishing an alternative appeal procedure in certain cases.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 527, entitled:

An Act amending the "Liquor Code," approved April 12, 1951 (P. L. 90), providing for the exchange of existing retail dispenser's licenses for liquor licenses despite the limitations of the quota provisions of this act and establishing procedure therefor.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Elk, Mr. Renwick, rise?

Mr. RENWICK. Mr. Speaker,—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman yields to the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins. For what purpose does the gentleman from Cameron rise?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I understood that we would not call up any of these postponed bills, all of which are reconsidered bills, until after our caucus.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Elk, Mr. Renwick.

Mr. RENWICK. Mr. Speaker, very briefly I want to call your attention to this bill. I think there were a number of members who were not fully acquainted with it the last time we ran it.

This bill merely gives a person who has a beer license the right to trade it in and get a whiskey license. It pertains to clubs and also retail licensees. As you know, a number of years ago when these clubs were small they only applied for a beer license because that was all they needed at that time. But a lot of clubs have come to be large now, and, of course, they serve food and a number of other things and they would also like to serve cocktails with this food. Well, as you know, with a beer license they can only serve beer, so they are asking if they have the privilege to turn in their beer licenses and obtain a liquor license.

Now it does not change the quota one iota. It does not increase the number or decrease it. It just keeps it at its present amount, so I am asking everybody to support this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1652, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 24, 1913 (P. L. 114), entitled "An act regulating the time of payment of wages and earnings and providing a penalty for violation hereof" further regulating the time of payment of wages and earnings.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Welsh, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WELSH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, is it the intention of this bill to make pay days more frequent or less frequent?

Mr. WELSH. The intention of the bill is to see that they have three pay days in a month.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Will the gentleman state what the words "tri-monthly" mean?

Mr. WELSH. I understand that it means three pay days; three times.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Would the gentleman be surprised to learn that tri-monthly means once every three months?

Mr. WELSH. I would be surprised, yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I have in front of me the American College dictionary and the word "tri-monthly" is defined as follows: "taking place once each three months." I wonder if the gentleman is interested in having pay days made less frequent. It seems to me this would be a little rough on the labor group to have it every three months. If that is the wish of the majority party, we should go ahead with it, but it seems to me that the word "tri-monthly" is like "bi-monthly" which means every two months, or tri-annual which means every three years. I suggest that the correct words would be "thrice monthly" or else just say "three times every month."

Mr. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, how would the gentleman from Delaware want the amendment put in to take care of what he said?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I really do not have any interest in the bill one way or the other, but it seems to me that if you want pay days every three months that is what this bill will do. I think the sponsors should decide; if that is what they want we will vote for the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1744, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), requiring certain vehicles and combinations of vehicles equipped with air brakes to be equipped with emergency brakes.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Motor Vehicles.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Lamb.

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, would the majority leader consent to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, may I take the time of the House to have a word with the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will patiently await the outcome of the conference.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, desire to withdraw his motion for recommitment.

Mr. McCANN. I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1797, entitled:

An Act amending "The Permanent Registration Act for Cities of the Second Class Cities of the Second Class A Cities of the Third Class Boroughs Towns and Townships" approved April 29, 1937 (P. L. 487), further regulating the days hours and places of registration.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the week before last we voted on a similar bill for cities and counties of the first class. This bill extends that same thing to all the rest of the Commonwealth whereby registration crews can go beyond county lines and register residents of that particular county.

We think it is very bad legislation and ask the members on this side of the House to vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. PETROSKY. Rather than belabor the point, Mr. Speaker, I would refer the membership on both sides of the House to the debate we had on this matter two weeks ago in which the bill was adequately covered.

I would respectfully ask the membership on both sides of the House to vote "aye" on this measure.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 701, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 4, 1925 (P. L. 127), entitled "An act relating to adoption" authorizing approved agencies or institutions to charge for services rendered to persons taking children into their homes for the purpose of adoption and providing for the approval of such charges by the Department of Public Welfare.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
Mr. AUKER asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendment will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec.1), page 3, line 18, by striking out "legal"

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanime consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.
Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1028, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1944), entitled "An act providing a permanent allocation of a part of the fuels and liquid fuels tax proceeds to cities boroughs incorporated towns and townships for their road street and bridge purposes. *" changing the formula used to determine the amount of payments to be made to the political subdivisions.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, at this point we will ask for reports of committees and we will be ready after caucus for bills on final passage and Senate bills, but there are reports of committee.

INTERROGATION

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, before the members start leaving, I should like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the majority leader can give us any information as to the schedule for the balance of this week?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the House will be in session two more days, Wednesday and Thursday. The Education Committee, I believe, is giving me a report sometime later today from their meeting. I do not know when their next meeting is scheduled, but the House will be in session for two days, tomorrow at noon and Thursday.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the gentleman can give us any indication as to next week's schedule. Quite a few of our members have indicated that they would like to attend the Legion convention in Erie, beginning next Wednesday, and we are wondering if any schedule has been settled on or arranged for next week as yet?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I cannot give the gentleman information before the caucus. I do not know the schedule for next week at this point.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, we had understood before we left the week before last that we would only be in session three days this week. A great number of our members have made appointments, dental appointments, law office appointments and a number of other things for Thursday. We come back this week and find that they intend to be in for four days.

I would like to get something settled from week to week when we leave here as to how long we are going to be in the following week, because of the condition which exists not only with our members and which I know exists with a great number of members on the Democratic side.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I realize the situation of members who possibly may have made appointments such as the doctors, dentists and attorneys, but I am also aware that I must continue to press for the completion of work on this calendar. I apologize if I made an error or misled anyone in this House that there might be only three days of session. On the notice I mailed out to our Democratic members I clearly indicated last week that there would be four days of session. I am very sorry if there is a misunderstanding that there would only be sessions Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday instead of Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. To those men who have made some appointments, I ask that they bear with us in an effort to try to complete this week's work. When the Education Committee reports following tomorrow's or tonight's meeting, whichever it may be, we will have our plans for next week to disseminate to the membership of both caucuses immediately.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, if this is an effort toward sine die adjournment, I do not think many of our members would have any objection, but at this point we do not know where we stand on that issue, whether we are going to adjourn sine die, whether we are going to recess, or what exactly we intend to do. Frankly, I cannot see the justification for the four-day session this week if it is not an effort toward sine die adjournment. If it is the desire, to drive toward that end, that is one thing, but if we do not know where we stand with reference to sine die, recess, or otherwise, I frankly cannot see the justification for four days this week.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will make a motion that the caucus will begin promptly at 2 o'clock and proceed steadily.

We have some reconsideration motions and reports of committees. I will ask for a Democratic caucus of one hour, from 2 until 3, returning to the floor to vote bills, and we will allow a period of 30 minutes. The first roll call will be 3:30, 30 minutes for those who want to get a bite to eat.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the Republicans will have a caucus beginning at the same time to last for the same duration. I ask the members to bring their calendars with them.

COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL No. 987 FROM GOVERNOR

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg

June 21, 1961,

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Concurrent Resolution recalling from the Governor House bill No. 987, printer's No. 1576, for the purpose of amendment.

Accordingly, the original bill is herewith returned.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House bill No. 987 passed finally be reconsidered.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. How did the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I voted with the prevailing side.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. How did the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I voted with the prevailing side.

On the question,

INTERROGATION

Mr. TOMPKINS asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate Mr. McCANN.

Mr. Speaker, there was a bill on the calendar which was recommitted yesterday, the charitable solicitation bill, on which it was indicated there would be a public hearing. I think the indication was the public hearing might be tomorrow. A great number of people are headed in the direction of Harrisburg and there seems to be some confusion whether the public hearing will be tomorrow or some time next week. I am wondering if the majority leader can get that point cleared up as soon as possible and let our respective caucuses know while we are in caucus so we may announce it to the members.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, on House bill No. 1803 there will not be a public hearing tomorrow, Wednesday, which was tentatively scheduled for 9:30 a. m. in the new House caucus room. The new date of the hearing I do not have at this point, but the hearing has been cancelled for tomorrow on House bill No. 1803.

Mr. TOMPKINS. There will definitely be a later date fixed and there will be an announcement to that effect?

Mr. McCANN. We are going to try to get Mr. Stone, the chairman of the Committee on Public Welfare, in our caucus to determine immediately the date, time and place of the hearing so it may be announced right away.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank the gentleman.

SENATE MESSAGES

The clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate:

Amended House Bill returned for concurrence No. 853.

NOT VOTING—5

Curwood,	Jenkins,	Johnson, A. W.,	Mihm,
Henzel,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 670, entitled:

A Supplement to "The Pennsylvania Workmen's Compensation Act" approved June 2, 1915 (P. L. 736), providing for the payment of compensation to special school police appointed by boroughs or the dependents of such special school police.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCANN. This is a Workmen's Compensation bill and I am going to ask the chairman of the Committee on Workmen's Compensation to immediately tackle the problem in this bill dealing with the portal-to-portal part of coverage of these people in this Workmen's Compensation bill and amend it in such a manner that it can be agreed to be voted on.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Horst.

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker, if this bill is recommitted and the majority leader decides that no more bills will be reported out of committee, will this bill come out of committee?

Mr. McCANN. Yes, Mr. Speaker, this bill will come out of committee. It would come out on Thursday.

Mr. HORST. This session?

Mr. McCANN. I just got done making the statement that the bill—I asked the chairman to work on the amendments and report the bill. We are not talking about the next session. I may not be here.

Mr. HORST. Me, neither, but I just want to make sure it comes out of committee, as the companion bill to this bill is over in the Senate on third reading and without this bill the other bill is not any good.

Thank you, sir.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, we recognize the need for amendments to this bill but we have had so many other bills that have been carried on the calendar day after day after day, I was wondering if we could not work something out and amend it from the floor without sending it back to committee.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I have no objections to the bill lying on the calendar if the sponsors will go to work on the bill and work out the problems, and I mean work them out so they can be accomplished to a vote here in the House. They know what the objections are.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I agree the sponsors should get to work and get amendments worked out. If not, send it back to committee, but let us give them a day or two now and tell them they must get these amendments worked out.

BILL PASSED OVER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw that House bill 670 has been called up and ask that it be marked over and that the sponsors of the bill prepare the necessary amendments to correct the bill immediately.

The SPEAKER. The bill is passed over and lies on the calendar awaiting amendments furnished by the sponsors at an early date.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 4697, entitled:

An Act amending "The County Code" approved August 9, 1955 (P. L. 323), authorizing the creation of county historical commissions to promote places of historical interest within the county.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. Tompkins for Mrs. HENZEL for the remainder of today's session.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, before we run another bill I would like to ask the chairman of the Committee on Public Welfare, Mr. Stone, if he would make the announcement to the House as to the date and time of the public hearing so that the members may know.

PUBLIC HEARING

Mr. STONE. Mr. Speaker, the public hearing originally scheduled on House bill 1803 to be held Wednesday, July 12, at 9:30 a. m., in the majority caucus room has been continued until Tuesday, July 18, 9:30 a. m., daylight saving time, in the majority caucus room. This has been done for the reason that there has been insufficient public notice to the parties of interest. The delay will give them an opportunity to be present.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of Senate bill No. 100, entitled:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of Senate bill No. 101, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), entitled "The Vehicle Code" requiring brake linings to be approved prohibiting the sale of unapproved linings providing for the issuing and revocation of certificates of approval establishing fees and providing penalties.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Merry.

Mr. MERRY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to debate this bill and give my reasons why I think it should be recommended or defeated.

It seems that this bill is several years late getting down to a vote in a place where it might be bad. I think last session it came up here, passed in the House and went over to the Senate and died.

Years ago it would have done some good. At that time somebody said they sold lamp wick for brake lining, so we wanted to protect the people from losing their money buying this cheap brake lining. In the last few years it seems inspection stations—put it this way—made it mandatory that they physically check each automobile to see if it stops under the present law in the right distance. If they do physically check this car and it does not stop in the right distance, they take it back to the garage and make some repairs on it or they lose their inspection station license.

It is possible that any kind of lining could go bad when this inspection station takes it down the road and tries it out, it does not stop, he goes back and he finds it is good lining, but the dust seal has broken down or the grease seal has broken down. Therefore, he has to take the lining off and install new lining.

This bill could be just as much against safety as some people claim that it is a safety bill. What I have just said should prove that it is unnecessary with the present laws on inspection stations checking the linings.

To go further, I think it would be favoritism as far as to who got the first $10 who got an approval for lining. The thing that bothers me even more than that is that it would restrict the manufacturer of trucks or automobiles from making any improvements in the braking system until they ask our secretary what kind of lining they could use with this new brake system. I think that definitely is against safety. Some people say, well, here, this brake lining does not stop. So it does not stop. Do you know or do the people in this House know that all brake lining cannot be alike. Each make of car, each weight of car, each weight of truck, could use a different brake lining. Also, you have more than one system of brakes. You have a steel drum, a cast-iron drum, a cast-iron enclosed steel drum, an aluminum drum and different types of linings match these drums. This is an engineering problem and not something we can decide by just somebody giving the secretary $10 to have this particular brake lining approved.

Together with these different kinds of drums that the manufacturers make they use different systems of application. You have hydraulic brakes, mechanical brakes and air-actuated brakes. One lining will not work on all different types of brakes. So we match engineering brake lining to the type of brake, to the weight of the car and in that way I do not see how we should put the responsibility up to the Department of Revenue or the secretary to say what kind of lining should be in it.

To wind this up, I do not like to take the time of the House any further, although this is as bad a bill as we have had on the calendar, I would say it is very obvious from the amendments put in yesterday that it is not enforceable. Any mechanic who takes a wheel off a car can inspect the lining and would find it very difficult to know whether it was so-called legal lining approved by our man over here or what it was until he took the rivets out, removed the lining and looked at the back-side of it, because after it gets dirty you cannot tell who made it. In that way I would say the bill is silly.

Just please vote this bill down. You will be doing more for safety than you will any other way.

I thank you for your courtesy in listening to me.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 156, entitled:

An Act amending the "Municipal Employees' Retirement Law," approved June 4, 1943 (P. L. 886), including officers and employees of certain associations within the act.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

Mr. GAILEY. All I can say, Mr. Speaker, is that I think the members will recall that this bill was voted upon by this House once before and failed in passage.

The impact of this act is to bring within the municipal employees' retirement system certain employees of State associations which, to my way of thinking, and I believe the House at that time agreed with it, were not proper people to be brought within a system which is set up strictly for municipal employees.

I still think it is bad legislation and I hope members on both sides of the House vote against it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick.

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, this is the bill we brought up for reconsideration yesterday. I want to explain to the House that this legislation does not cost any money. It is the employees of the municipal government who are contributing to this fund. Therefore, I do not want the members to be confused. So I ask members on both sides of the House to vote for the bill.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 1665, entitled:

An Act amending the "Local Tax Enabling Act," approved June 25, 1947 (P. L. 1145), requiring taxes collected upon the transfer of real property or of any interest in real property to be collected at the county seat.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I would like to interrogate the majority leader on this bill, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that this bill in its present form applies only to counties of second class?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Lamb, so he may answer emphatically that printer's No. 2099 pertains to second class counties.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Lamb.

Before the gentleman speaks I would like to read Rule 60:

While the Speaker is putting a question or addressing the House and during the debate or voting, no member shall disturb another by talking or walking up and down or crossing the floor of the House.

The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. LAMB. I understand, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Cameron wishes to interrogate me.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, it was my understanding that this bill had been amended to apply only to counties of the second class. Is that right?

Mr. LAMB. Yes, sir, that is right.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Where in the bill, under the printer's number that is on the calendar, has this been done?

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, the amendments were offered by me and I am sorry to say that this is the first time I looked at the new printer's number, and I assume it is the new printer's number, but the amendments went in to limit the bill to counties of the second class. I had the amendments prepared myself.

Mr. TOMPKINS. The printer's number I have before me contains no amendments whatsoever.

Mr. LAMB. The printer's number I have before me, the second printer's number, is 2099 and it does not contain the amendments that I offered.

The SPEAKER. When were the amendments offered?

Mr. LAMB. The amendments were offered last week, Mr. Speaker, by myself and Mr. Donaldson.

Mr. TOMPKINS. The History does not indicate an amendment, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The record does not so show.

Mr. TOMPKINS. The gentleman is not confusing this with House bill 1604 which was amended?

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, could I move that the bill be passed over temporarily?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest that the bill be passed over temporarily, and, if there are any corrections to be made in the record, they can be made. The bill was reconsidered, placed on the postponed calendar, but there is no record of amendments.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be returned to the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of Senate bill No. 239, entitled:

An Act amending the act of August 9, 1955 (P. L. 323), entitled "The County Code," authorizing the closing of court houses and other county offices on Saturdays in counties of the third class.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill 626, entitled:

An Act amending the "Liquor Code," approved April 12, 1951 (P. L. 90), authorizing the transfer of club licenses from one municipality to another under certain conditions.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, on the bill, very briefly: the bill provides for a transfer of a club license from one municipality to another within the same county. There has been a great deal of misconception about this measure, and I would submit to the membership of the House that by no stretch of the imagination can nor will the quota law be affected in any manner by this piece of legislation.

I would further point out to the membership of the House that we have in many areas a substantial increase in population wherein the quota is closed and in neighboring communities we possibly have a multiple number of club licenses. The bill would merely provide, especially where veterans' organizations are concerned—and I will submit to the House an example that exists in one of the townships in my legislative district. The quota is closed in Franklin Township and there is only one existing club in that township. The retail dispenser licensees are of such a number that there is no opening in the quota. In the neighboring community of Export Borough we have a multiple number of licenses. In Franklin Township we have an Amvets unit of over 1,000 in membership, and they cannot under present statutes procure a license for operating their so-called second home, which would be the social part of the veterans' organization establishment.

This bill would provide that they could buy a club license from a group in Export Borough and move it across the line into Franklin Township.

I do not know how the opponents of this measure can take the position and indicate that this would open up the quota, for this particular reason: It is a known fact that the Liquor Control Board regulations, just so long as there is an opening, as the ratio of retail dispensers' licenses affect the quota in a given municipality, just so long as there is an opening, then the Liquor Control Board would issue as many as five, six, seven or eight, whatever number of applications they have for club licenses. They do not take the club licenses into consideration for the quota. They would issue any number just so long as the retail dispensers' licenses did not have that quota shut off.

I think the bill is a very meritorious bill. I think, too, that it enables the removal of a club in an area where there is too great a number of clubs, and it does render a very good service to those areas where a club establishment is necessary for the social life of a group of people who have associated themselves.

I respectfully submit to this House that if there is any member who can show me how this would open up the quota or disturb in any way these acts—I cannot see it. For instance, in Philadelphia it is possible to transfer clubs from one area to another because it is one municipality, but in other counties we have a multiple number of municipalities and, because of today's requirements for the associated memberships of legitimate club organizations, we can render a service by passing this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky, consent to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PETROSKY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, with the leave of the House, I would like to interrogate the gentleman concerning the ensuing bill, House bill 627. Are not 626 and 627 companion bills?

Mr. PETROSKY. They are not.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is well acquainted with the procedure. He cannot couple this bill with another bill.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I believe we have relaxed the liquor laws sufficiently in the State of Pennsylvania and there is no demand nor need to transfer liquor licenses from one area of a county to another. I predict, if we relax it in this feature, there will be a subsequent relaxation in an ensuing bill. I think the Liquor Control Board has sufficient problems without having the laws modified in that respect.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PETROSKY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, there is one question that is not clear to me and that is, does this permit the transfer to a municipality that may be dry by reason of local option?

Mr. PETROSKY. It does not.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Where is the limitation to that effect in the bill?

Mr. PETROSKY. The limitation on that is contained in the Liquor Code, in another section of the Liquor Code. There is no question in my mind of this and, I believe, the gentleman must recognize that in any municipality which legally has outlawed the sale of liquor, certainly, the discretion of the board would be used in this area to deny the transfer of a license there, and they would, within the statute that so prohibits.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I thank the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I believe that this is a fair bill and I do not think it was pointed out that there are cases where clubs have been forced to move their quarters due to highways being constructed, due to redevelopment of areas that are being torn down and rebuilt into apartments, parking lots and things like that. This would permit the club to move from one area to another.

Also, I notice that it would seem that all of the promotion of this bill has come from the other side of the aisle and it would appear that all the opposition has come from this side of the aisle. It is not a partisan affair. I am for the bill and respectfully suggest to the members on both sides of the aisle that they vote for it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 738, entitled:

An Act providing that no township of the second class or any part thereof shall be annexed by any city borough or township without the consent of the electors of the entire township and prescribing the manner of commencing annexation proceedings.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, just so the membership of the House is fully conversant with the impact of this particular bill, I would suggest that if this bill becomes law it will have the effect of stopping all annexation. Now, there may be members who are in favor of this.

It seems to me that, with the growth of our communities, annexation by and large is a desirable thing. I think, however, the membership, if they read the bill closely, will see that if the question of annexation may be submitted to the electorate of the entire township from which the portion is to be annexed, that this will in fact have the effect of stopping annexation to boroughs and to cities. I think this is a bad law for our Commonwealth. I think that these areas, and most of them are built-up suburbs, should have the free right of determination as to whether they want to become part of the adjacent boroughs or cities. I think, therefore, that the membership on both sides of the House should vote against this legislation.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Flynn.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, contrary to the remarks made by the gentleman from York County, this bill would not stop all further or future annexation. All it does in fact would be to give townships affected by it the same right already given to townships of the first class. Therefore, before any portion of a township can be annexed, a vote must be taken by the entire population of the township. It is the same position that prevails in first class townships right now and what we are after is to have the same situation apply to second class townships.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Gross.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, in my district there are 13 second class townships and there are 12 boroughs. I live in a second class township right outside a borough. We are being considered to be annexed to a borough. I ask every member of this House to vote for this bill, because I can never figure why the cream of a second class township should be taken out without the consent of the entire township. We who adjoin these boroughs are the ones who pay the taxes. We are the ones where the development has recently taken place. We are the ones who are paying the taxes in the second class townships, and I cannot see why the cream should be taken out of a second class township without the consent of the entire township. The boroughs and the third class cities have the same right. Why should not a second class township? The first class townships have the same right.

I ask every member of this House to vote for this bill. Thank you.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1448, entitled:

An Act amending the "Milk Control Law," approved April 28, 1937 (P. L. 417), further regulating the sale of milk on farms directly to consumers.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox.

Mr. FOX. Mr. Speaker, I would like to speak on behalf of House bill 1448.

This bill amends the Milk Control Law by adding five words to section 402, whereby farmers selling milk from their own farms directly to consumers would be required to be licensed and abide by the law when they pasteurize the milk. This action is deemed necessary because of the large number of sizeable farm operations that have sprung up across the State wherein the milk is pasteurized, bottled and sold to consumers without any licensing and regulation.

The action called for in this bill was deemed necessary because a large number of sizeable farm operations have sprung up across the State wherein milk is pasteurized, bottled and sold to consumers without licensing or regulation that are placed upon the legitimate milk dealers.

This came about due to an unintentional loophole put in the law in 1941. When the law was first written everyone selling milk had to be licensed. This created an unnecessary hardship on farmers who wanted to make casual sales to their neighbors. Consequently, in 1941 an amendment was added where they could make such casual sales of milk by selling only their own product in the consumer's own container. However, a few years ago a few farmers took advantage of this loophole to set up regular pasteurizing dairy privileges.

Since it has been traditional to permit farmers to sell their own products to the public without regulation and controls, no attempt is being made by this bill to stop such sales. However, we feel that when the farmer goes into pasteurizing the milk, he is actually going into the milk business and for this reason he should be brought under the same regulations as any other milk dealer.

While these farm operations may not be numerous enough to have a sizable effect on the total sales of milk in the Commonwealth, farmers and dealers in certain areas where these operations are prominent are being drastically affected.

The majority of the licensed milk dealers in Pennsylvania are smaller than many of the unregulated farm operations. There are more than 300 licensees, small farmers who peddle their own milk, selling less than 500 quarts a day, who are controlled and do pay license fees. One of the unregulated operators recently announced he is selling 300 gallons or 1,200 quarts a day. Others are also sizable.

This bill will not put these people out of business. If this bill is passed, it will then become the duty of the Milk Control Commission to hold public hearings and to determine what the proper price for milk sold in this type of operation should be. It might possibly be the same price they are now charging, it might be somewhat different, but in any case they would be licensed and they would be required to charge what the Commission deemed a fair price for such operation. They could not indiscriminately cut prices against licensed milk dealers, thus hurting the milk dealers and the farmers who produce for them.

I have a clipping here from the "Pennsylvania Farmer" that gives a picture of what one of these farm operations is like. I am going to read two or three sentences from it:

He has expanded his jug milk operation to some 300 gallons daily. A new addition to his existing building also made room for a display case full of home-grown or locally-grown chicken, beef and pork. In addition, he retails butter, eggs and cheese. It was interesting to note that a sideline of pastry goods, bread, ice cream and cakes more than covers the salary of the salesroom help. Thus the sideline helps to carry the overhead in the dairy sales.

In this type of operation, Mr. Speaker, the milk is being used as a leader to sell the other products. And how does this affect small, light milk dealers and the farmers who produce for them?

We do not need to worry about the large milk dealers. They can absorb these losses without much damage, but it is the small dealers and the producers producing for them who are drastically affected.

I would like to read a letter here from the Cherry Lane Dairy in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania. It reads as follows:

I am one of 500 licensed milk dealers in Pennsylvania who sells less than 1,000 quarts of retail milk a day. There is a farm jug place 1½ miles from our plant, and another 5 miles from our dairy. In the past 4 years we have lost 33 per cent of our business to these cut-price jug operations.

We have six farmers supplying all of our milk. The amount of business that we have lost to the cut-price farm jug operators is costing each one of our farmers $7 a day, or based on a 30-day month, $210 per month. Our producers are not in a convenient location where they can sell milk directly from the farm in gallon jugs.

It is certainly not fair to the majority of the farmers, or a dealer who must buy a license and comply with price regulations, to have this unfair competition from the farm jug operator who is selling processed milk, manufacturing ice cream, selling cottage cheese, butter, chocolate milk and orange.

Very truly yours,

Now, Mr. Speaker, I believe that it is entirely unfair for us to require parts of an industry to be licensed and then to permit other parts to compete freely with them, completely unlicensed and completely unregulated in such a way that they are bringing damage, irreparable damage, to the business of those who are licensed.

If we are going to license the people in the milk business, we should license all of the people in the milk business.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Downs.

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this bill because I believe that farmers have the inherent right to sell their own farm products, such as, milk, eggs, meat, vegetables, and fruit without any limitations other than health regulations to protect the general public.

The present law is adequate; a farmer selling his own produced milk that is processed on his farm and sold in consumer-owned containers is exempt from the Milk Control Act. This bill, in my estimation, only strengthens the Milk Control Commission and takes away the competition for the milk dealers.

The milk dealers are evidently afraid of competition. They will use the dairy farmer to obtain their objectives. The main objective of a milk dealer is to have all milk sold in Pennsylvania priced by the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission. To bring farmers selling milk at their farm under the commission eliminates the only competition existing in the milk business in Pennsylvania.

The dealers are also saying that if a farmer sells milk on his farm that this lowers the class 1 utilization of other farmers. This is like saying that there is one grocery store in my town and because a second one is being built some sales will be lost in the first store, therefore, the second store should not be built.

The milk dealers are also saying that because a farmer lives in a favorable location to sell milk directly to the consumer that he should not be permitted to do so because the farmer living on a back road does not have the same opportunity. Such reasoning is a little socialistic in my estimation.

A farmer who lives in a position to market milk directly is generally on a paved road or a main highway, and his taxes are higher, his land is more expensive and his operating costs are greater.

If any of you have ever been to where this milk is being sold on these farms, to the actual farm, you will see that the party who comes out there is usually a lady with a car full of kids. This is the only opportunity that the poor consumer has for buying milk at a cheaper price.

I would respectfully ask all members of this General Assembly to vote against this bill. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox, who said that this bill only adds five words to the act is correct. However, those five words are the following: "has not been pasteurized and". What this means is that these retail farm outlets for milk which have been processing and pasteurizing their own milk for retail sales will henceforth, No. 1, have to be licensed, and No. 2, their price will be regulated.

In Bucks County I know of at least two operations where the consumer, the housewife, if she so desires, can go to the farm and purchase a gallon, which is four quarts of milk, for seventy-five cents. I think the retail delivered price is twenty-six cents a quart. This is a savings which makes sense to me because the retail farm outlet does not have the delivery expense, the truck, the labor involved. I would hate to see the housewives of Pennsylvania deprived of this, and from what I understand this is not a matter which the dairy farmers themselves support, but it is merely legislation aimed at benefiting the middleman, the processor of milk. I think that this is a bad step, a step backward, and I hope that we can defeat this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair again recognizes the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox.

Mr. FOX. Mr. Speaker, I feel that I must answer two things that the gentleman from Bucks has said. First, it is true that these farm operators would have to come under the price regulations of the Milk Control Commission. I believe that I pointed that out in my previous remarks, but perhaps the gentleman did not hear me. The fact is that they would not have to charge the same price that milk is being sold at the doorstep for. Each type of operation is given a price by the Milk Control Commission after public hearings. Since there is no price for this type of operation now, if this bill is passed it will be necessary for the commission to hold hearings and decide what price should be charged. If the price in Bucks County now is 75 cents, it might well be 75 cents after those hearings. However, they would have to charge that price, they could not indiscriminately cut the price to the detriment of the licensed milk dealers.

The other thing that I feel I must answer is the allegation that the dairy farmers are not being adversely affected, that it is only a matter of adverse effect to the milk dealers. Naturally, if a milk dealer loses his sales he is being adversely affected. But any farmer who produces milk for a milk dealer is being adversely affected every time that milk dealer loses part of his business. If a milk dealer loses 50 percent of his sales, every producer sending milk to him will lose 50 percent of his class 1 sales. Class 1 is the type of milk that goes into the bottle and on which he makes a profit. Therefore, every producer producing for a dealer is hurt in direct proportion to the extent that the dealer is hurt.

I would like to repeat my former beliefs that if we are going to regulate part of the industry, if we are going to demand that certain parts of it be licensed, we should not then permit a certain other segment of the industry to go completely uncontrolled and unlicensed to the detriment of those that we license. I know of no other field of licensing, professional or any other kind, where we permit unlicensed competition to gradually throw out those whom we are licensing. I thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I urge everyone to vote for this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I would like to briefly interrogate the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FOX. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman to say that the Milk Control Commission will determine the price which these farmer producers will charge on their premises for the sale of this milk? Is that correct?

Mr. FOX. That is true if this bill is passed.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman informed and can he tell us whether or not the commission will take into consideration, at such time as it holds the public hearings which the gentleman mentioned, will he tell us whether the commission will take into consideration the economic effect of such competition on current processes?

Mr. FOX. I do not believe, Mr. Speaker, if I understand the question correctly, that the commission would take into consideration what effect this would have on the other milk dealers. As far as I know, the only information that they would take into consideration would be the factors relating to the cost of production and processing. I do not believe the question of how it relates to someone else would be considered in that hearing.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I was going to ask the gentleman whether or not the present distribution on the premises does not constitute free and open competition in setting the prices in that area.

Mr. FOX. Will the gentleman please repeat that? I could not hear him.

Mr. SCHAAF. I asked the gentleman whether or not the present system of selling milk on the premises of the producer does not constitute free and open competition in the sale of milk in that area?

Mr. FOX. I would hardly consider it free and open competition when those consumers competing are restricted by law from offering their product at a competitive price. There is no competition, for example, if the licensed dealer is required by law to sell his product for 26 cents, and someone is underselling him. It is not real competition; it is just a matter of two different prices.

Mr. SCHAAF. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, and I would like to make a very short statement on this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I suggest that this bill and this debate here this afternoon points up one additional reason why we as a General Assembly should take a comprehensive look at the Milk Control Law of 1937. I thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Down.

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, they are talking about the Milk Control Commission controlling the price and Mr. Fox made the statement that it might be 75 cents. In my opinion what they are trying to do in this case is to regulate the price to where it is not advantageous for the person to go to the farms to pick it up. Actually, the milk dealers are just trying to eliminate the competition. I would like to interrogate Mr. Fox.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FOX. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman a milk dealer?

Mr. FOX. Yes, I am.

Mr. DOWN. Does the gentleman, as a milk dealer, believe in retail prices by the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission? Yes, or no?

Mr. FOX. Well, Mr. Speaker . . .

Mr. DOWN. Yes, or no?

Mr. FOX. I will answer the question in whatever way I prefer. That is a question that is hard to answer yes or no. I would say, in general I am in sympathy with what the Milk Control Commission is trying to do.

Mr. DOWN. Do you favor the retail prices of the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission?

Mr. FOX. Well, I am going to say that the questions are not pertinent to the bill before us, but I will not refuse to answer. I will say yes.

Mr. DOWN. Thank you very much. If this bill passes there is no question it will help you. It will guarantee that you will have no competition and, without retail pricing, all dealers were guaranteed a minimum price at which they would sell their products and all dealers would sell at the same price. I believe that all the members of the House should vote against this bill.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox, rise?

Mr. FOX. To make one brief comment. The gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Down, said if this bill would pass it would help me. That is absolutely untrue. There are none of these operations in my county or anywhere within the district where our business operates. I do, however, have cognizance of the effect of these operations on other licensed dealers and I am aware of the damage they are doing to these people, but personally I have nothing, absolutely nothing whatsoever, to gain from this bill and I resent very much the implication that I do.

As far as the comment about competition, the milk industry is a very competitive industry. The mere fact that price is not a factor of competition does not mean that competition is eliminated.

I thank you, Mr. Speaker, for the opportunity to speak again.

Mr. FOOR. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if in this debate we have not tended to forget the milk producer. I have been contacted by dairymen in my county asking me to support this bill because they feel that if this sale of jug milk continues it will harm them as producers of milk. It is definitely an advantage to the milk producer who lives on a hard-surface road or main artery to be able to sell his milk in this area. It is going to be detrimental to the farmer who is back in the rural area who produces most of our milk because his market will be taken from him. I believe already in this jug industry there has been price cutting and if that continues it will mean the sale of more and more of this milk and it will harm our milk producers who are not on the main roads.

I would like to ask all the members to vote for this bill.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I believe there have been some inferences here that may lead to the wrong conclusions. The inference in some statements made here is that this bill would help the now-licensed milk dealers and not the farmer. That is an incorrect inference. The fact is that when the control commission holds a hearing they take testimony from the dealers and the producers and the consumers to determine what the price should be and where that business has been taken away from him and that means that some farmer got less milk in class I. Therefore he gets less money for his milk.

The wrong opinion seems to be scattered here that this is a milk-dealers' bill. It is not. This is simply a bill to regulate all the industry and not only part of it. I am surprised to see the opinion of many people here who have talked on various bills in the past, talking about protecting a certain group, or a certain industry and upgrading their business, and here they want to favor a bill that tears it down. The business is being regulated. The dealer is allowed to put any of his costs into the cost of distribution and the price is derived as a result of the information given at those hearings. The basis of the price is generally set on class I and those other classes of milk are at a lower price. Therefore, when a dealer loses any of his class I sales it automatically throws the loss onto the producer from whom he is buying.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I am a little confused about the bill and I would like to ask the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox, several questions.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FOX. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, under the law today is a farmer who produces his own milk subject to price control if he sells it from his farm?

Mr. FOX. I think I heard the question. I believe it was that he is subject to the price control if he sells at his own farm?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Is he subject today under the present law?

Mr. FOX. If he sells all of his products at his own farm he is not subject. If he sells a part of his products through the usual channels of home delivery or stores, then he is subject.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Then is the purpose of this bill to make it certain that a farmer who sells a part of his products from his farm would then be subject to control under the bill? That is the purpose, is it not, to expand the prices?

Mr. FOX. The purpose of the bill is to assure that every person who goes into the milk business to the extent that he puts in pasteurizing equipment, which is quite expensive—when he goes into the business to that extent that he would have to be licensed whether he sold it from his own farm or otherwise.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Under this particular amendment, the only four words inserted in the bill are "has not been pasteurized." Does this not mean that a person who sells raw milk will be exempt from the bill and will not be subject to price control? Is that correct?

Mr. FOX. That is correct if he sells only at the farm.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Does this not mean that people who, because of a lack of finances, may have a choice between pasteurized milk from the farmer at a higher price and raw milk at a lower price and may purchase the raw milk at a lower price?

Mr. FOX. It does not necessarily mean that, Mr. Speaker. There are many, many farmers in each of our counties who could presently sell raw milk to these people if that is what they want. This bill is not going to make raw milk any more readily available than it is today.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, I think I am right in my analysis of this bill. Of course, when you study a milk control bill you get very confused. It appears that when you pass this bill that pasteurized milk sold from a farm will be subject to the milk control law, which it is not today, to my knowledge, then the farmer who does not want to have a pasteurizing machine will elect to sell raw milk from his own premises.

I think it is opening the door to two features which are unsound. First, we are driving more people into price control, and, secondly, we are opening the door to the sale of more raw milk because of financial reasons. For that reason I think we should oppose the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION SERIAL NO. 108

The clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 18, 1961.

Whereas, On January 8, 1961 a prison break was attempted by some of the inmates at the penal institution known as The Eastern State Correctional Institution located in the City of Philadelphia. This outbreak was quelled. This prison is one hundred and thirty years old. It houses 991 prisoners of which 177 are maximum security cases, consisting of those who are serving life sentences, awaiting execution and others who require the utmost in security measures.

The facilities of this penal institution are outmoded and woefully lacking in the equipment and necessary facilities in taking care of inmates of this type. It also has become apparent to many that an institution of this kind should not be located in the heart of a residential section as it now is in the City of Philadelphia. There has been widespread fear of the residents who reside around the area where this institution is located.

It is the sense of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that a study should be made by the Joint State Government Commission of the facilities and security measures surrounding this institution, as well as the Western State Correctional Institution, also a study of removal of all institutions from the Cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to a place better located for institutions of this kind; therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission determine and recommend suitable sites to which the Western and Eastern State Correctional Institutions may be moved; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission determine and recommend the type of institution that should be built in order to accommodate the inmates of Western and Eastern State Correctional Institutions; and be it further

Resolved, That in developing the study herein provided for, the Joint State Government Commission give particular attention to the possible location of either or both of said Eastern and Western Correctional Institutions in a county in northern Pennsylvania wherein are located large tracts of unoccupied lands already owned by the Commonwealth; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission make a report of its studies and recommendations to the General Assembly by April 15, 1961.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

Mr. COMER and Mrs. PASHLEY offered the following amendments.

Amend Third paragraph of preamble, line 6 by striking out "Cities of Philadelphia and" and inserting: City of Philadelphia
Amend Resolution by inserting between third and fourth "Resolved clause"

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission determine the advisability of creating more forestry camps, minimum security low cost farm colonies and a study and research center that would provide short and long term active rehabilitative treatment of mentally disturbed prisoners and provide us with badly needed information on the causes and motivations of these criminal minds. It should also consider the recommendation of the Pennsylvania Prison Society Executive Committee of March 9, 1961 when it said: "We strongly urge that long-range plans for expansion of the institutional facilities of the Bureau of Correction be developed on the basis of careful research and study guided by the recommendations of the Bureau of Correction and other persons who are competent to advise in such matters;" and be it further

Amend last resolution, line 3 by striking out "April 15, 1961" and inserting: January 15, 1962

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the resolution as amended lie over for printing.

BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS PASSED OVER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request that all other bills and resolutions on today's calendar not acted upon be passed over.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair hears no objection.

No. 75

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, JULY 12, 1961

The Senate met at 10:30 a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE A. SMITH, Pastor of Saint Paul's United Church of Christ, Fort Washington, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Eternal God, Father of us all, in this morning hour we once again look to Thee for guidance. Thou art the Life of all that lives, the Strength of the weak, and the Hope of the despairing. For Thee, no dawn rises and no evening sets. Lift up Thy countenance upon us and illumine our whole being.

Make us conscious of our limited strength and vision and help us to rely on Thy strength and power. Open our eyes and minds and hearts that we may catch more than a mere glimpse of Thee. Rather, may Thy being flood our inmost self to quicken and to arouse.

Forgive us for the times we have misused Thy good gifts, the opportunities neglected, the half-truths accepted, the superficial judgements meted out, the cynical attitudes nourished. Pardon in us the unkind word, the unsympathetic heart, the false ambition, and every unworthy purpose which may have ruled our life. May the white light of Thy truth renew and cleanse us, O Lord, and support us always as we seek the path of righteousness and noble endeavor.

May our actions today bring glory to our Commonwealth and to us all, and may justice and mercy abound now and always. In the name of Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. LANE and Mr. WEINER, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILL OVER IN ORDER TEMPORARILY

SB 672—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that Senate bill No. 672, Printer's No. 950, go over in its order temporarily.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner, as to his intentions on Senate bill No. 672.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, has requested that the bill go over in order temporarily.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I wanted to know what the word "temporarily" meant.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not know whether the gentleman will accept the definitions given by Mr. Webster or Funk and Wagnall, but whichever one he—

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I would rather accept Senator Weiner's definition.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, Senator Weiner, according to Funk and Wagnall and Webster, means that we are awaiting departmental amendments to come over. I hope they will be here before we have finished the Calendar in order for me to appropriately amend this measure and move it along. At the same time, I want to move House bill No. 1595, which is also on the Calendar.

Mr. BELL. I think the Presiding Officer concurs that that is a much better explanation than what Webster would give.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is consistent with what Webster said and we shall continue with the order of business.

There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order temporarily.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 688 and 690—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that Senate bill No. 688 and Senate bill No. 690 go over in their order since they are part of the education package.

ANNOUNCEMENT CONCERNING PUBLIC HEARINGS BEFORE COMMITTEE ON LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, the Committee on Local Government is holding Public Hearings on House Bill No. 1438 and House Bill No. 1221. We have promised the proponents and the opponents a three-hour hearing every day. We have one-half hour to go in order to keep our commitment.

I, therefore, called a recess so we could all vote on these measures. Now, since we are about to consider the Second Reading Calendar, I would like to ask the Members of the Local Government Committee to come down and complete the last half-hour of today's hearing.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Before you leave, gentlemen, if any Members of the Committee on Local Government are acting as secretaries to various committees, please make your committee reports before you leave.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I listened to the request made by Senator Haluska. I wish Senator Haluska would listen to what I am going to say.

I have listened to the request made by Senator Haluska that the Local Government Committee continue its public hearing. With that, Mr. President, I am in perfect accord. However, I rather question the propriety of holding a public hearing while the Senate is in Session. Therefore, I would suggest that we take a recess for a half-hour in order to let the gentleman conclude his public hearing and then come back into Session.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to add a suggestion to the one just made. I would suggest that we continue on here for perhaps a half an hour. Then I think the gentleman will have the rest of the time to hold his hearing. We should be able to get through the Calendar, and thereafter those of us who are needed here can remain and the other Members can go down to the hearing, if they would like to.

If the Chairman of the Committee on Local Government will ask that they have a recess of his own hearing, possibly for one-half hour, we should be able to conclude our business here by that time.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I certainly have no objection. I would like to have the Members come down, but I am fearful that they may go home. It is important that they stay. We have one-half hour more to go and I certainly will go along with the suggestion. However, I do ask the Members of that Committee to be kind enough to report to the Committee Hearing after the Session is over.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Accordingly, the request of Senator Haluska has been modified to the effect that after the Session is over today, the Members will immediately proceed to the Senate Caucus Room, on the first floor, to continue with the Local Government Public Hearing.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. MAHADY, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Law and Order, reported, as committed, SB 758 and HB 161; as amended, HB 1083.

RESOLUTION REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. MAHADY, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Law and Order, reported, without amendment, Senate Resolution, Serial No. 82, entitled:

Senate Committee to Examine Secret Agreement Prohibiting Students from Transferring from one University or Professional School to Another

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. HAYS, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Education, reported, as committed, SB 695, 769, 806, 830 and HB 616.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. SILVERT and PROPERT, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 860, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 15, 1933 (P. L. 624), entitled, as amended, "Banking Code," further providing for authorized investments and limitations on loans.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

The House met at 11 a. m., e. s. t.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

Gracious Father, as we reflect upon the grandeur which is ours and the heritage we share, we are deeply thankful for the fact that we are a part of the United States of America. However, we are keenly aware that as the mantle of yesterday falls upon each one of us we have the grave responsibility of so building for tomorrow that the glory of this day may ever be preserved. So, we humbly pray for Thy special blessing upon these servants of Thine in the hope that as they legislate they may ever be conscious of the opportunity they face in shaping the destiny of this Keystone State and the people therein: through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Tuesday, July 11, 1961, will be postponed until printed.

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. Tompkins for Mr. ESHLEMAN for today to attend funeral.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Speaker of the House desires to address the House at this stage in our proceedings and will address the House from the Chair.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR.

ADDRESS BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to commit a major project into the keeping of the members of this House, none other than the rehabilitation, rejuvenation and modernization of our committee-room setup.

I presume that every member of this House has visited the quarters in which the House Appropriations Committee functions. We will not comment upon the esthetic qualities of that particular setup, but simply the allocation of floor space. The chairman of that committee has a year-around private office and year-around secretarial help; and there is an ante-room for the greeting of visitors. Then there is another room large enough for committee hearings, large enough for committee meetings, a place where the members of the committee have a habitation and a home, a place where there could be compiled statistics for the use of the members of that committee, a special library dealing with matters that come before the committee.

There are other major committees that should be served in similar fashion. Every chairman of every major committee should have a private office, year-around. He should have a year-around secretarial staff, and there should be at the disposal of his committee as much space for use of the committee and for committee hearings as one committee now enjoys.

We have all been impressed with the functioning of the Appropriations Committee. It has done a creditable job. It has the facilities with which to work.

Our Ways and Means Committee should have similar quarters and a technical staff. We are facing a difficult future. Where are we going to develop our fiscal plans? Are we going to have a committee that has the room and the facilities with which to function and which can consider fully the fiscal suggestions emanating from executive quarters?

Do we want to have a functioning Ways and Means Committee or abolish it? Because if fiscal plans come to us ready-made, untouched by the Ways and Means Committee, we might just as well have one member on the Ways and Means Committee to simply transmit executive suggestions.

Now let us consider our Education Committee. A group of very able people adequately staffed spent a year collaborating on an educational program for the State—one year. And we meet and we expect the Committee on Education to function properly, not armed with a technical staff. I doubt if it has adequate stenographic assistance; I doubt if it has adequate room in which to operate; I doubt if it has adequate facilities in which to hear the people who may have pertinent suggestions to make. One of the mistakes, I think, that we have made is that we have not in recent sessions afforded the facilities for public expression of views. We have passed many a bill that, had its weaknesses been revealed at public hearings, the bill would not have passed.

Now, let us consider our State Government Committee to which we have sent scores and scores of bills. The Chair confesses he is unacquainted with the facilities at the disposal of the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee—but if any committee of the House needs an adequate staff and adequate room in which to operate it is that committee.

Now the chairman of a major committee should have such a staff that, when the legislature meets Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, it would be on the job continually; then he would have a staff to which he could commit the accumulation of bills and he could return to his place of residence and devote a couple of days to his private business and come back the next Monday and his staff would have laid out the work that should be done. Then these major committees would have in their committee rooms a digest of every bill before the committee and they would have an accumulation of pro and con literature of which the members receive quantities, but I doubt if they can find it in any one particular place.

That is why I have proposed in all seriousness that at the termination of this particular session we organize a number of groups. I am suggesting two members of this House plus a newspaper man, if he can get leave of absence, and we can send one group to Albany and we will find out the facilities that the members of the General Assembly at Albany have as individuals, conference rooms where they can meet their constituents, restaurant accommodations exceeding ours, and functioning offices for every committee chairman. I say that as far as our committee setup is concerned, we are back in the horse and buggy days and we think we are away out in the lead.

Then we can send somebody to Columbus, Ohio, we can send somebody to Springfield. Now it so happens, like the rest of you, I have received those expense checks and I do not need them, fortunately, and which I have laid aside. I have already accumulated $2,000 carefully in the bank and if the checks keep coming, I will have $3,000. I think we have made a working arrangement with the Joint State Government Commission so it will join us in financing these expeditions of discovery, and you will find that in many, many places the members of the respective Houses are given considerations that we have not been afforded in Pennsylvania. In some States, of course, it is different. We are away ahead of North Carolina and South Carolina, but in the facilities for members we are not up to Louisiana. We are a mile behind Texas, and they have a better setup for the members in Topeka, and I know they have in New York.

These expeditions will go out and study the schedule of compensation from all sources; they will study the facilities afforded to the members; they will study the privileges accorded to members; and they will study the setup of the members in relation to the General Assembly, the departments of the State government and the executive.

Now, as a result of the work that should be done, we would then be in a position to select various groups. We will have a House and Senate study group, a group to study space allocation. There has been made under the direction of the executive a space study. Now a space study should be followed with some idea as to space allocation. So far it happens that this particular committee that has been labeled the "Watch Dog Committee" is not functioning. It has not been able to find office space.

Now we know that a few years ago there were a lot of bureaus that were scattered around town. They have been brought up on Capitol Hill. Temporarily they could be scattered back downtown and facilities made available for the members of this House.

Now I want you to understand my position; we do not want to demand of the Executive, we do not want to get on our knees to the Executive, but we want to be able to go in and talk to the gentleman on an equal-equal basis, not as petitioners, not as an arrogant branch of the State government, but as equals. We cannot do that now; we just cannot do that.

Now I had hoped some years ago that we would be further along with these things than we are now, and I would like to see you all get busy; I would like to see the thing brought to a head. I would like to see you slowly evolve a space-utilization plan. It is not my expectation to be in the House at the next session, and I would very much like, before I bow out of the legislative scene, to see that this House provides itself with adequate quarters.

Just take your floor leaders. Our Democratic floor leader works in a cubby hole. We are crowded and we are understaffed.

When we were in the minority I saw to it that the minority leader, as far as floor space was concerned, was pretty well situated, so darned well situated that when I became Speaker I did not want to move down, but the caucus had a different mind. And I also very thoughtfully provided for the former speaker a nice office for him—I might have landed there myself.

You are placing unbearable burdens upon your floor leaders and upon your committee chairmen and it just is not within the strength of these men to bear the burdens that they have to bear under the circumstances in which they find themselves.

And so, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I commit these matters into your keeping. I have felt sometimes that you are a bit lethargic, that you maybe, for some reason or other, did not want to live up to your opportunities, but if we are to have increasingly sound government—after all, gentlemen, you will not find the ultimate protection of the people in local political organizations; you will not find the ultimate protection of the people in departments; you will not find the ultimate protection of the people in executives; you will find the ultimate protection of the people in forums such as this.

I implore you to prepare, be ready, to take advantage of the great opportunities that constantly confront Pennsylvania's legislature and equip yourselves for effective action.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to say that the Speaker has made a stirring address about a problem that I am sure faces this legislature as well as many others. I have called to the attention of the Chair a listing of the appropriations made by the 1961 session of the New York State Legislature. I will not worry you with the figures, but I would like to give you the total of the appropriations that have been assigned by the New York Legislature for the year 1961 to their committee study and you will be amazed to find that grand total is over $3,903,000 for the use of their respective committees. Yet on one item alone, one that is facing this legislature today, study of reapportionment, the joint committee of the New York State Legislature has been appropriated the grand sum of $239,764. We are trying to do the job in Pennsylvania with our standing committees without any proper financing. I think this particular list of appropriations should be prepared, Mr. Polen, by your committee and be given to every member of this legislature.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Maxwell.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I think that our present Speaker, Mr. Andrews, has done more to upgrade this legislature, he has done more for each and every member of this House, than all the Speakers combined.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to say that he is sure the gentleman from Cambria has not performed this task for any great glory or praise, but purely and simply for his love for the legislature and I am sure the Speaker would very much appreciate the gentleman not making such a speech from the floor.

Mr. MAXWELL. You do not want me to continue, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. At the wish of the Speaker of the House, I am requesting that he do not.

Mr. MAXWELL. May I say one more word?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. MAXWELL. I was only going to suggest that in recognition of his efforts this House give him a rising vote of thanks. That was all.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thinks that would be in order.

(A rising vote ensued)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Washington desire to be recognized?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, was it my understanding that you would like prepared for the membership a copy of the information that I prepared for the Speaker?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The present occupant of the Chair thinks it would be a very valuable thing for all the members of the House and the press to receive a copy.

Mr. POLEN. I shall be glad to do so, Mr. Speaker.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 181, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1937 (P. L. 2017), entitled "County Institution District Law," authorizing the assessment and collection of annual per capita taxes on individuals, limiting the levy and collection of such taxes and taxes on trades, occupations and professions to be abolished.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 191, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), entitled "The Vehicle Code," including additional buses within the provisions relating to school buses, further providing for the operation of school buses and lights located thereon and providing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Merry.

Mr. MERRY. Mr. Speaker, I want to talk against Senate bill 191.

I do not like to belabor the House with too much talk, and yet I do not know how to get the point over without explaining the thing fully.

This bill would upset the school-bus business both for the contractors and the schools more than anyone in this House realizes who would look at the bill on his desk. When I first saw the bill, it was drawn to my attention by one of the members of the Motor Vehicle Committee, and he wondered what I thought about it. I did not discover myself how far-reaching the things in this bill would be.

To start in with the first part of the bill, if you want to follow me through on it, the first thing it starts to change is to eliminate the grandfather clause on the four lights that we agreed to put on in 1959. The reason we agreed to put them on at that time was because the manufacturers were furnishing the buses with alternating lights on both front and rear, and the school boards and contractors, according to our law at that time, had to remove one of the front lights and one of the rear lights, in order to get it past the school-bus inspection.

Four years ago we passed an adequate law for one real bright, flashing light on the front and on the rear of the bus, and we thought we had the job well done, we had a good light and it could be seen. The only reason we changed it in 1959 was on account of the fact that they came in that way.

This bill seeks to eliminate the grandfather clause in there. It says that all of the old buses will have to be rewired and the four lights put on all of the old ones, not just the new ones that come from the factory. As near as we can figure, that would cost $100 per bus. I own a few buses and I could stand the small amount for those that I own, but there are 8,000, or more, school buses in the State. Probably a little over half of them belong to school districts. That would mean, at the very least, one-half million dollars. That is a sizeable reason right there for turning down this legislation. To go further in the bill, we would have to reroute all of the school routes that run along four-lane highways, because this bill says that you cannot pick up a child who would have to cross a four-lane highway. I think the school boards would have a lot of fun with that one.

Then we go further on in this bill. We say that all of the common carriers who are trying to make a living and get an extra school route during the day would have to put on all of this lighting system. Up until now they have had a good safety record. Now we want them to spend $125 on each bus and put these lights on them in order to run at maybe 3 o'clock in the afternoon where they are hauling school children exclusively. Is that being fair to our common carrier buses?

Again, according to this bill, they could not discharge a passenger only where there is a curb or a sidewalk. If they had another child on who went beyond a curb or a sidewalk it would be illegal for them to discharge that passenger.

To go further into the bill, they bracket out the place in the bill where we would pass the bus at 15 miles an hour, they take that all out, and say that you can pass a bus that is unloading children in an unloading zone at 25 miles an hour. I do not think I want to see that done.

Then they go on to say that the school-bus driver must put on his flashing lights 200 to 250 feet before he stops to pick up the school children. These lights ordinarily go on when you open the door, so is he going to crack the door or is he going to reach over to the side of the bus and push the switch and hold onto that for 200 or 250 feet before he stops? Why is it necessary, at least on a two-lane road, when he flashes his bright lights? People can see a great big school bus, and they certainly know what he is out on the road to do. He could be fined $25 if he is not a good enough judge of 200 to 250 feet. In that area he must light these lights on the back of the bus. Are we going to get too many school-bus drivers who would want to take a job like that where they are letting themselves liable for a $25 fine?

Then, there is also this in the bill—this is really a good one—if the school-bus driver forgets to turn on his flashing lights, you may pass that bus at 25 miles an hour. Certainly, we do not want anything like that. If the fuse would blow out, or something like that would happen to his lights, between the time he leaves the garage and gets to the school house, you could go right by the bus with him letting children out, at 25 miles an hour.

I do not know whether I have mentioned enough things, or not, for which we should vote this bill down.

But you make the driver responsible again, he must not turn on his red flashing lights if he happens to be driving past a place where there is a curb or a sidewalk. That is bad.

I do not think we want this kind of legislation on the books. I do not feel capable of drawing enough amendments to make it palatable. I ask everyone in this House, on both sides, to vote this bill down. Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the gentleman who has just previously spoken is unduly concerned with school-bus drivers. Certainly this House does not wish to put unfair burdens upon them. However, I would suggest that a close reading of this bill will reveal to the membership of this House that this in fact is not the case. I would venture to say that there were very few members of this House, who knew, prior to the introduction of this legislation—I know I did not—that as of the present time the flashing red lights, which we all have seen and recognized on school buses, need be seen only for a distance of 100 feet. Now, that is less than the length of this chamber, ladies and gentleman. And that is all that they are required to do under present law, as I read this bill. Their flashing red light must be visible for 100 feet.

Now, I ask you whether this is a reasonable warning, particularly, at dusk, in early morning and in times of inclement weather? I suggest that this is not so under the provisions of the bill. We have flashing red lights over here to my right, I think they are lighting flares.

The provisions in this bill that call for 500 feet visibility are entirely proper and consistent with the House's desire to protect the children who ride on these buses.

This is not a voluntary system, granted the parents can take the children to school in cars, but because of our widespread bus transportation system, I think it is incumbent upon this House to do all that we can to insure the safety of those children who ride on these buses.

I think, also, that the section the gentleman referred to, prohibiting the stopping and discharging of passengers, children, on four-lane highways, unless there are streets, unless there are curbs and sidewalks, is eminently reasonable also. We are all familiar with the high speed highways that we have and we are all familiar with the dangers attendant to crossing them. I think it entirely reasonable that, since we require the children to ride these buses because of our method that we now have of distribution of schools and transporting them to and from these schools, we do everything consistent, that is reasonably consistent, to see that these children's lives are safeguarded.

I suggest that if routes may be laid out which force children to cross four-lane highways, expressways, that this is not good and that this legislature should, in fact, pass this particular bill we have before us, to prohibit this.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I would point out to the members that the other sections of the bill, which the gentleman referred to concerning the passing of the school bus, are not inconsistent with present law.

The person who offers himself for employment as a school-bus driver must accept the duties that are pressed upon him. No one has to bid for school-bus contracts. Certainly any expense to which he may be put may well be taken care of in his negotiated contract with the school board, for I think the members are well aware that this act does not take effect until August 1st of next year, not this year, but next year. So any additional cost, any additional expense, may be well taken care of by the individual operators when they negotiate their contracts with the school board for transportation.

I suggest to you that unless you have a penal section in here making the bus drivers subject to a fine if they fail to comply with provisions of the act, then the act is worthless. There is a duty on these people to drive their buses properly. But if we do not put a penalty in, so that if they breach this duty there is some penalty attached, what is the point in having the law in the first place?

I suggest to the members of this House that this is reasonable legislation. It is legislation in the interest of the people of this Commonwealth, and I ask members on both sides of the aisle to vote for it.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Hocker.

Mr. HOCKER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman, Mr. Gailey, if I may, please?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GAILEY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOCKER. Mr. Speaker, part of the gentleman's thinking I am in accord with. However, on page 4, line 11, where it says "a school bus operator when operating on a highway with four (4) or more travelable lanes shall not stop to pick up or discharge pupils who must cross the highway." Now, how would you get those pupils to school?

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, I would assume that there are two sides to every highway and that there are methods of crossing over the highway, either with a cross-over or at intersections. Obviously, if present routes are laid out so that people must cross highways, then under this legislation these routes would have to be revamped. I would suggest, Mr. Speaker, however, that this is not impossible of attainment and, while it may lengthen the route in some occasions, the added safety feature, that these children will not have to cross these highways, far outweighs any temporary inconvenience which may result in the districts or the school-bus drivers in revamping their route.

Mr. HOCKER. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman whether or not he thinks it would be more dangerous. A part of 22 goes through my district. Does the gentleman think it would be more dangerous for those pupils to cross that highway, or whether it would be more dangerous for that bus to be making U-turns on that highly traveled, 60-mile-an-hour road to pick up pupils?

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, I do not see anything that would force a bus driver to make a U-turn on these routes. If we are thinking of four-lane, divided highways obviously he would have to change over at an intersection, but I would suggest, Mr. Speaker, that he both goes to and comes from the school. During one of these courses, he must be passing on one side of the highway or the other. I do not think that unreasonable at all.

Mr. HOCKER. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I do not think that any of us will be criticized for voting against the safety of children when we by legislation are going to force these buses to be making turns such as I have spoken about on these highly-traveled, fast-traveled, 60-mile-an-hour zones. I am afraid of what might happen if that bus would be forced to make a U-turn on that highway to pick up pupils. Therefore, I will have to vote against the bill, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further inform the House concerning some of the statements made by the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

The bill does change the requirement in the law to require lights to be visible for a distance of 500 feet, but at the present time there are no lights on school buses in Pennsylvania that do not meet that requirement. In 1959 the Secretary of Revenue, by authorization, required certain standards for lighting equipment. One was that the lights would be visible as per this particular bill. This bill will not change that provision or regulation in fact. It will change it in the law.

The second is that this is the first time I have heard anyone suggest that this is a safety bill. I spent a week on this bill with the bureau of highway safety. They agree that the bus drivers do an excellent job as far as safety is concerned. They do not say this is a safety bill because it is a matter of uniformity. I can understand the bureaucratic point of view—that uniformity for the sake of uniformity is necessary or desirable—but the fact is, we have present law which would, in the end, in a matter of seven or eight years, not to exceed that, provide for a uniformity of lighting on all buses except those under public utility regulations and some one under public utility regulations.

The gentleman from York is partially correct, the cost that will result from the passage of this bill will be about $500,000. I happen to be a school-bus operator myself. I pass it on to the school board. It will not harm me, personally, but it will harm the school districts of Pennsylvania, the rural districts, at the rate of about $500,000. It serves no purpose except for uniformity. I would request anyone who has any figures, any statistics, providing that it is a matter of necessity for safety to show them. You can check with the highway safety bureau and they will say there have been no accidents for one year, two years, or three years.

Proposing this as a highway safety bill is ridiculous. The bureau itself says it is a matter of uniformity, which, too, is ridiculous. I would ask the members of the House to oppose the bill.

Mr. MERRY. Mr. Speaker, I did ask for recognition, but Mr. Goodrich explained what I intended to about the lights. We presently are using lights that are visible for upwards of 1,000 feet and we are not worrying about that part of the bill. There are so many other things in the bill that are detriments and are going backwards, like increasing the speed at which you can pass a buss if the lights of the bus are not working, and things like that. I think it is a very dangerous bill.

Please, please, vote this bill down.

DEMOCRAT CAUCUS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to ask the respective caucuses to make their plans for this afternoon, but when I do I also am going to inform the House that very likely we will not quit at 6 o'clock tonight. It will be past that hour. I am going to ask for a two and one-half hour recess at this point, of which 30 minutes will be allowed for lunch right now and two hours for caucus. The first hour will be on final passage bills; the other hour will be on the Education Committee's report to the respective caucuses. The caucus will begin promptly at 20 minutes after 2.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that the members bring with them their House calendars when they come to caucus.

Following the minority leader I will make a motion for a two-and-one-half hour recess.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in view of the announcement of the majority leader, we also will go to lunch for one-half hour and caucus for approximately two hours, on the Republican side.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

NOT VOTING—6

Curwood,	Haudenshield,	Mihm,	Walsh,
Eshleman,	Heffner,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 1665, entitled:

An Act amending the "Local Tax Enabling Act," approved June 25, 1947 (P. L. 1145), requiring taxes collected upon the transfer of real property or of any interest in real property to be collected at the county seat.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I rise again in opposition to House bill 1665. This bill originally would have taken the collection of the real estate transfer tax away from the local tax collector and provided that it be collected at the county seat. The bill did not say and does not yet say by whom. However, the bill was defeated when it was run before and has since been amended to apply to the county of Allegheny only.

Mr. Speaker, this is somewhat reminiscent of the old Hitler theory of divide and conquer. It applies only to Allegheny County. I presume Allegheny County has tax collectors. The duty of a tax collector, by his name, is the collection of taxes. Many of these gentlemen are working on salaries. They ran for office on the assumption that they would collect the real estate transfer tax. For many reasons this bill should be opposed. It was debated thoroughly the last time it was before this House. To show that my presentation here is bipartisan, I might say, particularly for the members on the other side of the aisle, that the president of the Pennsylvania Tax Collectors' Association, who is violently opposed to this bill, is a leading Democrat from the county of Berks.

This bill should be defeated and I ask the members on both sides of the House to vote against it.

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, the present bill under consideration applies only in counties of the second class. We have a problem in the counties of the second class which I feel this bill can correct. I would ask that all members of the House support me in this position.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

INTERROGATION

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, could I ask the minority leader if there would be any objection to the bills that are agreed to on the appropriations list that was discussed, that is, the general fund budget appropriation bills, for which 106 votes are required, following the order from the list that was given to the gentleman?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. We in our caucus discussed the fact that there are about $2 million of these appropriations that only require 106 votes. We are prepared to give votes for those bills today and Mr. McCann has the list and it is all right to call them up.

Mr. McCANN. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker. I request permission to go by the list, that he may check them of in that manner. The first bill then would be on page 10. The bill number would be 761, appropriation bills on third reading, House bill 761.

APPROPRIATION BILLS ON THIRD READING (NON-PREFERRED)

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 761, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Commerce for payments of grants to local agencies for tourist promotional assistance.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 769, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Military Affairs for the payment of services of the Civil Air Patrol.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I asked for recognition before the vote was taken, but that's all right. I wanted to inquire whether or not this was the bill that was previously defeated when the minority side decided not to give any votes until we had a reapportionment bill? I was wondering whether or not we do have a reapportionment bill now.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For the information of the gentleman, this has now been classed as a preferred appropriation.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. J. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, had I voted on that bill, I would have voted "aye."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 806, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the City of Harrisburg Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know what the amount of this appropriation is.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, House bill 806 appropriates $2,500 to the city of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Mr. FARABAUGH. What for?

Mr. McCANN. For the fire companies of the city of Harrisburg.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, is this bill considered a preferred appropriation?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, this bill is a non-preferred appropriation, but only requires a constitutional majority. There are two classes of non-preferred. The other non-preferred appropriations are those which the constitution says are limited to educational and charitable institutions. They require a two-thirds majority. This bill falls in the category of the non-preferred that requires a constitutional majority.

Mr. FARABAUGH. A further question, Mr. Speaker. If I understand the gentleman right, he said that this appropriation was for the volunteer fire companies, is that correct?

Mr. POLEN. For the Harrisburg fire companies. The appropriation is to the city of Harrisburg for use of the fire companies.

Mr. FARABAUGH. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker. Ladies and gentlemen of the House, this is a bill similar to one we have had in the House in years past. Some of you who have been here have seen this occur before. My opinion is that this is a very unjust, unnecessary appropriation. Several years back when we debated a similar bill in the House, there were amendments to that bill to get money for every volunteer fire company throughout this Commonwealth which is protecting State institutions, where there are many lives at stake and where volunteer firemen are contributing a lot of effort for the protection of those people, and it has always been denied. Here is money appropriated time after time to give to the Harrisburg fire companies to protect buildings, not people, just buildings, while other districts throughout this Commonwealth are deprived of the same help, where they are much more in need of it than they are in this city. This is a very unjust type of legislation. There is no call for it. It has been done here before but this is not used for the real necessary use of the fire companies, but for other uses and it is wrong. With the shortage of money there seems to be here for necessary use that must be provided for schools and otherwise, I would like to know why we should be asked to vote for a bill like this, to hand somebody $2,500 that they should never get.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I regret the remarks of the gentleman that this money is used for other purposes. He is misinformed. I think he is completely misinformed as to the tremendous responsibility placed upon the fire department of the city of Harrisburg with respect to the very large congregation of capitol buildings and the people employed in and using the capitol buildings. No other area, whether it be Pittsburgh, Philadelphia or a rural area, has anything comparable to the concentration of capitol buildings and the number of people employed than has the city of Harrisburg. The city of Harrisburg cooperates very closely with the Department of Property and Supplies with respect to the inspection of buildings, and this money is always used for the replacement of fire equipment or fire trucks. So, I take strong exception to the remarks of the gentleman in that field, I think it is a very, very worthy, important and necessary appropriation and I am only sorry that it is not much more.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, some of those things may be true but the same applies to many other districts throughout this Commonwealth, where in most cases they are taking care of the buildings of the Commonwealth and the people within those buildings are protected by volunteer fire companies which receive no appropriation from the State.

So far as the statement I made is concerned, I received that information from a member of this House, one of your own party. I did not make it up myself.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader, Mr. McCann.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I realize the situation and I can only sympathize because I, too, one time voted with certain members of this House to try to get appropriations for, I think, it was the Cresson Fire Company, and I cannot recall what others there were. But I ask the membership on this side of the aisle to vote "aye" on the appropriation contained in this bill for the fire companies.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the Speaker of the House.

Mr. ANDREWS. It might interest you to know that this particular bill has a historic background. I was a member of the group several years ago when all the appropriation bills were voted upon and, at the end of the session with only 12 or 15 members in the House, this particular bill came up and they would not pass the Cresson bill. So we tied them up until they passed the Cresson bill, tied them up tightly. We said we would have a call of the House and we would bring the absent members back and they passed the Cresson bill. Then you know what happened? The Governor vetoed it.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh, wish to be recognized again.

Mr. FARABAUGH. I would just like to add a little to what has been said. This was not only Cresson that was asking for money during that period. It was Blair County and there were several other counties that had amendments in that bill. And why in the name of common sense should any Governor—Governor Fine did and Governor Leader also did—veto ours and give $5,000 to Harrisburg, I would like somebody to tell me a good reason for it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in our House Republican caucus today, in addition to discussing at length the proposed educational program, several of our members inquired as to the status of reapportionment.

It was pointed out in our caucus that reapportionment is probably one of the most critical, one of the most important, issues facing this session of the General Assembly. The members on this side of the House cannot understand the unreasonable delay in getting out a fair and reasonable reapportionment bill. They are disappointed because this week the Democratic State Chairman promised that they would have a plan and it would be introduced in either the House or the Senate this week.

I understand the Senate has gone home and it was not put in the Senate. Now this delay we feel is unreasonable, unnecessary, unexplained, and everybody, of course, would like to end this legislative session, we would like to adjourn sine die, but it is impossible in the eyes of the people of Pennsylvania for us to leave the halls of this House without passing a fair and reasonable reapportionment bill, that both sides give and take.

Now I think it is time that the leaders of both parties, they are the people involved, sit down and reestablish the committee that Mr. McCann set up early this spring, sit down and immediately work out a reapportionment bill to the end that the people of this State will know who their Congressmen are, so that we can talk about adjournment sine die. We cannot talk about adjournment sine die as long as we have reapportionment hanging over our heads.

I know someone said, let us do it in January. Well, that means that the gentlemen would be campaigning in certain counties in the fall and winter months and they might end up being in an entirely different county. It is not fair to prospective candidates.

Therefore, we call upon the Democratic Party, the party in power, to bring out a reapportionment bill. Let us sit down with you and work it out to the end that we do the job that the Constitution of Pennsylvania and the Nation Constitution places upon us.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 1487, entitled:

An Act amending the "Real Estate Brokers License Act of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine" approved May 1, 1929 (P. L. 1216), changing the educational and training requirements for licensure changing the place of hearing specifying the nature and weight to be given to the report of a representative appointed by the Commission to hold hearings in connection with any of its disciplinary proceedings providing for the taking of testimony and bringing auctioneers within the provisions of the act.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

NOT VOTING—12

Curwood,	Eshleman,	Horst,	Petrosky,
Dougherty,	George,	Jenkins,	Royer,
Edwards,	Haudenshield,	Mihm,	Walsh,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dougherty, rise?

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Mr. Speaker, it is long past my meal time and I make a motion that this House now adjourn until tomorrow, Thursday, at 10 a.m.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman's motion is in order. The Chair will take the consensus of the House by asking that a roll call vote be taken.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the members on our side of the House to vote "no" on this motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rovansek. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ROVANSEK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ROVANSEK. Is a motion to adjourn in order if it is not seconded?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. A motion to adjourn is always in order.

Mr. ROVANSEK. Without a second?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It does not require a second.

Mr. ROVANSEK. Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, to what extent can you comment on the motion or debate the motion or interrogate about the motion?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The minority leader has the right to debate the motion for two minutes. That privilege is also extended to the majority leader.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, so the members on this side of the House will know the real reason for the motion, we have been pushing all day for the purpose of having Senate bill 104 called up and we were planning if it were not called to make it a special order of business. Mr. Dougherty made a motion for reasons he explained, which may or may not be the real reason. I think the people of Pennsylvania know why he made the motion, but I am telling you why the motion was made. It is made to forestall any action today on Senate bill 104. Therefore, I am asking the members on this side of the House to vote "no" on the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Philadelphia cannot be recognized. The motion is not debatable.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I am not going to debate the motion; I will just give my reason.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair feels the gentleman will be debating the motion if he gives his reasons.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. No, no, I just wanted to answer Mr. Johnson.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will recognize the gentleman, without objection.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Mr. Speaker, I want to be fair and I do not want to have any crying towels around, but it is past my meal time and I am not feeling so good and, as I said to Mr. Williams from Bucks County some time ago, if this thing continues until 10 or 11 or 12 o'clock I may wind up where I was a short time ago. That is the reason I made the motion, not to—

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. The gentleman could ask for a leave of absence.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. DOUGHERTY and A. W. JOHNSON and were as follows:

HARRISBURG, PA., THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1961.

No. 76.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

THURSDAY, July 13, 1961

The House met at 10 a.m., e.s.t.

Mr. HELM in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David H. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O God, Thou Creator not only of man but of the cosmos of which he is a part, it is with an awareness of our need of Thee and our dependency upon Thee that we bow in Thy presence this morning hour. We thank Thee for the strides which this Nation of ours made yesterday in the exploration of space and the domination of some forces in life. But, we pray that in this rapidly changing society in which we live, we may recognize that with the leadership we assume there also goes the responsibility for all Thy family on earth. And only as we use our knowledge for the greatest good of all, and not our own selfish interest, can we really be acclaimed good stewards for Thee and Thy kingdom. Amen.

JOURNALS APPROVED

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Are there any corrections to the Journals of Wednesday, June 7, Thursday, June 8 and Monday, June 12, 1961? If not, and without objection, the Journals are approved.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER pro tempore. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Wednesday, July 12, 1961 will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Perry, Mr. Holman, rise?

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, last evening in the Harrisburg Evening News I was reported as being absent when House bill 1028 came up for a final vote.

It is true that I was not in my seat and voting when House bill 1028 was voted upon. However, the reason I was not in my seat is this: I was arranging a very, very important meeting with the Pennsylvania Securities Commission that is of great interest to many of my constituents in Perry County. Had I been in my seat when House bill 1028 was called to a vote, I would have voted "no."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record of the House

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I feel that, because of the unprecedented action that was taken here in the House last night with the adjourned motion which, of course, adjourned the House and in a way thwarted the will of many in this House with respect to a certain piece of legislation, some comment should be made upon it.

It was stated around here after the motion was made that in the memory of the members here they never recall a motion to adjourn made summarily that way having prevailed and that the House was adjourned in such a fashion. Of course in this session we have had a lot of "firsts," and as I say, I believe some comment should be made upon it.

As far as we in the minority are concerned, this House functions as smoothly as it does by reason of the tremendous camaraderie, the tremendous good faith, good will, cooperation and everything that exists between the minority and the majority. We just could not do business here unless every day we in good faith sat down, the majority leader with the minority leader, to mark our calendars and say, well, we are going to do this today or we are going to do that today.

Yesterday I believe that good faith, that camaraderie, and that good will and cooperation was broken down by the unprecedented and, I think, ill-advised motion to adjourn that was made here last night. It left a lot of hard feelings in the minds of many people, not only members of the House but all over the State. I felt that something was going to take place; I saw the conference over in that corner between the gentleman from Philadelphia and others, and I saw them when they came back and went past the majority leader's desk. I saw Mr. Dougherty get up and I knew that something was going to take place, but I never dreamed it would be a motion to adjourn. I do think it was wrong in view of the huge problem that exists in this State on unemployment, and the big problem that that bill entails for Mr. Dougherty to make the motion, to hide behind his alleged illness as the reason for adjournment, when we all know that the motion was made because behind the big haystack there was somebody with a pitchfork who dictated the motion that was made here in the General Assembly and shut off all of the progress that we were making.

I think we should go on record as decrying such action as not befitting the dignity of this House. While we in the minority will continue to be cooperative, because that is the only way this House can function, we think we should have been told of this impending motion to adjourn. While it was a sly maneuver I think it detracts from the dignity and decorum of this House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. DOUGHERTY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I just want the members of this House to know that nobody under God's sun knew anything about the motion before I made it. I informed Steve McCann that I was going to make it, and he told me not to do it, but I got up there—you noticed I was at the mike and was called away by Steve and I came back again.

In former days when we reached the hour of 6 o'clock I always found the minority leader saying, "When are we going to adjourn and get something to eat?" I knew what tactics were going to take place on this side of the House. It was going to go into midnight or beyond. I spent 72 days looking at hospital ceilings from my hospital bed; I did not want to bring all this out yesterday. I know there are a couple of my good friends on the other side who in the last six months have not been feeling so good. The last night session we went into, I think we had a heart attack and some other ailment when a member on your side collapsed in the elevator. It was in good faith and, because the bill has to be voted on some time or other, I could not see staying here until the early hours of the morning, not only for my own benefit, but as I say, for a few members on the other side who I think appreciate what was done. Thank you.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr., asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, for those who think I am going to talk about 40-foot trailers, they can relax.

I have been reading with great interest the reports of the many newspapers of the experiment that is going on in the city of Newburg, New York. I was so interested in what is going on that I wrote to the town council of Newburg to try to obtain as much information as I could on this subject. Having read this over, I would like to make a brief statement.

First, I would like to say that I want to recommend to this House of Representatives the study of the so-called Newburg Plan. This might be characterized as a revolt of the taxpayers of this New York community against the high cost of public relief.

The Newburg Plan, and it has 13 points, which I am certainly not endorsing as such, includes, among others, the following items:

It provides that no able-bodied person can receive relief for more than three months in any one year.

It provides that any able-bodied person who refuses to work while on relief, will be denied relief.

It provides that in the case of unwed mothers, that after the second such birth relief will be denied.

Many papers have come out editorially in favor of this type of action and some very influential papers are against it.

What has impressed me more than anything about the Newburg Plan is that even the prominent New York Times, which has been highly critical of the program, has reported that the sentiment for it in the city of Newburg and elsewhere is running very strong. In fact, one newspaper reported that out of hundreds of people who were interviewed in Newburg itself only three people could be found who indicated any opposition to it. To me this means that the public generally is getting fed up on the increasing costs of relief and other welfare services. When they read stories about loafers and cheaters getting public assistance for an indefinite period of time, their reaction becomes almost violent. We in the Pennsylvania General Assembly have been voting bigger and bigger appropriations for relief every year, and I think we should take heed of this feeling, or we too may find ourselves with a taxpayers' revolt on our hands.

Perhaps the social workers are right when they say we should not penalize the children for the faults of their mothers, and I certainly agree with this when we are talking about the subject of unwed mothers. Perhaps they are right too when they say that the number of illegitimate children on our relief rolls is exaggerated. My statement and my feeling, is that we should review this whole question. I think Newburg has brought up a subject which needs to be reviewed by the legislatures of all States. Perhaps we can find a solution that takes care of the unfortunate children and at the same time prevents the kind of cheating that does go on.

Furthermore, I think there is a great deal of merit to the requirement that able-bodied persons on relief do useful work for the public, that is, for the Commonwealth, the county or the local municipalities in exchange for the public assistance which they receive. We have such a law on our books now, but apparently it is a "dead letter," because, as I understand, it is very seldom used, if at all. I think this would be helpful, not only to the community and the State, but for the person who is on relief, who must sign over his home in this State before he gets a relief check. In my opinion, it would be much better for him to be permitted to work himself out of this debt to the State by doing useful work for the public rather than have a State lien hanging over his head when he does return to gainful employment. If he starts working again he will then start off with a clean slate.

Another proposal that has been made in Newburg, which I think is worth mentioning, is the use of payment in kind. I cannot see too much wrong in paying State relief in kind rather than in money. This is what is being done on the national scene by the Kennedy Administration. They are distributing surplus food stamps instead of cash. I do not see why we cannot use food stamps instead of checks in this State so that we know that this money is going to feed the families and to feed the children; then we would know that it is not going for things like liquor, which allegations are frequently made.

Another thing is, why would it not be possible to pay rent as part of public assistance; an allocation for rent which is necessary to put a roof over the heads of these people, which I am certainly in favor of? Why can we not pay it directly to the landlord so that we are sure it goes where it is intended to go? We already do this by paying the doctors and pharmacists for drugs and medicine. We pay that directly for relief recipients.

There are many, many ways in my opinion, that our public assistance program could be improved and, of course, more adequate supervision would be another important item. I think we would all be amazed if we knew how few times a home visit is made to relief recipients.

So, in my opinion, if the Newburgh Plan does nothing more than alert us to this problem which we face and which needs solution, then I think it has accomplished some good regardless of what the results may be in that little town along the Hudson.

I would like, Mr. Speaker, at this time, to insert into the record, copies of an editorial and an article from the Wall Street Journal, as follows:

Monday, July 10, 1961.

WELFARE WAR

NEWBURGH, N. Y.—This little city has done what many a city itched to do—it has set in motion a program to reduce municipal welfare costs. But in the process it has started a mighty row.

Pressed by a public relief burden that accounts for one-third of the city's $3,134,383 budget, the City Council has adopted a 13-point plan scheduled to go into effect July 15. Aimed at eliminating welfare cheats from the public relief program, the plan is also designed to remedy mounting social problems in a deteriorating section of the city. These problems are violence, immorality, fire hazards, and unsanitary conditions stemming from overcrowding and idleness.

While gaining the support of most of its own citizens and many irate taxpayers across the country, Newburgh nevertheless finds itself embroiled with New York State welfare officials, various clergymen and religious charities, its own staff of social workers, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Moreover, there is evidence that the problems the city seeks to solve came about almost as much from poor municipal administration as from the area's peculiar social conditions.

Of a population of 30,979, some 1,382 persons are on relief in this town not far north of New York City. The 13-point program, which City Manager Joseph McD. Mitchell has promised to supplement with additional, undisclosed restrictions, would include these measures:

Cash welfare payments, where possible, would be converted to food, clothing and rent vouchers (much relief money purportedly now winds up in saloon cash registers). All able-bodied male relievers would be put to work by the city on a 40-hour basis. Anyone able to work but who refuses a job would be denied relief.

UN-WED MOTHERS

Mothers of illegitimate children who have additional offspring out of wedlock would be deprived of public charity. No one who left his job voluntarily would be entitled to welfare aid. The relief income of any one family would not be allowed to exceed the income of the lowest-paid city employe with a family of comparable size. All aid-to-dependent children cases would be reviewed monthly by the city attorney.

New applicants for relief must prove they didn't come to Newburgh just to get on the welfare rolls. A three-month limit would be put on all welfare help except in cases involving the aged, blind, and disabled. In addition, there are four other technical proposals designed to give the city tighter control over its welfare activities.

When word of Newburgh's plan reached Albany, the state Board of Social Welfare and the state Department of Welfare decided to investigate the city. At a hearing on Friday state investigators, after refusing to listen to any explanation of the Newburgh reforms, declared the 13-point program a violation of both state and Federal laws; a further hearing will be held later. State officials fear that if the Newburgh program is adopted, the state's $150 million Federal welfare reimbursement would be jeopardized. Under Federal law, a state must administer welfare aid in a uniform manner if it is to qualify for Federal relief assistance, and this is what has state officials upset.

Newburgh presently receives about $500,000 or approximately half its welfare funds, from Albany and Washington. The City Council has said it intends to go ahead with its new program even if it means the city will be deprived of state and Federal aid.

"The point here is," says Mr. Mitchell, "not whether the welfare money comes from the state or Federal Government. The point is that it is taxpayers' money that is being misspent. Also, there is the question of home rule. Can Newburgh work out its own destiny or must it be saddled with regulations that are placing the welfare of the whole community in jeopardy?"

There is no doubt that the overwhelming majority of Newburgh residents are behind Mr. Mitchell and the four-man, all Republican City Council (Democratic Mayor William D. Ryan opposes the plan as being "immoral, illegal and unfair"). Talks with two dozen people in the downtown area and in the city parks revealed unanimous support for the new welfare rules (a reporter from a New England newspaper spent three days interviewing 75 people and only three said they opposed the change).

Mrs. Jean Bachmann declared: "The conditions on Water Street are something terrible. Why should my husband work his head off for $80 a week when a bunch of bums are making that doing nothing?"

Originally, the Water Street area was the municipality's commercial center, its steep, brick-paved roadways climbing from the ferry terminal to the historic buildings (including George Washington's post-Revolutionary headquarters) high on the hillside. But in the last decade, especially in the last five years, what was once a scenic delight has degenerated into a civic nightmare.

And welfare payments have been a major reason. Migratory workers, drawn to Newburgh in the summers to work the surrounding fields, have taken to staying through the winters on relief. Four and five families took up residence in one-family homes. The crowded conditions soon spawned violence and immorality. Water Street is the police department's biggest headache—the average weekend is good for a couple of knifings and barroom brawls. Girls begin careers of promiscuity and illegitimate childbearing at 12 years of age.

The migrant workers decided to stay on Water Street because the city purportedly has a reputation for being a good welfare town, Mr. Mitchell believes. And if they fit in any of the various welfare categories (which is not difficult for anyone without a job), such people can usually do as well financially (often better) as they could if they drifted South in the winter for agricultural work.

DECREASED PROPERTY VALUES

Besides the crime impact on Newburgh, there is the matter of what has happened to the Water Street property values. Longtime Newburgh merchants have moved out, along with a chain of stores which put up brick and glass buildings before the deterioration of the neighborhood set in. Since 1958 real estate valuation losses in the district have totaled $2,364,780, aiding in the city's financing troubles.

Because the migrants swelling the welfare rolls in recent years have been chiefly Negroes, the city's attempt to reduce the relief burden immediately gets entangled in sensitive sociological issues, the local chapter of the N.A.A.C.P. for instance, considers the new welfare plan a slap at Negroes. On the other hand Councilman George F. McKneally, an author of the controversial proposal, declares Newburgh would take the same action "if the problem involved Irish Catholics, except then we probably would have moved ahead faster because the prejudice accusations would have been less likely."

Interestingly, a reporter found that among long-time Negro residents in the Water Street area there is considerable hostility toward welfare cheats. A barmaid in a Negro tavern declared, "I think he's (Mitchell) doing the right thing. These newcomers make all colored people look bad. I don't care what the N.A.A.C.P. says. I used to belong to the local chapter but I quit. You know why I quit? Because they were getting too touchy. Just like a lot of white people, the N.A.A.C.P. forgets there are colored people and there are colored people."

Talks with 15 patrons in this same pub showed 13 favoring the plan and two with no opinion.

Probably those most disturbed about the plan, aside from the relievers themselves, are the city's social workers (City Welfare Commissioner John J. O'Donnell has offered to resign but his resignation was refused). Said one veteran case worker, "I'll tell you one thing: Morale in the Welfare Department is zero. This business can't help but hurt a lot of innocent people."

WELFARE CHISELERS

The city, while quick to place blame for its burgeoning welfare rolls on lazy migrants and inadequate state laws, cannot escape a good deal of the blame itself. Welfare chiselers, for instance, have to live some place and the only area open to them was Water Street. Here landlords (both white and Negro) encouraged newcomers to move into already overcrowded dwellings and in the process boosted rents. It would have been a simple matter for Newburgh to prohibit more than one family from sharing an apartment, but instead the city fathers looked the other way.

Thus, it was not until City Manager Mitchell, 39-year-old career expert in municipal affairs, took office last November that the local government really started to tackle the Water Street problem. Previously, Mr. Mitchell served in municipal administration posts in Marple Township, Pennsylvania, and Culver City, California. In recent weeks he has become something of a local hero, has appeared on national television, and has received almost 1,000 fan letters from all over the country.

Says Mr. Mitchell of the migrant workers who have moved here: "These people are uneducated and unskilled and the Newburgh economy cannot absorb them. There just isn't a need for much unskilled labor in local industry (chiefly needle trades, women's clothes and pocketbooks), so they apply for relief, loaf around town and get into trouble. Newburgh has a historic, productive Negro community, but these migrants are not a part of it."

Thus, Newburgh has challenged some basic concepts in the present handling of welfare aid. A special counsel hired by the city to plead its case before authorities believes the final outcome will be settled in the courts. Whatever that outcome may be, it's likely that many cities far from Newburgh will be watching closely.

NEWBURGH'S CRIME

It's a fine commentary on public morality in this country when a local community's effort to correct flagrant welfare abuses is declared illegal under both state and Federal law.

That is exactly where matters rest in the case of Newburgh, the small New York city which has announced a 13-point program to reduce the burden caused by its bums, cheats and loafers, many of whom came to the town and remain for the deliberate purpose of living on relief—which is to say, on the hard-earned tax money of honest residents.

At a hearing before a special investigating committee of the New York State Welfare Board on Friday, the investigators refused even to listen to Newburgh city manager Mitchell's reasons for instituting the reform. We suspect, however, that a good many other people, in New York and elsewhere, are interested and listening, and they can find the background in Mr. Roberts' article on this page this morning. Instead, the vindictive inquisitors ruled the Newburgh reforms a violation of Federal and state laws; a hearing of the full Welfare Board is scheduled later this month. Mr. Mitchell says he still intends to go ahead with his program.

And what, pray is the crime of which the Newburgh administration stands accused? Among the reforms are stipulations that no one except the blind, aged and disabled may receive relief more than three months in any one year; that unmarried mothers are barred from relief if they have more illegitimate children; that able-bodied men on relief must work 40 hours a week for the city. In other words, Newburgh is simply trying to separate the crooks and chislers from the unfortunate people in genuine distress, to the obvious benefit of the latter.

How does cleaning up corruption get to be a crime? Because state and Federal laws define welfare so loosely that they have spawned a whole new class of malingers throughout the nation who make a career of exploiting relief. Thus welfare abuse, including the bearing of children for the sole reason of getting aid, is now one of the more noisome scandals in New York City's catalogue of official corruption.

Well, there is a crime in connection with Newburgh all right. But it is not on the head of city manager Mitchell. It is a crime of the social welfare sentimentalists and the hard-eyed politicians in Washington and elsewhere who use welfare fraud as a vote-getting gambit. And finally it is the crime of all of us, for letting these arrogant office holders do this to our once proud country.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. SCHAAF, NEEDHAM and OGILVIE.

RESOLUTION No. 90.

In the House of Representatives, July 12, 1961.

The interest of the Commonwealth in the welfare of its men and women who served their State and Nation as members of the armed forces is reflected by certain rights and privileges conferred upon these veterans by the General Assembly. Some of the statutes date back to the Civil War; others are as recent as the present session of the General Assembly. Many of the veterans' laws are duplications and some may no longer be necessary. Often provisions specifically affecting veterans are contained in general legislation where they are difficult to locate. In order to assure that the current laws reflect the continuing interest and gratitude of the citizens of the Commonwealth to those who served their State and Nation when called upon to do so in the past, it is essential that the entire area of veterans' laws be examined and studied in order to ascertain which laws should be retained or modified and which should be repealed as duplications; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission study the various laws of the Commonwealth affecting veterans, and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to report its findings and recommendations to the 1963 Session of the General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. DOUGHERTY asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Cities—Counties, First Class to meet during the Session of the House.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I take a moment of time here so there will be no misunderstanding as to the schedule for next week.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thinks that would be a good idea. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, this House will be in session next week for three days. I repeat, three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, but I do request that when we adjourn today the motion to reconvene the House on Monday will indicate reconvening the House will be at 3 p.m., daylight saving time, so that we may adjourn on Monday evening no later than 6 p.m., d.s.t.

For today's session we have agreed on a series of bills that have been caucused on and can be voted on. We will break for lunch later in the day and very likely have a short caucus, attempting to complete our work, if it be the wish of the House, by approximately 4 p.m., but no later perhaps than 4:30 p.m., d.s.t.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make an announcement then with respect to the Republican Caucus next Monday.

We will meet at 1 o'clock, so that we will be able to caucus for two hours, from 1 to 2 and 2 to 3. There will be no caucus letter sent out. The members have heard the announcement that we will be here three days and that we will reconvene at 3 o'clock Monday.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair returns the gavel to the Speaker of the House.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

Speaker

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 455, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 5, 1933 (P. L. 457), entitled "Building and Loan Code" changing provisions governing the change of the place of business of a branch and changing provisions for the period of public notice for the discontinuance of a branch.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 104, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), entitled "The Vehicle Code" granting the power to the Secretary of Highways to establish speed limits.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we debated rather extensively the merits of allowing 40-foot trailers in the State of Pennsylvania several days ago. I am not going to burden this House and the members with a rehash of that situation.

I would like to point out that this is not partisan legislation but is bi-partisan legislation. Bills to allow 40-foot trailers in Pennsylvania have been introduced by the following members of this House: Mr. Kornick, Mr. Schaaf, Mr. Flynn, Mr. Gallagher, Mr. Bachman, Mr. Meholchick, Mrs. Kooker, Mr. Holliday, Mr. McNroy, Mr. Foor, Mr. George and Mr. Weidner. These bills did not come out of committee for reasons which are known to probably every member of this House. We have been able to get this question before the House by means of amendments to this bill. The amendments were sponsored by Mr. McNally, Mr. Kornick, Mr. Bachman, Mrs. Kooker, Mr. Holliday, Mr. McNroy, Mr. George, Mr. Weidner and myself. This has been a bi-partisan effort at all times to get a chance to vote on the removal of this 35-foot wall which has been politically erected around this State.

Now, I am going to break a promise which I have made to many of the supporters of this bill on the other side. I have, up until this point, not made a political speech in regard to this bill; at least I do not think that I have. I have discussed only the merits of this bill. However, at this moment I feel almost as though I ought to discuss House bill 283, which is the lobbying registration bill, because I think that is the bill that is perhaps more important here. I have seen more strange bedfellows in the last 48 hours than I have seen in the last three years of my experience in this House.

I cannot understand how the members of this House can vote to continue a policy of having the police force of this State, the State Police and all of those local police forces, continue to wink at violations of the law which are going on daily. These 40-foot trailers are operating in Pennsylvania today. They are operating against the law, we all know it. We all know why we have 35-foot trailers in Pennsylvania. We all know that this is the only State in the Union, except West Virginia which has this law. It is ridiculous; it is antiquated; and we all know it is antiquated. We all know it is going to fall, if not this year then two years from now. You cannot stop progress. Any vote "no" today on this bill is an attempt to stop progress which has been made with due regard for safety in the trucking industry. We have industry for this bill; we have labor for this bill. This bill will help create and keep employment in many of the depressed counties of the State. That is about all I have to say. I hope that those people who know that they should be for this bill will be for the bill today. I thank the House.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo, desire to be recognized?

Mr. FILO. I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen, I do not think I have to tell you that I am a "Johnny-come-lately" as far as increasing truck weight, truck lengths and in the time that I have been here since the year 1949, I was always opposed to additional weight or lengthening these trucks. I suppose some of you may wonder why I withdrew the amendments I had to this bill, that would add a safety brake to these trucks, because presently, Mr. Speaker, with these more lengthy trucks being on the highways, I feel we are going to have more accidents, more run-away trucks, as Mr. Williams spoke about before me, than we have with these trucks which do operate presently in the State of Pennsylvania. So I could see no reason why I should add these amendments to this bill.

I want to give credit to a man, the head of the Highway Department, Park Martin, one who I understand is opposed to this legislation. I do want to be critical of the other department though, the Bureau of Highway Safety. To date they have said nothing about this 40-foot trailer. We in the House here have been passing, in this session and sessions before, legislation to make highways safer for the people of Pennsylvania. It is all right when they say, well let's get after the guy that drives an automobile. But as the gentleman, Mr. Williams, stated, they are winking at the trucks. Look back, think back, gentlemen and ladies, in the past, during the past six years, how many truckers have come to you asking you to help them to get their license. Prior years to this, I would say four or five years ago, I had truckers call me up almost weekly because they were arrested for speeding, because they were arrested for overloading, and that is another point I want to get to, Mr. Speaker.

Presently these trucks are operating in the State of Pennsylvania with a large percentage of overweight. If you will recall a few years back we had the State Police on the turnpike entrances with scales, measuring the weight of these trucks. And I say, in some instances, the weights on those trucks were double that allowed by the State of Pennsylvania.

Is this safety? We have got to do something about this business. I can recall just about a year ago a truck ran down over a hill in Uniontown. It was out of control because it did not have the proper brakes. I can recall a truck killing some kids down in the Johnstown area just recently. Because they had these big trucks and probably were overweighted and did not have the proper brakes. I can recall many instances in my own county where there were run-away trucks and people were killed as a result.

Let's be fair, ladies and gentlemen, if we are going to be tough on the motorists, let's be tough on the truckers too. I say this, there are some good truckers, but there are some bad ones too, the so-called gypsy truckers. Let's look at it in the light of safety. Oh, we say that this does not allow additional weight. This is for bulk weight. But let's take a stand behind that trucker and say this is bulk weight; this is not something that is heavier than the stuff they generally put on.

I have received many letters in support of this 40-foot truck, the additional length of these trucks, but not one of the letters stated that we are going to have a better truck or that we will be able to do better business. Not one of them stated that we are going to have better brakes on these trucks, or that we are going to be more careful. Now, they say that they have this thing in Ohio, in New Jersey, and the surrounding States. I will agree with you. But, they do not have the topography that we have in Pennsylvania. They do not have the summits and the mountains that they have to come down, braking probably all the way. It was pointed out here the other day, by Mr. Morley, and, I take great pride in the information that he gave us because I think he knows what he is talking about, that the possibility of the jackknifing of these lengthy trucks is much greater.

Ladies and gentleman, if you ever do a good thing in Pennsylvania for safety, vote down this measure.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Manbeck.

Mr. MANBECK. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen, I do not anticipate changing too many votes on Senate bill 104. However, I would like to make a brief statement so that you can draw your own conclusions.

Today, we have an overall 50-foot length regulation, and this 40-foot trailer bill does not lengthen that equipment at all. With the snub-nose tractor you still are within the limits of your 50 feet. I have heard arguments during the week that with these longer trailers you need more room to make a turn. This is untrue. You can turn just as short with the 50-foot overall length or with the 40-foot trailer as you can with the 35-foot trailer.

I have not heard one statement in this House which talked about the agricultural industry, which is very much interested in this 40-foot trailer bill. Now, I think if you would have a 20-foot trailer you could overload it, if you wanted to talk about overweight. And regardless of what kind of laws you have, you always have violators of these particular laws.

We have on Route 22 daily the State Police on the job, weighing the trucks, measuring them, to see that the people are conforming with the regulations and the overweight percentage of trucks is very small today. Yes, you have them occasionally, as you have in anything. But I would like to say to you that we are surrounded by States that have the 40-foot trailer bill, people who haul bulk items, such as, farm equipment and other agricultural products.

We talk about unemployment, all our agricultural people are forced out of business by competition in surrounding States by using this large equipment, and I say to you that I think it is high time we give the people of Pennsylvania the same right as we have in other States.

This will mean much employment to people in the manufacturing of farm equipment, other equipment, in the transportation of poultry and other livestock. Now, it is true that they can transport hogs and cattle in 40-foot trailers today, but the truck must be so built to handle this kind of livestock. And this would give us in agriculture an opportunity to compete with the States surrounding us today, and I say that we should all go down the line and vote for the working people of the State of Pennsylvania and vote "yes" on Senate bill 104. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the members in the order in which their requests come to the desk.

The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I do not expect to influence many, or any, votes on this subject, but I am going to make a very brief statement.

I call upon the members on both sides, if they are interested in a better business climate and improved employment for all the people of Pennsylvania to support this bill. I call upon the members on the other side of the aisle and on this side of the aisle who have political pressures on behalf of certain trucking interests to support this bill. I call upon the members on this side of the aisle who have political pressures on them from the railroads to oppose it. I call on them to support it. I think this is the time to put statesmanship above politics and vote for a bill that is designed for the majority of the people and the welfare of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. McNally.

Mr. McNALLY. Mr. Speaker, I am really a "Johnny-come-lately" when it comes to addressing this House. I listened to the discussion of Mr. Morley from Philadelphia yesterday in connection with the 40-foot trailers, and also the discussion of Mr. Filo.

I have been more or less closely associated with this industry for the past 40 years. There is a great deal of merit in what both of them said from the standpoint of safety. However, I think they are forgetting that the engineers of this industry, Mr. Speaker, have come a long way from the standpoint of the brakes on a trailer. I feel quite confident, if this 40-foot trailer bill becomes law, you shall have some overweights. You have them at the present time with a 35-foot trailer; you will have them with a 20-foot trailer.

However, the accidents that occur on hills, as a rule, are not due to faulty brakes. Trucks of the magnitude of hauling 40 to 60 thousand pounds in all cases, dating back as far as the Model T days, are held back by the gears of the vehicle and not the brakes altogether. The engineering of Fruehauf's, Trailmobile, and some of the biggest manufacturers in the Country has come a long way, and I feel quite sure that in the event this 40-foot trailer becomes law—or I will put it this way, sir: If it is necessary that more brakes be put on the trailer for 40-feet, since the engineers have seen to it and if they have a 3½-inch brakeshoe or a 4-inch brakeshoe on the 35-foot trailer. I am quite confident that the engineering of the automotive industry will see that the brakes on the 40-foot will be proper equipment.

I listened with a great deal of interest of Mr. Filo's remarks on the topography of Pennsylvania. That is something that we in the House have no control over. However, we do have a mountainous area out in the west. You find it all through the States of Oregon and Washington, you will find it in the Rocky Mountain area, and the 40-foot trailer is legal out there.

I heard the gentleman from Bucks the other day say that it is legal to take a load of hogs or take a load of cattle to market, but you cannot bring back the prime ribs and you cannot bring back the bacon in the same unit.

I do not believe what I have said here today is going to change a single vote. However, I thought, Mr. Speaker, it would be proper to clear up some of the things on which I am sure this House was misinformed.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick.

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, I must also concede that this is a bipartisan effort here. I never thought that this bill would create such interest, but I am happy it has because it puts Uniontown, Fayette County, on the map.

I want to show you a clipping I have here from yesterday's Pittsburgh Press. The heading is "$5 Million Invested in Fruehauf Trailers in Fayette County." We from Fayette County would be very remiss, would be very ungrateful to our people back home and to the neighboring counties adjoining Fayette County, if we did not get up here and make our position known. This means a lot to Fayette County, as we are one of the most distressed counties in the Commonwealth. I think we now have about 39.6 per cent unemployment. This plant is to bring in 450 people to work.

So, therefore, I again ask all members, both Republican and Democrat, friend and foe, to vote for this legislation. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in favor of this bill to legalize 40-foot trailers in Pennsylvania.

We in the legislature this session, and many sessions, hear time and time again that we are a progressive Pennsylvania, that we are an industrial State. Governor Lawrence in his address at the P. P. & L. dedication yesterday made the statement that Pennsylvania thrives through its industry, that we are an industrial State.

Here we have a bill which will benefit industry in Pennsylvania. It will benefit the light-weight industries such as the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Manbeck, spoke of, the agricultural industry and many other industries, because it is given an additional five feet to transport their products to market. It will also benefit the manufacturers of trailers in Pennsylvania. The gentleman from Fayette just mentioned his county. I mention the adjoining county of Luzerne where Highway Trailers is now located.

I live 30 miles from Hazleton, Pennsylvania. I have been deeply interested in industrial development in Pennsylvania, even before I became a member of this House. When the industry, Highway Trailers, decided to locate in Hazleton, I applauded that decision. I was a little disappointed that it was not in Schuylkill County, but I applauded it because it did help to alleviate some of the unemployment in Pennsylvania.

I studied unemployment in our Select Unemployment Committee. We are all here dedicated to the proposition that Pennsylvania to move forward needs new industry and needs to keep its existing industries in Pennsylvania.

Here is a bill of progress. Here is a bill for which those of us who are in favor of progress can vote. I have found no compelling reason why I should not vote for this bill. It is not a safety factor involved here. We have 40-foot trailers in other States. They have not increased the accident rates. Oh, it may be desirable that we have no trucks on our highways in Pennsylvania, but we now know that the trucking industry is a great industry in Pennsylvania, and we must all admit that even though some of us who represent some other interests, perhaps, may swallow hard. But it is a great industry and I say to you today that a vote for the 40-foot trailer is a vote for industry and a vote for progress in Pennsylvania. I ask you to search your conscience and vote in favor of the bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I have listened with great interest to the discussion here this morning, particularly to the points that were brought out by Mr. Filo. He has raised a question here that I have thought a lot about in the past. That is the overloading and the questionable activities of the trucks on the highways. Over the recent years we have passed legislation in this House which has gone a long way in eliminating overloading by allowing a reasonable load and then making a penalty high enough to stop the overload. This has improved greatly the conditions which existed on our highways with the trucks. There are still some violations going on. I am greatly in favor of the point that he raised, that the trucks should be more carefully policed, the trucks going on our highways. However, in his talk he indicated that this would permit overloading, and, as I see this bill, I see nothing in it which would allow any heavier load. Therefore, I think this is good legislation that will be helpful to industry throughout this State, which is badly needed. Those are some of the reasons why I support the bill.

Mr. WM. JOSEPH LONG. Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote for this bill, and the reason I am is this: Before I became a legislator I worked on the highway, and before I got that job on the highway I was idle for three years, and God only knows I went all over Pennsylvania looking for a job and I could not get one. We have people in my district from Kelayres, from McAdoo and from Delano who presently have jobs working at the Highway Trailers' industry in Hazleton. Every time I go home from here I have about 15 phone calls from people who get in touch with me asking can I get them a job with the State. I am sorry to say so far I have not gotten anybody a job, but I know what it is to be without work. I am not going to vote for this bill and go back and have people with families and children say I helped put them out of work. I firmly believe in safety on the highways, but I firmly believe the machine is driven by the human and not the machine driving the human being. I am not knocking the State Police, but when I come down here I do 60 miles an hour, maybe sometimes 65 miles an hour, but when these trucks pass you out, I am telling you, my little Rambler starts to quiver. But as I said, I am not knocking the State Police, but I believe it is up to them to stop these people from doing so. I believe in safety.

I listened with interest to some previous remarks of the gentlemen, but I am committed to vote for this bill and I humbly ask everybody in this House, on both sides, also to vote for it. Thank you.

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, I support Senate bill 104 and the 40-foot-trailer proposition. In my county of Clarion, in my neighboring counties, Venango, Armstrong, Jefferson, we have a nice glass container industry. In our area and in my town of Clarion we have the Owens-Illinois Glass plant which is the largest glass container plant, probably, in Pennsylvania. We need better transportation from northwestern Pennsylvania to the great eastern markets and this 40-foot trailer will give us what we need. We also need the Keystone Shortway, but that is an aside.

I think my friends in the surrounding areas and all the people who work in the glass industry are very much in favor of this legislation. Right now we are in a bad competitive position with other areas. In fact, one of the reasons the glass industry in northwestern Pennsylvania has not expanded as much as it should is that we are far from our markets and our costs of shipping are too high. Those figures can be substantiated. Practically all of our industries have established new glass plants in New Jersey and Connecticut to cut down shipping costs, and these are plants that could have been in Pennsylvania if we had good shipping facilities. For that reason I urge you to vote for this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FARABAUGH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman not from the Johnstown area?

Mr. FARABAUGH. That is right, I am from the Johnstown area.

Mr. FILO. Will the gentleman tell me if he recalls that just recently there were three children killed in the Johnstown area as a result of a truck out of control and going down over a hill?

Mr. FARABAUGH. I remember that.

Mr. FILO. Can the gentleman tell me what caused this accident?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Lack of control of the truck.

Mr. FILO. I think the gentleman could add even the brakes. That is all, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, that was a 20-foot trailer.

Mr. FILO. If that was a 20-foot trailer, Mr. Speaker, God help the people with a 40-foot trailer.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I think the folks should know that there has been something done to avoid such accidents in that particular area. That is a very steep hill and truckers who were not familiar with the road would naturally come onto that hill unexpectedly without getting into low gear. Since that time, because of the request made to the highway department, there has been a safety measure applied in that particular area. All truckers must stop at the top of the hill and check the condition of their brakes to be sure they are all right before they start down the hill. So there has been something done in the particular case spoken about.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Holliday.

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Mr. Speaker, there has been a great deal of talk about safety so far as the 40-foot trailers are concerned. Like everybody else in this House, I am very much interested in safety and I will not go along with the fact that the trailers are to blame for all the accidents we have on the road. I venture to say that as far as safety and living up to the law is concerned there is not a member sitting in this House right now who does not break the law every time he comes to Harrisburg or goes home, and that includes the speaker.

As far as tractor-trailer safety is concerned, I think it is a known fact that 95 percent of the trailers operating on the highways today are equipped with air brakes. If they are not equipped with air brakes they possibly have what is called the booster brake, both of which are very efficient. They also have a separate trailer brake, a supplementary brake, with a valve mounted on the steering gear of the tractor. They are also equipped with what is called a bleed-back valve. That bleed-back valve is a separate control which can be set anywhere from 30 or 40 percent up to 60 percent with air pressure. When the pressure falls below a set point, the trailer brakes alone are automatically actuated. There is no need for additional emergency brakes on the present equipment. The Interstate Commerce Commission has covered that very thoroughly in their requirements. Some of the ICC requirements are not followed through with the PUC requirements.

I have been a little curious why certain industries are seemingly against the 40-foot trailer. There are many industries in this State of a particular type of industry that are operating 40-foot trailers. There are also industries to which the 40-foot trailer will mean additional business. I refer to the piggy-back service on railroads.

I asked a gentleman this morning why the railroads seemingly were lobbying against the passage of the 40-foot trailer. His answer was that if the 40-foot trailer passed today, next year they would come back here and there would be a 73,000-lb. gross vehicle weight go into effect. I do not agree with that because I would not vote for that myself and I do not think very many people here in the House would.

But I asked this gentleman, "What happens to your piggy-back service if a company in Chicago ships on one of your 80-foot flat cars two 40-foot trailers to Harrisburg? What happens to those two trailers when they get here?"

Well, he said, "We would take them off and deliver them."

I said, "No, you would not."

He said, "Under the reciprocity act between States, if the other State has lived up to all the requirements, we would be able to take those trucks and through reciprocity deliver them to wherever they had to go."

Mr. Speaker, we have checked since that conversation with the Department of Highways and Bureau of Motor Vehicles and we are told that no 40-foot trailers can be operated on the roads of Pennsylvania without a special permit given for each operation.

We were asked several times during the year to vote on certain bills which would possibly put a few more men to work with the understanding that it was so-called "featherbedding." Here we have three industries in Pennsylvania that I know of that came in here. I think they were brought in by the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority. The taxpayers of Pennsylvania put up certain money to bring those concerns into Pennsylvania and now those concerns, having come in here, built their factories, and put men to work, are now possibly in a position where they will have to move out of the State. That means several thousand employes will be put out of work. I think this becomes an economic factor to be considered. Are we going to drive industry out of the State of Pennsylvania or are we going to do everything we can within this legislature to bring industry into Pennsylvania?

I urge everybody to vote for the 40-foot-trailer bill. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Leonard.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, the record will show how I stand on heavy trucks going over the highways. There are many reasons but the most important reason to me at this time is the safety of the public. If you check the records you will find out time after time what has happened when a truck driver loses control due to inefficient braking and sometimes loses his life. Is that not more important than having the trucking industry use one truck instead of two and keep more people at work? Do not try to tell me that they want five feet more just to have a 40-foot truck. They want five feet more to haul more and more, like they did before, time after time. The record proves that; there is no question about that. Let us use our heads in here. We have many facilities to haul any kind of load you want to haul safely, but we do not have to haul it on a truck and knock people out of work. That is what it is going to do. If anybody knows the danger of these big trucks, it is the man who operates the trucks. We have direct telephone requests from truck drivers telling us not to vote for this bill. They are scared to death of it as it is now. About four or six years ago they asked for the weight that they are now using, and I went against that weight and I lost and they were granted that weight. But during the time that the bill was on the calendar, on my way over to Harrisburg and back, every time I stopped at a service station I checked in with the truck drivers that were there. I failed to run into one truck driver who wanted a heavier truck. The truck drivers of Allegheny County, western Pennsylvania, do not want this heavy truck.

Is making more money more important than the lives of these men who operate these trucks? Not in my opinion. We are killing too many people as it is right now. Use your own judgment and see how you feel about whether this is just or unjust.

They do not want this five feet just to have five feet. Now do not try to kid people. They want five feet more on their trucks to haul more and more. Instead of two trucks going out there will be one truck going out. Think it over, members, to that effect. Decide for yourselves which is right and which is wrong.

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

(DURING ROLL CALL)

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Bucks rise?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. To inquire of the Speaker whether House Rule 66 is being complied with.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will read the rule: Every member shall be present within the hall of the House during its sittings, unless excused by the House, or unavoidably prevented, and shall vote for or against each question put, unless he has a direct personal or pecuniary interest in the determination of the question, or unless he is excused by the House.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. GALLAGHER filed the following reasons for his vote on Senate bill 104:

Mr. Speaker, originally I voted to amend Senate bill No. 104 to permit the operation of 40-foot trailers in the State of Pennsylvania. However, today I voted against the bill because I will not tolerate intimidation, threats and pressure to vote one way or another.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask unanimous consent to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo, briefly.

The SPEAKER. Is the interrogation pertinent to anything pending before the House.

Mr. FULMER. It is pertinent to the statements made by Mr. Filo.

The SPEAKER. With unanimous consent, the gentleman can proceed, but the Chair hears objection.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, I respect the decision of the members.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of Senate bill No. 201, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1937 (P. L. 2017), entitled "County Institution District Law," further regulating the powers and duties of local authorities as to persons in foster homes and as to children and youth and further regulating payments for care.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we have made arrangements for a break for lunch and a short caucus. I ask that the Democratic members bring their House calendars with them to the caucus.

I will ask for a recess for one hour and a half for the purpose of a caucus and lunch. We will have lunch first. Members who have bills to amend, I ask that we amend those bills that have been agreed to at this time.

Come to the caucus room at 15 minutes to 2, daylight saving time. We will take 30 minutes for lunch. After the caucus we will return to the floor of the House, when I ask that we take up concurrences on bills and the other Senate bills. I yield to the minority leader.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we will have a caucus also. We will have lunch the first half-hour and caucus at a quarter of two.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 405, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), entitled "The Vehicle Code," further regulating suspensions of operators' licenses or learners' permits for violation of maximum speed limits.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. FULMER, SNARE and J. H. GOLDSTEIN.
RESOLUTION No. 91.

In the House of Representatives, July 13, 1961.

The General Appropriation Act of 1961 included the appropriation of moneys for a five per cent across the board cost of living pay raise for all State employees.

The large numbers of State employees faithfully performing their assigned tasks for low compensation is a tribute to their morale and devotion to duty. They have placed the welfare of the Commonwealth above personal consideration. To deny such employees the pay raises which the General Assembly has granted them is to refuse well merited recognition of many jobs well done.

The rule adopted by the Executive Board, that State employees are not entitled to the across the board cost of living pay raise until the anniversary date of their hiring, is inconsistent with the intent of the General Assembly and denies the employees compensation which is rightfully theirs; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Governor and other members of the Executive Board are hereby requested to take necessary action to make the pay raise of State employees given in the General Appropriation Act of 1961 immediately available to all State employees, and to make such pay raises retroactive to June 1, 1961.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1611, entitled:

An Act amending "The Second Class Township Code," approved May 1, 1933 (P. L. 103), providing for the appointment of alternate members to the board of adjustment.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1741, entitled:

An Act amending the "Dry Cleaning and Dyeing Law," approved May 14, 1949 (P. L. 1342), defining coin-operated dry cleaning and providing that certain provisions of the act shall not be applicable to dry cleaning by that means.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Lamb.

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate Mr. Strausser.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Columbia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STRAUSSER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, could the gentleman tell me whether or not there is a possibility of fire developing by virtue of coin-operated dry-cleaning machines?

Mr. STRAUSSER. No, there is not.

Mr. LAMB. Why?

Mr. STRAUSSER. Because non-combustible materials are used in coin-operated dry-cleaning machines.

Mr. LAMB. I thank the gentleman.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 1709, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Public Welfare for the maintenance of certain hospitals.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. POLEN asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

SENATE

MONDAY, JULY 17, 1961.

The Senate met at 1:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Doctor RONALD F. YOUNGBLOOD, Assistant Professor of Old Testament, Bethel Theological Seminary, St. Paul, Minnesota, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we invoke Thy divine favor upon all these Thy servants who have gathered here this afternoon, praying that Thy Spirit may rest on them as they deliberate on those matters that constitute the occasion of this legislative session.

Keep us mindful, O God, of the fact that the days in which we live are days of crisis and uncertainty. Impress upon us, with telling effect, the solemn truth of the observation that our ultimate strength as a Nation resides not in the massive retaliatory power of our armaments, or in the magnitude of our gross national product, or in the magnificence of our architecture, or in any other of our material accomplishments, impressive though these be. Instill in us the realization that we are physically great because we are spiritually great, and that the encouragement and development of our spiritual legacy are indispensable to all future material progress, as well as to eventual victory in the war of ideologies in which, though unsolicited and unprovoked by us, we are joined in battle.

Guide these Thy legislators and stewards, into whose hands the people of this Commonwealth have entrusted their affairs, to the insight that as the State goes, so goes the Nation. Help them to shore up the moral and ethical foundations of our culture in the domestic realm; assist them in preserving the traditions of freedom and justice that are enshrined in Pennsylvania's history; grant to them the wisdom and the perspicacity necessary for the equitable prosecution of their assigned duties; and give them the self-reliance to believe that their deliberations and the resultant enactment of laws are worthy of emulation in sister States.

In the Name of Jesus Christ we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. LANE and Mr. RIPP, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SEYLER, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1166), page 3, line 8, by striking out: "WITHOUT PAY."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, it appears that the amendment offered to this bill simply restores what was previously amended out. I am sure, Mr. President, that, having approved the bill prior to the introduction of this amendment and having approved the prior amendments, it would be rather unusual if we would now approve the restoration of the amendment.

Consequently, Mr. President, I would ask my colleagues to vote "no" on the amendment.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, may we be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease for a moment.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, after consultation with other interested parties, I now wish to withdraw the amendment I offered, and ask that the bill go over in order.

The PRESIDENT. There being on objection, the bill will go over in its order on third reading.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WADE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, the bill I am about to present, if enacted into law, would extend to the beneficiaries of present contributors to the State Retirement Fund the privilege of taking an option in the event of death of the contributor.

As we all know—and this is of particular interest I think to the Members of the Senate and employees—now the contributor has the privilege, if he lives to retire, of taking certain options. Under this bill, the beneficiaries of the contributors would have the same privilege of exercising an option. In other words, instead of being forced to take a single sum, they would have the privilege, for example, of taking a life income.

Mr. President, I am introducing this bill on behalf of Senator Probert, Senator Kessler and myself.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. WADE, PROBERT and KESSLER, presented to the Chair SB 861, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1959 (P. L. 392), entitled "State Employees' Retirement Code of 1959," permitting beneficiaries to elect an option in cases where a contributor who is entitled to a superannuation retirement allowance dies before electing an option.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Messrs. RIPP, DEVLIN, STASEY, FLEMING, SARRAF and McGINNIS presented to the Chair SB 862, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 3, 1937 (P. L. 1333), entitled "Pennsylvania Election Code," authorizing and providing procedures whereby certain qualified registered electors absent from or unable to attend their regular polling places may cast their votes; authorizing and providing procedures for the absentee voting by certain personnel of the Federal Government and of this Commonwealth including their spouses and dependents in the event they are qualified registered electors; imposing additional duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth, various county boards of elections and election officers, courts, various registration commissions, chairmen of political parties or committees, and officers and employees of certain political subdivisions; further regulating the procedures for the voting of qualified electors serving in the armed forces of the United States and certain qualified bedridden or hospitalized veterans; authorizing and providing assistance in voting for certain absentee voters; further regulating the dates for furnishing information as to offices to be filled, for filing and circulating nomination petitions and nomination papers; further regulating the time within which writs of election may issue for holding special elections to fill vacancies occurring in the offices of United States Senators Representatives in Congress Representatives in either House of the General Assembly councils or legislative bodies of cities boroughs towns and townships and further regulating the dates for filing nomination certificates withdrawals of nominated candidates vacancies for failure to pay filing fees or for failure to file loyalty oaths, substituted nomination certificates and further regulating the date for certification of nominees by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and providing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Elections.
Mr. KROMER presented to the Chair SB 863, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," removing provisions requiring counties to pay tuition charges for certain nonresident children who are inmates of children's institutions or who have been placed in private homes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Messrs. MAHADY and STAISEY presented to the Chair SB 864, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," increasing the membership of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and further providing for the selection of members of said commission.

Which was committed to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish.

Mr. KELLER presented to the Chair SB 865, entitled:

An Act authorizing the adoption of an alternative system for the government and management of county prisons and other county penal institutions in counties of the third class; providing for the appointment of county prison boards in such counties, and prescribing their powers and duties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Messrs. WARE and PROPERT presented to the Chair SB 866, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies, with the approval of the Department of Forests and Waters, to lease land in Valley Forge State Park to the United States Post Office Department for the purpose of the construction and operation of a post office.

Which was committed to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HAYS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, the bill which I am about to introduce is one calling for school district reorganization and grows out of the work of the Joint Select Committee on Education to study the Report of the Governor's Committee on Education.

It is the intention of the Select Committee on Education that this new bill will replace Senate Bill No. 676 and that no further consideration will be given by the Committee to that bill, which is a bill on school district reorganization. Instead, the bill which I am now introducing will be given the attention of the Committee.

This bill is co-sponsored by Senators Wagner, Shafer, Stroup and Silvert, and I request that it be referred to the Select Committee on Education.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. HAYS, WAGNER, SILVERT, STROUP and SHAFER, presented to the Chair SB 867, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," further classifying school districts and providing for the reorganization of school districts.

Which was committed to the Select Committee on Education.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, back in 1955, the General Assembly enacted certain legislation which allowed the Curtiss-Wright Corporation to lease some 50,000 acres of land. This land was situated in Cameron County, Elk County, and I think some in Centre County. We gave them an option for ninety-nine years to lease some 42,000 acres at a rental of $30,000 a year, if I remember correctly. We also sold them outright, with the mineral rights included, some 8,500 acres at a cost of $22.50 per acre.

Many of us were reluctant at that time to sell this land because many of the people and families had occupied that land for some 100 years. Sportsmen had hunting and fishing camps and summer homes up there. However, we were made to believe that if we sold this land to the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, we would have some 10,000 additional jobs in Pennsylvania.

If you recall, in 1955 things were not too rosy and 10,000 new jobs certainly were welcome. However, since that time, a strange turn of events has taken place. Back in 1959, I heard rumors from people who lived in that area that the land was not being used for the purposes which Curtiss-Wright intended. Incidentally, they told us they were going to use the land for research on jet planes and one of the reasons why they wanted to go into this mountainous area of Pennsylvania was so they would be removed from populated areas because in California and Chicago, where they had testing plants, the people were complaining about the tremendous noise and that they could not sleep at night. They gave us to understand that unless we sold them this land, they would go to the State of Nevada or the State of Utah and, of course, as I said, we were reluctant to not take advantage of a new industry and one which promised to employ 8,000 to 10,000 people.

Back in 1959, as I said a moment ago, I wanted an investigation of what actually was going on, but I was given a padded employment list, showing they were employing some 1,000 people. I did not want to jeopardize 1,000 jobs nor even five jobs and so I let it go. I did learn that instead of building airplanes, they were making foam rubber sponges and the like.

We were also told that one of the reasons why they wanted to go into that area was because of Penn State University, which had a fine nucleus of engineers and they wanted to train them in that field. Penn State University was closely situated and would be an ideal spot for these young engineers. Consequently, they employed some and a great many of them believed in what was going to happen and they built very fine homes, and a great many of them were mortgaged to the hilt. When they found the corporation was cutting back, many had to abandon those homes and when they did that, they took a tremendous loss.

Of course, another thing they did was that they built some seven miles of road up there which cost the Commonwealth and the Federal Government over $1,600,000. This road used to be just a black top, winding road and now it is a very fine two-lane highway.

Another thing which made me suspicious was this: A company as large as Curtiss-Wright came to the Legislature, as you all recall, and asked the Legislature to give them $150,000 for research on the composition of an asphalt base to be used for road-building. Now to have a company with assets as large as Curtiss-Wright coming to the Legislature for a sum as small as $150,000, for some reason or another, indicated that something just was not as it should be. As I understand it, however, the Administration never did release the money for that research.

Therefore, on behalf of Senator Kromer and myself, I would like to read this resolution and then I would like to have the Chair place the resolution in the appropriate committee.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease for just a moment?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, the resolution reads as follows:

"SENATE RESOLUTION (Serial No. 86)

"In the Senate, July 17, 1961.

"SENATE COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE THE SALE OF LANDS TO CURTISS-WRIGHT CORPORATION, AUTHORIZED BY THE ACT OF JUNE 3, 1955

"In the year 1955, the General Assembly of Pennsylvania authorized the sale of valuable forest lands at a price substantially below actual value. The sale was ultimately consummated.

"At the time of the sale, it was not believed that the Commonwealth had made a bad bargain. The "Cold War" situation was grave. Unemployment in Pennsylvania was great, industry generally was operating at less than normal capacity, and some industries, particularly coal, were operating at a small fraction of normal capacity.

"The purchaser of this land, Curtiss-Wright Corporation, intended to use it for "the purpose of testing (including flight-testing), experimenting with, or the manufacturing of aircraft and other power plants of any type, and for other scientific purposes, relating to research and development, or the manufacture and sale of any type of equipment or product, primarily in the interest of National Defense."

"Considering the good purposes of the sale—national defense and the securing of jobs for Pennsylvanians—it was believed the Commonwealth had made a good bargain. The money loss to the people of Pennsylvania, and the loss of hunting, fishing and recreation grounds to Pennsylvania sportsmen and vacationers was small indeed in light of the benefits to be gained.

"Some years have passed and as far as is known, except for a brief period when foam rubber was manufactured, this land has been used solely as hunting, fishing and vacation grounds for officers, employees and guests of Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

"No plants or facilities have been constructed,"—if I may make a correction there, no plants or facilities have been constructed on their own ground. However, there have been some facilities constructed on the leased properties.

I will now continue with the reading of the resolution as follows:

"No plants or facilities have been constructed, no jobs created, and national defense has not been advanced through the use of these lands. If this situation is to continue, then the people of Pennsylvania have been the victim of a bad faith amounting to fraud. In such a case, the lands rightfully belong to the people and should be devoted to some public use; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint five Members of the Senate who shall constitute a committee to investigate into the sale of the lands authorized by the Act of June 3, 1955 (P. L. 140), and to determine whether or not any real plans exist for devoting these lands to the uses specified in the Act authorizing the sale, what if any actions have been taken to implement such plans, the truth or falsity of the charges that the lands have been used for private recreation grounds, and any other matter relating to the transaction; and be it further

"Resolved, That the committee inquire into and study the advisability of reclaiming this land through the exercise of eminent domain; and be it further

"Resolved, That the committee may hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations at such places as it shall deem necessary within this Commonwealth. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and be it further

"Resolved, That the committee make a report of its findings and recommendations for appropriate action to this body as soon as possible."

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to at least have equal time to discuss this resolution, although I realize it is not proper to comment on a resolution.

I would like to make just one brief statement, however, in regard to this resolution. Perhaps there is a fact which Senator Pechan is not aware of and I would like to bring it to his attention. As a matter of fact, today, in the Governor's Office, there is a meeting on this very situation.

I think we were all present and voted on this matter when it came before us. I wonder if Senator Pechan is implying there was bad faith on the part of Curtiss-Wright. One of the reasons why I wanted the gentleman to read his resolution was in order for me to understand it. The resolution seems to be ambiguous and it does not tell just on whose part the bad faith existed or, even at this point, exists. If that is what the gentleman is saying, I think it would be very simple for us to summon the executives of this corporation and bring them in here to Pennsylvania to appear before whatever committee this resolution goes to, get an answer to that, and then we can proceed from that point on.

I would advise this procedure rather than to assemble a committee to investigate and come to these same conclusions, which is costly and time consuming. If that is what he is implying, I think we can do that rather quickly through the regular committee to which this resolution is referred.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION LAID ON THE TABLE

RECALLING FROM THE GOVERNOR SB 114

Mr. WEINER offered the following resolution which was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 17, 1961.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 114, Printer's No. 894, entitled "An act re-enacting and amending Section 13 and Article VII of Chapter II of the Act of December 15, 1959 (P. L. 1779), entitled 'An act relating to fish and amending, revising, consolidating and changing the law relating to fish in the inland waters and the boundary lakes and boundary rivers of the Commonwealth,' removing the requirement that fishermen be licensed in order to fish in certain regulated fishing lakes, further regulating the issuance of permits or bills of sale for fish caught in such lakes changing penalties relating to such lakes and harmonizing language of existing law," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would like to request that this resolution be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the resolution will be laid on the table.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. SEYLER and HAYS, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 868, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," making certain additional persons eligible for sabbatical leave.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, July 17, 1961.

The House met at 2 p.m., e.s.t.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O God of all power, in the anxiety of life and the perplexing situations which face us, we come to Thee in the awareness of a need beyond ourselves; we know that too often we are so concerned about the affairs of this life and the worries which surround us that we lose sight of the real value which Thou hast to bestow in the life which is to come. Omnipotent One, we pray that the truths of Thy Word may become our constant guide, and we may come to know the real import of the words of Thy servant: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." And enable us as we reverence and respect Thy name to use Thy power for the upbuilding of Thy kingdom in the hearts and minds of all mankind; through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Thursday, July 13, 1961, will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTION

COMMENDATION

Mr. HELM. Mr. Speaker, we have in our midst a man, who, I think, lends a lot of leadership to this House by his words of wisdom and his spiritual leadership as well, a man whom I think is given too little credit for the fine job he does. And with that slight background, Mr. Speaker, I would like to present a resolution at this time and ask for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read by the chief clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 17, 1961.

The House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania takes this method of thanking and commending Rev. David R. Hoover, Chaplain of this legislative body.

His leadership not only in a spiritual sense but also as an advisor and conferee in the many problems confronting the members of this body, has endeared him to its members. His prayers and attendance at all funerals of members have been of invaluable service and guidance to all of us.

The fact that this session is his second successive term as Chaplain speaks louder than any words which we may utter or write as to the esteem with which we hold Rev. Hoover.

In McConnellsburg and throughout Fulton County, Rev. Hoover is not only respected as an outstanding spiritual leader, but one of the foremost civic leaders as well.

He resides in McConnellsburg with his wife Mary and three children. He is minister of the Lutheran Church in McConnellsburg; therefore be it

Resolved, That Rev. David R. Hoover be hereby commended on his outstanding leadership spiritually and civilly; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be presented to Rev. David R. Hoover.

s/Harry M. Elvey
Hiram G. Andrews
W. Stuart Helm
Blaine C. Hocker

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

PRESENTATION OF RESOLUTION

The SPEAKER. Members of the House, we admire this man because of his gentle strength; his gentle courage. He does not require a robe to make him minister to someone in kindly sympathy with our goings and comings, our misfortunes. He is a man like us, like the rest of us a manly man, and he has one unique gift, he combines piety with a lively sense of humor.

So, sir, it gives me great pleasure to present to you this resolution with the great gilt seal of the Commonwealth upon it.

The CHAPLAIN (Reverend David R. Hoover). I think usually when the Speaker calls the House to order and asks if Dr. Dengler will sing "Happy Birthday," in all probability the member, whose birthday is being feted that day, is well aware that he is going to be asked to say a few words. But there are times when many of these things come as a surprise, so we are not prepared for what is about to take place. That is the way I feel at this time.

But I stand before you in deepest humility, with the realization that anything that I have done, or anything that I may be privileged to do, I do for the honor and glory of the office to which I have been asked to serve and the privilege of working with some of the finest individuals I have ever come to know.

Thank you.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM GOVERNOR

The secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which were read as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1811, entitled:

An Act providing for the regulation of credit life insurance and credit accident and health insurance conferring powers and imposing duties on the Insurance Commissioner and prescribing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be re-committed to the Committee on Rules.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the minority leader rise?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I rise to oppose the motion.

Mr. Speaker, when this bill first came out on the calendar, I read it over and did not quite understand it; I did not really know what the necessity was for the bill. I have had quite a few calls from friends of mine wanting me to be against the bill, but I want to say in all sincerity that I have restudied the bill and looked it over and it seems to me it would be a highly salutary thing for this type of business to be studied and some regulation had on it. I think it would be a very unwise thing to send this bill back to committee.

Therefore, I, ask that the members vote "no" on this motion.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Hamilton.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I definitely oppose the recommittal of this bill at this time.

Will the House agree to the motion?

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. STITELER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, having a personal interest in this type of legislation such as the previous vote, I do not feel I have a right to vote, but I would like to be recorded as being present.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would believe that this was not a bill that applied especially to the gentleman from Somerset, that it applied to a great many people other than the gentleman from Somerset, and, in the opinion of the Chair and in view of many, many past precedents, the gentleman would have the right to vote.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 84, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 25, 1947 (P. L. 1145), entitled as amended "Local Tax Enabling Law" changing the overall limit of tax revenues for certain taxing districts.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, as I understand Senate bill 84, it changes the formula by which local taxes can be levied by all municipalities except school districts. I understand the provisions of Senate bill 84 were already provided for in school districts.

Essentially what it amounts to is that they change the base for calculating the amount of taxes which a local community can raise from an assessed valuation to a market valuation. They change it from a 15-mill base on the assessed valuation to a 12-mill base on the market valuation. That would mean that local communities would be entitled to raise essentially 300 percent more in tax revenue before they would be in violation of the tax enabling law—without being in violation of the law.

I consider this to be a breaking of the barrier on local taxes. I further consider it to be a subterfuge to bypass the electorate on the amount of taxes which they may levy. For those reasons I am very much opposed to this bill.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 491, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 25, 1941 (P. L. 159), entitled: "Municipal Borrowing Law," changing the definition of assessed valuation.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, was standing there and desires to be recognized.

The SPEAKER. I know the gentleman might have been standing there, but, as the gentleman from Cameron well knows, to secure recognition he addresses the Chair in a loud and commanding voice.

The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, this bill attempts to redefine the base upon which municipalities may borrow money. In doing so they attempt to redefine what constitutes assessed valuation of property and they define such valuation as being the market valuation for purposes of borrowing money.

Now, very clearly, in my opinion, this violates Article IX, section 8, of the constitution which provides that the debt borrowing capacity must be made upon the assessed values and not the market values. The distinction between assessed values and market values was very vividly recognized by the Commission on Constitutional Revision in 1958, which you will find in their report beginning on page 42, page 43, page 44 and page 45 relating to this very subject. In other words, if this definition should go through, you could triple the borrowing capacity of your local municipalities by 300 percent. Again, you would be breaking the barrier, not on legislation, but of the constitution in that respect, and, again, you would be having a subterfuge and a device to bypass the people on the control of their debt.

For that reason I am very definitely against this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, Senate bill 491 and the question of the constitutionality that has been raised by the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, certainly may some day end up in the courts should this become law. But as the bill has been very carefully defined, this changes the definition from assessed valuation to market valuation. The percentage probably would be very great in some cases; in others, perhaps not as much. Some areas are assessed at the present time, I suppose, all the way from 15 percent to as high as 75 percent of market value. Certainly this is a step in the right direction to assist local municipalities in the borrowing power that they need, and I favor the legislation on the grounds that local municipalities have endorsed this type of legislation and asked us to support it. I hope that the membership of this House may be able to do the same.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, if they desire to accomplish that purpose, they then should take the recommendation of the Constitutional Revision Commission and make it in the form of a constitutional amendment rather than to try to do it by legislative fiat.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill 539, entitled:

An Act amending the act of December 20, 1933 (1933-34 P. L. 89), entitled "An act appropriating the moneys in The State Stores Fund" providing for additional kinds of insurance.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate one of the sponsors of this bill, the chairman of the Committee on Insurance, Mr. Hamilton.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Hamilton, chairman of the Committee on Insurance, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, this bill was not in my committee for investigation so I would not be able to give all the answers the gentleman would like to have.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, as I understand this bill, this would provide that the State may purchase public liability insurance for Liquor Control Board enforcement officers in the performance of their duties. I merely wanted to call the attention of the members of the House to the fact that Commonwealth employees in the performance of their duties cannot be liable for their conduct, and, consequently, the purchasing of public liability insurance would be a waste of money. I might say there are many court cases on direct point in this matter, one of them being a recent case handed down in my own county where the court held that pursuant to the Supreme Court rulings even the statutory authorization to carry liability insurance does not constitute a legislative waiver of immunity and, even though the employees in this particular instance, being public officials and employees, committed a certain act and public liability insurance covered their conduct, it was not a waiver of their immunity. Consequently, the plaintiff had no claim against the tortfeasor. That is why I would like to say that purchasing this type of insurance by the Commonwealth is a waste of money.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MURPHY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, in a situation where a statute has provided that the government may be sued for liability, why then would the agent be responsible in that situation?

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, it is my legal understanding—I am sure the Philadelphia lawyer knows the law better than I do on public liability, but it is my understanding—that where there is a statutory waiver of the Commonwealth's immunity then a lawsuit will lie, that is correct.

Mr. McCORMACK. There have been statutory waivers provided in several situations and—

Mr. MURPHY. But not in this instance.

Mr. McCORMACK. That is what I want to know. Does the gentleman know for a fact whether or not the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board is subject to public liability?

Mr. MURPHY. It is my understanding that in the performance of their duties as enforcement officers they are immune from liability.

Mr. McCORMACK. Then if this were to pass—Does Mr. Sakulsky desire to be interrogated? I am trying to get some information and if he can be helpful, I will be glad.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, it takes two of us to compete with a Philadelphia lawyer, and I am sure the Speaker will verify that.

Mr. McCORMACK. Then, as I understand your position, and I am not for this bill, you are saying that since the Liquor Control Board is not subject to public liability, therefore there would be no reason to protect the agent because he would not be liable, either, in the performance of his duty. Is that correct?

Mr. MURPHY. That is right.

Mr. McCORMACK. And that the carrying of insurance does not waive this immunity?

Mr. MURPHY. The fact that we authorize them to be covered by insurance does not waive their immunity.

Mr. McCORMACK. I see Mr. Fineman is shaking his head. May I interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FINEMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, as I understand this bill, it would provide for the payment of premiums for policies taken out on behalf of enforcement officers of the Liquor Control Board for public liability insurance. Is that correct?

Mr. FINEMAN. That is correct.

Mr. McCORMACK. Public liability insurance is insurance to protect enforcement officers from claims made by the general public?

Mr. FINEMAN. That is correct.

Mr. McCORMACK. And, of course, claims would be made by the general public for negligence in the performance of their duties as enforcement officers?

Mr. FINEMAN. That is correct.

Mr. McCORMACK. Under the present law is the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board subject to public liability?

Mr. FINEMAN. You mean is it subject to claims?

Mr. McCORMACK. Is it subject to claims by the public?

Mr. FINEMAN. I think not. Any State agency acting in its proprietary capacity is exempt from immunity, but the actor, the individual, has no shield of immunity, as I understand the law, because he is an agent of a State agency. Therefore, he would be in need of the insurance. I, therefore, disagree with the gentleman from Washington County.

Mr. McCORMACK. You mean if an enforcement agent is acting within the scope of his authority as an agent, even though the agency would not be responsible, the individual actor would be if he acts negligently?

Mr. FINEMAN. An agent is always responsible for his torts.

Mr. McCORMACK. And that would be so in this situation?

Mr. FINEMAN. That is right.

Mr. McCORMACK. Then there would be a need for public liability insurance, even though the Liquor Control Board is not subject to claim?

Mr. FINEMAN. That is right.

Mr. McCORMACK. Then if he acts without the scope of his employment, this insurance would not cover that situation, would it?

Mr. FINEMAN. The provisions of the policy would exempt the insurance company from being held on the risk.

Mr. McCORMACK. Then there is a need for this insurance?

Mr. FINEMAN. As I understand the law, there is a need, yes.

Mr. McCORMACK. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia that the actor himself, the Commonwealth agent himself, as an individual, is not immune from such liability, but the Commonwealth itself, which would pay these premiums, is an immune body. Even though we should carry insurance on our employes and they should act negligently, the Commonwealth itself is purchasing this insurance to insure both the agent and the Commonwealth, and I say that if the agent himself acts in a negligent manner, he should cover his own liability and that the Commonwealth should not expend payment for premiums which are not going to provide the Commonwealth with one penny's worth of protection.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the only question here is a policy question, according to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, and I have reason to believe that what he states is a correct statement of the law, that an agent could be held responsible even though the agency could not be under the present law. The question is one of policy, whether or not we, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, should provide the premiums for public liability to protect that agent who is acting within the scope of his authority, although acting in a negligent manner. The question is whether we should pay the premium for that insurance, which I imagine is not too significant a sum, or whether the individual agent, based upon the salary he receives and the other benefits from the Commonwealth, is in a financial position to assume the cost of paying the premium. I think that because of the money that the agents receive in Pennsylvania today the Commonwealth could very well afford to pay the premiums on this public liability insurance rather than the individual agents. I, therefore, suggest to the members of the House that this is really a good bill.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I concur with the observations of the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy. The bill is very astutely drawn. It says for policies in the performance of their duties, not in the course of their employment. Under this bill, if a liquor control agent in the performance of his duty commits an assault unwarrantedly upon an individual citizen, then the policy would cover the agent. We think no agent should be protected against an illegal act and because the bill is drawn in this manner we feel it should be defeated.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sherman.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have had cases involving the same question where suit was brought against an operator of an automobile or vehicle belonging to the city. The city itself was omitted from the suit, even though the party was driving the vehicle in the course of employment. You have the same situation with the State. Yet, that party needed protection, and why should he go ahead and hire his own protection, an attorney, and go into hundreds of dollars of expense? This provides for protection for the man who was driving within his employment or engaged in pursuit of his employment. It is protection that should be afforded a man of that kind. Therefore, I ask the support of both sides.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Lamb.

Mr. LAMB. Mr. Speaker, I have noticed the tendency in the appellate courts, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and also the Circuit Court of Appeals, in the third circuit, to do what they possibly could to get around the very harsh doctrine that the sovereign cannot be sued. I think it is very likely, in the near future, for the court to rule that the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board is not acting in a governmental function, and acting in a proprietary function and can be sued. I think that the court can very well rely upon a recent case handed down by the third circuit to the effect that the turnpike commission can be sued for its negligence. On that basis I think we should take a forward step and look ahead and protect the state store employes in this case. Thank you.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 540, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929" providing for additional kinds of insurance.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. Are these amendments agreed upon?

Mr. McCANN. No. sir.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I think, Mr. McCann will concur in them for the benefit of good government.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I answered the question, these amendments have not been agreed to.

The SPEAKER. Will the clerk read the amendments in full, or does the gentleman from Allegheny desire that they not be read in full and he will explain them?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I will explain the amendments.

Messrs. M. H. GOLDSTEIN and K. B. LEE asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 2, last line of Title, by inserting after "insurance" and authorizing the Secretary of Property and Supplies to transact business as an insurance broker for the purpose of contracting insurance and surety bonds for any department, board, agency or commission of this Commonwealth and for any State authority established by law

Amend Bill, page 5, by inserting between lines 3 and 4 Section 2. The act is amended by adding after section 2404, a new section to read:

Section 2404.1. Secretary of Property and Supplies a Licensed Insurance Broker.—The Secretary of Property and Supplies ex officio is hereby authorized and his duty shall be to transact business as a licensed insurance broker for the purpose of contracting all insurance and surety bonds for any department, board, agency or commission of this Commonwealth and for the General State Authority, the State Public School Building Authority or any other State authority or commission created by law.

Any and all fees collected by the Secretary of Property and Supplies for the performance of the duties of a licensed insurance broker in contracting insurance or surety bonds for any department, board, agency, commission or authority of this Commonwealth shall be paid into the General Fund through the State Treasury.

Section 3. (a) The following acts and parts of acts are repealed in so far as they authorize the contracting of insurance for any department, board, agency, commission or authority of this Commonwealth through an insurance broker other than the Secretary of Property and Supplies:

(1) Section 509, act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), known as "The Administrative Code of 1929."

(3) Section 623, act of May 17, 1921 (P. L. 789), known as "The Insurance Department Act of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one" and its amendments.

(4) The act of July 5, 1947 (P. L. 1217), known as the "State Public School Building Authority Act" and its amendments.

(5) The act of March 31, 1949 (P. L. 372), known as "The General State Authority Act of one thousand nine hundred forty-nine," and its amendments.

(b) All other acts and parts of acts are repealed in so far as they authorize the contracting of insurance for any department, board, agency, commission or authority of this Commonwealth through an insurance broker other than the Secretary of Property and Supplies.

Amend Sec. 2, page 5, line 4, by striking out "2" and inserting 4

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, these amendments incorporate a part of the Republican policy in the interest of economy and good government. They are, briefly, as follows:

Where insurance is purchased by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the Secretary of Property and Supplies shall be the insurance broker and the proceeds received by him, as the insurance broker, shall be paid into the General Fund.

Today in Pennsylvania we are spending millions of dollars to carry on government. Here is an opportunity for us, as legislators, to make some money for the taxpayers. The people who receive these moneys are participating in a political gravy train. They perform no service on behalf of the public. They are designated by people from a list. The amount that could go back to the taxpayers is unestimated, but I am quite sure whether it is tens of thousands of dollars or even a million dollars it should be done, because we, as legislators, must bring about a climate in Pennsylvania wherein the citizens will feel that we are doing something for them and not against them. I ask all members on both sides of the House to vote for this amendment. There is no reason in the world why a man sitting in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh should receive a piece of paper and receive hundreds of thousands of dollars merely because he knows the political party in power. I want to pinpoint this very carefully. At times, not only Democrats but Republicans, have had the benefit of this particular policy. These amendments are merely a restatement of bills which I introduced when, not only Republicans, but Democrats, participated. Whether it is bipartisan today, I do not know, but it is not the kind of bipartisanship we want.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would call attention to the fact that the gentleman from Washington was standing but did not address the Chair. The Chair cannot always see the entire House. The majority leader did not know that the gentleman from Washington was standing. It is just as easy for the members to say in a loud, commanding voice, after the fashion of the gentleman from Cameron, "Mr. Speaker," and continue saying Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, until they are recognized.

Mr. MURPHY. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. However, I recall that on one occasion I did that and was admonished by the Speaker for butting in before I was recognized.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that the reasons set forth by the gentleman from Allegheny were the very reasons why I opposed Senate bill 539. On many, many occasions, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been, in the past years, purchasing insurance which it does not need, and consequently, it is a waste of money. I would say that if these amendments were supported, we had an agency of the Commonwealth as a broker of record, that we would only purchase the insurance that is necessary, and, consequently, we would not be tied up in buying insurance to insure the Commonwealth when the Commonwealth is not liable. I would like to support those amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the membership on this side of the House to vote "no" on the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

The SPEAKER. How does the gentleman who offers the amendments desire that they should be resolved?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 50

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 50 on page 21 of the calendar.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 4, 1961.

Whereas the Independence Hall Mall is now nearly a completed project of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and

Whereas the Federal Mall East of Independence Hall is also nearing completion and

Whereas the Redevelopment Authority Law which has helped give new life to so many important sections of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is a direct outgrowth of the Independence Hall Mall idea and

Whereas historic Society Hill and the Independence Neighborhood of old Philadelphia are being rebuilt modernized and redeveloped but will maintain a substantial portion of buildings of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries so that such area will have the largest concentration of continuously occupied structures of early American architecture in the United States of America and

Whereas the millions of dollars expended in the Redevelopment program in and around old Philadelphia are bringing into being many many more millions of dollars of new structures and millions of dollars in revenue to the governments involved and

Whereas all of this activity was stimulated and started by petitions of the residents of Philadelphia's Fifth Ward prepared by a former member of the House of Representatives the Honorable Isidor Ostroff and circulated by his committee made up of Harry Faden Jacob Tracer Eugene Kane Louis Ordile Lena Singer Harry Gralnick Barney Brooke Harry Katz Sabina Singer Harry Schmukler Dorothy Schaeffer I L Stern Albert Gerofsky Henry LeBlond and many others and

Whereas such petitions were forwarded to Congressman Leon Sacks who first introduced in the Congress of the United States a bill prepared by the Honorable Isidor Ostroff for the creation of the Independence Hall Mall which bill was introduced in subsequent Congresses by the successors of Congressmen Sacks Gallagher Bradley Cardie Scott and Byrne and

Whereas the said Isidor Ostroff cooperated with Honorable Edwin O Lewis and the Independence Hall Association in many appearances before this and the National Legislature and worked anonymously with Judge Lewis to bring about the realization of this patriotic transformation of Old Philadelphia during which he had the "soubriquet" of "chief errand boy" and liaison and

Whereas it is fitting and proper that the Legislature of Pennsylvania should record for posterity the unsung selfless devotion with which our former colleague worked with any and all who would make possible the proper enshrinement of our nation's most cherished historical structures and the best setting for America's most historic mile square therefore be it

Resolved That the Legislature of Pennsylvania extends its congratulations and felicitations to the Honorable Isidor Ostroff on the transformation of the area in the vicinity of Independence Hall into a site of beauty and a fitting setting for the enshrinement of our nation's most hallowed historic structures and the preservation of so many authentic early American structures and our gratification that his dedicated persistency in the face of ridicule and skepticism made possible the realization of his "dream" for a better Philadelphia and be it further

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Isidor Ostroff

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. A. M. LEE asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend preamble, page 2, by inserting between first and second preamble:

Whereas, The Honorable Edwin O. Lewis, former Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County, devoted many years to the stimulation and implementation of these projects and provided the inspiration and leadership so necessary to its success; and Amend second preamble, page 2, by striking out "all of" in the first line of the preamble.

Amend second preamble, page 2, by striking out "started" in the first line of preamble and inserting: encouraged

Amend third preamble, page 2, by striking out "Cardie" in the next to last line of preamble and inserting: Hardie

Amend second preamble, page 3, by striking out "our former colleague" in the third line of preamble and inserting: these persons

Amend second preamble, page 3, by striking out "who would" in third line of preamble and inserting: to Amend first resolution, page 3, second line of resolution, by inserting after "to": the Honorable Edwin O. Lewis

Amend first resolution, page 3, second line of resolution, by inserting after "Ostroff": Congressmen Sacks, Gallagher, Bradley, Hardie, Scott and Byrne, as well as the residents of the Fifth Ward of Philadelphia referred to above

Amend first resolution, page 3, sixth line of resolution, by striking out "his" and inserting: their

Amend first resolution, page 4, first line of resolution, by striking out "his" and inserting: their

Amend second resolution, page 4, second line of resolution, by inserting after "the": Honorable Edwin O. Lewis, the Honorable Amend second resolution, page 4, third line of resolution, by inserting after "Ostroff": Congressmen Sacks, Gallagher, Bradley, Hardie, Scott and Byrne, as well as each of the residents of the Fifth Ward of Philadelphia referred to above or their families.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

No. 78.

SENATE

TUESDAY, JULY 18, 1961.

The Senate met at 12:00 noon, Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT, (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Doctor RONALD E. YOUNGBLOOD, Assistant Professor of Old Testament, Bethel Theological Seminary, St. Paul, Minnesota, offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, our Heavenly Father, our thoughts are once again focused on Thee and on Thy purposes for this Assembly as we convene to consider legislative matters pertinent to the well-being of the people of Pennsylvania. In a spirit of dependence on Thee, we invoke Thy blessing on all who are here gathered in these Chambers.

We have been made aware of the fact that the needs of Thy people in this Commonwealth are considerable, and that the obstacles confronting the satisfaction of those needs are formidable. Nonetheless, we pray that Thou, O Lord, wilt imbue us with those qualities necessary to insure the implementation of essential legislation. Give us vision, for where there is no vision, the people perish, but temper it with realism. Grant us foresight, but balance it with due circumspection. To our sense of urgency, add a sense of responsibility. In our temptation to succumb to political expediences, remind us that we are men of conscience. Above all, endow us with mutual respect for one another, and help us to remember that, of whatever political stripe, we are all creatures of Thy wisdom, molded in Thine image.

Now as the participants in this Session press forward the time when they must adjourn, wilt Thou grant to them a sense of unusual accomplishment, together with the unmistakable feeling that they have successfully performed the tasks to which they originally set themselves.

In the Name of Christ, our Lord, we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. LANE, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

All bills on today's Final Passage Calendar were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

THIRD READING CALENDAR

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 23—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL OVER IN ORDER TEMPORARILY

HB 53 (Pr. No. 1017)—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 53, Printer's No. 1017, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I must rise to object to this bill going over in its order because, I am advised, today is the last day for this bill to be passed and placed in the area whereby it can be advertised and subsequently properly appear on the ballot. If this does not happen today, it will make no difference whether we ever pass this measure.

I have a communication from the Bureau of Commissions and Elections, in the Department of State, which is charged with this matter. They have a number of matters which they want to advertise, and this is one of them.

I think we should vote on this bill. If it fails, I think we at least will have done our legislative duty. I would like to see it passed. I think it is a good measure and the kind of thing that we need.

I would respectfully ask my colleagues to vote on this matter today. It has been here for some time. It is a House Bill and I think we should pass it.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, in connection with this bill, I believe that the questions which we had upon it are well known. There is no dispute that some alleviation of residence requirements in Presidential years is desired and desirable. However, the difficulty, Mr. President, has been to amend this bill so that electors could vote in Presidential years when they move from one part of the United States to another and still not vote on the local questions, which they might not be familiar with and probably would not be familiar with by that time.

For that reason, Mr. President, we have been endeavoring to get some amendments into this bill. Apparently, neither side has been able to come up with anything which would do the job. Consequently, Mr. President, we find the bill, in its present form, reducing the residence requirements for a voter in the Commonwealth to sixty days, is not at this time acceptable for the complete qualification of voters at all elections.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, as the gentleman well knows, this measure must not only go through this Session, but the following Session before we can even act on it. I would think the important factor in this measure is that we allow people as wide a latitude as we possibly can in their ability to vote, within the keeping of our law and in order that no fraud takes place. We should enfranchise rather than disenfranchise people from voting. I think this bill moves in that direction.

Because today is the last day for voting on this measure, I think we certainly should at least address ourselves to this problem. If, in the wisdom of this Body, we see fit not to act on this measure or seek to defeat it, that is one area. If we see fit to act on it, I think we should do it as expeditiously as possible so it can be properly advertised and reappear again next year.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, if I correctly understood the Majority Leader in his last statement, this must pass a succeeding Session of the Legislature. Is that what the gentleman said?

Mr. WEINER. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. That being the case, Mr. President, I know of no requirement that it must be advertised before it has passed two successive Sessions of the Legislature.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I hate to differ with my colleague, but I have a letter here from the Department of State. I will be very happy to transmit it to the gentleman. It reads as follows:

"My purpose in again calling this to your attention is because we are holding up preparation and distribution of newspaper mats for publishing such proposed amendments, as required by Article XVIII of the Constitution.

"Usually, we have had July 1st as a deadline, but the agency which handles the mechanical details has agreed that it can manage to still include this one Resolution if it is approved no later than today.

"This is an important proposal which would do much to curtail the widespread complaints about the disenfranchisement of voters, especially in Presidential elections."

I would like to add, Mr. President, that it must be advertised twice. It must be advertised once when it goes through, and then it must be advertised again after it passes the Legislature and before it appears on the ballot for the consideration of the electorate to amend our Constitution. In order to properly do this thing, this advertising must be included. It must be in proper form and must be done on a certain number of days and within a certain time limit, as set up by the Constitution.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I accept the ruling of the Department of State.

The PRESIDENT. I was wondering, Senator Berger, whether you wanted to review the letter and have the bill go over in order temporarily, until you had reviewed the letter.

Mr. BERGER. Yes, I would like to have that letter, Mr. President.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDENT. Would you like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, before or after the Minority Leader reads the letter?

Mr. BELL. I think this will clear up the entire matter.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, is the context of this letter that an amendment to the Constitution can be passed in this Session, this year, and then passed during our Session next year in order to get it on the ballot?

Mr. WEINER. I am sorry, Mr. President, I do not understand the gentleman's question.

Mr. BELL. I will rephrase my question, Mr. President.

It is my understanding that to amend the Constitution of Pennsylvania, this has to pass this Session and we have to have an intervening General Election, at which a Legislature is chosen, and then be presented to another Session. Is the context of this letter to the effect that you have to advertise now because they are treating the Fiscal Session as the second Session?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, it is my understanding, under the resolution which was passed during the last Session, which was the first time we had a Fiscal Session, this was among the things that can be taken up. I do not want to burden the record with the list of things. However, it would allow us to pass on matters which amend the Constitution and bring them before the electorate. Therefore, the proposal contained in this bill would have to be advertised. If we pass it this year, we could pass it again next Session—which will be a Fiscal Session and which could also deal with a constitutional problem—advertise it then, and place it on the ballot.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I call the Majority Leader's attention to Article XVIII of the Constitution and suggest he repeat it before going further into this matter.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, in regard to Article XVIII of the Constitution, it provides as follows:

"... the same to be published three months before the next general election, in at least two newspapers in every county in which such newspapers shall be published; and if, in the General Assembly next afterwards chosen, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each House, the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall cause the same again to be published in the manner aforesaid; . . ."

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe the reading of Article XVIII of the Constitution bears out what I have just said. It states there shall be two publications, once after each time an Act is passed. It is stated very clearly in Section 1, of Article XVIII of the Constitution, which deals with future amendments. I believe Senator Sesler read it absolutely correctly and probably a lot better than I could have read it.

Therefore, I am going to yield to the remarks made by him on the record, which would bear out what I believe I have just stated. If I am incorrect on that, I wish the gentleman would correct me.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I think if this Section is carefully read, you will see there is required to be an intervening General Election, at which General Election a General Assembly is chosen. In other words, an election is required when the House of Representatives and half of the Senators are chosen. This General Election, this fall, is not the type of election which is under consideration in Article XVIII of the Constitution. In other words, to amend the Constitution, the amendment must pass one Session, there must be an intervening legislative election, and then the amendment must pass a second Session.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe the gentleman is belaboring a point which I think is perfectly clear. Article XVIII of the Constitution cannot be read just by itself. In the meantime, we have amended the Constitution whereby we now have yearly Sessions. Article XVIII of the Constitution reads, in part, as follows:

"... three months before the next general election, in at least two newspapers in every county in which such newspapers shall be published; and if, in the General Assembly next afterwards chosen, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be agreed to by a majority . . ."—and so on and so forth.

Now in the intervening time since Article XVIII was originally written into the Constitution in 1874, in 1959 or 1960, I believe we agreed to have Annual Sessions dealing with fiscal matters. Along with that, the leadership on both sides passed a general resolution which permitted us to also take up this problem. We are saying that you must read Article XVIII of the Constitution in conjunction with the other amendment as we passed it.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I am not going to ask for a point of order on this question. However, I have in my possession a copy of the Constitution. It is very clear and I do not concur with the Majority Leader's reasoning. I do not concur with the Secretary of the Commonwealth's letter. I do not think either one of them has the authority to change this Constitution. I think the matter of our having to rush this thing through today is immaterial and entirely moot.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Bell.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BELL. Absolutely, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, it is the opinion of the gentleman that if this matter is left unsettled, then the best way to handle it is by doing nothing?

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I do not think that question is germane. I am discussing Article XVIII of the Constitution. To me and to the people of Pennsylvania, the interpretation of this Article has been that to amend the Constitution, an amendment has to pass one Session of the General Assembly. Then we must have an intervening General Election, at which a House of Representatives is chosen and one-half of the Senators, and then it comes back to us for the second run. It does not provide in this Article that the intervening General Election should be one at which municipal officers are elected.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman allow himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. BELL. I will, Mr. President, if it is germane.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if we do not act on this measure at this time, then does the gentleman say that we will not have to act on it until two years from now?

Mr. BELL. It is my interpretation that if we pass this amendment at this Session, then, before we act on it again, if we pass it in 1961, it will have to be passed again in 1963. You cannot pass it in 1961 and pass it in 1962, and then have it go to the electorate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, let me ask my question in another way. Suppose we do not take any action on this bill, which seems to be the area into which we are heading. Is it the gentleman's opinion that we cannot do anything on this until 1963?

Mr. BELL. No, that is not what I said.

Right now the issue is that we must have a hurry-up, rush job because the Secretary of the Commonwealth has sent you a letter.

I say that we should study this bill. We should then have it written the way we want to have it written and then vote on it. I think that is the only issue before he Senate today.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I want to thank the gentleman.

I would also like to point out that this measure was introduced on anuary 17, 1961, in the House. It came to the Senate on April 4, 1961. It came out on the Calendar on June 13, 1961. Today is July 18, 1961. I certainly fail to see where this would be a hurried matter, or something upon which we cannot decide. It is a measure that took place just last week. This matter has been on the Calendar for quite some time. As a matter of fact, it passed Second Reading here on July 6, 1961. With that before us, I certainly fail to see where we are hurrying or rushing or trying to reach some sort of a fast conclusion.

This is a very short bill. It consists altogether of seventeen lines on one page and four or five lines on another page. I do not think it would take a great deal of thinking or a great deal of working in order to pass or deal with this measure. I am not urging you to even vote for it, but I think we certainly should address ourselves to it and take some action. If we delay taking action on it, it may be absolutely a useless act that we are performing, because it will be too late and our action will be absolutely meaningless.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, in defense of my position, I am questioning the propriety and the accuracy of the letter which was produced by the Majority Leader. I do not think its contents are in accordance with the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

Speaking further, as to the chronological timetable, whether this amendment is passed in the 1961 Session or the 1962 Session, it cannot go to the people prior to the termination of the 1963 Session or, rather, the General Election which will be held after that Session. That is the fact; that is the Constitution. I think, instead of listening to a letter which came over from some bureau or another, we should carefully examine the merits of this constitutional amendment. I might surprise the gentleman from Philadelphia by voting for it.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, that would not come as a surprise to me at all. I would expect the gentleman to vote for this type of good legislation.

However, I would like to just point out one other factor. The Constituion does say that every time we vote on an amendment, it must be advertised. It very clearly states that it must be done three months before November. If we do not pass this legislation today, I fail to see how it can possibly be properly advertised before November. Whether we do it today, next year, six or ten years from now—I am willing to concede that perhaps the gentleman might even be right. If we do not take action today, it will be five years longer before we can act on it. Actually, it will be seven years before this matter will ever come before us. If we act on it today, it will take approximately, if the gentleman is correct, five years before this matter can be acted on by the people. If we do not act on it today, we are merely delaying it by an additional two years, assuming that the gentleman's position is well taken. That will make it seven years.

I think this is something on which the General Assembly should act, one way or another. The House has seen fit to take some action and I think we should do likewise.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, I do not know whether the remarks were germane simply to the procedural matter at hand or to the substantive merits of the bill. However, since the Minority Leader has seen fit to comment on the merits of the amendment itself, I would like to also comment on that. Without taking a position in regard to the correctness of the Secretary of the Commonwealth's opinion, I believe there is some merit in the remarks made by my colleague from Delaware County. Nevertheless, if we refuse to act during this Session, we will delay the enactment of what I consider to be one of the best pieces of legislation I have seen in a somewhat disturbed Session. I feel very sincerely that the denial of the franchise for technical reasons leads and promotes a type of government which is inimical to the best interest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I feel the only objection which has been presented here by the Minority Leader has been that of a question of whether or not people would be informed primarily on local issues. To me, the possible evil which might exist from such a point, as compared to the disenfranchisement of people, the large majority of whom are well informed, is a greater evil.

I would think this is not a political bill. For one thing, a great many of the people who are moving from State to State are in the executive or managerial classes, and often tend to be members of the Republican Party more often than the Democratic Party. I do not think you can say that this bill is promoting one political party or another. However, it is concerned with a basic tenet; namely, whether or not we are going to extend the franchise and liberalize it in this Country which has, unfortunately, a deplorable percentage of its registered voters voting. This liberalizes it and it helps to promote interest. I have had people come to me and say that they were discouraged by the fact that they were not permitted to vote in this past Presidential election, for example, because they had not lived in this Commonwealth long enough.

I think this amendment provides a sufficient residence requirement and I think it provides sufficient time to prevent fraud, for example, occurring. Therefore, I would also seriously like to add my voice to its consideration by the Senate at this time.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would also like to point out to the Members of the Senate that if—and I believe the gentleman is correct—we are permitted to deal with constitutional amendments during the coming Fiscal Session, and the purpose of this bill is primarily to permit electors moving from one State to another to vote in presidential elections, that point will be well covered for the reason that the amendment can be passed in the 1962 Fiscal Session, and without question can then be passed again in the 1963 Session and placed upon the ballot that fall. Consequently, Mr. President, the need for haste in this matter is not apparent to me, at least in so far as increasing the percentage of voters who might go to the polls. I agree that we do have a deplorable percentage of eligible voters going to the polls. However, the number which this bill would increase would not have any material effect upon the percentage of people who exercise their franchise and who are permitted to do so without any question.

However, Mr. President, there remains the fact that each State is the arbiter of the qualifications of the voters. Consequently, before passing such a measure, we should be well informed and should work out as clearly as possible the exact qualifications as to residence which our voters should obtain before casting a ballot.

Mr. President, this measure can be passed if the Majority Leader is correct—and I am not prepared to dispute him—in the Session of 1962 and, subsequently, in the Session of 1963, covering both the objections of Senator Bell and myself.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, I would like to add one point to the discussion and the remarks of the Majority Leader, and that is that the restrictions which were placed in this Constitution were placed in a different era. Today, we live in an era of mobile people. The people of America are probably the most mobile of any country in the world. We possess great roads and automobiles, and many people actually live in trailers and move around. We also have a large body of people in the managerial class who are moved from State to State by their companies constantly.

We must, along with many other provisions of this Constitution, redact and remold this provision in terms of the needs of today.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, there is just one thing I want to add. I have no objection to what the Minority Leader stated. However, unfortunately, the make-up of this Body will be the same next year as it is today, and if something were going to take place in the meantime that might change the make-up of this group so that we would have to deal with this problem in a different manner than we are doing today, I would say maybe that is something to be considered. Actually, everybody that is here today I hope will be here next year. These same people, with the same problems and maybe the same prejudice against this matter or the same feeling in favor of it, will all be here then. I would say that maybe this is the time to deal with the problem. If a short recess will help, I will be glad to request a recess and discuss this with some of the men who may be against this measure and perhaps we can iron out some of their problems.

Actually, I think we ought to vote on this thing and, in one way or another, bring it to a head and be done with it.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I think the gentleman possibly assumes too much knowledge as to what the result of this vote might be in 1962, or even this afternoon. He apparently has placed the Members of our Republican Caucus on the negative side, and I am not prepared to agree with him.

As a matter of fact, I strongly advocated some change in the residence qualifications of voters in Presidential elections, because many people, as everybody knows, are disenfranchised by reason of the fact that they must move from one section of the Country to another and cannot be there the requisite length of time, whether it is in Pennsylvania or in another State.

I believe some change should be made in that respect. What I would like to do with this measure is to try to get it in shape so this condition can be overcome.

However, Mr. President, as to the gentleman's suggestion, it might be possible even to make some change in this bill, although I do not quite see how the House could agree to an amendment and still get it advertised according to the letter from the Department of State.

In the present form of the bill, there may be votes on this side. I do not know. On the other hand, Mr. President, if not, then the gentleman is not accomplishing anything by insisting that it go to a vote.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, as the maiden said to the reluctant suitor: "Let's try it."

I believe if the bill does not have merit and it fails, we have done our duty. If it passes and goes through, then I think we will have been recorded.

I am not of the impression which you indicated, Senator. I hope that I have not given that impression and if I have, I want the record to be correct. I feel there are a lot of gentlemen on both sides of the aisle who feel strongly for this measure, just as I feel there are many who might be absolutely opposed to it. I would like to give the bill one run through, and if it goes down that will be it.

The PRESIDENT. Objection has been raised to this bill going over in its order.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I now move that House Bill No. 53, Printer's No. 1017, go over in order.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to this measure going over in order, and ask that it be brought to a vote. I also ask my colleagues to oppose this motion that the bill go over in its order.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BERGER and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—23

Bell,	Hawbaker,	Pechan,	Van Sant,
Berger,	Keller,	Probert,	Wade,
Chapman,	Kessler,	Scott,	Wagner,
Confair,	Kromer,	Shafer,	Ware, III,
Flack,	Madigan,	Stevenson,	Wolfe,
Fleming,	Mallery,	Stroup,

NAYS—24

Camel,	Kalman,	Mullin,	Seyler,
Devlin,	Lane,	Murray,	Silvert,
DiSilvestro,	Mahady,	Ripp,	Stalsey,
Donolow,	McGinnis,	Rooney,	Stiefel,
Haluska,	McMenamin,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
Hays,	Miller,	Sesler,	Yatron,

So the question was determined in the negative, and the motion was defeated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to te bill on third reading?

Mr. WEINER. Mr President, I am perfectly willing to have House Bill No. 53 go over in its order at this time until we can work out whatever problem exists, if we can possibly work it out. The most important thing is that we pass this measure today.

Therefore, Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 53 go over in its order temporarily.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order, temporarily.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 67—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

HB 95—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON THIRD READING, DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

HB 107 (Pr. No. 1825)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, this is a measure which allows any employer who has fifty or more employees to give remuneration to those people who serve on jury duty. As you well realize, one of the duties which falls upon a citizen in a Democracy is to serve as a juror, which is a person who sits and hears the facts and brings back to the judge what these facts indicate.

Many people have shunted this duty and many people have avoided it on the basis that they cannot earn enough serving as jurors while losing time from work. Therefore, we are asking the employer to augment the juror's pay. For example, if the jury duty pays twelve dollars and a man would ordinarily earn fourteen dollars for that day, the employer would give him two dollars per day for the days he serves on jury duty.

I, therefore, respectfully ask my colleagues to vote "aye" on this measure.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, while opposing this bill, I would like to observe, in connection therewith, that I can see no difference between the economic loss of a person who happens to be a member of a labor force of forty-nine persons and one who happens to be a member of a labor force of fifty persons. Just why it would be more beneficial economically to the person who is employed in a plant which only employs forty-nine people to go on jury duty than it would to one who works in a plant with fifty people seems rather obscure.

Mr. President, certainly in a democracy one of the privileges that our people have is the privilege of serving upon juries. I doubt very much, except in very rare cases, whether anyone who is called to jury duty and serves for a period of two weeks, three weeks or one week, as the case may be, does undergo some economic loss, or certainly some great inconvenience in his own personal affairs. Nevertheless, he is performing a service which he is obligated to do under our Constitution, and I see no reason why one person should be compensated more than another in the performance of such duty.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I would like to correct the Majority Leader's statement. He said words to this effect: This bill would allow an employer to reimburse those employees. This is not a "may" bill. This bill says the employer "shall." There is an awful lot of difference between "allow" and "shall".

Secondly, I think this is attacking in entirely the wrong way a problem which faces the Commonwealth. The people of our Commonwealth, who serve on juries, are not paid sufficient money. They do not receive sufficient reimbursement for their duties as jurors. This approach is hitting the employers of fifty or more people over the head to make up for the deficiency that we, the Legislators, do not have the courage to face.

I ask that we vote against this bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—21

Camel,	Kalman,	Murray,	Seyler,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Ripp,	Silvert,
DiSilvestro,	McGinnis,	Rooney,	Stalsey,
Donolow,	Miller,	Sarraf,	Stiefel,
Haluska,	Mullin,	Sesler,	Yatron,
Hays,

NAYS—26

Bell,	Keller,	Pechan,	Van Sant,
Berger,	Kessler,	Probert,	Wade,
Chapman,	Kromer,	Scott,	Wagner,
Confair,	Lane,	Shafer,	Ware, III,
Flack,	Madigan,	Stevenson,	Weiner,
Fleming,	Mallery,	Stroup,	Wolfe,
Hawbaker,	McMenamin,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative, and the bill was defeated.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 196—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. SEYLER.

BILL ON THIRD READING, DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

HB 257 (Pr. No. 2460)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the purpose of this measure is primarily to prevent people who are professional strikebreakers from entering into a labor dispute. This measure has been needed for some time. I believe part of the problem that exists between management and labor is based a great deal on bringing in people who have no interest in the controversy and who do nothing but add confusion and cause what is known as a riot. This brings other prohibitions and other problems into a situation where there is some area for the amelioration of the problem; perhaps mitigation of the issues and a possible opportunity for the parties to get together.

It is interesting to note the people who have taken positions on this measure. I think this also points out how necessary it is that we have this legislation.

I think this Country has come to the place where the professional strikebreaker is no longer a part of the scene and he should not participate where people are having a problem.

This is very similar to the situation where two men are arguing or disputing, and a third person is sitting on the sideline saying: "You get him. I will hold your coat," which only leaves the two people fighting and the third party walking away unhurt and unscathed.

I, therefore, ask my colleagues to vote "aye" on House Bill No. 257.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, may I interrogate the Majority Leader?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will allow myself to be interrogated, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Just one question, Mr. President.

Would you regard a person, who is already employed at the plant in which a labor dispute exists, as being a strikebreaker if he continues to work?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would say no.

Mr. BERGER. Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, this bill does not relate to strikebreakers. It says where a labor dispute is in existence at the plant or the place of employment.

Mr. President, "labor dispute" may cover a great area. It does not mean that the plant employees are out on strike in that place. It means there is some dispute over labor conditions or possibly contractual matters which would not necessarily involve a strike at the plant.

Consequently, Mr. President, I believe this bill is far too broad, and would ask my colleagues to vote "no."

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, what the gentleman says is true as far as he goes. However, I believe if you will look at page 2, Section 1, of the bill, which begins, "It shall be unlawful . . .", you will see that it names the people whom it covers. The bill further states:

" . . . or agent thereof knowingly to recruit procure supply or refer any person who customarily and repeatedly offers himself for employment in place of employes involved in a labor dispute . . ."

Then it goes on in quite some detail. The title of the bill also states:

" . . . the employment of professional strikebreakers in place of employes involved in a labor dispute . . ."

I think it is pretty clear. I think it spells out what the problem is. As I stated earlier,—and I do not want to be redundant—we have arrived at a place of maturity I think in this country in employment and labor and management relations so that we do not have to get into this type of situation. Those days have long since passed from our scene.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not read into this bill the limitation that the person who customarily and repeatedly offers himself for employment in a place where there is a labor dispute is a strikebreaker. A person might be offering himself repeatedly and customarily for employment at that plant. He is not necessarily a strikebreaker. He probably is not a strikebreaker, but wants to be hired.

Consequently, Mr. President, I still believe the language in this bill is far too broad when they say simply "labor dispute". For that reason, Mr. President, I would continue to ask my colleagues to vote "no".

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would just like to point out the differentiation. If there is just merely a labor dispute, there is no reason to hire anybody. Where you have a strike, that means there is someone or some people not working. Therefore, you are going to go out and hire somebody to take their place. The man who comes down and gets an occasional job when this is going on certainly is not in the category of a professional strikebreaker. I do not think this bill indicates that.

However, I think where you do have a person who habitually and customarily holds himself out and is the type of person who arrives on the scene when there is a strike, regardless of whether he might be qualified for this type of work, this person is characterized as a strikebreaker and in that regard is covered by this measure. That type of person does not belong in this type of situation where he can cause trouble.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. WOLFE. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I wonder if we could change the rules. On every bill that is defeated, why could we not just automatically give it a second run and then we would not have to go through all of this procedure?

It seems they change their votes on every bill that is defeated and not because of having voted under a misapprehension. Therefore, to save time, we could just automatically put every bill which is defeated on the Calendar. It would save all of this time and confusion.

The PRESIDENT. Are you making that in the form of a motion, Senator Pechan?

Mr. PECHAN. A suggestion, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I know how we can even avoid that. If the gentleman will just vote "aye" with us, we will not have this trouble.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—21

Camiel,	Kalman,	Mullin,	Sesler,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Murray,	Silvert,
DiSilvestro,	McGinnis,	Ripp,	Stalsey,
Donolow,	McMenamin,	Rooney,	Stiefel,
Haluska,	Miller,	Sarra,	Yatron,
Hays,

NAYS—26

Bell,	Keller,	Propert,	Van Sant,
Berger,	Kessler,	Scott,	Wade,
Chapman,	Kromer,	Seyler,	Wagner,
Confair,	Lane,	Shafer,	Ware, III,
Flack,	Madigan,	Stevenson,	Welner,
Fleming,	Mallery,	Stroup,	Wolfe,
Hawbaker,	Pechan,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative, and the bill was defeated.

SB 198 CALLED UP

SB 198 (Pr. No. 204)—Without objection, the bill, which previously went over in its order, was called up, from page 2 of the Final Passage Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE DEFEATED

SB 198 (Pr. No. 204)—And the amendments made there-to having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, this bill is concerned with a very important problem in the Commonwealth; a problem for which the Commonwealth began to provide a solution during the Administration of Governor Fine. At that time, the Governor appointed a Committee on Migrant Labor, and that committee has been operating through three Administrations—Governor Fine's, Governor Leader's and Governor Lawrence's. This committee has never had the legal status which would enable it to continue regardless of change of Administration.

The purpose of this bill is to enshrine that committee, which has done an excellent job on the subject of migrant workers, into law.

On this committee, Mr. President, there have been represented many groups who have been very much interested in the welfare of the migrant laborers who come into our Commonwealth to assist in the harvesting of our crops. Under the work of this committee, great strides have been made in so far as health, morals, education and many other areas relating to the welfare of these migrants.

I think it is important that we should recognize the status of this committee and the work that it has done by giving it legal status. The committee would not be materially changed. There would be some additions, but it would, in general, incorporate representatives of the various departments of government which cooperate in doing this job, and would also include members of the general public who are interested in assisting in doing the same job.

For these reasons, Mr. President, I would hope that all of my colleagues would give serious consideration to this problem. I hope they will give their support to making this committee a committee with legal status in our government.

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, I must disagree with my distinguished colleague from York County. Unlike Senator Seyler, I happen to be in the position of knowing something about this problem. It just so happens that I served for a number of years on the Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Farm Service Association, which is a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, set up for the express purpose of recruiting, transporting and making available to farmers migrant laborers. Therefore, I think I can speak with a little bit of authority on the migrant labor situation in Pennsylvania.

I have had considerable experience with the mess that the Department of Labor and Industry has made of the migrant labor situation under the committee to which the Senator referred.

First of all, I would like to read to you a clipping which appeared in one of our local papers just recently that indicates just what a mess we have made in this field:

"A recent release from the United States Department of Agriculture indicates a sharp reduction in prospective tomato acreage for 1961 in the northeastern tomato-growing States (New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland) compared to the ten-year average (1950-59): 49,100 acres vs. 83,930 acres, . . .

"The situation in Pennsylvania runs almost parallel with 12,000 acres indicated for 1961 compared to the ten-year average of 21,900 . . .

"Processors and marketers of canned tomato products are probing for reasons for the shrinking acreage since the public demand for these products, especially tomato juice, shows a marked year to year increase.

"There is agreement, generally, that growers are reluctant to sign for acreage because of uncertainty in the labor supply. Adverse publicity on migratory labor and scores of new bills on farm labor in State Legislatures and on a Federal level have aggravated the problem.

"The confused labor situation is one of the driving forces spurring on the intensified work on automated harvesting and handling of tomatoes. Machines developed by two experimental stations, in cooperation with equipment manufacturers, were tried last year. A seed company and at least one canner have developed harvesters . . ."

Mr. President, if we are actually concerned about the welfare of the migrant, I should think we would be concerned in curtailing the operation of this committee, which has succeeded in the past in fouling up the works.

I understand that when a similar bill was before the Legislature a few years ago, quite a few pictures were distributed among the Members at that time, showing what was reported to be some very poor housing conditions and various other things.

I would like to refer the Members of this Body to a situation that exists in Cumberland County, in a little town called Newville, where only a few years ago we had a very successful canning factory in operation, giving employment to scores of Cumberland County people and providing an outlet for hundreds of acres of vegetables and various products that were canned in that establishment.

If you were to go to the town of Newville this afternoon, you would find there the rusting remains of what was once a thriving industry. The people of Newville look upon this building as a monument to the achievements of one William L. Batt, Jr., former Secretary of Labor and Industry. The people who were once gainfully employed in this thriving industry have now been relieved of their labors and are enjoying the blessings of public assistance. If this is what the gentleman refers to as progress, then there is something wrong with my vocabulary.

I do not feel that any further interference in this field is justified by any stretch of the imagination. What most people in this Body and throughout the State do not realize is that agriculture is an industry unlike any other, and it does not lend itself to a lot of bureaucratic rules and regulations. This business of agriculture is temperamental. It is influenced by weather conditions, crop conditions and a host of others. Certainly, the people who are familiar with industry and industrial and labor problems, as a whole, are not capable of coping with this situation.

This bill, I feel, is definitely designed to be a deterrent to the healthful atmosphere in agriculture generally.

I can cite more and more instances of abuses by the department, some bordering on the ridiculous. In fact, most of them are ridiculous. I know of instances where the department has insisted, for example, that the farmer provide hot and cold running water for the migrants when he and his family did not have indoor plumbing themselves. Many farmers installed hot and cold running water for the migrants, and they became the only people to take showers.

I can cite another example in Adams County where a farmer and his family were drinking water from a spring for generations. They had a tenant house on the farm and when they employed one migrant family to live in the tenant house, all was well and good. However, when he put up a small barracks and employed five more migrants, then the spring became unfit for human consumption, and he was required to provide water-conditioning facilities for those five migrants.

This sort of thing is absolutely ridiculous and is an indication of what these bureaucrats in the Department of Labor and Industry are trying to force on the industry. The result of it all has been the closing of our canning factories in the State of Pennsylvania and a vast decline in the tomato acreage and various other vegetable crops. This, as I have already indicated, can hardly be construed as progress.

I can see no justification for any further interference in this field by any bureaucratic agency. Therefore, I would urge the gentlemen in this Body to defeat this bill soundly.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, just to reply to the gentleman, it seems to me rather farfetched to refer to the demise of any given cannery, or canneries, as a result of the operation of this committee in trying to see to it that the migrant workers who are brought into this Commonwealth have a decent way of living.

The gentleman well knows that the decline in various agricultural enterprises in this Commonwealth has a host of factors involved. As a matter of fact, the continuation of having an adequate supply of migrant labor depends upon Pennsylvania's providing reasonable working conditions for these migrant workers. The Federal Department of Labor, under the last Administration and under this Administration, is unwilling to act as an agent in this matter unless they are assured there will be decent working conditions.

The gentleman referred to pictures that were shown earlier. I am sorry the gentleman was not here at the time in order to have the advantage of seeing them. Pictures certainly do not lie. The pictures showed that prior to the activities of this committee, very unfit types of habitation were provided for migrant workers in Pennsylvania, not by all of the people who employed migrant workers, but by some.

We saw evidence that boxcars were remodeled into housing and that former hogpens were remodeled into housing. The fact that we do not have these conditions today is evidence of the fact that the committee has done a good job.

I think many of you are familiar with a television program which recently was a feature of the CBS television network. As I recall, the name of the program was "Harvest of Shame." This portrayed conditions which still obtain in some parts of America, and the fact that Pennsylvania did not come under the same sort of shameful criticism which that program led to throughout our Country is due to the fact that we have had the vision to provide a committee that would oversee the employment of these migrant workers and see that they were treated as human beings and not as cattle or some subhuman type of worker. I think there is no doubt that this committee has done a good job.

I would like to point out to the gentleman, in reply to his statement that this bill would in some way increase the problem, that it would not do anything and would not give any powers or authorities which are not now enjoyed by this committee. It would simply make this committee a legal committee, established by law, rather than a committee which is appointed by action of the Executive Department. It would give it legislative status. It would not change the powers, duties, responsibilities or activities of the committee.

For that reason, if we do agree that the committee has done a good job, or if we do not agree that the committee has done a good job, this bill in no wise would change the impact of the committee. It would simply extend it and allow it to continue with legal status.

Therefore, I feel this would be a constructive piece of legislation and would be further placing Pennsylvania in the forefront of the States which take a humanitarian attitude toward the migrant laborers that we bring from the South or from other countries into our Commonwealth to help us with the job of harvesting our crops.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair now turns the gavel over to the distinguished gentleman from Centre, Senator Hays, to preside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Jo Hays) in the Chair.

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, I would just like to say in connection with the fact that pictures do not lie that there are, however, plenty of liars running around with cameras, and plenty of liars who write captions under pictures.

The Senator referred to the fact that pigpens had been converted into dwelling units for migrant workers. This is absolutely true. However, I would remind the gentleman that one of the finest eating places in this part of Pennsylvania only a few years ago was a barn that housed not only hogs, but also cattle and horses, and I personally was in that barn when the floor was covered with manure three feet deep at the same spot where there is now carpeting three inches thick. Any inference that just because a building once housed hogs, it could in no way be made livable for human beings is wholly inaccurate.

Of course we have, on many of our fruit farms, buildings that once were used for hogs, and because of the fact that hogs are no longer a part of the farming operation,—the farmer having since planted the fruit—these buildings, while structurally solid, are of no use. The same thing applies to chicken houses. These buildings have been converted. However, just because they once housed livestock does not mean they could not be converted and made quite livable.

With regard to the department getting into the business of making labor available and assisting farmers in the recruitment of labor, this is just another instance of governmental bureaus insisting that they must do things for people which people are quite capable of doing for themselves.

As I have already indicated, the farmers of Pennsylvania have set up for themselves an organization which has been doing this job quite adequately. The Farm Service Association goes every year to Puerto Rico and recruits laborers and makes these men available to any farmer in Pennsylvania who needs them, without a cent of expenditure on the part of the taxpayers.

Now the Department of Labor and Industry insists that this should be a function of the department, at taxpayers' expense, and I am not one to agree with that assumption. I insist that as long as people can provide these services for themselves, and as long as they are doing it for themselves and doing it fairly and adequately, then certainly we should not be committing a department of government to do this work at taxpayers' expense.

With regard to improper facilities for migrant workers, I would inform the gentleman that under the arrangement that we have of disseminating these workers, they are guaranteed so many weeks of work with a guaranteed minimum wage and a guaranteed summer's income. When any worker who is assigned to a farmer finds that working conditions or living conditions are not to his liking, he need simply call the central office at Hamburg, Pennsylvania, and request that he be transferred to another farm. We have had very, very few of these requests.

This is just another instance, as I have already indicated, of expanding governmental bureaucracy. I can well understand the attitude of the gentlemen on the other side because this is their bread and butter. This is their line of thinking. "We have to do everything for the people." I am rather surprised that they espouse the name of the Party of Jefferson, who once said: "If we can prevent government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretext of caring for them, they shall be happy."

What these gentlemen are insisting that we do is not to follow the doctrine of Jefferson and Jackson. They are insisting that we follow the doctrine of Khrushchev and Castro; that the government has to do everything for the people. I think this is totally foreign to our American way of life. This is a perfect example of this attitude, and we have had dozens of other bills before this Body in the past several months which indicate this same general line of thinking. I think it is utterly ridiculous.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Franklin, Senator Hawbaker.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Hawbaker, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, on this subject, I will be happy to answer questions until tomorrow morning.

Mr. MULLIN. I only have one question, Mr. President. Was there any State regulation, a State body or a State law which required the three feet of manure to be removed from the barn before they turned it into a cafeteria or a restaurant?

Mr. HAWBAKER. I am afraid I cannot answer that question. I do not think it is very appropriate to the question at hand. I think public acceptance would take care of that situation very nicely.

Incidentally, public acceptance has a lot to do with living conditions among these men, as I have already indicated. You cannot put a man to work in conditions which are not livable. He just will not stay. These men are not slaves; they are free to go and come as they please. If they are not satisfied with the living conditions provided for them, they do not have to stay on the job. They can refuse to work for that farmer and he, out of necessity, must provide adequate living conditions.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe one of the duties of government is for the people, who are in politics and who help to operate the government, to try to do for people what they cannot do for themselves. It may be true that a man does not have to work or live under those conditions. He always has the right to starve, which is absolutely true. However, I think if we cannot more or less help this situation along, we are shirking our duty and overlooking what we are supposed to do. When people live in battered-down boxcars or shacks, and have to carry water by hand, and do not have proper toilet facilities as we know them and do not even have an outhouse, I think we are sinking pretty low. I also think you are fomenting our own society, when we have all this plenty all around us. In the midst of all this plenty, you have people groveling in the dirt just to earn a livelihood. They are shunted about like cattle, and treated like cattle, and live in a rather demeaning area.

I think the television show, produced by Edward R. Murrow, called "The Shame of the Nation," was truly that. I do not care what a man's philosophy is nor how callous he might be, but anyone watching that show had to be moved by those little children and the men and women who were all working in the fields on their hands and knees, from early morning until late at night, for just a few pennies. Then, they move on to some other area. What a terrible existence for these people. What a terrible way of life to live like Gypsies, traveling from one area to another and not knowing what they are going to find. When it rained, all the rain came through the roof and fell on top of them.

This was not something I had written; this was not something I presented. I am sure Mr. Murrow and CBS had no reason to play this thing up, color it or, in any way, to bring it to anybody's attention other than to present the facts. These were merely the facts, which I think are pretty heartsick when you think about the people who have grain laying in elevators which is going to rot, and when you think about all the surplus food that we have in this Country and the millions and billions of dollars we spend in order to take care of countries which are supposed to be underdeveloped and undernourished. Here are American citizens who are underdeveloped and undernourished. No one is even interested in giving them the basic human needs of just living in dignity as a human being and having a roof over their heads which does not leak, and having a common outhouse which is common to any citizen in this Country. These people cannot even get that.

I am sure, Senator, on your farm, you do not treat the animals the way these people are treated. At least, every cow on your farm has a place to go that is dry and clean, and the animal can be assured of being milked at least once or twice a day and its basic needs taken care of. You cannot even give this to these human beings.

We are merely asking, in this simple legislation, provision for these people to have some of the basic needs that you and I do not even think about any more because they are with us all the time. To deny this to any human being, I think is certainly a blight not only upon our escutcheon as State Legislators, but upon our escutcheon as American citizens.

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, let us look at this thing realistically.

The gentlemen on the other side are bleeding for good situations for the migrants. They are very much concerned that these people have adequate facilities and adequate this, that and the other thing. However, what they are actually accomplishing is forcing these people out of work and sending them back to Puerto Rico where they live under these kind of conditions all the time.

I would remind the gentlemen that when we started importing Puerto Ricans some ten years ago, we brought in 8,000. Last year, we brought in 1,800. That means the remaining 6,200 are still unemployed in Puerto Rico, living under conditions far worse than anything shown on "Harvest of Shame." Incidentally, I watched that television program one Sunday afternoon and I have never seen anything more distorted, since I happen to know the facts myself. These gentlemen, who live in the comforts of the big cities and know nothing about what is going on out on the farms, are giving us the benefit of some hearsay propaganda. I would suggest that you go with me and visit some of these farms and you will learn something firsthand about this business.

I would like to give you some facts about the business of vegetable farming in Pennsylvania, and some facts which might be just as startling to you as some of the things you saw on the television show, "Harvest of Shame." For example, Senator, did you know that if you go to the market to buy a can of tomatoes, the paper label on that tin can costs the canner more money than he paid the farmer for the tomatoes inside of the can? Did you know that if you went to the market and bought a bag of carrots, in a plastic bag, that plastic bag cost three times as much as the farmer was paid for the carrots? Did you know that if you went to a restaurant and had a breakfast of bacon and eggs, and left the waitress a dime under your plate, that represents more money than the farmer received for producing all the food you ate? Did you know that if you were to go to New York and see the men unloading a carload of farm produce, the man who unloads that car receives more money than the farmer who produced the produce? All the unloader has invested is a union card, bearing the autograph of one James Hoffa.

These are the things which we should know about this industry. We have tenant farmers who raise a few acres of tomatoes—farmers who do not own these farms—and they employ a few migrants for a few months in the summertime, when the weather is warm and when shelter with central heating certainly is not considered a requirement. These men are doing the best they can to make an honest living. This business of farming has been so muddled and so confused and so mixed-up by the interference of the bureaucrats in the past couple of years that it is almost impossible for a farmer to make a decent living. We are trying to tell these tenant farmers that they should spend more money to provide housing for their migrants than they will realize from their tomato crop for the next ten years. Gentlemen, it just is not practical. As I have already indicated, the result is that we are driving them out of business and we are driving the migrants out of a job.

I can appreciate the fact that the gentlemen on the other side will appreciate this. It is a well-known fact that the people who are unemployed tend to vote Democratic. Therefore, they would not be concerned whether or not we have employment. However, this is exactly what you are doing. You are legislating unemployment and you are sending these migrants back to the South without a job of any kind at all.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I appreciate the gentleman's remarks in regard to what is going on in the farming business. However, how about looking into some of the evils of some of the crew leaders who are involved? Sharecropping has been with us a long time in this Country. This is nothing new to anybody who lives in the city or anywhere else. I think some of the plays and some of the literature which has been around is available to everyone here. I think most of us are sophisticated enough to understand what this means—the evils of the crew leaders; the people who sell other human beings and who use them. On this basis, when you and I know that Lincoln freed the slaves many, many years ago and it continues on in this Country, I think this is worse than the slavery which existed under Lincoln. This is economic slavery. These people are under the yoke of those who deliver them to someone. They are used and then thrown away.

What is the average life or the work span of these people? What can they look forward to? What kind of a life are they leading? Where are their children going? Are these the kind of Americans we want to have in our Country? Are these the kind of people to whom we want to point with pride when we are on the griddle about what we are doing in our life and in our time? I say to you that I do not think you feel that way. I do not think anybody who has any kind of compassion for any other human being could feel this way or feel that this is the kind of thing we want to continue in this Country.

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, I have been a Member of this Senate since 1955. I have been a member of the Democratic Party for many years before that. I have never been accused, either publicly or on this Senate floor, because I am a member of the Democratic Party, of being a follower of Castro, Khrushchev or being for unemployment. I think my Republican colleague from Franklin County has a short and convenient memory. It was the Republican Party that caused the great depression; under their great leader, Mr. Hoover. It was the Democrats who attempted to bring order to this Country.

I sit on this Senate floor; interested in all peoples of Pennsylvania, whether they make their money from the east, in the factories, or from the farm regions of Pennsylvania. In order to have a fine Commonwealth and a progressive State, we must satisfy all elements of our economy. I have never voted on this floor merely for the factories in the east and forgetting the farm regions in the other parts of our Commonwealth. To hear a Senator stand up here on this floor and talk such sectionalism as has been produced here today is the first time in my history on this floor that I have heard any words being echoed in favor of farmers and against all the other people of Pennsylvania.

There is not a Member on either side of this aisle—and I am talking for my Republican colleagues, as well as the Democrats—who wants to see unemployment in Pennsylvania and who would derive great personal satisfaction from it. There is not one Member of this Senate, from either side of the floor, who wishes to be elected by unemployed Pennsylvanians. Therefore, we do not take great gratification in passing legislation which will cause the bread lines to increase. We are interested in all peoples. The gentleman from Franklin has the philosophy that only the farmers are the good people of this Commonwealth. He thinks they are the untouchables and that we cannot pass legislation to correct the conditions on farms.

Mr. President, as long as I have a vote in this Senate, I shall vote for either the north, the south, the east or the west of Pennsylvania, whether it be the labor ranks or the farm ranks, to correct conditions which are wrong and against human dignity. We have heard too much about the migratory workers. We are not interested in penalizing farmers. We are not interested in causing unemployment on the farms. However, we have a human dignity to uphold. We are civilized people, living in a civilized age. We have compassion and emotion for all people. That is the only reason we are interested in this legislation. If you can show me that minorities are being protected, that it makes no difference about the color of a man's skin, that he will be treated properly, then I will not push legislation. However, as long as there are underdogs in our American way of life, and as long as there are underdogs because of where they come from or the color of their skin, we will attempt to protect them. Mr. President, if the workers on the farms need to be protected, we will do that. I shall vote in that direction.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, first and above all, I resent, even to a modicum, being accused of being a follower of Nikita Khrushchev or Fidel Castro. Some day I would like to debate with my colleague from Adams County whether or not it is so easy to hurl cliches about being followers of Nikita. We have just as many Democratic followers among the peasants and farmers as we have among the workers in the cities. There is somewhat of a tendency always to depict the farmer as the neglected element of America.

There is a story told of a farmer who was suffering terrific abdominal pains and they rushed him to the hospital. When he arrived at the hospital, there was a shortage of beds and they could not accommodate him. So, temporarily, they placed him in the maternity department and put a few screens around him. This poor farmer was howling from pain, and a woman nearby, also in pain, was also moaning and groaning.

The farmer saw a nurse pass by with a little pill on a dish, and all of a sudden the woman nearby stopped moaning. He said to the nurse: "Madam, what did you do for that woman? Why aren't you doing it for me?" She said: "I gave her a pill for labor." The farmer said: "Yes, now I know. In this Country, everything is for labor and nothing for the poor farmer."

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, I come from a section which is known for its farms. I, perhaps, have assisted in the castrating of as many pigs and the birth of as many cows as any man in this room, if not a lot more.

I say to you, Mr. President, that when one talks for the cause of migratory labor, he is not talking for people who will vote for him, but rather because of the humanity that lies in his heart. We are not trying to make votes because these people do not vote, in the first category which was discussed here today. However, there is another category, and that I want to talk about later.

The Democratic Party has always been the leader. We have seen—and I am not too young to remember—trainloads of people coming in from foreign lands, brought in by people who hired them by misrepresentation and false promises, not only of the way they should live but of the kind of a job they should have. That I will not dwell on. However, I look at this bill and I see that the equivalent of the company store has been abolished. I do not have to tell the farmers from my section of the country about this, because we also had coal and they know of the evils of the company store. When we put a paragraph in here about commissaries and how they shall be regulated, we are thinking of the company store.

I say to you that the thing you are forgetting—and I will not forget it because we had an example of it in our country—is that many of the migratory people are high school children. I know when the Lions Club and the Rotary Club from our town had to take automobiles to Connecticut to bring back our children because they ran into conditions such as have been described here today. We think our own are not involved, but they are involved, just as much as the man from Puerto Rico.

We must look at the fact that here is the cry of humanity and the cry of opportunity. The big thing here is recruiting. What false promises have been made to these people? There is also the idea of changing around. When a man gets smart and he understands the situation and can bargain for himself, he goes to a new locality. They then get people who are green and gullible and they, in turn, are exposed to the same situation which has been decried here so much.

You talk of interference with the rights of human beings. Weigh the equities. What is the greater? What is the greater sin, the degradation of people who cannot help themselves and who are helpless or saying to someone, "You must do the right thing"?

If Christian charity does not exist within your hearts and the business ethics of your group, no matter what name they bear, are so low that they require an appeal,—not a cry to the heavens, but at least a cry to this Assembly that they must be remedied—we must not turn to them a deaf ear.

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, I would just like to make one other comment. I think this question has perhaps been belabored far enough.

The gentleman from Westmoreland County made quite a point of our Christian responsibilities. I have been hearing an awful lot in recent years—and so have we all—about this great Christian, humanitarian aspect of our present day society. I would like to remind the gentleman again that the man who first promoted the theory of "From each according to his ability and to each according to his needs" was not a great Christian humanitarian. He was, indeed, the world's number one athiest; the founder of international Communism, Karl Marx.

By contrast, the greatest Christian humanitarian ever to walk the face of this earth had something to say on this same subject, which you will find in the parable of the talents. For those of you who are not familiar with that parable, I would like to relate it to you:

The master called his servants together. To one, he gave five talents; to another, two; and to another, one, with instructions to use them to the best of their ability.

When he returned, the five-talent man had received ten talents and received a promotion. The two-talent man had made those into four talents, and he received a promotion. However, the one-talent man said: "I find that my master is a hard master, reaping where he has not sown. He has been unfair to labor. Why should I do the work while he gets the profit? I hid his money."

Now the great Christian humanitarians of our day would have that story end something like this: Take the ten talents from the first man and give them to the man who has only one. After all, he has a family to support, too.

I would remind you that the greatest Christian humanitarian this world has ever known did not end the story in that way. The way the story did end, as you are all well aware, is in words like this:

"Find the unprofitable servant and cast him into outer darkness. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth."

This, gentlemen, comes from the greatest Christian humanitarian this world has ever known.

I read from this parable that Christian humanitarianism does not mean "From each according to his ability and to each according to his needs." Indeed, it means a man's compensation should be in direct proportion to his contribution to society. I submit this is good economic philosophy and this is good Christian philosophy. Let us not kid ourselves into saying that we are for the little guy just because we happen to believe in Christian humanitarianism.

As I indicated before, we are not helping these people.

We are legislating them out of a job and onto public assistance, and we might just as well face that fact, because this is the inescapable fact of the whole situation. If we are interested in the welfare of these people, we will be interested in promoting the kind of society that will provide these people with gainful employment, and we will not be legislating them out of a job.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, it seems to me a very novel reading of the Holy Writ or the democratic philosophy is to say that this justifies the opinion that we should not be interested in the welfare of people who are less fortunate. It seems equally fallacious to read into the writings of Karl Marx that he was the only source of interest in people less fortunate. I believe this is a total distortion of what I believe in and what many people in this Commonwealth believe in. However, I would like to leave the debate we have had and just make one statement for the record.

It seems to me that the impression has been given here that the committee is on one side of this question—I am speaking of the present Governor's Committee or the Committee which would be given legal status by this bill—and that all of the farmers and all people in agriculture are on the other side. I am very happy to say this is not true.

Despite the expertise claimed by the gentleman from Franklin, I live in a county in which the sidewalks do not extend to the boundaries of my county. There is a little bit of good soil out there that is farmed. I know in my own county, both canners and farmers have cooperated with the committee and have received awards from the committee. As I said before, the reason why Pennsylvania is relatively in a good position as far as its treatment of migrant workers is concerned, I believe, is due to the fact that many of the best farmers and canners in this Commonwealth have continuously cooperated with the committee, have met the standards suggested by the committee, and helped to form those standards. This has been done largely cooperatively.

I can cite, in my own county, at least a dozen awards within the last five years that have been received from the committee by farmers or canners because of the excellent job they have done in providing for the welfare of the migrant workers. This is not a question of the committee on one side and the farmers on the other. It is a question of the two working together, over the past ten years or so, to improve the situation. I believe this should continue. I believe the farmers and canners who are involved in this have seen the benefits of it. I do not think they have suffered. I think they believe in it.

I would like to pay tribute to the many farmers and canners—not only in my own county and the cases I know of personally, but also in the other counties of the Commonwealth—who have cooperated and who are doing a fine job, under the leadership and with the cooperation of the committee to better this problem.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would very much like to terminate the debate on this bill. Nevertheless, I cannot let pass what has been said by some of the gentlemen on the other side, which amounts to an indictment of all of the farmers who have employed migrant laborers in Pennsylvania.

I know something of this problem because I live in a community which at one time had around 4,000 to 5,000 migrant laborers coming in to harvest the crops. This year, I would anticipate, there may be from 500 to 600, although that may be a high estimate.

The farmers, who brought these people in at the first of the experience, were unable to provide very adequate housing. It was some of those situations of which pictures were taken and exhibited here to the Senate. It was a crash program. These people arrived in unexpectedly large numbers, and they had to be housed. Expedience had to be used and, in many instances, accommodations were not adequate.

Mr. President, the farmers who employ these people are not inhumane. They do not hold them in bondage and they do not exploit them.

When the gentlemen say these people are economically oppressed, I would like to have had them come in there some Saturday nights when those people were in town and they were in there spending their money on clothing, on candy and delicacies, and going to the movies. We wanted those people and we were glad to have them, and the farmers of that area were providing adequate and good quarters for them, progressively. Many of them have taken some prizes for the excellent quarters provided for these people.

However, the fact remains, Mr. President, that the matter got all out of proportion. Where there might have been one place that was not desirable or should be condemned, they put on rules and regulations that were far beyond the economic power of these employers to provide such facilities. They were not requested by the employees. They were required by these people who took it upon themselves to go around and tell the farmers how to operate their enterprises.

Mr. President, I think this matter has become largely academic. Automation has gone into the harvesting of peas, beans and practically all of the crops. So, the need for these people has been reduced to the point where it is almost unnecessary to discuss it.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, what the gentleman said about automation might very well be true. However, these are human beings and you just cannot take them out and shoot them or sell them to a glue factory. As long as we do not have complete or total automation, I think we should think about the human element and put this matter in its proper perspective.

Let us talk about the bill just for a moment, and not get into all the other aspects of it. We are merely speaking about the fact that this is a recommendation which came as the result of a report, prepared and presented to President Eisenhower, who did not happen to be either a follower of Nikita Khrushchev, Fidel Castro or the Democratic Party. He recommended this not only on the National level, but felt that all the local areas should do something about it. This is a result of that legislation.

We are merely working along in that area and asking that this Body take the same action as was taken by President Eisenhower. We are asking for no more or no less. We have not embellished this bill; we have not changed it. We are just asking that this thing be done. If this is treason, I do not know of anything we can do about it, except to follow what we have been asked to do on behalf of these human beings who are not as fortunate as the people sitting in and around this Chamber today.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

GUESTS OF SENATOR CHARLES R. WEINER PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may I interrupt the proceedings for a moment to introduce a group of Democratic workers from the city of Philadelphia who are visiting the Senate Chamber today? They are seated in the balcony.

If the Chair would recognize these visitors, I would appreciate it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the guests of Senator Weiner—the Democratic workers from Philadelphia—please rise?

On behalf of all the Members of the Senate, the Chair is happy to welcome you here today. We hope you are impressed with democracy in action, both with a small and a capital "D."

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 351—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

SB 353—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

SB 646—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

SB 671—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 671, Printer's No. 781, go over in its order, although I understand Senator Lane will give an explanation of this bill. Whether it will be at this time or later, I do not know.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, for the information of Senator Berger, I took the trouble to secure an analysis of Senate Bill No. 671, Printer's No. 781, as I sponsored this bill quite some time ago. For the information of the Members of the Senate, this bill amends three sections of the Second Class Township Code, relating to the assessment and payment of costs incurred in the construction of sewers and drains. We are a far cry, by the way, from migrant labor on this particular bill.

Section 1507 presently provides for the cost of construction of sewers and drains to be charged upon properties accommodated or benefited to the extent that the present law permits. The amendment provides that the portion of the cost which cannot be charged upon such properties can be paid from sewer rentals—which Second Class Townships already have the authority to impose—or from general township funds or from both. Lease rentals or charges, under contracts with municipal authorities, may be paid in the same manner. Under the present and existing law, these costs cannot be paid from the general township funds.

With reference to Section 1509, it presently provides for two different methods of assessment of costs of sewer or drain construction upon properties accommodated or benefited. For example, Paragraph (a) provides:

"By an assessment based on the frontage abutting on the sewer or drain . . ."

Paragraph (b) further provides:

"By assessment on properties abutting on the sewer or drain in proportion to the benefits such properties derive therefrom . . ."

This particular Section presently provides that when the township is divided into sewer districts, the method of assessment—(a) or (b)—may vary from one district to another. However, they must be the same within one district. This amendment will permit the use of different methods of assessments, either (a) or (b), as stated above, within the same sewer district.

Section 1526 presently provides that when sewers or drains are constructed by any township under State or county highways, the cost may be collected from abutting property owners on the basis of an assessment of benefits, under Section 1509 (b). This amendment provides that such costs may be collected from abutting property owners, either on the basis of an assessment of benefits or on the basis of frontage. This will make the collection of costs of sewers and drains, under such highways, uniform with the collection of costs in other cases.

This is the analysis of the Legislative Reference Bureau. I also have some data here on the bill, but I believe this is quite sufficient. I recall that the Commission, itself, held some hearings with reference to this legislation, and the Second Class Townships would like very much to have this passed.

By the way, if the Minority Leader is satisfied, I will be glad to give him a copy of this analysis. I think it is good legislation. I might say that it is going to bring about uniformity and it is going to alleviate a lot of headaches in so far as Second Class Townships are concerned when it comes to sewer rentals and that sort of thing.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I appreciate the explanation given by the gentleman from Washington. However, I would like the bill to go over in its order and ask him whether he might let me have the material which he just read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

SB 672 (Pr. No. 1093)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 672 I understand is part of the package to implement the Kerr-Mills Act in Pennsylvania. Is that correct?

Mr. WEINER. That is correct.

Mr. BELL. Does this, together with the other bill we passed I believe last week, make the complete package?

Mr. WEINER. It does make the complete package.

I believe you are referring to House Bill No. 1595. That bill implemented the Kerr-Mills Act. Senate Bill No. 672 is the collection feature which goes under it to implement those people who take advantage of it, remunerating the State for the money it puts out.

Mr. BELL. With these two bills, will the Kerr-Mills Act be wholly implemented in Pennsylvania?

Mr. WEINER. It will be wholly implemented in Pennsylvania.

Just to add an addenda to that statement, there may be some piece of legislation which might follow to correct some of the problems they may have, administratively. When I say this is all they need, I am saying it knowing full well there might be some implementation they may need as they start to administer the Act.

There is also some thought that perhaps Senate Bill No. 672 may not be wholly necessary, but they would like to have this machinery available to them if they should need it. It is a precautionary feature which allows the Commonwealth to get some money or at least put a claim to some money which might come back to it. I think it is needed legislation.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, after the very heated discussions we have had this afternoon, I am going to pass a compliment to Senator Weiner and the Democrats. On behalf of the people especially connected with the Chester Hospital, in Chester, I want to thank the Democratic Administration for implementing the Kerr-Mills Act. I hope the Commonwealth never sees a repetition of what happened in my county, where one of the hospitals was really pushed to the wall. I hope the Kerr-Mills Act will answer the problem of the Pennsylvania hospitals.

Again, I want to compliment the Majority Leader and the Majority Whip for attentively listening to me because this is, I think, one of the big strides forward in Pennsylvania this year.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, to be very frank about it, I do not like the text of the regulations contained in this particular bill. However, I do want to see the aged people taken care of in Pennsylvania. Very reluctantly, I am voting for this legislation. If it were not for the humanitarian aspects of the prior bill which passed in this Senate, I would not vote for Senate Bill No. 672 because I believe the regulations, with reference to the responsibility of the relatives, are too heavy and too strict.

As I have indicated, I am forced to vote for this bill in view of the fact that the liberal portion of the legislation has already passed. We must have some machinery to regulate the payment of funds. I do feel, however, that the legislation contained in Senate Bill No. 672 is actually too strict for the average man.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to make a brief observation. I would like to point out that this was not the Democratic Party program. It never was. I felt we had to subscribe to it because we had no place else to go at the moment.

As many of my colleagues feel, I still maintain that the better program is under the Social Security program and not under this type of setup which makes a man go, with his hat in his hand, and beg or plead for help at a time in life when he can do nothing to help himself. I felt the Social Security program would certainly have lent more dignity to the human being and it would have stated to a man who has worked all his life that he had some other fringe benefits, other than what he was able to accrue during his working and productive period of life.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I did not expect to have this become a political tirade. However, I also want to put into the record a very brief statement.

The Kerr-Mills Act was passed by the United States Congress, which was controlled by the Democrats, by approximately two-to-one. During the present Session, with a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress, there has been no success—or whatever you want to call it—in passing a different law. Regardless of personal likes or dislikes in Pennsylvania, the Kerr-Mills Act is the Federal law of the land.

Again, I compliment the Democratic Majority in concurring with the feeling of the Republican Minority, as has been expressed all spring on this matter.

An the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 852 and HB 1015—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL RECOMMITTED

HB 1023 (Pr. No. 2461)—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that House Bill No. 1023 be recommitted to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would inquire of the Majority Leader the objection which might have been raised to this bill or such amendments as he might contemplate if it goes back to committee.

Mr. WEINER. I am sorry, Senator. Would you please repeat the question?

Mr. BERGER. Yes. I would inquire as to what possible objection you might have or what amendments you might contemplate placing in the bill when it goes back to committee.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, we have passed at this Session a bill which already provides for seismic operations, and we, I believe, voted on an appropriation or have an appropriation in the offing for the Secretary of Internal Affairs, who is in charge of this matter.

What I would like to do in this situation is send this bill back to committee until such time as we have worked out whether one bill or the other should move, and then we will be able to act on the proper measure.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman. However, I do not so understand that the legislation we have already passed deals with this particular subject.

This bill would implement the bill we have already passed by providing that the people who are engaged in exploration for oil and gas in Pennsylvania might conduct seismic operations within the limits of the State highways, under rules and regulations and under permission of the Department of Highways. This, I believe, is a very necessary supplement to the preceding legislation.

I know, Mr. President, that these operations have been conducted within the limits of secondary roads—that is, township roads—in a number of areas of the Commonwealth, and they provide valuable information as to the formations which are below the surface of the earth. They simply provide that bore holes will be drilled, charges set in those bore holes, and seismographic readings be taken from the reverberations through the lower strata, which the experts in those procedures can interpret.

Mr. President, without this bill, they will be unable to do that and, consequently, will lack that much more information as to the geological formations in the various areas in Pennsylvania. I believe it is a desirable piece of legislation and I would oppose it being recommitted.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if we are conducting seismic operations through the Department of Internal Affairs and we have appropriated money to do that, I do not believe this will preclude them or say to them that they should only go up to these highways and not any further. I think it will be done for the entire State.

I think this is unnecessary legislation at the moment. It might very well be that I am mistaken about it. Rather than just pass a bill and not know what I am doing, I would rather send this back to committee until such time as I am informed and can act intelligently on this matter.

There have been many measures upon which we have not acted as seasonably as this one. This has moved right along. I think we ought to return it to committee until such time as we can work out whatever problems exist in this measure and the previous measure which passed.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, the conduct of seismographic operations by the Department of Internal Affairs is one thing, and the conduct of those operations by private operators for information in their future explorations is quite another thing. There is no reason in the world to deny these operations the information they could obtain by their own seismic operations. I see no reason why this information should be concentrated and obtained only by a department of the State rather than by private operators who need the information in order to conduct their business in this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I hope, Mr. President, the legislation that we passed was not intended to concentrate into a department of the State all control over the operations in Pennsylvania for the discovery of oil and gas.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to hasten to point out to the gentleman that the results of the seismic operations performed by the Secretary of Internal Affairs are available and open to the entire public, just as all of our plot plans are also. This information is used by people all over the State—attorneys, real estate people, prospectors and corporations—and it is always available to them.

I am not sure that the information obtained by these people under this bill would be available to the public at large. We are putting this money into Internal Affairs and they are looking for natural resources and making the information available to everyone.

I do not know that there is great haste needed on this bill. This is a House Bill, and it only needs to be passed on Third Reading and Final Passage in this Chamber. There is no reason to put such great stress on it. I am only asking that it go back to committee until such time as we have a chance to study it. I do not want to see it pass here unless we know what we are doing.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, there is nothing obscure in this bill. It does precisely what it says it does. However, Mr. President, I think the gentleman has touched on a very important point, and that is the information obtained by private operators will not become public knowledge. It is not intended to become public knowledge.

If it is the gentleman's view that the Department of Internal Affairs should conduct the only seismographic operations in Pennsylvania, this differs far from the viewpoint that I took when I voted for the other legislation providing for the oil and gas conservation.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative and the bill was recommitted.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, this bill would place the State Workmen's Insurance Fund into the liability and casualty business. For that reason, and believing it was never the intention of the Fund to engage in that collateral business, I would request that the Members of the Senate vote "no" on this bill.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.
(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. STASEY. Mr. President, having voted under a misapprehension, I desire to change my vote from "no" to "aye."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "aye."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Camiel,	Lane,	Rooney,	Staisey,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Sarra,	Stiefel,
DiSilvestro,	McGinnis,	Sesler,	Weiner,

Flack,	Madigan,	Shafer,	Ware, III,
Fleming,	Mallery,	Stevenson,	Wolfe,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative, and the bill was defeated.

HB 1307 (Pr. No. 2394)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am going to cast my vote in the negative on this measure and I want to explain the reason why I am doing so.

There is a new tendency, which is omnipresent and which we experience annually during the Sessions, to expand the power of the boards, to change them, to expatiate on them and to cause more trouble for the people who want to gain admission into the professions. This tendency to limit is tantamount to expulsion or depriving a citizen admission into the professions.

For this reason, it is high time we put an end to it. So far as I am concerned, I am going to do the utmost in my power to help to do so. Therefore, I am voting against this bill.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, I, too, am going to cast a negative vote for reasons similar to those of my good colleague from Philadelphia.

I should say that this bill sets a bad precedent, because, unfortunately, there are several statutes on the books of Pennsylvania which have similar provisions in regard to the calling of conferences biennially or yearly, in some cases.

I would like the Members on the other side if the aisle to know that we, on this side, also feel that this goes beyond the duties which should be imposed on a board of the Commonwealth. It necessarily seeks to maintain a standard, and the people who are the proponents of this bill feel that it is good because it requires them to come back biennially for instruction and new material in their particular field.

In my profession—the legal profession—we have no such requirement, nor do the doctors. I think this is something that should be done internally within the profession or within the particular occupation. Therefore, I think this bill should be defeated.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not know just how I am going to vote on this bill. However, I think we ought to keep all of these things in perspective. All they are asking is that these people, sometime within the two years, attend a meeting which will bring the profession up to a certain standard.

I think all of us are aware that there are not too many schools of chiropody. I think there are only about two or three left in the Country. There was one down in Philadelphia, but it closed about two or three years ago. It was part of Temple University. Since there are not too many, these people are trying to keep a certain standard in their profession.

If this were an undue hardship on these people, I would say let us turn it down. However, I think they are asking a very simple thing; that the people keep themselves informed either as to literature or the learning that goes on within the profession. I think any profession that tries to maintain itself ought to do so. This is true of every group that has ever come before the Legislature. This is a perennial bill, and the Members can vote as they see fit. However, I think we also ought to bear in mind that this is not something which is harsh or will tend to hurt anyone.

As much as I hate to differ with my learned colleague, Senator Stiefel, for whom I have great regard, at the same time I think we ought to keep a proper perspective on this measure.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I have a high regard for the opinions of my worthy colleague, Senator Weiner, and great respect for him. However, there is another point which I want to bring out, and I have said it time and time again on the floor of the Senate. The famous French philosopher, Voltaire, said that he would rather have Mephisto legislate and Gabriel execute than Gabriel legislate and Mephisto execute.

On those boards, there are too many Mephistos. They become entrenched. This is what I am afraid of. I am afraid of the Mephistos; of the so-called board members who pontificate, who exclude and prescribe. This is the reason it is high time to stop it.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—21

Berger,	Kalman,	Scott,	Van Sant,
Chapman,	Kessler,	Seyler,	Wagner,
Devlin,	Mullin,	Shafer,	Weiner,
Donolow,	Pechan,	Silvert,	Wolfe,

Kromer,	McMenamin,	Stevenson,	Presiding Officer

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative, and the bill was defeated.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 1402—Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I request that House bill No. 1402 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am going to object to House bill No. 1402 going over in its order. It has been on the Calendar for about a month. I know there are some problems with it, and I think the only way we can solve these problems is to bring the bill before the Members of the entire Senate.

I, as well as the other Members here, am intimately aware of what the problems are. I think that only by running this bill through once will we get at the problems and find out what the situation is.

If there is some particular problem that is bothering somebody today, I will be happy to discuss it with them, go over it with them, and then we can bring this to a head. I think on some date we ought to pass this bill or not pass it, as the case might be.

The gentlemen who are in favor of this measure in the House and the people who are in favor of it in the Senate, and who come from these areas that are being hard hit, feel something ought to be done. They feel this is an approach to the problem. I do not know whether it is or not. However, I think they are certainly entitled to their day in having this measure heard and heard in full.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I have talked to several Members of the Senate on both sides of the aisle. If the Majority Leader will allow this bill to go over in its order until Monday, I think the solution can be worked out to the satisfaction of everybody. I will just ask him to put it over in order until Monday. At that time, I will assure him he can act on the bill, one way or another.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, am I quoting the gentleman correctly when I say that the record will show that on Monday, we will act on this bill finally, one way or another?

Mr. PECHAN. Yes, Mr. President. Let me say that I will have no objection to the bill being acted on this coming Monday.

Mr. WEINER. Senator, I do not want to question every man sitting over there. Is that statement on behalf of all of the gentlemen on the other side of the aisle?

Mr. PECHAN. My dear friend, I can only speak for Al Pechan. I cannot speak for anybody else.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, would the gentleman have me start from right to left and ask everyone up and down the aisle if they are going to be for or against this measure on Monday?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I might have been laboring under a misapprehension, but I had some idea that one of the sponsors of this bill was quite interested in it, and the suggestion that something could be worked out might reach a pretty favorable result. I do not know. However, if it is pressed for a vote this afternoon for purposes that I cannot understand, perhaps the result would not be as he would like.

Mr. President, it is absurd for anybody to suggest that one person can answer for all of the votes. I would like to make that interrogation sometime of the Majority Leader. However, I think, Mr. President, that on Monday we will be able to act on this bill.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, might the record show that on Monday, we will take some action, either affirmatively or negatively, on this measure?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, may I reiterate to the Majority Leader, and to the Members of the Senate, that to the best of my knowledge and belief, there will be something done with this bill on Monday. Now if he wishes a more affirmative answer than that, I must respectfully decline.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I want to thank the gentleman. We will be prepared to act on this legislation on Monday.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At the request of the gentleman from Armstrong, Senator Pechan, the bill will go over in its order.

HB 1403 and 1414—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. PECHAN.

HB 1515—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1540 (Pr. No. 2164)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—50

Bell,	Kalman,	Murray,	Stevenson,
Berger,	Keller,	Pechan,	Stiefel,
Camiel,	Kessler,	Propert,	Stroup,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

HB 1551—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1668 (Pr. No. 2469)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—50

Bell,	Kalman,	Murray,	Stevenson,
Berger,	Keller,	Pechan,	Stiefel,
Camel,	Kessler,	Propert,	Stroup,

Hawbaker,	Mullin,		Presiding Officer

NAYS—0

Ordered, that the clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which concurrence of the House is requested.

RESOLUTION REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. LANE, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Rules, reported with amendment, Senate Resolution, Serial No. 85, entitled:

Requesting the Construction of a Bridge or Tunnel Between Delaware County and the State of New Jersey.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. KALMAN, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Mines and Mineral Industries, reported, as committed, HB 57.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request a ten-minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Committee on Appropriations.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a ten-minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

SECOND READING CALENDAR

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 161 and SB 375—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

SB 473, HB 573 and SB 598—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

SB 611 and 613—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. SEYLER.

BILL ON SECOND READING

HB 616 (Pr. No. 1639)—Read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, to be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 644, 692, 741 and 758—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

SB 769, 791, 801 and 806—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

HB 826, 884 and 1075—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

HB 1085—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House bill No. 1085 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do have objection to House bill No. 1085, printer's No. 1202, going over in its order. However, I will not debate that today and will allow the bill to go over in order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will, accordingly, go over in its order.

BILL ON SECOND READING

HB 1098 (Pr. No. 2513)—Read at length the second time, On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House bill No. 1098, printer's No. 2513, go over in order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to House bill No. 1098 going over in order, and I would also object to any request that House bill No. 1099, House bill No. 1101, House bill No. 1163 or House bill No. 1190 going over in their order.

These bills have been on the Calendar for some time. I must take the same position on behalf of these bills as I took earlier regarding moving some other bills. I ask that we take some action on them.

House bill No. 1098 had some features in it which were troublesome. I put an amendment into it in order to bring it back to the position in which it was in the House and which helped it to pass the House. These are insurance bills which I think need some action. Therefore, I would respectfully ask that we take some action on them.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I am not questioning the statement of the Majority Leader that the amendment put in restores this bill to the form in which it was acceptable to certain of the smaller mutual insurance companies. However, I have not received the affirmative intelligence to that effect, and I confess that my ability to read the bill with the amendment may be faulty. I would rather have some further information.

Therefore, Mr. President, I have requested the bill to go over in its order.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, these bills have been on the Calendar since about June 14, 1961. Today's date being July 18, I believe this is a considerable length of time and we should take some action on them. It is difficult for anyone to know exactly what areas these bills travel into or what the problems are unless we have them before us for action.

To continue to keep these bills on the Second Reading Calendar makes it difficult for anybody to take a position or act on them.

I have received a number of letters regarding these bills. Some of the letters that came to me were completely in error and had nothing to do with what the facts are or what the provisions contained in these measures actually were.

We should move these bills up to the Third Reading Calendar so we can begin to see them in their real light. It may be that some of the Members sitting on this side of the aisle are going to vote against these bills. I have no way of knowing that. I have not discussed these matters with the people in our Caucus. It is my desire to try to move up all this material. We have moved quite a number of bills today and I would like to continue to do this and clean up the Calendar, if at all possible.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I hope and trust that the gentleman is entirely consistent on that statement. Would he like to have the bills voted on tomorrow? I put that in the form of a hypothetical question.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would be very happy to vote on all of these bills tomorrow, if that is the desire of the gentlemen on the other side. I will have all of our people here. We are all here today, except one gentleman. I will try to have him here tomorrow and let us work on all this legislation.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I understand there has been an objection to this bill going over in its order.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to House Bill No. 1098, which is the bill before us at the moment, going over in its order.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I now move that House Bill No. 1098 go over in its order.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to this motion and ask for a roll call vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A roll call being requested, the Clerk will call the roll.

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

VERIFICATION OF THE ROLL

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request a verification of the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Request has been made to have the roll verified. The Clerk will proceed to call the names of those recorded as voting in the affirmative.

The Clerk read the names of those recorded as having voted in the affirmative as follows:

Berger	Hawbaker	Propert	Wade
Chapman	Kessler	Scott	Wagner
Confair	Kromer	Shafer	Ware
Flack	Madigan	Stevenson	Wolfe
Fleming	Mallery	Stroup

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any corrections? The Chair hears none. The affirmative roll will stand as verified.

The Clerk will now proceed to call the names of those recorded as voting in the negative.

The Clerk read the names of those recorded as having voted in the negative as follows:

Camiel	Kalman	Murray	Seyler
Devlin	Lane	Ripp	Silvert
DiSilvestro	Mahady	Rooney	Staisey
Donolow	McMenamin	Sarraf	Weiner
Haluska	Mullin	Sesler	Yatron
Hays

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any corrections to the negative roll?

Mr. MURRAY. Mr. President, not having heard my name called, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Murray, will be so recorded.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I understand the roll call was completed and this was a verification thereof.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, not having heard my name called, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, not having heard my name called, I would like to be recorded as voting "aye."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Van Sant, the affirmative roll has been verified. I am sorry.

Are there any further corrections to the negative roll? The Chair hears none, and the negative roll will stand as verified.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WEINER and were as follows: viz:

YEAS—19

Berger,	Hawbaker,	Propert,	Wade,
Chapman,	Kessler,	Scott,	Wagner,
Confair,	Kromer,	Shafer,	Ware, III,
Flack,	Madigan,	Stevenson,	Wolfe,
Fleming,	Mallery,	Stroup,

NAYS—21

Camiel,	Lane,	Ripp,	Silvert,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Rooney,	Staisey,
DiSilvestro,	McMenamin,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
Donolow,	Mullin,	Sesler,	Yatron,
Haluska,	Murray,	Seyler,	Hays,
Kalman,			Presiding Officer

So the question was determined in the negative, and the motion was defeated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 1099, 1101 and 1163—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House bill No. 1099, House bill No. 1101 and House bill No. 1163 go over in their order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to these bills going over in their order. The only way I will accede to the request is if we can be assured that on Monday, we will work on these measures and bring them before the Senate. We are anxious to clear them from the Calendar.

Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease. (The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I now withdraw my objection to House bill No. 1099, House bill No. 1101 and House bill No. 1163 going over in order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection having been withdrawn, the bills will go over in their order.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. McGINNIS, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported, as committed, SB 584, HB 761, 769, 799, 802, 805, 806, 1193, 1194, 1195, 1196, 1197, 1198 and 1199; as amended, SB 586; rereported, as committed, SB 202, 225 and 260; and rereported, as amended, SB 238.

HB 53 TAKEN FROM THE TABLE

HB 53 (Pr. No. 2518)—Without objection, Mr. WEINER called from the table House bill No. 53.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 53 (Pr. No. 2518)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—45

Bell,	Kalman,	Murray,	Stalsey,
Berger,	Keller,	Pechan,	Stiefel,
Camiel,	Kessler,	Propert,	Stroup,

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, July 18, 1961

The House met at 12 o'clock noon, e. s. t.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O God of infinite love and compassionate mercy, as humble servants of Thine we come before Thee in this afternoon hour. We recognize that the perfect love which Thou hast shown and dost continue to show will cast out the fears and doubts which continue to plague us in life's daily experiences. So, O God of love, we turn to Thee with the prayer that each one of us may through sincere dedication and consecration come to know that perfect love in our lives as well: through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to inform the majority leader that at his early convenience he would like to confer with the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, and the two floor leaders.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Monday, July 17, 1961, will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 639, entitled:

An Act limiting landowners liability for personal injuries suffered by any persons while hunting or fishing upon or who has entered for his own purposes on the landowner's property.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to address myself to the motion and not deal with the merits of this bill, as is the order of business, and I hope those who take the floor to oppose me, if any, will likewise confine their remarks to the motion and not to the merits of the bill.

I know that very frequently, when it is our intention to kill a bill, we make a motion to recommit the bill and say it is for the purpose of further study and possible amendments. And I say today, I would like to see this bill recommitted for the purpose of further study and possible amendments. I say this in all honesty and with deepest sincerity and with no thought in mind that my motion for recommitment is made for the purpose, the sole purpose, of burying this bill.

Mr. Speaker, the reason I make this motion is this: Earlier in this session there was a House bill introduced that is in every word identical to Senate bill 639. Senate bill 639 is the identical bill that was introduced in this House. That bill, which concerns a subject that best could probably be treated by members of the House who are attorneys, was referred to the Committee on State Government, of which I am chairman.

Now in spite of the fact that the Committee on State Government is headed by an attorney and in spite of the fact that there are several more attorneys on that committee, I felt that this bill, because of the sweeping effect of its provisions, should be studied by a group of attorneys, should be reviewed by men who by experience, by education and by profession are equipped to deal with the implications that are inherent in the language of this bill, and I re-referred the bill to the Judiciary General Committee. That bill came up for study by the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee and the bill was re-referred and is presently in the hands of a subcommittee for study.

Now, Mr. Speaker, so sweeping is the impact of the provisions of this bill, that the statutory law committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association is likewise studying this very bill. And I have had it under consideration and will report to this legislature as soon as they make a determination.

Now, notwithstanding the fact that Senate bill 639, when it was referred in the Senate, was referred to the Judiciary General Committee of that chamber, notwithstanding the fact that we have an identical House bill that was referred to the Judiciary General Committee of this chamber, notwithstanding the fact that we have the Pennsylvania Bar Association studying the provisions of this bill, we now find that Senate bill 639 was referred to the Agricultural Committee of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to cast any aspersions on the members of the Agricultural Committee. As a matter of fact, I think that they will be the first to agree with me and will recognize that they are certainly not as well equipped to comprehend the implications and the impact of this bill upon the general field of negligence law as are the members of the Bar, and it is only fitting and proper that this bill be studied by the Judiciary General Committee, which in fact that committee is presently doing. It was for that purpose that a subcommittee was appointed.

Now there are only two lawyers on the Agricultural Committee. On the day that this bill was considered by that committee, one lawyer was absent and the other lawyer who was present voted against the bill.

I say, Mr. Speaker, this bill has not received the kind of consideration that it is properly entitled to, because, without going into the merits of the bill, suffice it to say that the impact on the field of negligence law that this bill creates is tremendous; it changes the whole field of the law of negligence so far as owners of lands are concerned.

I say, Mr. Speaker, that this is a bill that should be considered by lawyers. We should at least respect the fact that we have a Judiciary General Committee in this House. We should respect the fact that that Committee has undertaken a course of action with respect to this bill, that it is not reposing there and going to die a natural death in that committee.

I know that the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee has requested that he be presented by the proponents of this bill with citations, with authorities, which give rise to the need for this type of legislation. It has been now some four or five weeks since he has been promised these citations by the proponents and, as of the date of this debate, these citations have not been furnished to him, and I say it would be an affront to the Judiciary General Committee and an affront to the chairman of that committee to now consider this bill without its having gone through the channels of the Judiciary Committee of this House.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, much as I have admired and respected the opinions of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, yet I feel I must oppose his motion to recommit this bill to the Judiciary General Committee.

This bill originated in the other chamber on May 9. There was plenty of opportunity to study it. It was referred to the Judiciary General Committee over there. They reported it. It was on the calendar for a while, debated, and finally passed the Senate 37 to 7 with debate. I have no doubt but that the various factors included in this bill were apparently discussed and I believe acted upon after thorough and complete consideration over there.

I believe this bill should remain on the calendar and should be voted on if possible today. I do not wish to be placed in any position of reflecting any discredit upon our own committee—I do not believe that is the issue here. I believe the issue is simply that this bill has been on the calendar, it has had plenty of opportunity for study by all the legal lights of this chamber and the other chamber, none of whom have come forward with any amendments, none of whom have come forward with any suggestions, and therefore I believe that this bill should remain on the calendar and come up for a vote today.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to say, first of all, that there are amendments to this bill which have been prepared that have been held in abeyance pending the disposition of my motion to recommit this bill. There are amendments. There are several amendments that I know of, and in all probability there will be more than several finally offered.

The second point I want to make is this: the gentleman from Clearfield says this bill received consideration by the Senate, by its committee over there, and therefore we, in effect, since it has been on our calendar for a long period of time do not have to have it studied by the so-called legal lights any further. If that be so, then I say to you, Mr. Speaker, the only bills that the committees of the House should consider are House bills that originate in here, because if any bill originates in the Senate and passes that chamber, then you have to presuppose that it has received consideration by the committee of that chamber and there is no need for us to study it; let us just rely on the Senate. They have all the brains over there, and let us not examine the bills ourselves. Any time a Senate bill comes over here, let us just accept it; let us not look into it ourselves or study the impact of the thing.

One further point I would make mention of is this: Mr. Breth fails to mention the fact that the Pennsylvania Bar Association—and certainly everyone admits that here is a body of men equipped to study the impact of these things, whose advice and counsel we should look for—are presently studying the very bill that we have before us. The statutory law committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association has this under consideration and we certainly should not move until we hear from that body.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FINEMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I realize we cannot discuss the merits of the bill, but I note the fact mentioned that it should be studied further and is being studied by the Judiciary Committee and the statutory committee of the bar association, so the members of the House will understand the legal implications. We know, for instance, coming on your premises are either licensees, social guests, business guests or trespassers. In what category would you say is a person coming on your land to hunt? What category would he come under? Let us say, first, he comes on your land without permission. This is a typical case where the farmer is—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair feels the gentleman is getting into the merits of the bill. The motion before this House is to recommit. If we want to discuss the merits of the bill, we will do that when the bill reaches final passage.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. All right, Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw that question and ask another.

The gentleman says that a similar House bill is presently being studied by the Committee on Judiciary. Is it not true that this bill was referred to the Committee on State Government on January 26?

Mr. FINEMAN. That is absolutely correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. And it was re-referred to the committee on March 8?

Mr. FINEMAN. Whatever the date was I do not know.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. That is what the history says.

Then the gentleman stated that there is a subcommittee in Judiciary studying this bill. Can the gentleman state to the House when this bill in Judiciary was referred to a subcommittee?

Mr. FINEMAN. I would not know the exact date off-hand, no.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Would the gentleman say that it was probably right after March 8?

Mr. FINEMAN. I would not know the exact date off-hand. Perhaps the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee might be able to fill in the date, but I know this: I know that the proponents of the bill were requested by the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee to present to him citations, legal citations, of cases that indicated, that pointed up, the need for this kind of legislation. To date of this debate those citations have not been presented to him.

In addition to that fact, I know that the Judiciary General Committee, the subcommittee has been waiting to hear from the Pennsylvania Bar Association on what they think about this bill, because the gentleman, as an attorney, must recognize that this bill has sweeping changes in the field of negligence law built right into it—things that the average lay person cannot see.

As a matter of fact, I am not quite certain that all of the attorneys, including myself, see the full significance of this bill, because it is a complete change from what has been the established, well-fixed law of this Commonwealth for many, many years.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. A further question, Mr. Speaker. The gentleman says that the purpose of your amendment is to send this bill back to the Judiciary General Committee for further study?

Mr. FINEMAN. The purpose of my motion.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. The gentleman is saying the purpose is not to kill the bill; it is to send it back for further study?

Mr. FINEMAN. That is right.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. And when does the gentleman figure that the Judiciary General Committee would have their study completed so the bill could be re-referred to the floor?

Mr. FINEMAN. To give an accurate answer to that I would have to indulge in some kind of mind reading or conjecturing.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Would the gentleman say 1963?

Mr. FINEMAN. I am not on the subcommittee and have no control over when the study will be completed or anything else, or when the Pennsylvania Bar Association will be in touch with them.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from McKean desire to be recognized?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I want to oppose the motion to recommit on behalf of the thousands of landowners in Pennsylvania who are interested in the passage of this bill and I ask that the members vote against this motion.

The bill has been in the House since it was introduced on January 26; it was referred to the Judiciary General Committee on March 8, and here it is late in July. It seems that adequate time has been had for the study of this bill. I believe the bill should be debated on this floor and given a vote either for or against today and not wait until 1963.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has a number of requests for recognition and will get to the gentleman in time. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I agree with the gentleman from McKean County that we have had ample time to study the purview of this bill, as well as the bill that was introduced here in the House. This bill has remained on the calendar for several weeks, giving any and all attorneys here ample time to examine the bill and propose whatever amendments they would like. At the end of the discussion I would like to ask for a roll call on the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise against the motion for recommitment. I, too, am a member of the Judiciary General Committee, as Mr. Fineman is. It is true that we were studying a bill in committee, but it was not this bill. This bill came from the Senate, out of the Senate Judiciary Committee, where it had been studied. The Speaker, using his own discretion, referred it to a committee other than the Judiciary General Committee. We had no control over it; we deserve no consideration of this bill. This standing committee, the Committee on Agriculture, reported it out of committee and it is before us now for consideration.

I disagree with those who say that this is going to be such a shocking and novel thing in our law. The effect of this bill, if passed, will make everyone who comes on your land for hunting and fishing merely a trespasser. It is nothing more than that.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will suspend. The gentleman is out of order in that he is speaking on the merits of the bill. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the motion to recommit.

Mr. HEFFNER. That is all I have to say, Mr. Speaker, thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as the House Judiciary Committee has had what Mr. Fineman referred to as an identical bill, and has had it in committee for several months and allegedly has been studying it, I am afraid that if this bill is recommitment for study it is going to be studied to death.

Mr. Fineman may be sincere in his desire to bring it out after it has been studied and probably amended, but inasmuch as he is not on that committee he would not have any say as to whether it would come out of committee or not, and I feel that killing this bill will be a disservice to two large segments of our people, both the farmer and the hunter, in taking away hunting lands, so I oppose recommitment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say that I object to some of the members getting up to the microphone and saying that this is going to be a disservice to this group or to that group. They do not know enough about this bill to say who it is going to be a disservice to. Why not own up to it? There is only a small segment of our population that is going to be affected by this bill. We do not know whether we are discriminating, to what extent they are exempted, whether property damage is going to be involved or just personal injuries involved. This thing has a million ramifications and it is no part of this discussion, who is going to be affected by it. The issue simply before the House is whether or not the proper committee should be circumvented in order to get a bill pried loose.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of Mr. Fineman's motion to recommit this bill and these are my reasons:

First, in debating the motion to recommit we oftentimes commit excesses in our exuberance. Mr. Breth, I believe, did that very thing because he said that this bill was debated extensively in the Senate and received a resounding vote of the majority in that body, and it is now over here, went through the Committee on Agriculture and is on the floor for consideration.

I have taken the liberty of examining the Journal of the Senate for the day involved and I have read the debate. At the risk of imposing upon this House, I would like to read the entire debate that occurred in the Senate.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman cannot read the debate of the other body of this legislature.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I will not impose on the House by reading the comments in the Senate, but I will say this, what occurred over there took place in one sentence in the Journal.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GELFAND. I will not yield, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will suspend.

Mr. GELFAND. I will suspend on that line.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question before this House is a motion to recommit. The gentleman is not in order to discuss the bill at this time.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I will speak on the motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is in order if he confines his remarks to the motion to recommit. The gentleman cannot discuss the record in the Senate.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, the Pennsylvania Bar Association, which consists of a great many of the lawyers of this Commonwealth, has appointed a committee to investigate the problems involved in this bill. This committee—

Mr. ADAMS. A point of order, Mr. Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. ADAM. I rise to a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, he is not talking on the motion to recommit, as we observe it.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will desist for just a moment he will see that I am.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will be as lenient as possible but would like to request the gentleman to confine his remarks to the motion to recommit.

Mr. GELFAND. The purpose for the motion to recommit is to permit this bill to be studied at length, so that the committee involved can go into all the facets and aspects and the implications of this type of legislation. The problems involved are not simple. To prove the fact that the problems involved are not simple ones, we can only refer to the committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association which is now undergoing a study of these very problems. They feel that the import of the legislation involved here cuts across many facets of the law of invitee, the law of torts, the law of negligence, and requires more study than has been given to it in this body up to the present time. I happen to agree with the Pennsylvania Bar Association in that respect. I think that we do a disservice to the Commonwealth by hastily passing legislation which requires adequate study.

As Mr. Fineman has already indicated, on its face the bill looks like a simple piece of legislation, but in all of its implications and ramifications it cuts across many aspects of the law. Although I deign to say this, and I know that I do this at the peril of my profession, the fact is that lawyers better understand these problems than do laymen, because lawyers are trained to understand these problems and they can more readily examine them. Therefore, I think it is imperative that this type of legislation go back to a committee that can examine it in all of its aspects, because if we pass legislation of this nature and we pass legislation that is bad, all we do is compound a bad problem. We do not assist it.

I do not think that putting it back into committee for further study is going to kill it, and if it does mean that we are going to delay a little, if we get better legislation in the long run, who is damaged by it? Therefore, I am heartily in favor of the motion of Mr. Fineman. The bill right now, as far as I am concerned, does not tackle the problem properly. It does a disservice to the community. At the risk of having a poor piece of legislation, weighed against adequate study, which may take a little longer, I think that the latter course better serves the community. For that reason I am in favor of Mr. Fineman's motion.

Also, I would like to point out this fact: Despite the fact that the other body did weigh this type of legislation, every member who voted against this bill in the other body was a lawyer, which is an indication that there is some merit to what Mr. Fineman says, that the bill should be weighed fully and adequately so that when it is brought out on the floor for vote we will have a good piece of legislation that can pass and will better serve the Commonwealth. I follow Mr. Fineman and I heartily request that everybody vote in favor of his motion to recommit this bill.

RULING

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to read from Mason's Legislative Manual the ruling concerning permitting the debate from the other body.

It is a breach of order in debate to notice what has been said on the same subject in the other house or the particular vote or majorities on it there because the opinion of each house would be independent and not influenced by the proceedings of the other and because referring to or quoting the proceedings in one house might cause reflection leading to a misunderstanding between the two houses.

That precedent has been established by former Houses on many occasions.

The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, lest there be any doubt that the proponents of this motion are exclusively Philadelphia lawyers, I rise to support this motion.

This legislation is difficult, difficult to lawyers. I doubt that any two lawyers could agree on the significance of this legislation before us. It is precisely the type of thing that needs the consideration and study of the entire Judiciary Committee. It is exactly the reason why that committee functions. Whether the committee has before it another bill of similar or exact context or not, the fact remains that this legislation, be it this House bill number or Senate bill number, requires continued serious study.

For these reasons I support the motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I merely want to say that I support wholeheartedly the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, in his motion.

I think the implications of this bill are so drastic legally that it would change the law of this Commonwealth as it has existed for nearly 200 years. I think we should definitely recommit this bill and I further say that 1963 would not be too early to reconsider it.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from York, Mr. Rudisill, yields to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to inject any further into this debate the question of who is better capable of understanding a piece of legislation, a lawyer or a non-lawyer.

I do wish to point out to the House that those of us who serve on the Judiciary Committee have had this or similar legislation under study for several weeks and have as yet been unable to agree among ourselves as to the implications of this type of legislation to the people of this Commonwealth.

I can assure the members of this House, Mr. Speaker, that as soon as we are able to reach such a decision we will announce it either by reporting the bill or by not reporting the bill; that what we are asking this afternoon in this motion to recommit is that those of us who have given this problem serious consideration not find all of our efforts completely in vain by a hasty vote taken, perhaps, inadvisedly, this afternoon.

I, therefore, suggest, Mr. Speaker, that every member, every member of this House of Representatives, interested in the orderly procedure of committee work in this House, support Mr. Fineman's motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Rudisill.

Mr. RUDISILL. Mr. Speaker, I am sure that all of my friends here are, that is, if I have any friends—I should say colleagues—will agree that it is only the most impelling thing that would cause me to get behind a microphone, and that impelling thing is this: That the gentleman from Philadelphia said it would be an affront to the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee of this House if this bill were not recommitted to the Judiciary General Committee.

It seems to me in this particular matter there is only one thing to be decided, and that is the legislative processes as between committees and between chairmen of committees, the legislative comity that should exist between committees.

I will not speak upon the merits of the bill, because I come from a rural county and I understand the problems of landowners with respect to hunters and fishermen, and I sympathize with these landowners. But I say that when a bill has been put into one committee, and when the chairman of that committee has gone to the ends that I have gone to to make a study of that bill, I think there should be some legislative comity between the several committees. I went to some length. We studied it. It was not a matter of passing this bill by because I personally was interested and am still interested in the intent, and I would like to see it studied by the committee.

As has been said, however, there was certain information the proponents of this bill had promised me and which is not forthcoming. So I say, this is not a vote on the merits of this bill, but it is a vote as to whether or not, when a bill has been put into one committee where it is being studied, a similar Senate bill should be placed in another committee.

I have never done any interrogating, but I would, with the permission of the Speaker, please, like to ask just one question of the chairman of the Agriculture Committee, the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FARABAUGH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. RUDISILL. I would like to ask, Mr. Speaker, of the gentleman from Cambria, whether he, as chairman of the Agriculture Committee from whence this Senate bill was reported to the floor, would oppose this motion of recommitment, and, further, if this bill were recommitted to the Judiciary General Committee, whether he would join with me in making a proper study of this bill with the intention of reporting out a good bill?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I am not certain how to answer the first question. I told Mr. Rudisill I would not openly oppose the recommitment of this bill. I say now I will not oppose the recommitment provided we have an assurance that this bill will be studied and come out for a vote before this session is closed.

Mr. RUDISILL. Mr. Speaker, the second part of my question was: That if this bill were recommitted to the Judiciary Committee, whether or not the chairman of the Agriculture Committee would join with me in making a special study of this particular bill because I, too, am interested in the intent of this particular legislation?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I would be glad to do that.

Mr. RUDISILL. I thank the gentleman from Cambria.

It is only for the reason that I have stated and not the merits of the bill that I join with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, in asking for an affirmative vote on this motion for recommitment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Yetter.

Mr. YETTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the motion to recommit this bill. I want to support the Speaker in referring this bill to the Agriculture Committee, of which I am a member. I think we farmers know something about land ownership and use. I am a landowner and also a hunter and a fisherman. And I think that this legislation should be voted on today, or at least have a chance for an open debate.

Mr. Farabaugh asked the chairman of the Judiciary Committee whether he would report out a like bill and have it debated on the floor. My friend, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, avoided the question. I think that we should have an opportunity to debate this bill and vote on it today. I would appreciate everybody opposing the motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, the farmers want this bill enacted into law and I do not see why the hunters and fishermen would not want it too.

If the gentleman from Philadelphia wants to offer amendments, he can offer them on the floor of this House, so that we can all consider these amendments.

I oppose this motion to recommit and ask you to keep this bill on the calendar for action and passage by this House of Representatives. It will be in the interest of all the farmers and all of the sportsmen of this Commonwealth.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, as a member of this House, I long ago became of the opinion that certain bills of vital interest, which were apparently a subject of prolonged debate in committees, should eventually be referred to this House for determination. The Pennsylvania Bar Association have done this, and the lawyers are smarter than anybody else. Lawyers are members of this House, and I say to the members of this House, as Speaker and as a member of this House for many years, that the time comes when the eminent lawyers should present their arguments to the other lawyers in this House and to the other members for a final determination of a crucial bill which should perish or survive upon the verdict of this House, and not upon the verdict of the committee.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I think the speaker's remarks find their origin perhaps in his feeling that there has been an attack on him by the proponents of this motion to recommit. And I want to say to him that no reflection was intended to be cast upon him. We have to keep in mind that there are, I think, some two thousand bills that have now come to him this session for referral. It is only normal that there be inconsistency in his referrals, and I must state that there is an inconsistency here because the House bill that is identical in language, identical in every word, was referred to the State Government Committee and here we have the identical bill being referred to the Agricultural Committee. Certainly that is an inconsistency.

Now if we were to subscribe—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. YETTER. I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. YETTER. Mr. Speaker, if Mr. Fineman is so interested that the House be run according to the rules, I would like to remind the Speaker that he has been up for about five or six times debating this bill.

Mr. FINEMAN. You have but to gavel me down or ask to have me gavelled down, and I will sit down, Mr. Yetter, if that is what you want.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This is an important bill and the Chair has tried to be as lenient as possible under the discussion of this motion. The gentleman has not encroached upon the time of the House or any other member. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am quite surprised at hearing what I heard from the lips of our Speaker. I have heard him say so many times, and I have heard him advocate, the importance of the workings of every committee. I have heard him say that the true working arm of the legislature is its committees. That is where the work is done. That is where the chaff is separated from the wheat. That is where the defects of legislation should be pointed up and amended out of bills so that, when a bill is brought to the floor, it is brought in a form that is as near perfect as possible. Have we not heard him advocate larger working quarters for our committees? If we are going to be content with merely having a bill put through a perfunctory routine in a committee and reported out to the floor for full debate on the floor, without preliminary searching and examination of that bill, then we might as well disregard our committees and discard them completely. I am sure that is not his belief and I would like to invite the Speaker, and I am sure the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee joins me in this invitation, to come to one of our Judiciary General Committee meetings. Let him hear the discussion that goes on, the examination of all aspects of a bill, and he will know—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Speaker does not have to have an invitation to attend a meeting; the speaker is an ex-officio member of all committees.

Mr. FINEMAN. Well, if that is so, I ask him to be good enough to come to the next Judiciary General Committee meeting and he will know that a true consideration, a true examination, is made of every piece of legislation that comes before that committee.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. ANDREWS. No one admires the legal talents of the gentleman from Philadelphia more than I. I admire him as a person and I admire him as a legal light. But I say to you that some day the day of decision must come. And delay delays decision. Now, I gather that the vital issue presented by this bill has been under consideration since early in the session. It is not something that is new; it is not something that we are hurrying through a responsible committee. But if the committee cannot agree, if the problem is too big, the time comes when somebody must refer the matter to the House. We either pass on it this year or we will decide that it is too difficult and we defer it to next year.

Now there should be some way to eventually get a definite report from a committee, and I agree that working committees properly staffed with facilities with which to work are the backbone of this House. But I also agree, or at least I say, that a question that has been at issue since January, or was it February, I do not know when, we should either have a report of progress and a report as to whether the committee can or cannot agree and then, in view of such a report, the House would be in a position to determine what its mind wants. And if we could have a conference report or a report that the committee is not prepared to report at this session, then the matter could be dumped into the lap of the House for such action as they want, and someone sometime must call for decision.

I am sorry that the gentleman from Philadelphia is in such pronounced disagreement with the Speaker. And I am not speaking as Speaker, I am speaking as a member of this House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to correct one mistake that he made and that is that the Speaker is a member ex-officio of all committees. That is not so. It is the respective floor leaders who are members ex-officio of all committees.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, may I have the privilege of interrogating the venerable gentleman from Cambria County?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ANDREWS. I should use the function of the court and ask the gentleman to submit a brief, such as to the range of his controversy. As an ignorant layman, unacquainted in the intricacies of the law, I would suggest to him that there are certain penalties of the court incident to the act of entrapment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Speaker will permit himself to be interrogated, but there will be no lawyer's questions.

Mr. FINEMAN. These are entirely unloaded questions.

Mr. Speaker, you stated in your remarks that this bill had received consideration since its referral in the early part of the session. You know for a fact, do you not, first of all that this bill was referred to the Committee on State Government?

Mr. ANDREWS. That was right. I referred it to the Committee on State Government knowing the eminent legal qualifications of the gentleman from Philadelphia and quite confident that the chairman of the Judiciary General committee would not object.

Mr. FINEMAN. "Beware of Greeks bearing gifts" do they not say? Nothing will help you now, sir.

The gentleman knows further that the bill was referred from the Committee on State Government to the Committee on Judiciary General?

Mr. ANDREWS. That is right. Another chapter in the history of a derailed cog.

Mr. FINEMAN. The gentleman heard the distinguished attorney from York, the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee, tell the members of this House to what end he has gone to examine the content of this bill and what he has done, did you not sir?

Mr. ANDREWS. I have.

Mr. FINEMAN. Does the gentleman regard his actions as the actions of a person, particularly coming from a rural area, whose intention it is to bury the bill, or the action of a person sincerely inquiring into the merits of the bill with the thought in mind of coming to a conclusion either yea or nay about the bill?

Mr. ANDREWS. I would no more question the official integrity of the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee than the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee would question the official integrity of the Speaker of this House.

Mr. FINEMAN. So then it is safe to say that the bill is receiving proper consideration by the committee in which it reposes at the present time?

Mr. ANDREWS. It has received consideration of skillful legal minds and, if the gentleman could tell me how long we are going to be here, I would take an entirely different position, but with the leadership of the House pressing for an early get-away, this is one issue that I believe should be determined at this date.

Mr. FINEMAN. Does the Speaker believe that because the session might in fact be in its closing days that a bill, no matter what its consequences, should be acted upon without proper consideration?

Mr. ANDREWS. I do not want to prolong this controversy. This bill has been considered and reconsidered and debated one way and another, I presume, in the committee, in two committees, two committees of equal jurisdiction.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, you cannot know that as a fact. As a matter of fact I can tell you as Chairman of the State Government Committee I do not feel it has received sufficient consideration.

Mr. ANDREWS. Knowing the faculties, the intent and the integrity of the men involved, I am sure that this has received not only careful but prayerful consideration.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, you are relying on an assumption that has no basis in fact at all. As a matter of fact, it is contrary to the actual facts that exist. I can tell you as chairman of the State Government Committee that when I saw this bill and recognized its implications, the merits of the bill were not considered in State Government. The bill was merely referred to Judiciary General, so in fact it did not receive any consideration at all by the State Government Committee.

However, if you will, Mr. Speaker,—and I know that you have no reason to argue to the contrary—assuming that this bill is now receiving proper consideration in a committee that is constituted to handle this type of legislation, do you share the belief that this House should preempt the decision of that committee as to what should be done with the bill?

Mr. ANDREWS. The gentleman is a gentleman of wide jurisdiction. He is chairman of one committee and a powerful member of the other. Why it makes any difference in which jurisdiction he presents his case, as long as he is in the proper court, I do not know.

Mr. FINEMAN. Now can we have an answer to my question, Mr. Speaker? Do you believe, Mr. Speaker, assuming that a committee is giving proper consideration to a bill, that this House should preempt the right of that committee to make a final decision about that bill?

Mr. ANDREWS. A responsible committee of this House, as sovereign as any other committee, has presented its opinion, its findings, and it is now within the jurisdiction of this House to determine the issue which the gentleman from Philadelphia raises. That is the judgment I seek. Let a jury determine the issue. He makes a motion to recommit. He states the facts. You have the facts and even though you come from a farm, some of you have had some experience in this House and have insight into the decisions of courts and, if we have to leave the final decision to the Supreme Court, that is what we do. But the issue here is a motion made by the gentleman from Philadelphia and it is opposed without prejudice. He has stated his case and your decision is final. That is all there is to it.

Mr. FINEMAN. Then you believe that the consideration by the—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will order a roll call as soon as the interrogation and debate on the motion is completed.

Mr. FINEMAN. I thank the gentleman.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. O'Dell.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, I was simply going to rise to a point of order. We are so far afield from the motion to recommit and becoming a mutual admiration society, I move the former question, yes or no, on recommittal.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the majority leader desire recognition?

Mr. McCANN. No, Mr. Speaker, I just wondered if I missed one point. When this thing first started, I thought the Speaker recognized the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth, and he yielded the floor to the gentleman from Philadelphia, and I kept wondering when it would get back to him because he had the floor all that time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. I think the Chair did recognize the gentleman the second time, did he not?

Mr. McCANN. He says not.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair apologizes. The Chair certainly did not intend to pass him up.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, the erudition and the lucidity of the arguments kept me speechless.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

MOTION TO LAY BILL ON TABLE

Mr. PRENDERGAST. Mr. Speaker, I move that the bill be laid on the table, and I ask for a roll call.

Mr. FINEMAN. I second the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The motion by the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Prendergast, is in order.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand, rise?

Mr. GELFAND. To discuss the motion, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The motion is not debatable.

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Prendergast, desire recognition?

Mr. PRENDERGAST. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until 10 a.m., e. s. t., Wednesday, July 19, 1961.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I realize under the House rules that I can only speak for two minutes. I simply say that I ask the membership on this side of the House to vote "no" on the motion to adjourn.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, it goes without saying that I do not know what this House is degenerating into. My goodness, we have legitimate business to do here today, and these tactics that are taking place here are, I think, reprehensible and are putting this House in disrepute all over Pennsylvania. We certainly should vote down this motion.

Just to circumvent things that are before us today by making motions like that I think is beneath the dignity of this House of Representatives. I ask everybody to vote "no."

MOTION TO ADJOURN WITHDRAWN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf, rise?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, the motion is not debatable.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The point is well taken. The Chair asks the gentleman for what purpose he rises?

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, I simply want to withdraw the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, rise?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to get into this debate, but I did want the Chair to answer a question of parliamentary inquiry. The question before the House at the time the motion to adjourn was made was whether this bill should pass finally. Under the rules—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That is not correct. We had not agreed to the bill on third reading.

Mr. McCORMACK. Then how did the Speaker recognize the gentleman to make a motion when there was no question—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. A motion to adjourn is always in order, except when we are voting on a bill.

Mr. McCORMACK. Well, that is the question I would like to ask, Mr. Speaker. Voting on a bill, does that mean when the question is before the House—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair had not yet put the question.

Mr. McCORMACK. Wait until I finish, Mr. Speaker. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. McCORMACK. Does that provision in the rules mean that we have to actually be voting on the bill, actually voting, or a motion to adjourn cannot be made when the question is before the House before we actually physically vote?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The members must be actually voting.

CONSTITUTIONAL POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand, rise?

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. GELFAND. I raise the question of the constitutionality of this particular legislation as being special legislation for a special classification of landowners.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman has the right to raise a question of constitutionality. The Chair must put the question to the House.

Does the gentleman insist upon raising the question of constitutionality?

Mr. GELFAND. Yes, I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand, raises the point of order that Senate bill No. 639, printer's No. 737, is unconstitutional.

The speaker, under rule 4, is required to submit questions affecting the constitutionality of a bill to the House for decision, which the Chair now does, and recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand, to speak in favor of his point of order.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, this, too, is one of the problems that rises in this particular piece of legislation. When we had this legislation in committee and it was being discussed by a subcommittee of the Committee on Judiciary, this is one of the questions that I constantly had in mind.

I am not on the subcommittee of the Judiciary, but when the bill would have been brought to the committee for full discussion I would have raised this question, if I had not theretofore done so. I think, as I have already indicated in previous debate, that the legislation here under consideration has many ramifications, in addition to the question of tort law.

The Constitution of Pennsylvania specifically provides that no special legislation can be introduced or passed by the legislative bodies of Pennsylvania. This legislation, to my eyes, and I think that my objection is well taken, indicates that a landowner's liability shall be limited in certain instances when a person is hunting or fishing on his land. My question arises as to whether or not this does not provide legislation dealing with a certain area, and as such makes special legislation dealing with the individuals owning land which is used for hunting and fishing. How does this coincide with the liability, or how does this meet up with the liability, of landowners in other instances? Does this in some way act in derogation of what our Constitution by its very precepts forbids? I think this is something that must be fully considered by this legislature, and as a consequence of its full consideration it can only come to one conclusion and that is, that this type of legislation as it is written at the present time is in derogation of the very Constitution of Pennsylvania. Therefore, I am requesting a finding by this House. If we had more time to amplify our viewpoint, if I had had more opportunity to do more adequate research, I am sure I could have come up with case law to substantiate what I say. But due to the haste, due to the anxiety, of this body at this time, I feel unable to do so. Therefore, I raise this question now without having fully examined it, but with the visceral feeling that I am right, and I am requesting a finding on the constitutionality of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a motion in all sincerity, because I feel that this bill in its present form is totally defective and should not be voted on today.

Among other things, as I read the bill, if you took an amusement park operator who had defective machinery and a child went on there and was killed, that amusement park operator as a landowner would probably be immune to suit. I think there is a good purpose in this bill, but I think it should be limited and corrected.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I, therefore, move that the bill, together with the constitutional question, be placed upon the third reading postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, since I first got up and discussed the bill, and in conference with Mr. Lippincott on one of the clauses in the bill, I believe that what he has said makes a lot of sense and I certainly intend to go along with putting it on the postponed calendar with the idea of having the bill amended and put in proper shape.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth, desire recognition?

Mr. BRETH, Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, in this particular situation of the lawyers against the common people, I have no objection to placing this bill on the postponed calendar, because I believe in the end that the will and wishes of the common people will prevail and it still will not be in jeopardy or danger on the postponed calendar. It will solve a very peculiar situation that has arisen for the last hour and ten minutes. I would concur in the gentleman's motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Reidenbach.

Mr. REIDENBACH. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion to place the bill on the postponed calendar.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. LIPPINCOTT and REIDENBACH and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

THE SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR
BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of Senate bill No. 104, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), entitled "The Vehicle Code" granting the power to the Secretary of Highways to establish speed limits.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, this is a very important piece of legislation. I consider this move to amend this bill an obvious delaying tactic by a violent opponent of this bill. Therefore, for the first time we are going to ask for a roll call on the question of whether the House will reconsider this bill or not.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. A. D. Williams, Jr.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. I would like to second the motion of the minority leader and ask those who are in favor of voting on the merits of this legislation to vote against reconsideration at this time. This is a delaying, stalling tactic. We have seen too many of them in the last few days.

The SPEAKER. Does the majority leader desire recognition?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if I am correct, this would be the first time since I have been floor leader that we ever opposed in any manner such reconsideration. It may be that the precedent would have been set in other sessions. I cannot vouch for that, that the reconsideration of a bill on final passage, when a motion is made for the purpose of amendments, could lead to opposition so that the amendments could not be offered when it had reached the final passage stage. Would that be correct and, if so, I would like to ask the minority leader to inform the House?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. In my requesting a roll call on the motion, I prefaced it by saying that it is the first time, to my knowledge, such a motion was ever made wherein we asked for a roll call on the question of reconsidering a vote by which a bill was agreed to on third reading. That is true. But in this particular instance there are at least ten other bills on this calendar that these amendments could be offered to. Why this bill was singled out this morning on an important issue like this is an obvious delaying tactic, and likewise the motion to adjourn the other night. There have been so many other unprecedented things done here on this bill that the sky is the limit. You can expect almost anything from here on out. It is perfectly in order that this motion be put to a roll call.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, I might say that unprecedented things have happened to this bill, because this truck bill was not in the original bill. He was the first one to do it.

Now, Mr. Speaker, if this thing is done to me, I will get up and oppose every piece of legislation that they will try to amend on third reading.

I say this, Mr. Speaker, this is not delaying tactics; this is to save lives in Pennsylvania, lives of your children, my children and somebody else's children. Mr. Speaker, I have sat before mothers and fathers of children who were killed by trucks, while they were weeping and I was weeping. Now, if you say this is delaying tactics, vote your way.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state that both floor leaders on this matter of consideration have operated under the knowledge that any one member could have objected to the procedure and asked for a vote. And by agreement on particular bills, they have cleared them, but any member could have blocked any of the motions to reconsider that have been made. The fact they have not been blocked is because no member desired to do so.

Th Chair recognizes the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise in support of the position of the member from Allegheny, Mr. Filo. I rise in opposition to the position taken by the minority leaders and seconded by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Williams.

That I do so at this time is not because of consideration of Senate bill No. 104, but I do the same at this time as I would at any other time for any other member of the House. It is my sincere belief and, to my knowledge, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo, is sincere in wanting to present amendments to this bill. As to the presentation of amendments, Mr. Speaker, I see no delay.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. PETROSKY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

REQUEST FOR ROLL CALL WITHDRAWN

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, on reconsidering and after discussion, we will withdraw our request for a roll call.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman withdraws his request for a roll call.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. FILO asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 1, fourth line of Title, by inserting after "tractors" requiring certain semi-trailers to be equipped with emergency mechanical brakes

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 1, by striking out "SUB-SECTION (C) OF SECTION 902" and inserting: Section 816

Amend Bill, page 2, lines 3 and 4, by striking out both of said lines, and inserting: is amended by adding, after subsection (e), a new subsection to read:

Section 816. Brakes.—

(f) Every semi-trailer which is of a total length, including load thereon, of four hundred eighty (480) inches or more, and which is equipped with air brakes conforming to other requirements of this section shall, in addition thereto, be equipped with an emergency mechanical brake applicable by means of manual control at the discretion of the driver and also by automatically controlled application when the operating air pressure falls to a predetermined level. Such emergency brake shall be separate and independent from other air brakes and shall not interfere with the functioning of the regular air brakes with which the vehicle is equipped. Such emergency brake application shall be made by mechanical means capable of exerting a braking torque for each wheel equivalent to fifteen per cent (15%) of the gross weight of the vehicle.

Penalty.—Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall, upon summary conviction before a magistrate, be sentenced to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) and costs of prosecution, and, in default of the payment thereof, shall undergo imprisonment for not more than five (5) days.

Section 2. Subsection (c) of section 902 of the act, amended July 21, 1959 (P. L. 551), and October 13, 1959 (P. L. 1312), is amended to read:

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, briefly what these amendments do, if it comes to pass that we shall have larger, bigger trucks in the State of Pennsylvania, I want those trucks to traverse the State of Pennsylvania in a manner in which they should, in a manner where they have safety. There is a safety factor concerned.

I have numerous requests, ladies and gentlemen, to vote against this legislation, to vote against increased truck length.

My main reason for offering these amendments is so they would put additional safety brakes on these trucks. I say this, I am sincere, if these safety amendments are voted on, I will surely support the truck bill. That is all I am asking in these amendments. I am concerned with the safety of other people and children in Pennsylvania. As you know, the topography of our State is such that we have large hills, many steep grades, children and people are killed, property damaged, and that is the reason I am offering these amendments. I thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the amendments may have some merit. Of course, there is a bill on the calendar today which requires emergency and extra brakes on trucks to which these amendments could be graciously offered. This is a vitally important piece of legislation. We would like to have it come to a vote today. Therefore, I am asking the members to vote "no" on these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick.

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose these amendments. I feel that this bill had much consideration when the amendments were offered last week.

Therefore, today you may in good conscience vote on these amendments, but I ask the members on my side and your side to oppose these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley.

Mr. MORLEY. Mr. Speaker, this problem is essentially the same problem we have been discussing for two or three days: Which is to prevail in Pennsylvania, the safety and lives of our people or the profit of the trucking operators and the trailer manufacturers?

Over the years we have had so much difficulty with braking equipment on these rigs. I am not familiar in detail with the equipment, but I think if a decision is to be made it should be made on the side of safety and of the lives of the people of Pennsylvania.

I ask the members of this House to vote for these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Carbon, Mr. Bonner.

Mr. BONNER. Mr. Speaker, these amendments are simply another delaying action such as we witnessed last week. Representative Filo had these amendments prepared and was all set to offer them when the bill was first defeated and he withdrew the amendments simply because he knew the bill was going to fail. This is another tactic in delaying action on this bill.

We in our area who are greatly interested in this ask everyone's support to vote down these amendments because we can put these amendments in other safety bills.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Flynn.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, knowing Mr. Filo—he is a good friend of mine; we both happen to be in the western part of Pennsylvania—I do not doubt his sincerity so far as the safety measure is concerned. I would like to say, and I suggest, to the gentleman that he is a little late in his thinking so far as the safety measure is concerned and these amendments are concerned because this increase from 35 to 40 feet on these trailers does not increase the overall length of the truck as permitted now. The overall length is 50 feet, Mr. Speaker, and that is what it will still be in the final decision, 50 feet. The idea of these amendments is simply to cripple the bill and defeat the purpose and intent of the bill.

I would suggest to the members on both sides of the House to vote down these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I will be very brief. I rise to support the position of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo, on the amendments offered to Senate bill 104.

Mr. Speaker, I do this because I believe the amendments have merit. The amendments have merit, Mr. Speaker, because, in my humble opinion as a layman and not as an engineer or not as an expert upon this question, I can only think in the area of where I cannot see by any stretch of the imagination the safety feature of a 40-foot trailer assembly as compared to a 35-foot assembly as to maneuverability, as to its ease in handling, and as to the operators being able to control.

In my estimation, with the topography that we have in Pennsylvania, the hills and the dales, the mountainous terrain, there is no question in my mind that what is needed in the event we are today to vote to extend a solid vehicle from 35 to 40 feet, giving it an additional five feet of extension, that we must protect those, not just the vested interests that are interested in this legislation, but we must protect those millions of people who are on the highways by taking the precaution to place an emergency safety brake on these elongated vehicles so that we can at least be assured of some semblance of safety.

We have gone far in this legislative session in the area of highway safety, and I say to you, Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, if we are to pass this measure without this added precaution on it, you must recognize full well that you may just wipe out the entire safety record, the safety legislative program, that we have instituted in this particular session.

I ask you to take this into consideration. I ask you to think of this and vote your conscience in this area on the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

M. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, this is the second time I have spoken on the bill; this will be my last time on this particular matter. I mentioned in my previous remarks that there is a bill on the calendar which does the identical thing that these amendments do. It is House bill No. 1774, which is on page 5 of today's calendar. The wording of this amendment is almost identical except that it uses the word "semi-trailers," and the one on the calendar says, "every commercial motor vehicle, motor truck, omnibus, truck, tractor or combination," and so forth. So, if you want these amendments to become the law of Pennsylvania all you have to do is give up Senate bill 104, call House bill 1744, and send it over to the Senate. You have the identical bill on the calendar that these amendments purport to do.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. FILO and A. W. JOHNSON and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Clarion, Mr. Varner.

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, I just wanted the record to show that I would have voted "no" on that amendment but I happened to be out of the House at that moment.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the lady from Lehigh, Mrs. Markley.

Mrs. MARKLEY. Mr. Speaker, my approach to this legislation approving the 40-foot trailer is purely on an economic basis.

We in Lehigh County, over the past two years, were being faced with a very serious loss of one of our most important industries, the Mack Trucks, Inc., who have been located in Allentown since 1905.

To give you a brief chain of the events over the past two years, in October of 1959 the first news of an impending move of Mack Trucks hit the local newspapers. This involved the movement of their Plainfield, New Jersey, plant. While the people in that location were trying to overcome the shock of this news, Allentown and Lehigh County became concerned as to what would happen to our plant. We knew we had to sell Allentown as the logical home for Mack Trucks and there did not seem much time in which to do this.

In October of 1959, Governor Lawrence and other State officials joined Allentown in a bid to have Mack consolidate its manufacturing activities in Allentown and the Lehigh Valley. A telegram from Commerce Secretary Davlin on behalf of the Governor assured the Mack people of the Commonwealth's deep interest in keeping the operations and expansion, and I quote, "of your fine company here in Pennsylvania and to offer the services and facilities of our great Commonwealth for the fullest possible extent toward this end." Secretary Davlin came to Allentown in May of 1960 and met with the city officials promising that his department, and I quote, "will maintain the closest possible liaison with the Mack situation." He further said: "Pennsylvania is extremely proud of Mack Trucks and Pennsylvania wants to do everything possible to see the plant kept here and enlarged." Ironically, I might say that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has yet to purchase a Mack truck for their use.

Rumors persisted throughout the spring of 1960 that Mack would leave Allentown. However, the officials of this organization advised that they had not received the results of their site survey organization; and that it was pure rumor.

Public tensions increased and the key phrase in our city was "Hope for the best, prepare for the worst." This was really a "war of nerves."

Several months later word was released that Mack would remain in Allentown until at least October of 1964. On June 8, 1961, newspaper headlines carried the good news, "Mack Expanding Their Plant Here—First Step is Costing One Million Dollars." I showed this to the members of the House in banner headlines.

This announcement electrified the entire Lehigh Valley and surrounding areas. Why this expansion—certainly, ladies and gentlemen, part of the program would include the legislation which we are here today considering. Their plans were to increase production, improve working conditions and provide for future expansion.

Perhaps you feel that I have been selfish in speaking of my own county. Do you know, ladies and gentlemen, how many counties have citizens employed by Mack? Eight counties: Luzerne, Berks, Schuylkill, Carbon, Monroe, Northampton, Bucks and Montgomery. Do you realize how many families are affected by this operation? In normal production, annual employment is approximately 4,000 workers including office, maintenance and production. Mack families total about 15,000 people, including husbands, wives and children. Can you realize what that means to our banks, our stores, an estimate operation of approximately 3,200 passenger cars and the purchase of oil, gasoline and other commodities, and what this means in housing, taxes and recreation?

Dare you consider what it would mean if we were to lose this industry? Do you realize how far-reaching the unemployment would be? This is an established industry. Employment creates a healthy climate for any community and certainly this legislation is an indication of what we may expect in future expansion.

Just about an hour ago I received this telegram from Allentown, addressed to me at the House of Representatives:

"Would appreciate your voting for the 40-foot trailer bill, our Teamsters' Local Union 773 is in favor of the bill.

Paul M. Barnard, Secretary and Treasurer."

Ladies and gentlemen, I want you to be aware of the serious economic situation in our State and ask that you give your support to this legislation.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Flynn.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, last week during debate on Senate bill 104 the merits and demerits of the contents of the bill were thoroughly discussed. Those of us who support the intent of Senate bill 104 and realize the impact it would have on the economic future of our Commonwealth realize that there are those who, very much by the same token that we support the measure, are opposed to it.

I believe the remark was made on the floor last week, Mr. Speaker, I am not quite certain, but I am certain of this, the newspapers in general carried an article whereby they attributed defeat of Senate bill 104 last week only to the political bloc of lobbyists and also to two gentlemen who lobby for the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Sun Oil Company. Being associated with the glass industry, Mr. Speaker, unquestionably it would be loading and hauling of material. Any manufactured product such as plastic, glass or what have you that is light in weight, the manufacturer must pay, for example in the glass industry, a minimum weight load of 22,000 pounds. What he is actually hauling at the present, Mr. Speaker, is approximately 17,000 or 18,000 pounds. He is in effect paying for 4,000 or 5,000 pounds of weight he is not hauling. So being associated with the glass industry and being familiar with the trucking industry in connection thereto, last Saturday I had occasion to visit the Taggart Valley glass plant situated in Washington, Pennsylvania, and, lo and behold, what do I see at one of the loading docks but a 40-foot trailer, owned, operated and maintained by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Through the assistance of the staff photographer of the Washington Observer and Publishing Company in Washington, Pennsylvania, they very kindly came down and took photographs of this trailer. I have distributed copies of this photograph to the members of the House. Also, Mr. Speaker, to assure the members that this is no trick photography but an actual, authentic photograph, I had the serial number on the corner of the trailer blown up by the photographer and it appears that this was manufactured by the Fruehauf Trailer Company, and it specifically states on the banner stating the serial number that this is a 40-foot trailer. I did not have sufficient copies of the blow-up of the manufacturer's serial number, but here it is, an authentic picture and, I believe, there are representatives from that company in the hall of the House and they will be able to substantiate what I am saying.

But the fact remains, what I am trying to say, Mr. Speaker, in effect, is this: We have—and I want the people of Pennsylvania to realize this—these gentlemen who represent the Pennsylvania Railroad, who last week were very effective in lobbying against Senate bill 104, I would like to say this to the gentlemen: It is apparent to me, Mr. Speaker, that in theory they are opposed to it, but I can assure you, ladies and gentlemen of this House, in practice they do not carry out their thinking as lobbyists in Harrisburg.

Mr. SPEAKER, this legislation means a lot to the people in western Pennsylvania and I think it is a fallacy for some of the people who oppose this measure because they do not substantiate what they are trying to do. I would suggest to all members on both sides to vote in favor of this measure.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Fayette had requested that he be allowed to close the debate.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley.

Mr. MORLEY. Mr. Speaker, once again I get back to my topic of the previous discussion, the lives and safety of the people of Pennsylvania.

I have listened to a number of reasons in the last three or four days why this bill should be passed. I have yet to hear one good reason. They talk of providing jobs. I would like to remind you, Mr. Speaker, that dead men do not need jobs.

I have the largest plant manufacturing trailer or trailer components in the State of Pennsylvania on the edge of my district. Hundreds of the people who work in that plant live in my district. They voted to send me here to the legislature, but I also have 125,000 other people to represent and I think they are entitled to representation here in the House.

I was amazed in the last few days when the proponents of this bill admitted on the floor of this House, the men who were advocating this bill, that they do not know what a fifth wheel is. That is one of those situations in which Winston Churchill said, "The imagination is baffled by the facts." For anybody to come before this House and advocate a thing like this with so little knowledge of the problem is hard for me to understand. I could discuss this thing all night, but do not worry, I will not.

I have been associated in one way or another with this problem since I was a small boy. I remember when these semi-trailers were first developed. I remember when a fifth wheel was not a manufactured product; you had to go to a blacksmith's shop and have it built. I have watched this thing year after year, highway designers, traffic engineers, safety engineers have racked their brains trying to get this problem under control and every time they think they have it under control the trucking industries, the automobile companies, the tire companies or somebody else can move in to make more money. Ladies and gentlemen, today we stand almost where we did 25 years ago on this problem. We are killing our people. Those people are entitled to representation.

In closing, I would like to say a word for thousands of people who could not be here today; in fact, they cannot be here ever. They are dead. They are the victims of this equipment on our highways. I think for this legislature to aggravate this problem and to tip the balance in favor of this hazardous equipment in view of the situation we have here in Pennsylvania today is out of the question, and I ask the members on both sides of this House to vote against this bill.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman before me spoke of safety. I patrolled the highways for many years and found that our truck drivers are the safest drivers on the highways. They try to obey the law. They help people who are in trouble and they operate those trucks in a safe manner, except today you find them traveling faster than the speed limits, which I do not condone. But, nevertheless, the fact that these trailers will be a little longer will not decrease the safety of them. They are inspected four times a year by our official inspection stations. Therefore, I think they have ample inspection as to what is needed for safety.

I come from a county in which we have several large steel factories. We have the Parish Pressed Steel which manufactures trailer frames, car frames, and I am sure that if these people continue to manufacture these frames it will increase our employment. It will help to create jobs in our locality. The equipment company that operated the Brown Trailer Company in Reading had to go out of business because other States were manufacturing larger trailers. They could not get their trailers out of Pennsylvania without being liable to arrest.

Not only that, it helps our pretzel industry, our tobacco industry, our furniture industry, pre-fab homes, and other bulky items that do not weigh much but take up a lot of room.

I think, and every member of this House should think of this, that it is going to create jobs for us; it is going to help us. We should vote for this bill and help to pass it.

We sent out questionnaires to the chambers of commerce, manufacturers' associations, other industry in the county of Berks and our question was this: Since the attraction of new industry, along with expansion of present industry, provides the only solution to unemployment, what do you have to suggest? And the question, what State programs should be accelerated to provide additional employment in your area? Pass the 40-foot trailer bill. I ask everybody in this House to vote for this bill. Thank you.

Mr. BONNER. Mr. Speaker, my interest in this bill is the same as that of the lady from Lehigh, Mrs. Markley, strictly economical. For that reason I want to speak to some of my friends in the House to help us put this bill over.

I come from the anthracite coal field and everyone knows the decline of anthracite was because modern heating devices helped put them out of business. Now the trucking industry is on the rise. People from Carbon County are working on Highway Trailers in Hazleton; they are working on Mack motors in Allentown, in Lehigh County, and we have opportunity to expand these industries. I particularly appeal to my friends from Philadelphia. I was really amazed and bewildered when I read the record of those who voted against this bill last week. For this reason, Mr. Speaker, Philadelphia had delegations come up here at the beginning of this session—

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest that the gentleman confine his remarks to the bill. It is just a suggestion.

Mr. BONNER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I will. But I want to remind Philadelphia that we went along with every proposal they had and this is the only one we are asking for.

I want to remind them also, Mr. Speaker, that they have other bills coming up.

Mr. Speaker, before you recognized me I heard you say that you would give the gentleman from Fayette the opportunity to close the debate, have the last word. Well, I want to remind the Philadelphia delegation that the last word on this bill will not be said here today. If this bill goes down, the last word on this bill will be heard on election day, November 1962, and that from me being a Democrat. I appeal to them as a Democrat to give us some support on this bill.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has several more requests to be heard, does the gentleman from Bucks desire to be heard now?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. No, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I will be very brief. I spoke in favor of this bill last week when it was before us. I told the members, on that particular day, that a vote for this bill is a vote for progress and a vote for industry in Pennsylvania, both in the acquiring of new industry and for existing industry.

We, here in the legislature, have as one of our pet projects the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority. We are proud of the accomplishment of that organization headed by our Commerce Department. The Governor in his speech at the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company dedication last week talked about the accomplishments of the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority, how it has acquired new jobs for our citizens and lauded its efforts. One of the industries which the organization helped to bring to Pennsylvania was the Highway Trailer plant in Hazleton, Pennsylvania. This plant employs formerly unemployed coal miners and others in that area.

Mr. Speaker, let us be consistent. We cannot on one day in this House of Representatives vote in favor of industrial development, appropriate millions of dollars to aid our industries in Pennsylvania, and then in the next breath, on another day, take all of that great work away from us by voting against a bill such as we have here today.

This bill has merit; this bill will help existing industry. For example, the largest single employer in Schuylkill County, the Aluminum Company of America, the ALCOA Plant, called me before I came to this session on Monday and expressed sincere disappointment that the House of Representatives defeated this bill last week. They told me that it is vital for their industry, that every State in the Union except West Virginia and Pennsylvania have this legislation, and why are we voting against progress, why are we voting to retain an unfair competitive advantage against the people of Pennsylvania. These industries compete in other States and they need every element of competition in their favor and this bill would certainly do this. I ask all of you to vote for this bill. Let us vote for progress in Pennsylvania today.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will recognize the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Leonard, and then will recognize the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, members of the House, I have not changed my mind one bit since last week. I feel the same way about this bill today as I felt about it last week.

In listening to the remarks of those who are talking in favor of the bill, it got me to wondering how in the world these people got along for the last six months. We have been in session for six months and we are about to quit, and now you come in with a bill like this. They must have been getting along pretty good, have they not?

There is something haywire around here so far as I can figure out. When you want to sell something, it is the best possible article in the world regardless of the consequences. These big trucks, like they said in 1957, I think it was, could not get along unless they got that heavier weight. What have they done since then? They came in like they did this time with a mob to try to scare you fellows into voting their way. They are not scaring me, not for one moment. I am here representing the people of my district and I have in mind, first of all, their security, their welfare. The death of one person by these monsters that are traveling the highways is more important to me than all of the money that the truckers can make. We are not going to suffer if the truckers go out of business today; you know that as well as I know it.

We know too that thousands and thousands of railroaders throughout the State of Pennsylvania are walking the streets because the truckers have replaced them. The railroads are traveling on their own property, while the automobile owners who maintain the highways of this State are traveling in their own cars in competition with these fellows. I have in mind the man in back of the wheel of that truck. He is a human being the same as we are; he needs protection. That is his job. So why jeopardize his job? Why make it worse than it is? I am against making it worse than it is. I am for humanity first and finances afterward.

I did not ask anybody to vote for the bill; I did not ask anybody to vote against the bill; I did not run up the aisle here whispering into peoples' ears to change their minds like some of the people have done. I made up my own mind after I have heard both sides of the story. I have both sides of the story and they are both rather long.

You vote to suit yourself in the matter, but keep in mind your own conscience. I will not vote for a bill that will in any way become responsible for the passing of one of our citizens. Thank you for listening.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has seven requests from members who desire to be heard. As a neutral agent in this, the Chair might say that it is sometimes possible for members of the House to snatch defeat from the jaws of victory by talking their cause to death.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, your admonition is well taken.

This issue crosses party lines; it should be non-partisan. We have all heard the arguments for and against; we have heard them several times. I would like to respectfully request that those people who intend to vote for this measure refrain from speaking further on it. "When you have the vote, roll the bill" is an old adage, and I think we have the vote today.

I would like to yield, Mr. Speaker, to the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick.

The SPEAKER. Does the lady from Bucks, Mrs. Kooker, desire to be recognized?

Mrs. KOOKER. Mr. Speaker, I do not have much more to say about this bill than has already been said, but I simply want to emphasize that this 40-foot-trailer legislation is vital to Pennsylvania business and industry. The fact is that Pennsylvania is the only State (West Virginia excepted) which limits trailers to 35 feet. Most manufacturers in this State desperately need this type of legislation to keep up with competition and to provide jobs for Pennsylvanians. All Pennsylvania motor carriers, large and small, are calling for the enactment of a 40-foot trailer law. Business and industry in this State will owe each legislator a debt of gratitude and support, and will look to our legislature with confidence that things are being done in the American way to help unemployment and industry.

I would therefore ask both sides of the House to carefully consider this legislation and give their support to this important measure.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Northumberland, Mr. O'Donnell, still desire to be recognized?

Mr. J. A. O'DONNELL. I do, Mr. Speaker. Last week I voted against this bill. I was amazed to go home and find out that the newspapers credited the defeat of this legislation to phantoms that roam the legislative halls here in Harrisburg. No one approached me about my vote; nobody asked me to vote for or against the bill. I voted the way I thought was right, but always mindful and ever grateful to the people back home. In these days of the new frontier when jobs are so necessary, I ask both sides of the aisle to vote for this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Bachman.

Mr. BACHMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have been listening to this debate for the last few days. In regard to weight in the 1959 legislature a law was passed which governs trucks or vehicles in accordance with the weight. The Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority saw fit to loan Highway Trailers in Hazleton $340,000, and they saw fit to loan Fruehauf $900,000 to build trailers. Our Governor of the Commonwealth, Governor Lawrence, saw fit two years ago to dedicate Highway Trailers of Hazleton.

Gentlemen, I do not want to prolong this debate, but I urge every member of this House to vote for this trailer bill. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Willard, desire to be recognized?

Mr. WILLARD. I do, Mr. Speaker. I am going to take the advice of the Speaker and merely ask that these letters and telegrams from industry and our Shenango Valley Chamber of Commerce be spread upon the record. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. They will be spread upon the record.

Mr. WILLARD submitted the following for the record:

Joint Council No. 40, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, representing 40,000 members in Western Pennsylvania is supporting (S. 104), known as the 40 Foot Truck bill. The Council feels this measure, if enacted, would go a long way toward establishing the Pennsylvania trucking industry on a fair level of competition with out-of-state motor transport firms. Anything you can do to bring about favorable consideration of this legislation, would be deeply appreciated by the Teamster movement in this area.

Daniel Degregory, Secretary

Representative James E. Willard
House Post Office
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Representative Willard:

Our State Affairs Committee advocates your support of bills which would permit longer semi-trailers without increasing the present overall 50 feet maximum for tractor-trailer rigs.

The bills (S-432, H-1046 and H-1095) would remove the 35 foot limitation on trailers but would not change weight limits or total length provisions.

With development of new tractors which have the cab over engine in less than 10 feet of space, we feel the law should be changed to conform with laws in other states which allow 40 feet trailers.

Your consideration of this measure is appreciated.

Sincerely,

Dear Representative Willard:

House Bill HB-1046 is of particular interest to my company. We manufacture steel shipping containers which are light and take up lot of space. The use of 40 foot trailers would permit us to ship more containers per load and would enable us to be more competitive with manufacturers in other areas and, I hope, result in more business for the Shenango Valley. A full truckload of our 55 gallon drums will only weigh about 10,000 pounds.

Our community at the present time is trying to attract new industry. The ability to use 40-foot trailers may well influence some companies to locate in the Shenango Valley rather than across the border in Ohio, where 40-foot trailers are permissible.

I hope you will give this matter your careful attention and use your influence to see that this bill is passed. I will appreciate your support of this matter.

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Willard:

There is before the House, Bill No. HB-1046, permitting operation of 40 foot trailers in Pennsylvania. This particular bill has a provision that such trailers can be operated until June 1, 1966 by a tractor of any length licensed before June 1, 1961.

We are particularly interested in having this bill enacted due to the fact that we ship a light and bulky article—Steel Shipping Drums—on which the minimum weight on which we pay is 20,000 lbs. although our actual weight is between 9,000 lbs. and 10,000 lbs. It requires 40' trailers to enable us to haul this item in Pennsylvania and deliver to our customers at a price competitive with surrounding states.

Aside from these factors which apply to us, there is the fact that the present 35' limit places Pennsylvania manufacturers in a poor competitive position with those in surrounding states.

This situation could very well influence the decision of a manufacturer to locate in Ohio, for instance, rather than in this state with particular significance to the Shenango Valley where we are trying to attract new industry.

We hope you will give this matter your careful attention and that you will use your influence to see that this bill is passed.

Thank you for your attention and we hope for your support.

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Willard:

This refers to legislation permitting use of 40 foot semi-trailers on state highways. Since this allowance does not alter weight limits, I would urge you to support such legislation.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox, still desire to be recognized?

Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, still desire to be recognized?

Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo, still desire to be recognized? The Chair recognizes the gentleman.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I do not care to speak about the bill at this time, but since Mr. Kornick is going to be the last speaker, I reserve the right to interrogate him.

The SPEAKER. Somebody must close the debate sometime.

Mr. FILO. I want to reserve that right, Mr. Speaker, and I will yield to the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick, right now.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will recognize the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, a while back, one of my colleagues on this side of the House made reference to the city of Philadelphia. I would remind the gentleman that Philadelphia has a population of some 2 million people, representing approximately 20 percent of the population of the State, a great metropolitan area bulging with traffic and commerce, and I would advise the gentleman that no one from Philadelphia, to my knowledge, has come here and has called to my attention, or our attention, any demand or any interest in favor of the bill. So, I think we are in a very good position to justify the lack of interest in favor of the bill as far as Philadelphia is concerned.

I would also say, Mr. Speaker, that the Representative from Bucks County, Mr. Williams, at the time of the last debate made quite a point of the lobbying activity that had taken place 24 hours prior to that debate. We might very well make the same statement at this time. In fact, all the members involved know the strong-arm tactics and methods that were used to arrive at today's decision. I am in no way conceding defeat at this point. The gentleman from Bucks evidently feels that he has won the issue and that the bill has become law.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, we have worked, both sides have worked, very hard on the issues involved here and I would like to make this comment: Committee members of the House have developed the habit or policy of vacillating from one side to the other and this has become typical with many other bills that this House has considered. I would ask all of the members of the House to once and for all make up their minds now, vote their decision, do not switch back and forth, and let us have a clear-cut decision on this bill in the House today.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Carbon, Mr. Bonner, rise?

Mr. BONNER. To answer the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. I would not. I hope the gentleman will not.

Mr. BONNER. Mr. Speaker, I just want to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia to release his delegation and tell them to vote how they would like to vote.

The SPEAKER. Does any other member of the House desire to be recognized before the Chair recognizes the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick, for a privileged statement? The Chair hears none. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick.

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, I shall make the shortest speech of this House. I ask for a roll call immediately and I ask everybody on both sides to vote for the bill.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

NOT VOTING—8

Boies,	Cianfrani,	Long, Wm. Jas.,	Mihm,
Cauley,	Down,	Long, Wm. Jos.,	Schuster,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state that the decorum that has characterized this debate and the attitude of the members has followed real parliamentary traditions and really stamps this House as a great legislative body. I wish the people of all the States had been here to see how you do business.

The gentleman from Bucks, Mr. A. D. Williams, Jr., has requested recognition for a brief statement following the roll call.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. First, I would like to thank the membership of the House who voted for this bill and, second, I would like to state for the record that those people who were in favor of this legislation cannot stop at this point. Procedurally this bill is a Senate bill and has passed the Senate. It has now been amended in the House and has passed in the House with amendments. It now goes to the Senate where they can concur or nonconcur in the amendments. The opponents of this measure will attempt to get nonconcurrence in the amendments. This will force this bill into a conference committee where six people will decide the fate of this legislation. The fight is not over. We have won a battle but we still have a big fight ahead of us. I thank the House.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. Tompkins for Mr. ODORISIO for the remainder of the day.

MR. HELM IN THE CHAIR

BILLS ON THIRD READING

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL No. 445

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg,
July 18, 1961.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House bill No. 445, printer's No. 484, entitled "An Act amending the act of June 4, 1943 (P. L. 883), entitled 'An act authorizing and directing the Department of Highways to erect and maintain as a post war construction project a toll bridge over the Allegheny River between a point in or near the Borough of Tarentum, Allegheny County and a point in Westmoreland County and to provide the necessary approaches and connections with State highways providing for the acceptance of Federal aid empowering counties to pay certain damages providing for the collection of tolls on such bridge and making an appropriation' making the bridge a free bridge providing for the payment of certain obligations out of the Motor License Fund and making an appropriation therefor."

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, when the machines are ready, I have secured permission to run one bill on page 18, bills on third reading, Senate bill 693, dealing with the appropriation for the capital punishment abolition committee that was active in this session. I would like to vote that bill next, if we may.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 693, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the committee appointed by the General Assembly to examine the issue of the abolition of capital punishment in Pennsylvania.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 486, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 25, 1947 (P. L. 1145), entitled as amended "Local Tax Enabling Act" prescribing the effective date of taxes levied for the first time by any political subdivision limiting appeals by taxpayers to such first tax levies.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ADAMS asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 2, sixth line of Title by inserting after "Court" where it appears the second time: placing a limitation on occupation privilege taxes levied by any political subdivision and

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 1 by striking out "Section 3" and inserting: Clause (a) of subsection E of section 1

Amend Sec. 1, page 3, line 4 by striking out "May 9 1949 (P. L. 898)," and inserting: October 14, 1959 (P. L. 1317)

Amend Bill, page 3, by inserting between lines 5 and 6: Section 1 * * *

E. Limitations on Rates of Specific Taxes.—No taxes levied under the provisions of this act shall be levied by any political subdivision on the following subjects exceeding the rates specified in this subsection:

(a) Per capita, poll or other similar head taxes, except occupation privilege taxes $10. Occupation privilege taxes which are taxes levied on the privilege of engaging in occupations within the political subdivision not in excess of $7.

Section 2. Section 3 of the act, amended May 9, 1949 (P. L. 898), is amended to read:

Amend Sec. 2, page 5, line 4 by striking out "2" and inserting: 3

Amend Sec. 2, page 5, line 4 by inserting after "immediately": but section 1 shall not apply to any political subdivision which has, prior to the effective date of this act, adopted an ordinance imposing an occupation privilege tax in excess of $7 until the end of the fiscal year of the political subdivision current on the effective date of this act.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, these amendments offered to Senate bill 486 are intended to place the ceiling upon the occupational privilege tax as levied under Act 481, known as the "tax anything act." It places a ceiling of $7. It will not in any way affect occupation taxes which are levied on an assessment basis. There are only five municipalities within the Commonwealth that have or are using this tax. It is a flat-rate tax and it is placed not only upon individuals who live and work in a municipality, but also is taxing the people who live and reside outside of the taxing body and are taxed for the privilege of coming into the political subdivision in paying a tax for the privilege.

I ask all the members to vote "aye" in favor of these amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. McDevitt.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the proposed amendments.

Mr. Speaker, these amendments limiting the occupational tax to $7 does affect, I think, four or five communities who now collect a greater amount than the $7. I wish to bring to the attention of the members of the House the hardship that these amendments, if adopted, would work on communities that have been expending monies that have been collected by the occupational tax.

And so, I would ask all the members of the House to vote down the amendments. Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to explain that this should not and will not work a hardship upon the taxing body because it is set up to become only effective in the next fiscal year. It will not affect the current budget.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. ADAMS and ASHTON and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative, and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the third reading postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Berks permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ADAMS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we generally do not oppose a motion when it has a specific reason. Would the gentleman care to tell the House the specific reason why he desires to have this bill placed on the postponed calendar, especially since it looks like it has about 150 votes for passage, or more?

Mr. ADAMS. Yes, I will, Mr. Speaker.

I would like to have time to prepare amendments to raise the ceiling from $7 to $10, which would overcome, or should overcome, the objections of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. McDevitt.

Mr. McCANN. If it is for the purpose of offering amendments, we have no objection.

Then you will be offering amendments to the bill?

Mr. ADAMS. As soon as I can have them prepared.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we agree unanimously to place the bill on the third reading postponed calendar.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 462, entitled:

An Act amending the act of September 8, 1959 (P. L. 846), entitled "An act providing for the destruction of certain records and papers upon petition in counties of the third and fourth classes" removing the requirement of reproduction in counties of the third class.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection,

Senate bill No. 456, printer's No. 1071, and Senate bill No. 298, printer's No. 314, were passed over at the request of Mr. McCANN.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 192, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), entitled "The Vehicle Code" further providing for the placing of reflectors on vehicles and providing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich.

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOODRICH. Will the majority leader tell us how this changes the present law on reflectors?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman yield for just a moment? For what purpose does the minority leader rise?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I had a request to have this bill passed over for possible amendments from another source that I did not realize, Mr. McCann. So would you please pass this bill over at least temporarily until we can find out?

Mr. McCANN. We will be most pleased to, and will be most pleased also to answer the gentleman's question. Do I understand that Mr. Goodrich has no amendments?

Mr. GOODRICH. No, I never had them.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. No, Mr. Goodrich has not had the amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair withdraws its decision as to the bill having been agreed to on third reading.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL PASSED OVER

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 627, entitled:

An Act amending the "Liquor Code" approved April 12, 1951 (P. L. 90), permitting courts to grant club licenses to desirable applicants despite the limitations of the quota provisions of the law.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, this House has considered a good bit of legislation this session concerning our liquor laws. Some of the legislation has been good; some of it has been bad. This particular bill, in my opinion, represents just about the worst bill we have had this session.

It has put our common pleas courts in the business of licensing, of issuing liquor licenses. I think this is something that past legislatures, in their wisdom, have determined is not something that will be in the interest of the people of his Commonwealth, and I would ask members on both sides of the House to vote against this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. McInroy.

Mr. McINROY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate someone on this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Whom does the gentleman desire to interrogate? The gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky? The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. McINROY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask if this is the bill that does away with the quota on clubs?

Mr. PETROSKY. Yes, this bill would place the giving of a license to a desirable applicant in the court of common pleas in the several counties throughout the Commonwealth.

Mr. McINROY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that I heartily agree with Mr. Gailey, that this is one of the worst bills that has been presented in the Assembly this session. It is not very often that I agree with a tavern group, but I think after anyone has gone to considerable expense and provided a good place like some of these taverns undoubtedly are, and then a law like this is passed permitting any number of clubs in a community, I think there is no doubt about it, it is a bad law.

Experience has shown that the present quota method is the best way of controlling the granting of licenses and I do not believe that there is any doubt that there will be considerably more bootlegging than there is now if they do not limit the club licenses granted in this State because of the fact there would be so much competition that some would almost be forced either into bootlegging or bankruptcy. I certainly think it would corrupt the morals of this State to ever do away with the quota that we have on licenses at the present time.

I ask everyone to vote this bill down.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Section 5. Oral Prescriptions for Dangerous Drugs.—Any dangerous drug may be sold or dispensed by a registered pharmacist upon oral prescription of a practitioner authorized by law to prescribe such drugs provided, however, said oral prescription together with the date of its communication, the name and address of the prescriber and such other information as may be required by law or regulation in the case of written prescriptions, shall be reduced promptly to writing by the registered pharmacist and the writing filed and preserved by the licensed pharmacy for a period of two years in such a way that it will be readily accessible for inspection by the proper authorities.

Section 6. Oral Prescriptions for Narcotics.—

(a) Any narcotic drug required to be dispensed on prescription which the Secretary, after considering any views expressed by the Drug Advisory Board and the respective secretaries of State associations representing (1) physicians, (2) pharmacists, (3) dentists, and (4) veterinarians, shall, in his discretion, find and, by regulation, designate to possess relatively little or no addiction liability may be sold, dispensed, distributed, or given away, by a registered pharmacist operating a licensed pharmacy subject to the jurisdiction of the State Board of Pharmacy upon oral prescription of a practitioner authorized by law to prescribe such drugs, which oral prescription, together with the date of its communication, the name and address of the prescriber and such other information as may be required by law or regulation in the case of written prescriptions, shall be reduced promptly to writing by the registered pharmacist and the writing filed and preserved by the licensed pharmacy for a period of two years in such a way that it will be readily accessible for inspection by the proper authorities.

In issuing an oral prescription the prescriber shall furnish the pharmacist with the same information as is required by law or regulation in case of a written prescription for drugs, except for the written signature of the prescriber and the registered pharmacist who fills such prescription shall be required to inscribe such information on the written record of the prescription made, filed and preserved by him and shall inscribe on the label of the container of the drug the same information as is required in filling a written prescription. No such oral prescription shall be refilled.

(b) If the Secretary shall subsequently determine that a drug to which the oral prescription procedure set forth in the preceding paragraphs has been made applicable possesses a degree of drug addiction liability that, in his opinion, has resulted or may result in abusive use of such procedure, he shall by regulation revoke such prior regulation.

Section 7. Prescriptions for Narcotics—Any prescription for narcotic drugs shall be preserved for a period of two years in such a way that it will be readily accessible to inspection by the proper authorities. When such drugs are sold dispensed distributed or given to an individual in pursuance of a prescription either written or oral as provided for in this act such written prescription or in the case of an oral prescription the written record thereof made by the pharmacist shall be regarded as the written order herein required and no further written order shall be necessary.

Whenever a pharmacist sells or dispenses any narcotic drug on a prescription written or oral he shall affix to the container in which such drug is sold or dispensed a label showing the date, his own name, address and registry number or the name address and registry number of the pharmacist for whom he is lawfully acting the name and address of the patient or if the patient is an animal the name and address of the owner of the animal and the species of the animal the name address and registry number of the practitioner by whom the prescription was written or orally given and such directions as may be stated on the prescription. Whenever a practitioner licensed by law so to do dispenses any narcotic drug to a patient there must be affixed to the container in which said drug is dispensed a label showing the date his own name address and registry number the name and address of the patient or if the patient is an animal the name and address of the owner of the animal and the species of the animal. No person shall alter deface or remove any label so affixed.

A person to whom or for whose use any narcotic drug has been prescribed sold dispensed and the owner of any animal for which any such drug has been prescribed sold or dispensed may lawfully possess such drug only in the container in which it was delivered to him by the person selling or dispensing the same.

Section 9. Records of Distribution of Dangerous and Narcotic Drugs—

(a) Every person who sells distributes administers dispenses or prescribes dangerous drugs or narcotic drugs other than those exempt by regulation shall keep records of all purchases and sales of such drugs for two years from the date of purchase or sale. Such records shall include the name and address of the person from whom purchased or to whom sold the date of purchase or sale and the quantity purchased or sold.

(b) Every practitioner licensed by law to administer dispense or distribute narcotic drugs shall keep a record of all such narcotic drugs other than those exempt by regulation administered dispensed or distributed by him showing the amount administered dispensed or distributed the date the name and address of the patient and in the case of a veterinarian the name and address of the owners of the animal to whom such drugs are dispensed or distributed. Such record shall be kept for two years from the date of administering dispensing or distributing such drug and shall be open for inspection by the proper authorities. No record need be kept of any such drug administered in an emergency case.

Section 10 Removal of Drugs from Dangerous Drug Classification—Whenever the Secretary either on his own initiative or on petition of an interested party finds that the classification of a drug as a dangerous drug is no longer necessary for the protection of the public health and safety he shall remove such drug from such classification by regulation.

Amend Section 11, pages 24, 25 and 26, lines 4 to 20, page 24, lines 1 to 19, page 25, and lines 1 to 10, page 26, by striking out all of said lines and inserting:

Section 11 Registration—(a) No person shall operate within this Commonwealth as a manufacturer wholesaler or retailer of drugs or devices nor sell offer for sale nor solicit the purchase of drugs or devices nor hold drugs or devices for sale or resale until such person has registered under this act.

Any manufacturer or wholesaler not operating an establishment within this Commonwealth but employing sales representatives or detailmen within this Commonwealth shall either register as a manufacturer or wholesaler, as the case may be, or file in lieu of registration with the Secretary the names and addresses of such representatives and detailmen and shall promptly inform the Secretary of any changes in said list.

Separate registration shall be required for each place at which such person carries on activities as a manufacturer wholesaler or retailer within this Commonwealth. The certificate evidencing such registration shall be conspicuously displayed and shall not be transferable.

Certificates of registration issued by the State Board of Pharmacy to manufacturers shall continue to be valid for the period issued and upon expiration shall be renewed in the manner provided for renewal of certificates of registration issued pursuant to this section. Nothing contained herein shall be construed to require the registration hereunder of pharmacists registered by the Board of Pharmacy nor pharmacies licensed by said Board nor to require the separate registration of agents or employees of persons registered pursuant to the provisions of this section or of sales representatives or detailmen of manufacturers or wholesalers not operating an establishment within this Commonwealth whose names and addresses are on file with the Secretary. Provided however that all persons registered pursuant to this section whether located within this Commonwealth or not shall be deemed to have accepted and shall be subject to all provisions of this act.

(b) No person shall operate as a manufacturer of drugs or devices unless such drugs or devices are manufactured under the supervision of a registered pharmacist chemist or other person possessing at least five years' experience in the manufacture of drugs or devices or such other person approved by the Secretary as qualified by scientific or technical training or experience to perform such duties of supervision as may be necessary to protect the public health and safety.

(c) Each application for registration as a manufacturer including repackagers shall be accompanied by a fee of one hundred dollars ($100.00) Each application for registration as a wholesaler shall be accompanied by a fee of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) Each application for registration as a retailer shall be accompanied by a fee of two dollars ($2.00) Applications shall be on forms prescribed by the Secretary Registration certificates shall be renewed annually and applications therefor shall be accompanied by the same fee as for initial applications

(d) Registration of any person not registered by the Board of Pharmacy on the effective date of this act shall become effective at noon of the sixtieth day after application therefor is filed Provided however That the Secretary shall have authority to issue a registration certificate or to issue an order denying such registration pursuant to subsection (e) and (f) hereof at any time prior to the expiration of such sixty-day period. Renewal of registration shall be effective upon application

(e) The Secretary may refuse the initial registration of any person who has made false representation in the application for registration or of any person or agent or employee of any person who manufactures drugs or devices other than under the supervision of a registered pharmacist chemist or other person possessing at least five years' experience in the manufacture of said drugs or devices or such person approved by the Secretary as provided herein or who fails to comply with the standards of sanitation equipment materials or supplies promulgated pursuant to Section 4 (bb) until such person has filed a proper application and is in compliance with this section and with said standards of sanitation equipment materials and supplies Any action by the Secretary denying any registration shall be deemed an adjudication to which the provisions of the Administrative Agency Law as amended shall be applicable.

(f) Any person who has been convicted of a violation of any law of this Commonwealth or of the United States relating to the sale use or possession of narcotic drugs may be refused registration as a manufacturer or wholesaler and any manufacturer's or wholesaler's certificate of registration held by any person may upon such conviction be revoked if such refusal or revocation shall be necessary for the protection of the public health and safety. Nor shall any person registered under this act knowingly employ in any capacity connected with the preparation handling or sale of narcotic drugs any person convicted of a violation of the laws of this Commonwealth or of the United States relating to the sale use or possession of narcotics unless prior consent shall have been obtained from the Secretary

(g) The provisions of this section, shall not be effective until April 30, 1962

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mrs. HENZEL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a few remarks on these amendments.

There has been considerable controversy and apprehension over this recodification of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. It is not an amendment to something; it is a complete recodification of an act. I think the amendments which are being introduced at the present time are much to its benefit and I think that the House should look them over carefully after they are in print. I think after that is done they will feel that this is a tremendous improvement over the bill we have had presented and would hope that favorable consideration will be given to it at that time.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, just to supplement what the lady has said as to these amendments, after a five-hour meeting yesterday of everyone in opposition to this bill, they all came to an agreement and these are the amendments. Now, according to the latest word I have, everyone is in agreement and everyone is supposed to be for these bills. Thank you.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 1343, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), further regulating the imposition of penalties for operation of vehicles upon highways with tires which do not conform with requirements of the act.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. FINEMAN asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendment will be read by the clerk for information.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr., GALLAGHER and Mrs. KOOKER.

HOUSE BILL No. 1838.

An Act amending "The General County Assessment Law," approved May 22, 1933 (P. L. 853), providing that reproduction costs shall be considered in arriving at value and providing that factors taken into consideration in arriving at the value of real property and valuations so determined by certain counties under a permanent system of records may continue to be a valid basis for assessments.

Referred to the Committee on Counties.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. BRETH, JIM, CURWOOD, and WILLARD. RESOLUTION No. 93.

In the House of Representatives, July 18, 1961.

Whereas, Spring Creek in Centre County is internationally famous for its trout fishing and as the site of the renowned "Fisherman's Paradise" and also, the location of the State of Pennsylvania's largest and most picturesque fish hatchery; and

Whereas, This grand stream is apparently threatened by a continuing wave of pollution, which threatens to destroy its fish life and its ability to attract visitors, sight-seers and fishermen; and

Whereas, This condition has drawn the concern and ire of numerous citizens and civic organizations; and

Whereas, If this condition continues to encroach upon the waters of this fair stream, the "Fisherman's Paradise" and fish hatchery will be abandoned with the resultant economic loss of several million dollars in plant ponds and fishery investments; and

Whereas, This loss will also mean a further economic loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars in revenue from tourists and sight-seers in Centre County; and

Whereas, In realization of this serious situation, the House of Representatives, by 1960 House Resolution No. 9, Serial No. 11, empowered the Committee on Fisheries to make a survey and study of conditions causing the pollution of Spring Creek, which study was held and the results thereof reported to the House of Representatives; and

Whereas, In spite of said study and report, it has become apparent that the same conditions still exist; and

Whereas, This continuing condition is of great concern not only to citizens of Centre County but to Pennsylvania fishermen everywhere; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Committee on Fisheries is hereby empowered to reopen and continue its survey and study of conditions causing the pollution of Spring Creek and all matters incidental and related thereto; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee may meet, hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations whether the General Assembly is in session or in adjournment. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before this committee or to produce any books, papers, records, or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, as soon as possible.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am trying to clear something up with regard to House bill 1541. The amendments which were sent over are about three times as long as the original bill.

It has been suggested that somehow the bill come back over to be proofread before it is printed in final form, since I understand the amendments are twice as long as the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That can be done with the cooperation of the chief clerk, and I am sure the chief clerk will cooperate.

Mr. McCANN. I will ask the chairman of the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation to check the amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Maxwell, rise?

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I will consent to what the floor leader said, although I have already developed a serious case of ulcers over this bill. I do not know how much more he wants me to bleed for it, but I will be glad to do what he wants me to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. I will be glad to give the gentleman a cure.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman has ulcers, he had better go to the drug manufacturers and get some relief.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we are at this point where the balance of our bills will have to be checked in caucus one way or another and it is almost 5:30, so we are going to ask for committee announcements and clear the desk. When we convene tomorrow, immediately off the floor we will go to a caucus which will be early in the morning. There will be no more roll calls today.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the minority leader rise?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like the privilege of interrogating the majority leader, please.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, many members, of course, are vitally interested in where we go from here. I realize that we are going to be in session tomorrow and we are going to come in at 10 o'clock, is that correct?

Mr. McCANN. Ten o'clock, daylight saving time, that is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. What are the plans from here on out? Are we going to be here next week, the week following, the week following, or what are the plans of the majority party?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, it is intended that this House will be in session next week.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. May I further interrogate the gentleman? What do you intend to do next week? Will we, for instance, have a reapportionment bill ready?

Mr. McCANN. A congressional reapportionment bill, right.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. You expect to have a reapportionment bill before us for a vote next week?

Mr. McCANN. I assume introduction and the proper committee will handle it.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Is there a bill prepared by you folks ready to be put in so that the committee can consider it?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there are probably half a dozen congressional reapportionment bills ready for introduction.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. May I further interrogate the gentleman? When are you going to introduce them so we can get a look at them?

Mr. McCANN. Without a doubt the bills will be introduced by next week.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. By next week?

Mr. McCANN. There is a very important meeting taking place on Thursday with the Speaker of the House, Sam Rayburn, and the answer will either be a definite yes or no without any equivocations about the congressional seats.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Does the gentleman mean, Mr. Speaker, that the Congress in Washington will be the final, final, final answer on whether we lose three Congressmen or two in Pennsylvania? Is that right?

Mr. McCANN. The final answer, I assume, will be in that category, whether we lose three or two.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then next week there is real justification for our being here and we will no doubt have a reapportionment plan before us so that we can bring about an orderly end to this session and adjourn soon sine die? Is that the plan?

Mr. McCANN. That, in addition to one other major item on which I hope that the Select Committee on Education will give us the answer by tonight in their meeting, dealing with the tax measures for the interim subsidy program, the reorganization plan which has been introduced which can be reported on this floor so it may be voted on by this House.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, how many days does the gentleman plan to be here next week? How many days will this House be in session?

Mr. McCANN. I do not have that specific answer, but I assure the gentleman I hope to have the answer and announce it on the floor before the members depart for their homes tomorrow, so that they may plan properly for the following week.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I thank the gentleman.

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to make a brief statement.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is in order. Without objection, the gentleman will proceed.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we were planning on making quite a statement with respect to the reapportionment. We feel that it has been swept under the rug, you might say, for a too long period of time. I am sure we are all pleased to hear what the majority leader has said, that maybe next week we can get down to the all-important business of this session, that of reapportioning our congressional districts. That is good news to everybody on this side of the House. We are hoping fervently that when we come in here next Monday that there will be something we can put our teeth into and really get down to work so we can plan our future here. Many members would like to plan their vacations, no matter how short they may be, but we hate to go ahead without something being done on the all-important question of reapportionment. So if the gentleman will really get down to brass tacks, get the leaders together and agree on something so we can end this session, I am sure everybody will be eternally grateful.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say one thing about the reapportionment problem. It is my understanding that at the present time, from the newspaper stories that I have read, I believe the State of Minnesota only lost one seat and could not agree, and at the present time, all Congressmen in Minnesota, unless they do something about it, will run at-large. The State of Illinois, I am not sure of the number of congressional seats they lost, but the newspapermen were kind enough to show me, I think it was called The Chicago Daily News they had here, and they had it covered in such a manner that you could not tell the paper and it looked just like the Pennsylvania problem. "Assembly in the Windup—Reapportionment and Education." That State has not been able to resolve its problem at this time. We certainly are working and have been working to face this problem and face it here in this session of the General Assembly. I hope to have that legislation so that the members of this House may have an opportunity to see the printed bill in form, which is what the minority leader has been asking about for the last two or three weeks.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, one more question. Could the gentleman tomorrow fix a time this week when the leaders on both sides of the House and Senate and the statewide leaders could sit down and discuss the problem of reapportionment and maybe arrive at some kind of a solution or find out whether we are in a hopeless deadlock?

Mr. McCANN. I cannot at this point, Mr. Speaker, give the gentleman a definite time and date, but it certainly is the intention to have a top-level discussion both of the Republican State Chairman of this State, the Democratic State Chairman and other parties involved in that very item.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I take it from that that the answer is, you will do your best.

Mr. McCANN. All I can do is ask them.

REQUEST FOR COMMITTEE MEETING

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, when we convene tomorrow, I would ask permission to have an Appropriations Committee meeting to be held off the floor. That was to be done today and I forgot about it until the members were gone. I will ask tomorrow when we convene that it be done.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, JULY 19, 1961

The Senate met at 10:45 a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Doctor RONALD F. YOUNG-BLOOD, Assistant Professor of Old Testament, Bethel Theological Seminary, St. Paul, Minnesota, offered the following prayer:

O Lord, our God, Thou Who dost vitally interpose Thy purposes into the affairs of men, we covet for this assemblage Thy gracious blessing as its Members once more work toward solutions of the numerous and diverse problems that face the people of this Commonwealth.

Grant, O God, that the acts of law which embody those solutions shall be as just and equitable to all concerned as it is humanly possible to make them. Delegate to these Thy servants those attributes of character and acumen that will most adequately prepare them for the tasks to which they have dedicated their time and talents. Free them from those faults which will prevent them from passing laws conducive to the welfare of all the people in this Commonwealth. Keep each Legislator from the sin of presuming that he is omniscient in every matter or that all the truth is on his side. Help these men to labor collectively in the single-minded desire to make sure that there shall be available to every individual human being in Pennsylvania the full heritage of democracy, in all its ramifications, which our predecessors struggled so mightily to maintain and develop.

In the name of Christ, our Lord, we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. DONOLOW, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Dear Lieutenant Governor Davis:

At a recent Convention of District Grand Lodge
No. 3, B'nai B'rith, 750 Delegates, representing 25,000 members, unanimously adopted a Resolution on Arab unfairness in the conduct of the affairs of American citizens.

I have been instructed to send the Legislature of Pennsylvania a copy of this Resolution, which I am enclosing.

We appreciate your interest and thank you for your cooperation.

ARAB BOYCOTT

WHEREAS, Arab nations, functioning as the Arab League, have been conducting a boycott of American citizens, business and industry, and have blacklisted all American ships which have touched at Israeli ports of call, and

WHEREAS, American citizens of the Jewish faith are generally not permitted to disembark on Arab soil, by land, sea, or air, and are generally excluded from private employment in any capacity in any Arab owned or controlled company, and

WHEREAS, many American business firms, a number of them in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, during 1960 received warnings through the United States mails from Arab boycott officers in Damascus and Kuwait that if Americans have commercial dealings with Israel, they must forego doing business with Arab countries, and

WHEREAS, The United States Navy reserves the option to cancel the charter of any vessel carrying Navy cargo, if any Arab country refuses to allow the vessel to load or unload cargo, because the ship's charterers or owners have previously done business with Israel, and

WHEREAS, with the approval of the Department of Agriculture, Commodity Credit Corporation and the United States Navy, contracts for the shipment of the United States surplus wheat to the United Arab Republic provided that the vessel may not have traded at Israeli ports, and

WHEREAS, both the Democratic Party platform and the Republican Party platform of 1960 pledged the protection of the rights of American citizens to travel, to pursue lawful trade, and to engage in other lawful activities abroad without distinction as to race or religion; and to seek an end to transit and trade restrictions, blockades and blacklists, and further pledged to secure freedom of navigation on international waterways;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that B'nai B'rith District Grand Lodge No. 3 in Convention assembled calls upon the Legislatures of Pennsylvania and New Jersey to adopt resolutions already introduced within those bodies memorializing the Federal Administration and Congress to take a firm position against Arab interference in the conduct of the affairs of American citizens and businessmen, and to abstain from any cooperation with Arab League boycott activities and policies, and to resist any efforts by Arab Nations to maintain or widen its boycott activities in Pennsylvania and New Jersey and the United States, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the President of the United States be called upon to restate the position of the United States in opposition to these acts of discrimination against Americans and that he instruct the United States delegation to the United Nations to make known the sentiments expressed in this resolution in every possible manner, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the appropriate officials of the Legislatures of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, to the President of the United States,
Secretary of State, President of the United States Senate, Speaker of the House of Representatives and to members of Congress from Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This letter, together with the resolution, will appear in the Legislative Journal.

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. LANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I would like to indulge the time of the Senate for just a moment to make a remark about Senate Bill No. 202. I will be very brief and to the point. I know we are on the Calendar, but this is quite an important piece of legislation for the citizens of southwestern Pennsylvania because the Senate of Pennsylvania has unanimously adopted this legislation. It will permit the Historical and Museum Commission to purchase Bowman's Castle, which is an old landmark in Brownsville. It has a very historic background.

During the Revolutionary War and the Civil War, a number of dignitaries made their headquarters at Bowman's Castle. It is generally called "The Castle on the Rhine," even though it is in Pennsylvania. The architectural structure of this castle is similar to the castles which overlook the great Rhine River in Germany.

I am very happy, indeed, that the Senate saw fit to pass this legislation and I hope the House will take similar action.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I ask the indulgence of the Chair and the Members of the Senate to make a very brief statement by congratulating Senator Lane on having had his "Castle Bill" approved. I had thought I might amend it to place Ole Bull's Castle in the same bill. However, one castle at a time, I agree, is enough.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think Senator Lane is certainly entitled to consideration ahead of anyone else. He has introduced this same bill during many Sessions of the Legislature. We certainly wish him good luck and Godspeed with his castle.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, in that connection, I might point out there is some history involved in this castle. I think a little check of the History would find that I have had my castle in for a good while, too.

Walter, resigned.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MULLIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, yesterday in the Senate, there were some reference made to a town in Cumberland County, called Newville. Newville is a town with which I am associated inasmuch as my wife went to school there and I visit there very frequently among her friends and relatives. Since one of my colleagues here gave the impression that they were weeping and gnashing their teeth because of the economic conditions existing there, I made some inquiries last evening. I found that Newville has the least unemployment in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. About four or five years ago, a cannery which was located in Newville closed up. However, that had no economic impact whatsoever.

Concerning their public Assistance situation, there are twenty people on Public Assistance. Of these, sixteen cases are on Old Age Assistance. One of the cases is a blind pensioner; one is on Aid to Dependent Children; one is on General Assistance; and one case is Aid for the Disabled. I received that information from the Department of Public Welfare. My information concerning unemployment stated that it is the one district with the least unemployment in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. That information came from the Department of Labor and Industry.

I called up one of my friends in Newville and asked him about things over there. He told me that things are very fine, everybody is happy, and there is no distress whatsoever. I also asked him whether there was a building over here that had three feet of manure on the floor. By the way, he told me that the word "manure" was a polite word and that one time, one of the men sent his daughter over to a neighboring county to college. She came back and objected to her father using that word to describe the reason for the fine shrubbery and his corn. He told her that she should mind her own business. It took her twenty years to get him to use that word.

The gentleman to whom I spoke was a Democrat, who was elected to a school board office in a Republican town. He told me that this building which had the manure in it may be the Republican headquarters over in Franklin County, for all he knows. He told me, as far as he knows, there is no such building in Newville or the surrounding area.

This reminded me of a story they tell about a man who was running for President of the United States. I think his name was William Jennings Bryan. He was running for President and he spoke quite often to the farmers. On one occasion, he was asked to speak. They had no platform and so they used a manure spreader. He remarked to the crowd that this was the first time in his life when he had spoken from a Republican platform.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will request if there are any remarks to be made, will you kindly hold them for Petitions and Remonstrances?

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. SARRAF, WEINER and RIPP, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 872, entitled:

An Act to authorize the Department of Health and County Departments of Health to render home nursing care services and to charge fees therefor.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

Messrs. SILVERT, WEINER and LANE, by unanimous consent presented to the Chair SB 873, entitled:

An Act nullifying the liability of the Commonwealth for payment of interest on certain claims and debts.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. MURRAY, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Highways, reported, as committed, HB 81, 719, 1232, 1415, 1617 and 1794.

ANNOUNCEMENT CONCERNING CANCELLATION OF MEETING OF COMMITTEE ON FORESTS AND WATERS, GAME AND FISH

Mr. STAISEY. Mr. President, there was a meeting of the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish called for 11:30 a.m., and I want to apologize to the Members. That meeting was canceled—and they all should have been notified—because of the extended hearings that are being held on House bill No. 1162 by the Committee on State Government, of which I am Vice-Chairman.

The meeting of the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish will be held next Tuesday. If any Members who have an interest in any bills that remain in my care will contact me, the bills shall be considered.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The bills were as follows:

SB 130, 637, 734, 813, 814, 815, 828, 851, 860, HB 81, 719, 810, 1232, 1377, 1415, 1446, 1617, 1630 and 1794.

And said bills having been read at length for the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (Anthony J. DiSilvestro) in the Chair.

BILLS SIGNED

The President pro tempore (Anthony J. DiSilvestro) in the presence of the Senate signed the following bills:

SB 112, 455, 462, 526, 556, 557, 576, 582, 590, 620, 631, 636, HB 345, 519, 722, 728, 1025, 1293, 1294 and 1595.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

EXECUTIVE SESSION

A motion was made by Mr. DEVLIN and Mr. LANE, by unanimous consent,

That the Senate do now resolve itself into Executive Session for the purpose of considering certain nominations made by the Governor.

Which was agreed to.

CONSIDERATION OF EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. DEVLIN asked and obtained unanimous consent for immediate consideration of the nominations made by His Excellency, the Governor, and reported from committee at today's Session.

NOMINATIONS TAKEN FROM THE TABLE

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I call from the table for consideration the nominations reported from committee today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Clerk will read the nominations.

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

EXECUTIVE SESSION RISES

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I move that the Executive Session do now rise.

Mr. STAISEY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bell, will state it.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, this is in the form of a veiled threat.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Let us unveil it. You may proceed.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, yesterday afternoon I experienced something that I have not experienced previously in some seven years in the Legislature.

I was told by a person, on whom I rely for accuracy, that the Democratic leadership in the House of Representatives was going to call up and attempt to pass Resolution No. 88 of the House of Representatives, which is found on page 371 of their History. This resolution is one criticizing and censuring me because I have not agreed to the confirmation of certain appointees of the Governor.

When this resolution was first introduced on June 29, 1961, I only saw this as the naive murmurings of the Delaware County Democratic donkey. However, after this gentleman came to me yesterday and told me that if I did not concur in these appointees there would be an attempt made in the House by the leadership of the Democratic Party to censure me, this gentleman now sounds like the agonizing and frightened braying of the proverbial jackass that is lost in the wilderness.

I am going to cover very briefly what is in this resolution. It states that the Governor had appointed—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, will state it.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not want to be rude and interrupt the gentleman while he is speaking. However, it seems to me that it would be highly out of order to discuss something that is going on in the House. It has no bearing here with either the leadership or the people in charge. We have no way of knowing who said what to whom and why. To debate a resolution that is not even before us and has not even come out of committee in the House, I think is highly out of order here.

The record is already in front of everybody here and they can very easily ascertain this for themselves. This matter is not really before us.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, the gentleman's point is well-taken. I will concur in it, and I will just state what is not before us and what is not in the House.

I was criticized for not concurring in the appointment of eleven appointees, and this was on June 29, 1961. The records of the Senate of Pennsylvania will indicate that three of these people were given the concurrence of the Senate two days previously.

Let us analyze the eight who are remaining. One of the appointees is the Delaware County Chairman of the Democratic Party, Mr. James J. Connor, who has been appointed to the Pennsylvania Securities Commission. Just yesterday, in this Chamber there was a bill passed that would set his pay at $15,000 a year.

I think a person appointed to the Pennsylvania Securities Commission, who is one of three commissioners who regulate the registration of securities and items of that nature in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, should be a man who is qualified in the security field and in the investment field. I do not think the fact that he is Chairman of the Democratic Party in Delaware County is sufficient qualification.

I have been studying his qualifications. He is a very fine man, personally. I think an awful lot of him, personally. He is a successful businessman. However, I have yet to find the technical qualifications to make him one of those three key men in Pennsylvania.

The second one of these eight is a gentleman called William J. Coopersmith, Chairman of the Democratic City Committee of the City of Chester, who is, again, a very fine person individually and a very successful Democrat. He has been offered for my concurrence as a Member of the Navigation Commission for the Delaware River.

I am also studying his qualifications. I feel that this Navigation Commission for the Delaware River, which controls the deep water traffic to and from the port of Chester, the port of Philadelphia and the port of Trenton, requires qualified men. They should have more qualifications than the political endorsement of the Delaware County Democratic Committee. As far as I know, Mr. Coopersmith's sole qualification, in addition to being a very fine person with a wonderful personality, is that at one time he owned an outboard motorboat.

The third person, whom I have been studying very carefully, is a lady by the name of Dorothy T. Marcucci. I did not know who this lady was, and I looked into her background and found that she is the Vice-Chairman of the Democratic County Committee of Delaware County. She is seeking appointment and has been appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania to the Board of Trustees of Byberry or the Philadelphia State Mental Hospital.

Those of you gentlemen from the city of Philadelphia know that Marple, in the county of Delaware, is a long way off from Byberry. I am sure there are people in Philadelphia who are qualified for this job. However, that is not why I am studying her qualifications.

I am going to go back a little bit into history. There was a man named Harry Shapiro, with whom I differed radically when he cut down the apple trees at the mental institutions and when he removed the locks from the State criminally insane institution and a lot of the boys took off. However, I have always respected him for his dedication to the mentally ill of Pennsylvania. Harry Shapiro did tremendous good for our mental institutions in Pennsylvania. Harry Shapiro prohibited politics in our State mental institutions in Pennsylvania.

Back in 1959, when Governor Lawrence took office, we had murmurs up here in Harrisburg to the effect that politics were coming into our mental institutions. I recall Governor Lawrence's statement that he would not interfere with the State employees of mental institutions participating in politics because, he said, they were not second-rate citizens.

When I see that the Vice-Chairman of a County Democratic Committee has been appointed as a mental hospital trustee, I am not going to endorse further politics in our mental institutions. That is why I have held up this appointment.

We have in the county of Delaware a new mental hospital—a State mental hospital—called the Delaware County Mental Hospital. There has been no board of trustees appointed for this mental hospital, although it is State-owned and operated. I have heard rumors—and I intend to get to the source of them—that for a person to get a job in this new State hospital in Delaware County, he has to have political endorsement. I denounce politics in our mental hospitals. I join with the Chairman of the Mental Health Committee of Southeastern Pennsylvania in the attack on this problem. This is no place for the spoils system. This is another reason why I have refused to give my endorsement to the appointment of the Vice-Chairman of the Delaware County Democratic Committee to the board of a mental hospital.

Gentlemen, I am not going to analyze this request because I think you can read the point of order for yourself. However, it is highly, highly improper for another house to criticize a Member of this house because the Member of this house performs his duties to his constituents by thoroughly analyzing the qualifications of appointees to State boards and commissions.

I represent 553,000 constituents, and I bitterly resent this new type of government that would permit a motion of censure of me in the House of Representatives for performing my God-given right to study and analyze the qualifications of people for State office.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I feel it is unfortunate that the gentleman did not take out a list of some of these boards and commissions when he was elected in 1954. If you wanted to read the Who's Who of the Republican Party, you merely had to run down the lists of the boards and commissions and you would have found that everyone of these people who were listed all came from and were appointed by the people then in office, who were Republicans and endorsed by the Republican Party.

I remember when I came to this Senate, there were only eighteen Democrats and thirty-two Republicans. In order for them to confirm anyone, they needed thirty-four votes, as we do today. I remember many names going across the desk. I remember many of the people in this Chamber came to me and said that so-and-so is on the Executive Committee of the Republican Party, and that so-and-so is in my community and it is important to me that he be appointed. We looked into these people and most of these people, who just happened to be Republicans, were decent and nice people. They were people who served and served well. As a matter of fact, many of them brought no shame at all to the hospitals or to the institution in which they served.

Is the gentleman trying to tell us that because somebody comes out of a Democratic organization or because the Democrats are in power and want to put these people on the boards, that these people are going to bring shame on the institutions or that they are going to bring some kind of a horror into these places? This simply is not true. Since the Democratic Administration has been in, beginning with Governor Leader and through Governor Lawrence, there have not been any problems at all in these institutions from these board members or board people.

If the Senator is moved by other motivations—and I suspect this might be the case—and is not interested in approving anyone who happens to be a Democrat, that is a different consideration. It might be that the facts of life are such that things have changed, even in Delaware County. He might have to become aware of the fact that the people who live down there certainly are not going to recommend people who are Republicans to jobs to which they can send Democrats, despite the fact that they are nonpaying jobs, mean nothing to these people, and are just honorary.

If they find qualified people and they do not appoint them just because they happen to have a dual relationship in the sense that they are active in the Democratic Party or in the Republican Party, or whatever they might be, we are going to be at a loss to appoint anyone. Who becomes active in these Parties? Who takes positions of some standing in these places, other than those who have some standing in the community? They are usually people who have been successful in some other area. To disqualify them because they happen to be registered a certain way, is certainly a narrow point of view and certainly a type of view that I would hope the Members of this Senate would never take and have not, to this date, taken.

It seems very peculiar to me that we have been confirming people ever since this Session began and the only time when we have not confirmed anyone of any note, or more than one or two people, has been in Delaware County. There surely are twenty-five other Senators on the other side who have people from their communities coming through also. There have been Republicans and Democrats. They have not seen fit to hold any of them up. Maybe these two things are a coincidence and I would like to think they are. However, the facts still remain as they are.

As far as my being concerned about what goes on in the House, I think it is none of my business to go over there and tell them how to run their Chamber. I think we would be well advised if we told them the same thing if they tried to do it over here.

We are talking here about a resolution which not only has not come out on the Calendar, but it has not even been considered by a committee. We get our information by hearsay. I know the gentleman from Delaware is a very fine lawyer in the community from which he comes. I also know that he knows better than that. As a lawyer, I know he knows that you cannot take what people say by hearsay or what comes to you by third or fourth hand, unless these people actually brought it to your attention themselves. I think the gentleman's remarks are certainly not only not in good taste, but I think they are ill-chosen at this time. I think we have to let the situation develop and see what happens before anything takes place.

I do not think it is anything unusual for a man in the House, who comes from that same era and happens to be of the same political persuasion, to try to get someone confirmed in his county. I have had Republicans come to me from the House and ask me—and I am sure they spoke to the Chairman of the Executive Nominations Committee, Senator Devlin—to get somebody confirmed, in cases where there have been boards that have both Republicans and Democrats on them and which are still based on the fact that they are nonpartisan boards. We have repeatedly gone to the Chairman of your Caucus and asked him to take this man's name up at the next meeting. Generally, these people have been approved.

We are not asking you to put somebody on this board who is bad or evil. However, you will find that of all these people whom you have mentioned, none of them has a criminal record and none of them has been involved in any kind of a serious altercation with anyone. The only crime they have committed, in Delaware County, is that they are Democrats. I am sure that slowly but surely this is going to change, as it has changed in other places. I think all of us must move with the times.

When I first came to the Senate, the names which came up were Republican names. I endorsed them, as a Philadelphia Senator, because this is what they were entitled to. We had a Republican Governor and the Senate was Republican. They sent Republican names from the Philadelphia City Committee and we approved them. We are not asking you to do any differently. If these people are evil or bad, or the kind of people whom we should not have, I would be very happy to hear about it. I may not want to vote for them myself. However, until that information comes to us, I think this certainly is not the time nor the place to take this up. I think the gentleman is casting aspersions on the good names of these people. I think you are blighting their escutcheon for no reason at all. None of these people whom the gentleman has mentioned are bad people, other than they are active in the Executive Committee of the Democratic Party. To me, that is no standard for being bad. If you want to go by that standard, I think we would have some difficulty with many names that come over here.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I know that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner, being a very careful and fair man, will read my remarks, since he apparently did not listen to them.

I am not complaining about the people who are being submitted for appointment. I am complaining about a veiled threat to blackmail me, which occurred in this State Capitol yesterday. Frankly, gentlemen, I do not scare easily.

As far as Delaware County being picked out by the gentleman as the county where nobody has been confirmed is concerned, I think if you will analyze the record, you will find that about fifty per cent of those whose names have been submitted from Delaware County have been confirmed and, Senator Weiner, they were all good Democrats.

I am going to say, in a very few words, what I said previously. I am studying the qualifications of everybody who comes before this Body from Delaware County, as to their qualifications for office. I do not care whether they are Democrats or Republicans. I am going to continue to study them and no one over in the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania is going to try to bulldoze me into something.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to close this discussion by saying that the gentleman about whom we are speaking, for appointment on the Pennsylvania Securities Commission, will terminate his term with that of the Governor's. The Governor's term will expire in less than eighteen months. This same gentleman is a capable person. He is the Democratic County Chairman and happens to be a rather good and decent person who would do a good job for the seventeen or eighteen months.

I do not want anyone to interfere with the prerogative of any Senator to either confirm or deny confirmation of anyone. I think it is in bad taste to do that. We have stated that repeatedly. I do not think we have ever ignored this courtesy which we have extended to the Members in this Chamber at any time. I say that if anybody did threaten the gentleman or did make those remarks, unless he heard them himself. I think he is not being fair to the people involved. If he did hear them himself, I think those people show bad taste and I certainly will advise the gentleman that this Chamber will certainly ignore those people and they will have no weight with us whatsoever.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I concur in the remarks made by Senator Weiner. I feel the House should keep their own house in order and we will take care of our problems over here. I would be the first to defend any Member of the Senate who is threatened by anyone.

However, with reference to the gentleman's remarks concerning politics in mental hospitals, I would like to chronologically, if I may, take the time of the Senate for just a few moments to let the gentleman from Delaware know that, in my opinion, the reason Governor Leader was successful in his campaign for Governor was due to the terrible conditions of our State institutions.

As a matter of fact, Mr. President, quite a number of years ago, I served as a minority member of a committee which was headed by one of Delaware County's most distinguished citizens. I am speaking now about Senator Weldon Heyburn. At that time, we viewed the mental hospitals throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and a number of us wanted to resign our posts because of the conditions which we found.

I might say, too, Mr. President, that under the Administration of Governor Duff, a mental program was set up. However, Senator Duff did not have the support or the wherewithal to do the job. Governor Leader, with the support of Harry Shapiro, are the persons in Pennsylvania who are responsible for our great mental health program. I distinctly recall that Mr. Shapiro was very strict when it came to political appointments. With that, Mr. President, I do not agree. I feel that any person has the right to a position, regardless of his political faith. If it is a Democratic Administration and that man is qualified, he should have the right to that position as long as he performs the duties of his office in a proper manner.

I might also say, Mr. President, that we Members of the Senate who have served here a long time, on the Democratic side, generally took this position: Where the Administration recommended persons for appointments and we found nothing wrong, we approved the appointments because we felt it was the responsibility of the Chief Executive in making those appointments. To the best of my knowledge and belief, there was only one time on the floor of this Senate when we had any great difference over the confirmation of any person. That happened to be one time when we had a candidate for the position of Attorney General. This appointment was opposed by the Democrats for quite some period of time. I repeat that I feel it is proper and it is the responsibility of the Chief Executive in power. If he wishes to make those appointments and we find that they are nice and honorable persons, I feel we should give him our support. Should the next Administration be a Republican Administration and we are the Minority Party,—of course, I hope that does not happen— I might say, Mr. President, that I will remain the same. The Chief Executive is elected by all the people. Who are we—one individual—to hold up his will? As long as the person is qualified or the person has a good reputation, I cannot see the reason for not confirming him. I do not think we can make political hay by withholding confirmations. I know I voted to confirm many Republicans. As the years go by, I hope to be in the position, in succeeding Sessions, to vote for qualified people or persons who are recommended by high authority.

I wish to say to Senator Bell that I believe he is making a terrible mistake, politically.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I would like to make a brief announcement regarding the Public Hearings which are being held on House bill No. 1221 and House bill No. 1438.

When these bills were referred to my Committee on Local Government, I took the position then that the bills were entitled to Public Hearings. Unfortunately, at that time, the newspapers felt I was using delaying tactics and that I was not sincere. Then they attacked me personally.

Only a few hours ago, I received the sad news that my mother-in-law just died and I should have been at home. However, I continued with the hearing. I will not go so far as to say that the criticism toward me contributed to her death, but it certainly did not help any. She was a grand lady, and she was very much upset over the personal criticism which the newspapers, radio and television directed against me.

I tried today at noon to conclude the hearings because I believe this has been one of the longest hearings we have ever had. Despite an agreement that any further information may be submitted, some of the Members of my Committee—and rightfully so—asked that I continue the hearings at least one more day. Despite my personal feelings, I bowed to the reasoning of the Members of my Committee, and we are very hopeful that on Monday we shall conclude these hearings.

I want to also state that while I have been very critical of the press, for the last several days the press has reported the news as it happened. In my early days, I was taught that newspapers should be news carriers rather than news makers. Not all of the papers have been real favorable. However, in the last several days,—I say again—they have reported the news as it appeared.

This is a great issue, Mr. President. However, it is not for me to resolve, but for my committee and this entire Body to resolve. After studying the transcript, we shall come to a unanimous conclusion.

I am also happy to announce that last Wednesday, Mike Levine, one of KDKA's outstanding reporters, came to Harrisburg and said: "Senator, I want a recording from you, unprepared, during which I will ask you a number of questions. It will take you from the cradle practically to the grave. Whatever you may say, we will put over KDKA and other stations. I warn you now that you are putting yourself on record."

I ran it on tape, in my office for a one-half hour period, I answered some forty or fifty questions, and the tape is now being played throughout the entire western part of Pennsylvania. We made up twenty-five tapes, and I am very proud that I was able to answer Mr. Levine. I want to state that he was a perfect gentleman in the way he asked the questions. They were not really personal.

I am also proud that after the playing of that record last Wednesday, on Friday morning, members of KDKA

Radio and TV came to my office and said: "Senator, after we played that record, our station was swamped with requests for your personal appearance. The entire picture is now changing, and people want to hear your personal side of the story."

I agreed and they agreed to cancel out a national broadcast this Friday night to give me one-half hour at their expense to present my story, and mostly to answer the personal attacks made upon my life.

I will perform my duty, Mr. President. I have a sworn duty to perform my duty honestly and sincerely. That I believe I have done. I do not feel I was entitled to be abused, as I have been personally by the press. However, I am happy that Now I shall have the opportunity on Friday night, but because of a double-header being played between Pittsburgh and Milwaukee, the station has agreed to tape my appearance on TV, and replay it on Saturday night so that those who cannot pick up the TV station will have the opportunity to hear me on Saturday night.

I received the following telegram today from KDKA stating:

"This is to confirm time of your television program on Channel 2 at 9:30-10 p.m. Friday, July 21. Program will be rebroadcast over KDKA-Radio at 7:20-8 p.m., Saturday, July 22. Regards.
"Ed Beachler, KDKA-TV and Radio."

Mr. President, I want to state now that anyone who has further evidence for or against these bills will be given an opportunity for the final time on Monday morning, from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., to be heard. At that time, I will have to conclude the hearings, because if I were to hear all of the requests that I have in my briefcase now, I would be here until Christmas. It must come to an end. Unless my committee insists otherwise, next Monday will be the last day for these hearings.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Paul W. Mahady) in the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair wishes to state that he is presiding at the present time due to Senator Ripp being called from the Senate Chamber.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I wish to offer my condolence to Senator Haluska for the loss of his mother-in-law. I lost my mother about two months ago, and it was rather a tough experience.

However, since the gentleman has brought up the problem of strip mining, I would like the privilege of interrogating Senator Haluska quite briefly.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, it will be a pleasure.

Mr. LANE. Senator Haluska, now that you are going to conclude your hearings,—or you plan on concluding them on Monday—are you going to give the Members of the Committee on Local Government an opportunity to vote on this legislation as to whether it should be reported or not reported to the floor? The reason I make that interrogation is because I would like the record clear as to your position on this particular matter.

As the Chairman of the Committee, you have vast power. However, I do feel, Senator Haluska, that since this legislation has received so much publicity and since it is of paramount importance,—and I am speaking for western Pennsylvania—I am wondering if you would answer that question in a forthright manner to the Members of the Senate.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, he could be accused of tampering with the jury with that question.

Certainly, I do not think the question is correct or right. He is asking what I am going to do. I shall study the transcript, and then if I decide, in my opinion, that the bills will help Pennsylvania, it is my prerogative to bring them before the committee for their discussion and deliberation. If I find they are injurious, that they will put thousands of people out of employment and that they are improperly written, I shall use my prerogative and withhold these bills from the committee.

You are asking for an honest answer, and you are getting an honest answer.

Then my colleague can proceed—as he has threatened in the papers throughout the entire western part of Pennsylvania, if I should take the latter action—to use his prerogative and offer a resolution to discharge my committee from further consideration of these bills. He stated to the papers that he speaks for the Administration. Certainly, if he does speak for the Administration or for himself, I am awaiting his action. He has the right to ask to discharge my committee, and the entire Membership will be privileged then to fulfill his wishes if they so see fit.

The answer is that what I am going to do, I do not know. However, I tell you honestly that if after further interrogation the testimony bears out the facts as given, and thousands upon thousands of people will be out of employment, I will not under any threats—if I must resign from the Senate, Mr. President—report out these bills.

The Senator has stated to the newspapers: "If they come out weakened, we shall fix them on the floor." That chance you probably will never get.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, may I further interrogate the gentleman?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. You may proceed.

Mr. LANE. Senator Haluska, do you have any confidence in the Members of your Committee?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have confidence in humanity. However, I have been elected as Chairman of the Committee, and under the Constitution that gives you certain rights and certain prerogatives. If I did not use them, I would be remiss in my duties.

Mr. LANE. Thank you, Senator Haluska.

Mr. President, it appears that the answer is "no". That is the impression I received from my interrogation.

I might say, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, that the Local Government Committee, of which I have been a member for, I would say, maybe fourteen years, has worked on a bipartisan basis on all problems submitted to that committee. As a matter of fact, I have worked with Senator Stevenson, and I have enjoyed the work. He happens to be a Republican and I am a Democrat.

I say to you, Mr. President, that the Local Government Committee is composed of a group of men who are very conscientious and very dedicated to their work. I do believe, should the Chairman permit the bills to be discussed by the Committee, that an intelligent conclusion would be made. I feel this committee is made up of Members, generally speaking, who have a lot of service here in the Senate. We have met many a crisis, and we have resolved those crises. In view of the fact this legislation is so important, I feel, Mr. President, that the committee should have the opportunity to discuss it in detail.

I might say further, Mr. President, that I did make a statement to the press that if the necessity arises, I would submit a discharge resolution, which I am very reluctant to do. I have sat by and I have listened to the hearings, which have been prolonged for quite some time. I feel the public, as a whole, has a right to know the position of the Members of the Senate on this particular legislation.

It is very important, Mr. President, very important. I think this is one of the most important bills of the Session. I trust and I hope the Chairman of the Committee—who formerly was a good friend of mine and I hope he still is—will acquiesce a bit and let the members of the committee vote either “yes” or “no.” That is the point.

Should the bills be reported to the floor, Mr. President, it is the right of any Member of this Senate to offer amendments. If I were to offer amendments and they were not approved by the Members of the Senate, the amendments would not be adopted, Mr. President. Therefore, they would fall. I feel this is the democratic process. I also feel it is just and proper that the bills should be discussed openly.

Frankly, I do not think there is going to be a partisan approach on these bills, because we have Members on this side who are violently opposed to the bills, I know. We probably have Members on the other side who take the same position.

However, I think the public has a right to know, Mr. President, the position of the Membership of this great Senate with reference to legislation which is so important to the welfare and the well-being of all of the people.

Let us go into the thing in detail right here. Every man here is intelligent and every man knows his business. We can intelligently debate the legislation and arrive at a just conclusion.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe we a few moments ago discussed here just certain prerogatives which the Members of this Senate have. I believe we also discussed the fact that when a matter is not before us, then I think this is the wrong time to debate it.

This is an important measure. There have been many important measures in this Legislature. Just yesterday, we got into a very interesting, touchy and controversial matter. I am speaking about the problem of migrant labor. We went all through that during this Session. This matter had been held up during other Sessions and had been killed in committee. However, in this Session it came out on the Calendar and we debated it and it was handled by this Body in a manner which they saw fit. I am sure the proponents are not satisfied because the measure failed. I am sure the opponents of this measure might have even been in favor of some phases of it and thought some were good and some were bad. The same thing is true of all these measures that come before us. They should all be handled in a like manner. To debate them and to bring them to the floor before the committee itself has had an opportunity to do so, I think is not only in bad taste, but I think it is completely beyond the rules of this Senate.

These committees are made up of the very same Members who are sitting here in this Chamber today. When they want to get a bill out of committee, I have seen some bills come out despite anybody's desires or wishes. If the bill was not going to come out of committee or the committee was not interested in the matter, this was also handled by the committee. If we were in the closing weeks of the Session, or we were quitting tomorrow morning, I would say this was all germane and we could go into it very properly. However, that is not the case. We are coming back here next week, I am sure, to work on some of this legislation. If, at that time, this matter will have become that urgent, then at that time we can address ourselves to it. I think, on this matter and at this point, we are completely out of order. It certainly is not in keeping with the dignity of this Chamber or the dignity of the Standing Committees and the work that this Chamber has done so far. I think it has done exceedingly well and, during this Session, we have accomplished a great deal. I believe we can do even more.

This strife between us here about the committees and about what goes on in them, Senator Lane is a member of that committee, Senator Haluska is a member of that committee and other Members who are sitting on the other side of the aisle are also members of that committee. I am sure they can take whatever appropriate action is deemed at that time or even after that.

This bill, Mr. President, has been up in every Session of the Legislature since I have been here. Everytime it has either been killed in committee or never got out on the floor. If it did get out on the floor, it went back to committee. This is just as controversial this year as it has been in past years. I am sure that we can handle it here, as we have handled every other matter that has come up. All the people who are involved will certainly be heard and will get their views before us. At that time, we will deal with this situation.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, certainly the views expressed by the Majority Leader should be well taken by every Member of the Senate. However, I could not help but listen to the interrogation of Senator Haluska by Senator Lane.

I would merely like to say that if I understood Senator Haluska's answer correctly, I am astounded at his conclusion. Is he saying to the Senate of Pennsylvania that he has scheduled and held Public Hearings on a bill, and permitted the proponents and the opponents to come here at great expense and great inconvenience to themselves in order to express their opinions, both for and against this measure, and yet that he might conceivably not permit the Members of the Local Government Committee, after the hearings are concluded, to vote on whether or not the bill will be released to the Senate floor?

If that is what he is saying to this Membership, then I say he, himself, has contributed and made a mockery of the legislative process. Then, certainly, he should not have held the Public Hearings. I think he should be commended for scheduling and holding the Public Hearings. However, if he is taking the attitude that after the hearings are concluded, he will not give the Members of the Local Government Committee the right to determine whether or not these two bills shall be reported to the floor of the Senate, then he has done something which, in my mind, is completely wrong and he should not take that attitude.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to remind the gentleman who just spoke of the old Biblical adage: "Judge not, lest ye be judged."

I think the gentleman is coming to a hasty conclusion on something that has not happened. Also, knowing the gentleman as a very able Legislator, I think he understands there are other remedies available to him. I do not believe the gentleman is a Member of the Local Government Committee. However, I believe that many of his colleagues are Members of that Committee and I believe that he sees them on occasion and discusses this matter with them. I think he can also make his views known to them so that they can carry them in to the inside of that committee and get this action.

If the committee does not act—and have been in that position, up until this Session, where committees did not act on legislation which we deemed good or advisable. If, in the minds and the systems of the Majority Party, they did not feel the legislation adequate, we also had our remedies as to that.

To judge the Chairman of the Local Government Committee or to say that he is not going to do something before he has acted, while the hearings are still going on, I think is unfair not only to the committee but to the gentleman himself. I think you should permit the committee to at least finish its hearings.

There are hearings being held right now regarding another bill by one of the other committees. I have heard no great outcry about that matter. This legislation is in the same category as that. Every piece of legislation is important or it never would have been introduced, I am certain. I think we should let this matter rest here so that we can properly proceed without influencing anybody or jumping to any conclusions.

At such time when the bill does not come out of committee or until such time when there is no action taken, I think we here, as a Body, can then move whatever we deem appropriate at that time.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I think I prefaced my remarks by saying that if I understood the interrogation correctly, then the course the Chairman might take would be wrong.

In all the years since I have been in the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, I know of no instance where there were Public Hearings held on a measure by any committee, at the conclusion of which the Members of the Committee were not given an opportunity to determine whether or not the particular measure would be released to the floor of either the House or the Senate for action.

I again must repeat that I think it is highly undesirable that any Chairman of a Committee would hold Public Hearings and then not permit the Members of the Committee to vote either for or against. I am not criticizing the Chairman of the Local Government Committee for not reporting the bill to the floor.

I might say, parenthetically, there is no more enthusiastic backer of the strip mining regulation bills than I am. I have no criticism to offer of him for being against them. I have no criticism at all of that. However, I do say that the day when he agreed to hold Public Hearings on them, then certainly, tacitly, he should have agreed in his own mind that at the conclusion of these public hearings, the Members of the Local Government Committee would be given the opportunity to determine for themselves whether or not the two bills in question would be released to the floor of the Senate for action.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would just like to point out to the gentleman that I did not want to get into this. I would like to let this matter rest, if we can possibly do so at this point, without going into any further detail.

These bills have come over here every Session. During the past Sessions, the Majority Party was not on this side of the aisle. These bills never saw the light of day. At that time, I am sure the Majority Party had the ear of the people who were in charge of this legislation and the gentleman could have taken whatever appropriate action he deemed advisable at that time. I am sure that if he did not do so, there must have been a good and compelling reason for him not doing so. I think we should give the people who are handling it during this Session the very same opportunity, at which time he will have the same remedy as we did the last time.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, just to keep the record straight, a statement was made here that the bills which were sponsored on strip mining were generally killed in committee. Let me say to the Members of the Senate that the fellows who are here today debated the Act of 1945. At that time, during my tenure of office, we passed strip mining legislation. Quite a number of the Members of the Senate, including Senator Haluska, will recall that we debated the legislation in detail. We then enacted into law the Act of 1945, which is now on our statute books.

I believe that the Members of the Senate and the people of Pennsylvania want us to stand up and be counted. I believe we should vote on this legislation as our conscience instructs us to do. I must repeat that I feel the bills are of such importance that the Local Government Committee should have the right to examine the bills in detail and then report them to the floor for an open vote.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I will say no more about these bills. My colleagues have a right to feel as they wish. You have heard my statement and I do not wish to repeat anything. That is it.

I am interested in important bills. My colleagues from Washington County and Allegheny County have their hearts bleeding for a bill which, as has been pointed out clearly, has been introduced, in and out, for many years.

For the last twenty-three years, I have introduced a piece of legislation which I think is the most important that ever came within these halls. One time, it came to a vote and lost by two votes. That same bill was introduced this Session. The Chairman did not see fit to bring it out and I had no criticism of him. That is his prerogative.

I am speaking about the poor people of Pennsylvania who live in every Senatorial District and who must apply for relief—through no fault of their own when they do—because they were conservative. They have a little property and that first assignment is their signatures, taking away their properties which they had hoped some day to leave to their children. In addition thereto, they were young one day and they looked forward to the future. They took out insurance policies so that in case the husband died when he was young, the widow and kiddies would be kept off of the relief rolls. Yet today, under our official statute, you, Mr. President, may have carried a policy for twenty-five or forty years and paid for it.

However, you must live. So, through no fault of your own, when you are old and gray and cannot buy a job, you steal or go on relief.

Our statute—and most of these men supported it, but I did not—states that if you carry an insurance policy throughout these many years, you must waive all of it. You must cancel it down to $500. This amount of money would not provide even a decent burial. This man thought that if he died, his family would be kept off the relief rolls.

I say to you, Mr. President, and to my colleagues this is the most important bill that ever came before this Body. It affects the poor people of Pennsylvania.

In my county of Cambria, there was a steel strike which lasted 116 days. Thousands of the workers finally had to apply for relief. All of them had to cancel their insurance policies and sell their homes, in order to receive that meager subsistence. Are the newspapers crying about that? Is Washington County crying about that? Is Allegheny County crying about these poor unfortunates? Let them rise and be counted. Let them tell the people that they are for the small man who cannot get a job and who is crippled, old and sick. He must sign away all his earthly belongings because today he cannot get a job.

I am interested in that bill. If that bill comes out of committee and passes, I will report all the bills out of my committee. I will give you my coat, my diamonds and my jewelry which they speak about. I will give them to charity on the passage of a bill which will help the poor unfortunates, for whom no one seems to care and who cannot lobby for themselves. That is my interest. However, no one is very much concerned about these poor people.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN RESOLUTION RECALLING SENATE BILL FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate, recalling SB 114, from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. LANE. Mr. president, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, July 24, 1961, at 2:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, I second the motion. The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 2:23 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, July 19, 1961

The House met at 9 a. m., e. s. t.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

We thank Thee, Almighty God, for this great land of America and for the many blessings we enjoy as a part of it. We pray that the prestige which we share may never cause us to be too proud that we lose sight of the great leadership opportunities which confront us. But, O Father, in deepest humility we ask Thy continuing blessing upon our Nation and the great conquests undertaken in Thy name; especially, be with the leadership of this Commonwealth and guide, protect, and prosper them in all their labors: through Jesus Christ, Thy dear Son, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Tuesday, July 18, 1961, will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Hamilton, to preside temporarily.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Westmoreland rise?

Mr. JIM. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. JIM. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know if Senate bill No. 8 was reported out of committee?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will inquire of the chief clerk.

The bill was reported from committee this morning.

Mr. JIM. It was reported out of committee?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Yes.

Mr. JIM. Mr. Speaker, my second question is, and I wish the majority leader would pay attention to what I am going to say. It is a parliamentary question. I have the Pennsylvania Manual here for 1959-1960, and I turn to page 27, the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; then I turn to page 29, Article III, which is entitled, "Three Readings; Amendments; Final Vote," and which requires that every bill shall be read at length three times. I ask that the bills be read at length starting right now, according to the constitution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

Mr. JIM. I ask that we comply with that procedure, Mr. Speaker, and that the bills be read at length.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The journal will show that the bills are read at length.

Mr. JIM. They will be read at length?

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The journal shows that the bills are read at length. Senate bill No. 8 has already been read at length.

The Chair requests the gentleman from Beaver to preside temporarily, and the Chair will proceed with the calendar.

Mr. HAMILTON IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we are going to have one roll call before we go to caucus. On page 21 we are going to call up a bill on concurrence in Senate amendments and explain why we must concur in this bill right at this very minute.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The majority leader has the floor. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. McCANN. Bills on Concurrence in Senate amendments on page 21, House bill 53, printer's No. 2518. This bill was amended in the Senate changing it by striking out "30" and inserting "60" days. Under Article XVIII of the constitution, I learned in the conference we had here last night among members of the House and the Senate and the Secretary of the Commonwealth, today is the last day for the advertisement which must be provided for in the newspapers in this Commonwealth when a constitutional change is being proposed in its first round. I believe, if I remember correctly from the conference, that it is three months prior to the election for the official notification of advertisement, and that date is today.

Therefore, without going to caucus, we are asking that on House bill 53, which has been correctly amended to comply with the other sections of the law, we concur in the amendments placed in House bill 53 by the Senate, and that it be voted favorably here immediately for the necessary signatures of the Senate and the House so it can be presented to the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the advertisement can go to press today.

Therefore, with that explanation, I will ask the membership to vote "aye" on the amendments placed in the bill by the Senate.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority whip.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides changes to the constitution which presently provides that a person moving from out of the State of Pennsylvania into the State of Pennsylvania must reside here for a year before they can acquire franchise privileges. This bill reduces that period from one year to 90 days. The bill, as it went through the House, provided that you could move from one election district to another within 30 days and still have your vote. That 30-day provision is in conflict with other provisions of the constitution which require 60 days and other provisions of the election code which provide 60 days. So the amendments have been made from 30 to 60 days to make it conform with the election code, but the real meat of the amendment is that the time required for a non-resident to acquire voting privileges is reduced from a year to 90 days. We voted on this before. We think the amendments are all right. We ask that our members vote for concurrence in this bill.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, is this bill in print and on our desks?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Yes, the bill is in print and on the desks.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. What is the printer's number?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The printer's number is 2518.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. The bill on our desks is printer's number 1017 for House bill 53.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman. We cannot proceed until the bill is on the members' desks. The chief clerk will get the proper copies on the members' desks. The Chair will suspend until the bills are on the members' desks.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leaves of absence were granted as follows:

Mr. Dougherty for Mr. BOIES for today's session.

Mr. Tompkins for Mr. DENGLER for today's session.

Mr. Tompkins for Mr. OGILVIE for today's session.

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to outline the schedule for today. We will immediately proceed to caucus. We will caucus first and then there will be a break for lunch. When I make the motion, I am going to ask for a two-hour recess, counting lunch. On our return we will vote on the balance of the Senate bills and the concurrences that may be able to be agreed to. Therefore, if we leave here now, 11:15 daylight saving time, we will return at 1:15 or roughly no later than 1:30 for the first roll call, and the Democratic members will be requested that immediately upon the motion for a recess to bring their calendars with them and come to the new House caucus room. Arrangements will be made for lunch at the end of caucus, not at the start of caucus.

Then, Mr. Speaker, in the caucuses we will discuss also the report which the Select Committee on Education will give us. In addition to that, I have been informed that there is a problem in housing one week here in Harrisburg. The Pennsylvania Police Chiefs Association will be in convention the week after next. Even though we have planned probably on a three-day session next week, we will very likely change that to four because I do not know how we can hold the session on Monday, July 31, because the police chiefs will be here at the hotel Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Hotel rooms will be available as of Wednesday of that week. I hope we can work something out covering that week's schedule, but in our caucus we will discuss four days next week, so we may complete this education legislation in an effort to introduce it if the committee may so desire.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we too would like to caucus at the same time that the majority party will caucus, and bring your calendars.

I might say with respect to next week, many members on this side of the House have been down to the desk here and we have informed them of the prospective four days next week. They are inclined to feel, many of them, that the fourth day might not be necessary because, if we can agree on reapportionment, we can pass the appropriation bills and clean the calendar off in pretty short time and there will be no necessity for being here on Thursday even though we might be out the following week. So with that admonition we will go on from here.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I realize the members' particular problems, and we have them just as well over here, but if the following week it will not be possible to hold a session in the first part of the week, I know how difficult it is to hold a session in the latter part of the week. So if they would be off the one week, and I could not even say that they would be off, we certainly would like you to consider four days next week, and I hope that they can adjust accordingly. They would be off definitely Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday after that week, because, I believe I have been informed correctly that the hotels, with this convention, will have a great number of their rooms taken up by this convention, which has been booked for some time, I assume.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Well, Mr. Speaker, if all we have left on Thursday is to vote on the Great Dane Dog bill, I can see no reason for being here on Thursday.

Mr. McCANN. It would be wonderful to pull up a Johnson bill for a Thursday vote, would it not?

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the Chair will declare a recess of two hours.

The Chair hears none, and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask that we turn to page 21, bills on concurrence in Senate amendments. I call up House bill No. 53.

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 53.

A Joint Resolution Proposing an amendment to article eight section one of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania changing residence requirements.

With the information that the Senate had passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The clerk will read the amendments.

The clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 10, by striking out after the word "preceding" the word "the" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "an" and by inserting after the word "election" the following: for presidential and vice-presidential electors and six (6) months immediately preceding all other elections.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request that the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, this is the bill we have up on the floor this morning before we had the corrected printer's number. Our caucus took action to vote "no" on concurrence on this bill.

Therefore, I ask the members on our side of the House to vote "no" on concurrence.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the membership vote "aye" on the amendments placed in House bill 53. These amendments were inserted by the Senate and the presidential and vice-presidential amendments were inserted by the Republican members of the Senate and accepted. I ask that you vote "aye."

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. O'Dell.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, there was some discussion in our caucus, but since coming down to the floor I have spoken with Mr. Polaski from Erie. I would ask Mr. Polaski to take the floor and explain the amendments. I think he can clear up any misunderstanding.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Polaski.

Mr. POLASKI. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman came to me and inquired as to one of the amendments in the bill. His concern was that, according to the bill, if a person was in this State 90 days, coming from another State, he could not vote for any other candidates except the presidential and vice-presidential candidates. My answer to him was that the amendments are very clear. It speaks about before a presidential election or vice-presidential election and, therefore, the amendments mean that a person would be qualified after 90 days to vote for any candidate on the ballot in a presidential or vice-presidential election year. He would not be barred from voting for all of the candidates. That was my understanding of the amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

SENATE MESSAGE

RECALLING SENATE BILL NO. 114 FROM GOVERNOR

The clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 12, 1961.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that Senate Bill No. 114, printer's No. 894, entitled "An act reenacting and amending section 13 and Article VII of Chapter II of the act of December 15, 1959 (P. L. 1779), entitled 'An act relating to fish and amending revising consolidating and changing the law relating to fish in the inland waters and the boundary lakes and boundary rivers of the Commonwealth' removing the requirement that fishermen be licensed in order to fish in certain regulated fishing lakes further regulating the issuance of permits or bills of sale for fish caught in such lakes changing penalties relating to such lakes and harmonizing language of existing law," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate? It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 527, entitled:

An Act amending the act of October 27, 1955 (P. L. 744), entitled as amended "Pennsylvania Human Relations Act" increasing the membership of the commission and changing quorum provisions.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of Senate bill No. 486, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 25, 1947 (P. L. 1145), entitled as amended "Local Tax Enabling Act" prescribing the effective date of taxes levied for the first time by any political subdivision limiting appeals by taxpayers to such first tax levies.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ADAMS asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 2, sixth line of Title, by inserting after "Court" where it appears the second time: placing a limitation on flat rate occupation privilege taxes levied by any political subdivision and

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 1, by striking out "Section 3" and inserting: Clause (a) of subsection E of section 1

Amend Sec. 1, page 3, line 4, by striking out "May 9 1949 (P. L. 898)" and inserting: October 14, 1959 (P. L. 1317)

Amend Bill, page 3, by inserting between lines 5 and 6: Section 1. * * *

E. Limitations on Rates of Specific Taxes.—No taxes levied under the provisions of this act shall be levied by any political subdivision on the following subjects exceeding the rates specified in this subsection:

(a) Per capita, poll or other similar head taxes, and flat rate occupation taxes not using a millage or percentage as a basis, $10.

Section 2. Section 3 of the act, amended May 9, 1949 (P. L. 898), is amended to read:

Amend Sec. 2, page 5, line 4, by striking out "2" and inserting: 3

Amend Sec. 2, page 5, line 4, by inserting after "immediately" but section 1 shall not apply to any political subdivision which has, prior to the effective date of this act, adopted an ordinance imposing a flat rate occupation privilege tax in excess of $10 until the end of the fiscal year of the political subdivision current on the effective date of this act.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEES TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. POLEN asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Appropriations to meet during the session of the House.

Mr. CURWOOD asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Game and Conservation to meet during the session of the House.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the House will convene on Monday at 3 p. m., daylight saving time.

INTERROGATION

Mr. FETTEROLF asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate Mr. McCann.

Mr. FETTEROLF. Mr. Speaker, before we took a recess for luncheon and caucus, it was my understanding from the remarks of the majority leader that perhaps when we came back to the floor he would have some definite information as to how many days we would be in session next week and possibly some word as to the schedule for the following week. Does the gentleman have any information on that at this time?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I did announce before we recessed for caucus, and I am sorry if the gentleman did not hear me, that the House would be in session next week, and I requested that the House consider a four-day session. I cannot guarantee that I will keep the House in session the fourth day if it is humanly possible to complete our work by Wednesday.

The following week hotel facilities are not available on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. If I recall correctly, the Pennsylvania Police Chiefs Association will be in convention for the first three days, and the earliest the House could be convened that week, if a session were held, would be Wednesday. I hope there will not be a session at all that week as we will try to finish the work next week.

Mr. FETTEROLF. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if it would be possible if the majority leader could instruct the chief clerk, when we have occasions such as this, where there is some doubt as to the length of the session each week, to drop a note of some sort in the intervening time to each member of this House so all of us can get an idea as to whether or not we are going to be in session three, four or five days. I think it is of great importance to the members here, particularly the professional people.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we certainly could do that, I am quite sure, but I might state that we send a letter out from our caucus to every Democratic member, and I was under the impression that you sent a letter to each Republican member, and, furthermore, Mr. Johnson always checks with me as to our program, our plans and everything else. This would be asking the chief clerk to send a letter?

Mr. FETTEROLF. Mr. Speaker, I would say that regardless of how it is done it would be important, because I think the members of this House really want to know how long we are going to be in session.

Mr. McCANN. I certainly will cooperate most heartily. I want to get finished and get out of here as soon as possible the same as you do.

Mr. FETTEROLF. I thank the gentleman.

INTERROGATION

Mr. TOMPKINS asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate Mr. McCann.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, there was a general complaint in our caucus today that when the members go down to the bill room to get copies of House bill 1836, or Senate bill 867, relating to the educational reorganization plan, either they cannot get them at all or they limit them to one copy. Is there any reason why the members of the House should be denied the privilege of having these bills?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I have not checked this with the chief clerk, but the first people who would be entitled to copies of those bills would be the House and Senate members above everyone else. I realize there will be a great demand for those bills and we certainly will ask Mr. Ominsky, the chief clerk, to have additional copies printed if such be the case, but certainly members should be first to get copies.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The chief clerk has informed the Chair that this is the first that this has been called to his attention on these particular bills and he will check into the matter and find out if there is a supply of the bills on hand and, if not, make sure that there will be.

COMMUNICATION

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House a communication from Representative Foor concerning his vote on House bill No. 1781 on June 28, 1961.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The communication will be noted in today's journal and printed in the journal of June 28, 1961.

SENATE

MONDAY, JULY 24, 1961

The Senate met at 2:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. WILLIAM H. STEBBINS, Pastor of Trinity Memorial Lutheran Church, Allentown, offered the following prayer:

Our Father, in heaven, give us the faith to believe that the words now spoken, and the yearnings of our hearts, are heard and understood in Thy presence.

We, the Members and servants of this Senate, join together our prayers for Thy blessing, Thy guidance, and Thy help that we may do what is best for the people of this Commonwealth, and what is right in Thy sight.

O God, give to us, Thy servants, the will to work together as a team for the welfare of all our people. Give us courage to withstand the pressures of life in a confused and complex world. Give to the people of this State and Nation the vision to see that sacrifice must be shared by all, that there is no substitute for hard work, and no joy in undeserved reward. May we fear nothing except the fact that we fail so often to do those things that are well pleasing in Thy sight.

Bless us, guide us, and direct us, O God, in the name of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. LANE, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

He also returned to the Senate, SB 192, 508, 509, 529 and 589, with the information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

The PRESIDENT. The bills, as amended, will be placed on the Calendar.

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE BILLS

He also returned to the Senate, SB 527, 674, 684, 701, 735, 746, 747, 757 and 760, with the information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

HOUSE BILLS FOR CONCURRENCE

He also presented for concurrence HB 720, which was referred to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

He also presented for concurrence HB 1001, which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented for concurrence HB 1343, which was referred to the Committee on Highways.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. VAN SANT, WADE and MURRAY presented to the Chair SB 874, entitled:

An Act authorizing certain domestic stock insurance companies to issue stock having a par value of not less than one dollar per share, and validating certain stock which any such corporation may heretofore have been authorized to issue or issued.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

Mesrs. EHRGOOD and WEINER presented to the Chair SB 875, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies, with the approval of the Governor and the Adjutant General, to sell and convey real property, situate in the City of Lebanon, Lebanon County to County Commissioners of Lebanon County.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. SEYLER presented to the Chair SB 876, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 15, 1957 (P. L. 901), entitled "Optional Third Class City Charter Law," to permit cities adopting an optional charter plan under said act to provide for the hearing of appeals from assessments and the revision thereof by an administrative procedure.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

He also presented to the Chair SB 877, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 15, 1957 (P. L. 901), entitled "Optional Third Class City Charter Law," permitting cities adopting an optional charter plan to establish a city court not of record to hear proceedings involving violations of city ordinances.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Mr. MULLIN presented to the Chair SB 878, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 15, 1961 (Act No. 207), entitled "Inheritance and Estate Tax Act of 1961," changing the rate of tax.

Which was committed to the Committee on Finance.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, the introduction of this bill reverts back to a committee investigation which we held of the Department of Welfare, some two years ago. At that time, it developed that the Department of Welfare was mailing relief checks to Florida, to recipients on relief who were vacationing in Florida. I think at that time, there were some 100 of them to whom checks were being mailed out by the Commonwealth.

Mr. President, I hope this bill which I am about to introduce will correct that situation.

While I am on my feet and speaking about the Department of Public Welfare, I would like to state that early in February, of this year, I introduced a bill which would require that any home which houses more than two illegitimate children would be declared unsuitable, and it would provide that these children be sent to foster homes by the Commonwealth.

I introduced a similar bill two years ago. It passed the Senate unanimously by a vote of 50-0. I have talked to the Chairman of this Committee and have tried to arrange for the bill to be reported from committee. I am hoping that he will take some action because it will remedy some very, very sad situations which exist in the Commonwealth. Some of the mothers have as many as ten or eleven illegitimate children, and I do not think that kind of a home is a suitable one in which to raise these children.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. PECHAN presented to the Chair SB 879, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1937 (P. L. 2051), entitled as amended, "Public Assistance Law," prohibiting the sending of assistance checks outside the Commonwealth in certain cases.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

Mr. LANE submitted the Report of the Committee of Conference on SB 88, which was placed on the Calendar.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request a five minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Committee on Corporations, to be held in Room 302.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a five minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

GUESTS OF SENATOR GEORGE N. WADE PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I would like the opportunity of introducing a special guest who is with us today.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Wade, I cannot hear a word you are saying. Unless the visitors find seats, we will have to clear the Senate Chamber.

You may now proceed, Senator Wade.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I would like the opportunity of introducing a special guest who is with us today in the Senate. He is Carlos DeWever, of Antwerp, Belgium. He is a summer guest of the Rotary Club of Mechanicsburg, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, under an experiment in International Living.

Mr. DeWever is accompanied by Mr. Stanley Nailor, his wife and their young son, Michael. They are seated here to the left of the rostrum.

I would appreciate it, Mr. President, if you would extend the official welcome of the Senate to Carlos DeWever.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman please stand up? The Senate will greet the gentleman from Antwerp, Belgium.

On behalf of the Senate, the Chair is very happy to have you here. When I mentioned the fact that we were about to clear the Senate of visitors, I did not include you among them.

We are very glad to have you with us.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. SILVERT WEINER and RIPP presented to the Chair SB 880, entitled:

An Act amending the act of August 16, 1951 (P. L. 1236), entitled "An act authorizing the Supreme Court and the Superior Court to appoint and fix the compensation of reporters of their decisions and assistants and employees; and repealing certain acts," removing the limitation on the salary of reporters.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. DONOLOW, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Corporations, reported, as amended, HB 36.

SB 114, RECALLED FROM THE GOVERNOR, TAKEN FROM THE TABLE

SB 114 (Pr. No. 894)—Without objection, Mr. LANE called from the table Senate Bill No. 114, which was recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

RECONSIDERATION OF SB 114

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 114, Printer's No. 894, passed finally on July 7, 1961.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

Mr. MCGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. MCGINNIS. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed third reading.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

Mr. MCGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. MCGINNIS. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. LANE, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 63), page 5, line 16, by striking out "prior to January 1 1961 or" and inserting: and

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 63), page 5, line 19, by inserting after "lake": or water to which the fishing lake has riparian rights

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

Without objection, the bill, as amended, was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. Lane.

The PRESIDENT. The bill, as amended, will appear on tomorrow's Third Reading Calendar.

CALENDAR

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS, OVER IN ORDER

FINAL PASSAGE CALENDAR

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE DEFEATED

SB 493 (Pr. No. 544)—On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, this bill failed of Final Passage some time ago, and then was brought back on the Calendar. Particularly for the benefit of my colleagues from Allegheny County, I want to say there is nothing of a political nature in this bill. It brings into line the First Class Township Code with that of the cities and boroughs. It permits the court, on proper petition of the Board of Elections, to redistrict the wards.

This is certainly in keeping with good legislation. It will permit many inequities in many first class townships to be corrected. It will permit the court, with the acquiescence of the Election Bureau of the particular county involved, to correct situations such as this, where one ward might have 200 registered voters in it and another ward might have 3,500 in it. I certainly believe we would all agree this type of thing should be corrected. It can be corrected at the present time in boroughs and cities, and it certainly should be able to be corrected in first class townships.

Mr. President, I would urge my colleagues on the other side to put aside partisanship in this matter and vote for that which is in the interest of good government.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment? The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, having voted under a misapprehension, I desire to cast my vote in the negative.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. MCGINNIS. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—25

Bell,	Hawbaker,	Pechan,	Taylor,
Berger,	Keller,	Probert,	Van Sant,

Ordered, that the clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SB 586 (Pr. No. 1105)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I think I should probably explain in detail the subject matter contained in Senate bill No. 586. For the information of the Membership of the Senate, this is one of a series of bills which our Joint Committee on Unemployment has recommended be enacted into law. You will note that the sponsors of this bill are bipartisan, the same as the sponsorship on Senate bill No. 584.

Mr. President, we are trying to give to the Department of Commerce, and the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority, the right to use the sum of $50,000 for the purpose of technical research. I might say that I imagine the P. I. D. A., which will have control of this fund, will use the money intelligently. The membership of the committee feels this is a very important question, this question of technical research. Although the appropriation is small, we are hoping that when the distressed area legislation is adopted in detail and we receive some State moneys, we might also be able to utilize some of those funds.

Mr. President, I believe this is a very important piece of legislation, and I think the time has come when the government of Pennsylvania must get into this field of technical research if we are going to alleviate any of the unemployment which exists in Pennsylvania at the present time.

Therefore, Mr. President, I would ask the Membership on both sides to give their support to this piece of legislation.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, it is very unusual that

I find myself in disagreement with my friend and distinguished colleague from Washington County, Senator Lane. However, I do have to say, Mr. President and Members of the Senate, that I can see voting appropriations to some of our higher educational institutions, such as Penn State, for various forms of technical research. I do not think we are yet ready in this State to give money to the Department of Commerce to spend as they will—public money apparently going into private industry. Therefore, I will have to vote “no” on this bill.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I think this is only the second time in my lifetime that Senator McMenamin and I have disagreed.

I might say, Mr. President, that the Department of Commerce is a part of the government of Pennsylvania. I feel the Department of Commerce and the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority will comply with the laws of the Commonwealth, and I do not believe this money will be spent for any private enterprise purpose.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—28

Berger,	Flack,	Murray,	Stiefel,

BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDED

HB 1172 (Pr. No. 2514)—Read at length the third time, On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WEINER, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

Amend Bill, page 5, by inserting between lines 5 and 6:

Section 2 The act is amended by adding after Section 4 two new sections to read:

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am going to vote against this amendment. The purpose of my doing so is to bring to the attention of the Senate a man who was imported by Harry Shapiro from the West. He is a wild jackass by the name of Elias Cohen. I never saw a man more inflexible than this gentleman. Many times I have tried to visualize the fabric out of which a Gestapo agent would be made, and I feel he is a living example of what a Gestapo agent might be.

During this entire Session, I have introduced several bills which would have remedied this situation by transferring the Office for the Aging from the Department of Public Welfare to the capable, strong hands of Doctor Wilbar. However, the bills still rest in committee. This is one chance to curb Mr. Cohen's appetite and to set him where he belongs.

Mr. President, I am voting against this amendment and I will vote against the bill, because I feel a man like that should not be entrusted with the administration of institutions for the aged.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would just like to state, for the purpose of the record, that a good many of us were here when the change was going through with this department. There were many advisory committees, councils and boards that met on this. They finally came up with what they thought was the best solution, and they enlarged the Department of Welfare. They combined the Department of Public Assistance, the Office of Mental Health and the Office for the Aging—all of these different categories—and set up a table of organization.

Having agreed upon this, I think we must wait until such time as this department has had a proper chance to operate and arrive at some conclusion. It might very well be that some of the people, in trying to carry out their jobs, might be a little bit harsh. Bear in mind that they are operating in areas which have never been regulated before, not because the people who had the jobs before were derelict in their duty, but because times have changed. We are looking upon these things in a different era.

For example, ten or fifteen years ago, the population which has now become much older did not face the problems that we face today.

I am not here to bear witness or testimony on this gentleman's behalf because I think that will stand on its own two feet. In trying to do a job on behalf of all of the people among the aged or people who end up in nursing homes,—all of us know of cases where people have been thrown away as human relics or human derelicts and just left in some home—it might very well be that sometimes in their desire to do a proper job, they might very well overstep their bounds. I think the error is on the side of trying to do the right thing, rather than to hurt someone by an overbearing bureaucracy.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, you know Senator Weiner and I are great friends and we are getting along nicely. However, this is one of our apples of discord existing between us. The same goes for Senator Lane. I even mentioned the malpractices of Elias Cohen in the presence of His Excellency, the Governor, and Senator Lane was the first one to jump to his defense.

I want to say this: A person in such an important position should possess a certain degree or even a modicum of flexibility, decency, affability and respect, and not treat anybody who comes to see him like dirt under his feet. Arrogance is not the hallmark of a public official. A public official should be firm, decent and courteous, and these are qualities which Elias Cohen lacks.

Now I feel there is another thing. The time will come when this entire business of combining the Departments of Public Assistance and Welfare will receive the proper and now long delayed elucidation. I have said time and again—and I now repeat here on the floor of the Senate—that this entire reorganization was undertaken to suit the ambitions of a certain person who was a great administrator, Senator Harry Shapiro. Only a man like Harry Shapiro, who is brilliant, capable and dynamic, could administer such a sprawling department. However, with Harry Shapiro out of the picture, the entire situation becomes mixed-up like a jig saw puzzle.

This is the reason why I feel the ten surgical hospitals should be under the jurisdiction of Doctor Wilbar, where they belong. You cannot create a sprawling empire and put in charge a lady who is soft with Elias Cohen and tolerates his arrogance and ebullience.

This is the reason I am going to persist and, like Cato of Rome, say that Carthage must be destroyed. Some of these bureaus in Public Welfare must go to the Department of Health, and especially the ten surgical hospitals and the Office for the Aging. Under the firm and capable hand of Doctor Wilbar, Elias Cohen will not be permitted to act like a Gestapo agent.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, it is not often that I disagree with my learned friend from Philadelphia. In the matter of scholarship, he has few equals. However, here is something concerning which I do have personal knowledge. I am a member of that committee, and on this committee the homes were represented and ably represented. They pushed very hard to see that they were well taken care of.

As for it being the personal act of one Mr. Cohen, let me assure you personally, Senator Stiefel, that this action was given a lot of consideration. One of the amendments, I do not personally agree with. However, I do say to you that this will be a decided improvement and will make the category of control of the aged within a working capability which will benefit the homes, even for the receipt of Federal funds.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, you and I served on a certain committee, a year ago, which boasted of having as members the illustrious Senator Pechan and Senator Shafer, who may be the next Justice of the Supreme Court. Anyway, you will remember we were locked in battle with Senator Pechan. You know, Senator Pechan is a very tough opponent. The matter ended in a draw. Maybe now I am beginning to rue the day when I did not see his way about it. However, it is too late now, but if there is ever any committee which tries to reverse the combining of the Department of Welfare and the Department of Public Assistance, I will be in favor of doing it and breaking it up into its component pieces.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, actually, I did not intend to get into this hassle. The last time when the distinguished gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Stiefel, talked in the Governor's Office, with reference to Elias Cohen, I stated at that time that my experience with Mr. Cohen was very pleasant and I thought he was very efficient and very capable. For quite awhile, there were more or less strained relations between my good friend, Senator Stiefel, and myself. Frankly, I did not intend to take the floor, but the gentleman from Philadelphia brought me into this. I hope he understands that. Therefore, I have to defend my position. I do feel that probably Elias Cohen does not treat Senator Stiefel properly and there should be some corrections made.

However, Senator Stiefel is a very learned individual. He very well knows this is a government of law and not of men. Therefore, Mr. President, I feel that in view of these circumstances, I must be in favor of the amendment and I am going to be for the bill. However, I wish to inform Senator Stiefel that if his bill is reported from committee, transferring a portion of the Department of Public Welfare's responsibilities to the Department of Health, I, for one, will certainly vote for it.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, Furthermore, along that line of thinking, not only is Mr. Cohen pontificating here in Harrisburg, but he appointed a virago. The definition of a virago is a tough and insulting woman. It is spelled v-i-r-a-g-o. He appointed a virago by the name of Galo, of Philadelphia, who, in my opinion, should not be the person to inspect homes for the aged. The sooner the Department of Public Welfare will investigate this Mrs. Galo, the better for us. If they are not going to initiate an investigation, I will offer a resolution to look into her activities.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, during most of this Session, we heard the arguments given by Senator Stiefel in favor of again separating or removing the Department of Public Assistance from the Department of Public Welfare. We previously merged the two departments during the Leader Administration, under Senator Shapiro. Senator Stiefel always speaks very highly of Senator Shapiro.

It so happened that I met Senator Shapiro about two or three weeks ago. I said: "Senator, would you be in favor of separating the Department of Public Assistance and the Department of Public Welfare—separating those departments which were combined during your term of office?" He answered me by saying: "I think it would be a mistake to do so."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendment was agreed to.

Without objection, the bill, as amended, was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. McMEnamin, will state his point of order.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, was there a request for a roll call and may I inquire who made the request?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair asked for a roll call because there were too many negative votes popping up. It was Senator Berger who requested the roll call and it was seconded by Senator Pechan.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I did not ask for a roll call.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I now request that House bill No. 1402 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

BILL ON THIRD READING, DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1414 (Pr. No. 1963)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, in recent years, there has been a tendency—and I believe too much—to exalt the Executive Branch of Government to the detriment of the Legislative Branch of Government. This bill is another step in that direction in carrying out that theory of government.

It seems to me that since the Legislature created all of these funds, the Legislature should wipe them out if they are no longer needed. There is no reason for us to delegate further of our powers and give the Executive Branch of Government a blank check to do what we should do by single bills. If we are to continue the integrity and the strength of the Legislative Branch of Government, which is one of the three basic forms of government, I believe this bill should be defeated.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, all I have to say concerning this bill, I believe I said before in discussing it. However, I thoroughly agree with Senator McMEnamin and his evaluation of this situation. I had thought I would be furnished with a list of these funds and the balances which are intended to be merged into the General Fund by this bill. I have not received them, and I agree with Senator McMEnamin that this is a job for the Legislature in a detailed way if we are going to merge these funds into the General Fund or, as we frequently do, finally to lapse them into the General Fund.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, this bill merely gives the Governor the power to abolish and transfer balances from the special funds to the General Fund. Many times, the Legislature creates these special funds to take care of a special situation. A special situation may arise in a year, two years, three years or maybe four years. Here you have special funds which no one is even aware of. I believe all of you will remember, at the beginning of the Session, we found there were a number of funds which had not been used for years. No one even knew they existed, other than they were carried on the books or the ledgers of the Commonwealth. We had to pass special legislation to get rid of all these funds or, at least, to merge them into the General Fund.

This bill merely permits the Executive Branch to do this, when these funds have outlived their usefulness or no longer serve any purpose.

It is not the Governor, alone, who does this. It is the Auditor General and the State Treasurer, who also act in concert with him. At the moment, they happen to be of the same political faith. Two years ago, however, this was not the case. I do not believe you are depriving the Legislature of any of its powers. I do not believe you are taking anything away or infringing upon these powers. You are merely saying to the Executive Branch that it should help run the government when the Legislature is not here. I am certain that any Governor who understands government would certainly not take this upon himself, if and when the Legislature is in Session.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, according to the statement of the State Treasurer, of June 1961, there were fifty-eight separate funds in the Commonwealth. I must agree with Senator McMenamin and Senator Berger that each one of these funds were set up by a separate Act of the Legislature.

If we were to pass House Bill No. 1414, the Governor would have the privilege of abolishing funds with balances of $32,355,000, $30,541,000 and other various and sundry funds of that kind. It certainly would seem to me, as Senator McMenamin and Senator Berger have so well pointed out, that this would be very foolish legislation for us to pass.

As a matter of fact, about two weeks ago, Senator Berger asked that a report be given to him denoting which funds the Governor proposed to abolish or which ones he proposed to take the balances and throw them into the General Fund. So far as I know, and from Senator Berger's statement today, no answer has been forthcoming to that interrogation. We, as Members of the Legislature, if we are going to preserve the Legislative Branch of Government, certainly should know about each fund which is to be abolished.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may I also point out to the gentleman here that this cannot be done by the Governor unless he has certification from the State Treasurer that these funds are no longer needed for the purpose for which they were set up?

We are certainly not talking about great and vast sums of money. We are talking about the Governor having available to him money which might be needed and which he might otherwise have to wait for the Legislature to convene, or the State might have to borrow, or he might have to use some other means to obtain these funds. I think this is certainly small power to put into the hands of the Governor or the Chief Executive, whoever he might be, because we have faith that he will follow the constitutional precepts and also use this to the best interest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Majority Leader, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WADE. Senator Weiner, would you tell the Members of the Senate what funds the Governor proposes now to abolish?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not know of any at the moment. These are merely powers you are giving him in futurity when these things might exist, because we have pretty well cleaned these up with legislation here when we started this Session. This could go on for a number of years, and you would have money tied up in these various funds that would be serving no purpose whatsoever. The money would just lay there because no one is taking the initiative to do anything about it.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman for not answering the interrogation. He says he does not have the answer.

As of June 1961, of the fifty-eight funds, each and every one had a balance, with the exception of two.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if the gentleman feels that these two funds which have no balance are still useful and he would like to have the prerogative of canceling them, I have not noticed that he has introduced any bills to take care of this problem or to even deal with it.

I will not go into interrogation to find out what these funds are and what purpose they serve. However, I think the gentleman will be hard put to tell me what special purposes many of these funds serve after the time for which they have been set up has long passed and the period lapsed.

I will ask my colleagues to vote "aye" on this legislation. And the question recurring, Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL OVER IN ORDER

HB 1085—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

HB 1099 (Pr. No. 1216)—Read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 1099 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to this bill going over in its order. My reason for doing so is that House Bill No. 1099, Printer's No. 1216, is a companion bill to House Bill No. 1098, which we just passed today. House Bill No. 1101, Printer's No. 1738, which is the next bill appearing on the Calendar, is also one of the bills which has been on the Calendar for quite some time. We are anxious to work on these bills and to pass them, and I would object to them going over in order today.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, in a sense, I suppose House Bill No. 1099 may be called a companion bill to House Bill No. 1098. They happen to have consecutive numbers. Outside of that, each one of these bills deals separately with the same subject, and that is mutual insurance companies.

Mr. President, these bills are designed to bring under control of the Insurance Department the small mutual insurance companies, such as the Grange, the Farmers' Alliance and different types of insurance companies. According to my information, these would be very much hampered in their operations if these bills were to pass. They are providing now coverage that could not otherwise be provided by stock companies or the larger mutuals.

Mr. President, you will be doing a tremendous damage to an industry which does a peculiar and valuable service to rural Pennsylvania.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, under House Bill No. 1099, all we are doing here is eliminating the option of domestic mutual fire insurance companies to not license any of their agents. On that basis, suppose you have Mr. X or Mr. Y, who works for an insurance company, and he loses his job or is fired for misfeasance or non-feasance in office. He then goes ahead and gets a job with one of these small companies or this type of company where they do not have to be licensed. The public at large may have no way of knowing this or be on notice of this man's former record or former activity.

I do not think that anyone is hurt if he comes under this bill in the sense that you license him, or at least cause him to register so that we have some idea of what these people are doing. We do not want to limit anyone's employment. However, we certainly want to be aware if there are some people who are not desirable in an industry. The should be ferreted out or, at least, brought to the attention of the public at large.

That is the only reason we want to bring this bill up to Third Reading and bring it up to a vote.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, the statements of the Majority Leader, I believe, are a little bit away from the field. While it is true, in a sense, that a man who might have had his license revoked could go out and get a job with another insurance company, let me point out that the agents for these small mutuals are not agents. They are usually members of the board or officers of the company. They do not employ any agents, Mr. President. They simply render a service for the members of their own mutual.

For that reason, Mr. President, I believe these bills are harmful to that industry.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I fail to see where registering these people, or at least bringing them under the jurisdiction of the Insurance Commissioner, would hurt their effectiveness or even hurt their ability to carry out their jobs. In other words, if they do it in this company, I do not see how just this man alone coming under the Insurance Commissioner's jurisdiction is going to hurt them, as everyone else does who is in that industry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection has been raised to this bill going over in its order.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I now move that House Bill No. 1099, Printer's No. 1216, go over in its order.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, again, I object to the bill going over in its order.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was defeated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

HB 1101 (Pr. No. 1738)—Read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 1101 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to House Bill No. 1101 going over in order. This bill provides for the policies, contracts or certificates of domestic mutual fire insurance companies to be submitted to the Insurance Commissioner for approval. It would be unlawful for them to act without this approval.

Right now, all of the other companies submit their contracts. I do not see that any harm would come from the Commissioner looking at these contracts and deciding whether or not they were in proper form. I am certain he will be as kindly to them as he has been to the other insurance companies, as well. I think at the moment there are no complaints.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being objection to House Bill No. 1101 going over in its order, the question recurs on the passage of this bill on second reading.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

HB 1163—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

BILL ON SECOND READING

HB 1190 (Pr. No. 2420)—Read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 1190 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to House Bill No. 1190, Printer's No. 2420, going over in its order for the reasons stated previously. These bills have been on the Calendar for quite a long time and we would like to dispose of them. The only way we can do that is by moving them up to Third Reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection has been raised to House Bill No. 1190 going over in its order.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?
It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

HB 1220—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON SECOND READING

HB 1232 (Pr. No. 1406)—Read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 1335—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

HB 1377—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON SECOND READING

HB 1415 (Pr. No. 1705)—Read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL REREFERRED

HB 1415 (Pr. No. 1705)—Upon motion of Mr. WEINER, seconded by Mr. LANE, and agreed to, the bill just read was rereferred to the Committee on Appropriations.

BILL ON SECOND READING

HB 1440 (Pr. No. 1734)—Read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

HB 1446 (Pr. No. 2202)—The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. HAYS offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5.2), page 2, line 9, by inserting after "barbering": under the immediate supervision of a licensed barber.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5.2), page 2, line 15, by inserting after "barbering": under the immediate supervision of a licensed barber.

They were agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The title was read and agreed to.

Without objection, the bill, as amended, was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. HAYS.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 1496 (Pr. No. 1844)—Read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 1496 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to House Bill No. 1496, Printer's No. 1844, going over in order.

This bill is an important piece of legislation, and many of us here would like the opportunity to at least vote on this measure. I would ask that it be prepared for Third Reading so that we can vote on it either this week or Monday of next week, and dispose of this matter one way or another. This bill has been around for a little while, and it is important to many of us who would like an opportunity to express our interest in this measure.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not believe this bill has been on the Calendar a long enough time to get as much mold as certain other bills that appear on the Third Reading Calendar, about which the gentleman does not seem to be so solicitous.

Mr. President, I have no particular interest in this bill. However, I requested that it go over in order. Since there has been an objection raised, I now move that the bill go over in order.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I will second that motion.

Am I in order to make some remarks upon this bill?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. After the motion is put, you may then make your remarks.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I just want the record to show that this bill has been on the Calendar since June 26th.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Chair or the Majority Leader how long House Bill No. 95 has been on the Calendar, which he continually, each day, keeps putting over and over and over.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair feels you are out of order. We are discussing House Bill No. 1496 and not House Bill No. 95, Senator.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, may I talk on House Bill No. 1496?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. You may talk on House Bill No. 1496.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, during the last Session when I was Chairman of the Committee on Public Health and Welfare, and the city of Philadelphia wanted three and one-half millions of dollars from the Department of Health,—they wanted to establish their own county health unit after having been a Philadelphia unit over the years—we agreed to give them three and one-half millions of dollars. An amendment was tacked onto the bill, and when it was amended, the bill passed by a vote of 50-0. Not one single soul on the other side or this side complained about it.

There are a lot of letters going back and forth from a certain Mr. Broughton in the city of Pittsburgh, who is today complaining about the county health unit. At that time, I was in touch with Mr. Broughton—I am now talking about 1959—and among other things, he said when this amendment was added, allowing a referendum on a one per cent vote, he thought it was unfair. However, he did say that if we could tack onto that amendment that it shall not be subject to a vote every year, but every five years, it would be satisfactory.

I would like to read one paragraph from his letter. It states as follows:

"I am not at all doubtful about the security of the existing County Health Units. I think the above amendment is intended to harass and prevent the creation of new ones. Clearly, it could be used that way. Wherever a County Health Department is established and voters know what it is, they favor it. They do not fall for the imaginary bugaboos which . . .”—I am not going to mention the man's name—"invents. I would not be afraid of any referendum"—mind you—"that followed five or six years of experience with a County Health Department. The Butler Department, as you know, was set up by the Commissioners and then adopted by a four-to-one vote after three years of experience."

As you all know since that time, Butler County which I represent, threw out the county health unit by a vote of 19,000 to 14,000.

Mr. President, I am not at all surprised that the people voted by that large a majority because the administration that we had in Butler County was such that it was an untouchable. I mean, you could not get in to see them. Consequently, the people were very sick and tired of it.

Let me tell you about the creation of the Butler County Health Department. A foundation came in and gave the county of Butler $50,000 as a pilot to start the county health units in the Commonwealth—$50,000. The people took it, voted for it and accepted it. In their last year's budget, it was going to cost the people of Butler County some $214,000 to take care of the Butler County Health Unit, and they had nothing to show but a lot of statistics. You cannot blame the people of Butler County for knocking it down.

You all know that I happen to be interested in the health program. I happen to be a dentist, and I appreciate the good that can come from health departments. I can also see the damage that can be done.

I want to say to Senator Weiner that now that the shoe is on the other foot and he has got his three and one-half million dollars, he does not care anything about what the other part of the State thinks about it and he wants to repeal all over the State.

I say if they want to, who do they not introduce an amendment so that Pittsburgh and Philadelphia can live by themselves? They want to anyhow, because they talk about those of us who come from the rural areas as a bunch of Senators from the sticks. I will go along with an amendment, if they will introduce an amendment for Allegheny County and Philadelphia County.

I know I am out of order and I want to be out of order.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not know whether the gentleman is finished with his campaign speech or not. However, he finally got back to House Bill No. 1496.

I believe the record will show, if the gentleman will peruse if for a moment or two, that we discussed this problem in quite some detail when this matter was before us. Tied to this very problem of the one per cent proposal was also the money with which to do the job. You did not have a chance to choose between your father and your mother. You had to choose them both. Therefore, the bill passed by a vote of 50-0 in this Body. That, however, did not make it a good bill; it did not make it right. We are trying to correct a previous error.

I believe Senator Pechan has been quoted in some of the newspapers—if I am incorrect on the quote, I hope the gentleman will forgive me and correct me—that he was in favor of this type of a measure. I do not know how far he wanted to go, but he did state that he was in favor of this type of a measure and that he felt there should be some change. The gentleman also looked back retrospectively, I believe, in one of the State's newspapers and was quoted as saying that he felt the experience of Butler County was a rather unique one and based on rather unique circumstances. I do not think that is a good test of this measure.

When the Commonwealth expends money and the counties expend money, I think the people in the communities should have some sort of security or, at least, some sort of understanding that when they have spent this money and have done this job, it is going to remain for awhile.

I believe one of the Senators on the Republican side, Senator Propert, from Montgomery County, can explain to the gentleman—because it was contiguous to Philadelphia—about the tremendous battle which took place on this very same issue. In his county, it split everybody up on all different lines, regardless of their political affiliation. It was very strong with those people in that community. It has been very strong in our community and I am sure also in the community of Allegheny County.

That is why, Mr. President, I believe this measure should come before us. We should work on it. If it needs amending, I think we should do that. If it does not need to be amended, then I think we should pass this bill. If it is bad legislation, let us vote it down. I believe there may be some Members on this side who may not feel highly disposed to it, although I have not heard anyone on this side express themselves in that vein.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, the gentleman said that I was quoted in some of the newspapers as being in favor of this bill. I certainly am in favor of health measures. However, some of the newspapers also said that I sneaked that amendment into the bill last year. This is untrue. We discussed the matter with Senator Weiner, with Members from Philadelphia, and with everybody who was concerned. Everybody was happy until they got the three and one-half million dollars. Then, everybody became unhappy. I am not unhappy. I want to say that I could vote for a bill, if proper amendments were incorporated in it, whereby we could get people to head these departments who would do a good job and would not set themselves up as little dictators and little lords, and that the people in the townships cannot come in to see them.

Certainly, we need health restrictions. We need good ones. If you will recall, Mr. President, I have sponsored and co-sponsored many, many health measures, not only in the past but during this Session. If the Majority Leader has some amendments to offer—however, concerning this bill, we have told you there are no votes, so far as I know. It is not Caucus action, as some of the newspapers would like to have you believe.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would by no means like to prolong this debate. I am going to withdraw my motion that the bill go over in its order.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I will also withdraw my second to the motion.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, may we be at ease?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease. (The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, at this time, I withdraw my objection to House Bill No. 1496, Printer's No. 1844, going over in order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection having been withdrawn, the bill will go over in its order.

HB 1616—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

HB 1617—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

HB 1621—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

BILL ON SECOND READING

HB 1630 (Pr. No. 2479)—Read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

HB 1652 (Pr. No. 2480)—The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. WEINER offered the following amendment:

Amend Bill, page 2, by inserting after line 9:
Section 2 This act shall take effect January 1
1962

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The title was read and agreed to.

Without objection, the bill, as amended, was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 1683 and 1704—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

BILL ON SECOND READING

HB 1794 (Pr. No. 2367)—Read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 113, CALLED UP

Mr. WEINER, without objection, called up from page 24 of the Calendar, Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 113, entitled:

Directing the Joint State Government Commission to Study the Problem of Sex Offenders in Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 113, ADOPTED

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do adopt this resolution.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SENATE RESOLUTION

COMMENDING CAPTAIN RUSSELL C. BARTMAN

Messrs. BERGER and WEINER, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 87), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, July 24, 1961.

On July 5, 1947, through the "State Public School Building Authority Act," an Authority was created for the purpose of constructing, improving, maintaining, operating, furnishing and equipping public school buildings.

The first and only Executive Director, until very recently, was Russell C. Bartman, Captain, U. S. N., Retired, who served in this capacity for over thirteen years.

In view of the fact that this was the first Authority of this type, Captain Bartman was responsible for its organization and establishing procedures for carrying out the program for which the Authority was created.

During the period that Captain Bartman was at the helm of the Authority, bonds in the amount of more than $365,000,000 were issued; 478 projects were constructed; in excess of $10,000,000 was collected; monthly payments to contractors exceeded $5,000,000, and over 300 construction contracts per year were awarded.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania can be justly proud of the status of our State Public School Building Authority which has been a model throughout the United States for efficient and economical school construction and financing.

The success of the State Public School Building Authority can be attributed in a large measure to the fine administrative abilities, business acumen and devotion to duty of Captain Bartman; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate commend Captain Russell C. Bartman, U. S. N., Retired, for his exemplary service to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania while serving as Executive Director of the State Public School Building Authority; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to him at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of the bill reported from committee for the first time at today's session.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The bill was as follows: HB 36.

And said bill having been read at length for the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, July 24, 1961

The House met at 2 p. m., e. s. t.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, in the awareness of Thy presence in our midst in this evening hour, we invoke Thy blessing upon the assemblage of this House of Representatives, and we pray for Thy guidance and direction in the life of each one of us in the days which lie ahead. But, O God, we bow before Thee fully recognizing that our professions in life far exceed the lives which we live. Grant to each one of us the determination and sincerity in life to put our best foot forward, and live as well as profess the doctrines which we know and believe to be right and true. In Jesus' precious Name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Wednesday, July 19, 1961, will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

REPORT OF DELAWARE RIVER PORT AUTHORITY

The SPEAKER laid before the House the report of the Delaware River Port Authority for the year 1960.

(For report, see Appendix.)

NORTH CAROLINA STATE OFFICER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. We are fortunate to have with us today the Honorable F. B. Turner, State property officer for the State of North Carolina. I presume that his office is comparable to that of our secretary of property and supplies. He is here today to observe one small detail of our procedure, but I hope that he will not simply be a watcher.

You know, North Carolina, in the history of our Country, has been a wonderful State. Every now and then it does something really remarkable. Whether or not it lags a little behind us in parliamentary facilities, I do not know, but I hope that the gentleman will tell us something about the State House, to cost somewhere in excess of $6 million, a building to be devoted exclusively to the use of North Carolina's General Assembly. I gather from looking over the preliminary plans that they are going to have everything in that building—an office for every member of the General Assembly plus a swimming pool.

It is now my pleasure and privilege to present to you the Honorable F. B. Turner, State property officer of the State of North Carolina.

ADDRESS BY HONORABLE F. B. TURNER

Honorable F. B. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House of Representatives of the State of Pennsylvania, it is a real pleasure to be here and a privilege to see you in action.

I am here today for the purpose of observing one feature of your building and that is your roll call equipment.

North Carolina has under construction at the present time a legislative building. I believe it is the first one in this Country designed exclusively for legislative business. There will not be housed in our facility any offices or services of any sort other than the offices of the members of the legislature and its two chambers, the chamber for the House of Representatives and the chamber for the Senate. We would love to have any or all of you visit this structure when it is completed and see it in use.

One of the main features of our building is that every member of the House and every member of the Senate will have an individual office within that structure. There will be space on the ground floor, or basement, if you like, for the parking of automobiles of the members. We believe it will be the first time, we know it will be the first time, that we ever had those facilities available for our legislature.

Again I thank you for permitting me to come here and to observe you in action.

The SPEAKER. As far as that State House is concerned, maybe if we keep at it we will be able to catch up with them, a consummation to be devoutly wished.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, there is an agreement that additional sponsors will be added to House bill No. 137, and I therefore request unanimous consent of the House to add the name of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Gremminger, and the name of the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley, as additional sponsors of this bill, and also I request that the chief clerk be directed to reprint the bill showing the names of these gentlemen as additional sponsors.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection and the chief clerk is so directed.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Jim, rise?

Mr. JIM. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. JIM. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I appreciate this personal privilege for my few remarks here today. To the press, newspapers, radio and television news given to me last week on proposed legislation and correct coverage on my remarks and actions in the House, to all of them, I am grateful, and my hearty thanks for the news releases.

Mr. Speaker, I have an article here from the Pittsburgh Press, Sunday, July 16, 1961. I have a few remarks, but rather than have me read it at length, I would like to have the privilege of having it inserted in the Legislative Journal.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection. It will be sent to the desk and included in the Journal.

Mr. JIM. Mr. Speaker, I have another one here from my hometown newspaper, the Latrobe Bulletin, Wednesday, July 19, 1961, and it is headlined: "Representative Charles Jim In Dog Fight." I would like to have this printed in the Legislative Journal.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection. The Chair has no doubt that when the Journal appears the comments will be read with interest.

Mr. JIM submitted the following articles for the record:

HOUSE TO PICK OFFICIAL MUTT

GR-R-FF MUTTERINGS AS STATE PUTS ON DOG

By John Place

There are likely to be some grrruff voices on the telephone lines into Harrisburg tomorrow.

That is when the House may take up a measure to make the Great Dane official dog of the Commonwealth.

The bill was passed in the Senate last Tuesday by a vote of 29 to 17 after supporters beat down a move to shunt the bill into committee.

But there may be trouble in the House, where some members have been heard to ask:

"What's so great about the Great Dane, except his appetite?"

It could be a real dog fight.

Back here, Mrs. Abe Denmark, of 6328 Glenview Pl., said there will be "something rotten in the state of" unless the Great Dane gets the vote.

On the other hand, James Collie, of 7120 Tilden St., East Liberty, favors you-know-what.

A call to the Connecticut home of Victor Borge brought the response that he would be delighted to comment.

Except that the Laughing Dane happened to be sailing off the coast of Denmark.

Some are quite dogmatic about their choice.

Such as little Max, the frisky pet of a Shady-side resident.

Max, an uncertain breed, speaks for that sentimental favorite, the ordinary mutt.

REPRESENTATIVE CHARLES JIM IN 'DOG FIGHT'

Harrisburg (UPI)—A dog fight was shaping up in the state House of Representatives today between fanciers of great danes and beagles.

The State Government Committee reported to floor a Senate passed bill designating the great dane as Pennsylvania's official dog.

Representative Charles Jim, D-Westmoreland, a beagle fancier, raced to the microphone and threatened to demand a reading of all bills at length.

Jim's action caught Democratic leaders off guard, and after a hurried conference with Majority Leader Stephen McCann, D-Greene, Jim withdrew his request that all bills be read at length.

Jim told reporters he had reached a "compromise," but declined to say what it was. However, it was reported there would be favorable committee action on a bill sponsored by Jim which would declare the song "Pennsylvania" by Gertrude Martin Rohrer as the state song of the Commonwealth.

Representative Jules Filo, D-Allegheny, another beagle booster, said he may try to amend the Senate bill to have the beagle instead of the great dane designated as the official state canine.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of Senate bill No. 716, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," clarifying and changing provisions relating to social studies curriculum.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, to insure the teacher and the student of their freedom to pursue the subject of Communism objectively and to acquaint our young citizens with its strength as well as its weaknesses, it is necessary to have this bill in order to equip the American people with a sound judgment and appraisal of the ideas opposed to our political ideas, but we must make it certain that we do not pay our adversaries the highest compliment of aping them and becoming totalitarian ourselves.

The greatest strength of democracy is fearlessly adhering to the principles of democracy. We are not afraid of the ideological strength of our opponents. All we need is to know and understand them and thereby we can better overcome them by the superiority of our own ideas. We therefore must make it absolutely sure that no teacher or student is threatened or penalized in anyway by exercising our most sacred right of critical analysis and objective approach to all questions.

Now, Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Clearfield, State Representative Marsh, the sponsor of these amendments, on the teaching of Communism, permit himself to be interrogated for one question?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Marsh, permit himself to be interrogated? Mr. MARSH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, is it the gentleman's legislative intent as the sponsor of these amendments on the teaching of Communism that Communism is to be taught objectively in the schools of Pennsylvania?

Mr. MARSH. Yes, Mr. Speaker; I can answer yes to that question.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I therefore strongly support this bill and ask that it be passed by this House of Representatives.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILL PASSED OVER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, our caucus indicated on page 5 that 1541 would be voted on today. We have had a request that it go over and be voted on tomorrow and be debated, House bill 1541, printer's No. 2523. The Republican caucus wishes to carefully caucus on the bill before it is brought up for a vote. We were going to vote on it now, but I ask that it be marked "over"; it will be debated and caucused tomorrow, Tuesday, and also debated on the floor and voted tomorrow.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 292, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code," approved April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), requiring that rubbish be covered when transported and fixing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Will the gentleman from Erie, Mr. O'Dell, or Mr. Blair, the co-sponsors of the bill, permit themselves to interrogated for a short question?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Erie, Mr. O'Dell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. O'DELL. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, on House bill 292, of which you are a co-sponsor, some of the members have indicated that in the title the word "rubbish" should have been corrected to read "refuse." In your opinion should the bill be amended before it is voted on?

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, I am not sure. Perhaps there is a legal phrase there that is different. The intent of the bill is, as I think many of the cities have an ordinance, to require all rubbish trucks to cover the rubbish when it is being transported.

The thing that prompted this bill was a few years back when I was going down Route 19 to Pittsburgh a big truck, it was not necessarily a rubbish truck but it had a lot of empty boxes and things, was coming toward me and a large piece of paper blew off because the truck was not covered and hit my windshield and I darned near wrecked the car before I could stop and get the paper off the windshield.

I would like to see a bill of this type passed, and perhaps if it is passed and needs amendments at a later date, we could put them in.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the reason I questioned the gentleman on this is that this does pertain particularly to what you have indicated in your statement here.

We are satisfied to go along with the bill but I just wanted to be clear that you were dealing with the so-called "rubbish truck" which we favor. If it is satisfactory with you, we will vote the bill, sir.

Mr. O'DELL. It is satisfactory.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, on this bill the present section 831 of the vehicle code provides that any load must be so loaded that it cannot fall off and shift.

Now this bill, as I understand it, goes further and says that rubbish must have a canvas over it. Now I am wondering if maybe this was section 831.1—it adds a new section, rather than amend section 831. In my opinion, section 831 ought to be amended to provide that any loads of that kind, where stuff might fall off, should be covered with a canvas rather than having a new section merely covering rubbish. I am for the bill. I am very much for the bill, and I am wondering if such things as newspapers and so forth would be classified as rubbish.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Speaker

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 788, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929" authorizing the Department of Health to institute a blood plasma protein recovery program.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

The motion was agreed to.

INTERROGATION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the minority leader rise?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. For the purpose of interrogating the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, someone today looking at the calendar said that if we had things agreed to this House could finish up its work by about Wednesday night, which is true. In that connection, so we can get on with the job of the session and know where we go from here, I want to repeat my questions of last week.

Was a Democratic-sponsored reapportionment bill introduced today?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, a Democratic-sponsored congressional reapportionment bill was not introduced as of today.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Do you have a reapportionment bill, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. McCANN. We will have a Democratic-sponsored congressional reapportionment bill to introduce in the House this week while the House is in session.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. You say, Mr. Speaker, that it will be this week?

Mr. McCANN. While the House is in session.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Would it possibly be tomorrow?

Mr. McCANN. It will be no later than Wednesday.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, has the gentleman seen the bill?

Mr. McCANN. I have lived with the thing night and day for months.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, another question—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, rise?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. To interrogate the majority leader when the minority leader has ceased.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The minority leader still has the floor and will proceed.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, viewing the calendar and the fact that we do not have a reapportionment bill—and I realize that we have the education problem hovering over us—the real, real important thing of this session is the reapportionment, so could we not say, adjourn tomorrow? If you do not have the reapportionment bill and we could work hard tomorrow and get rid of this calendar, could we not adjourn tomorrow, because really there is not much meat in this calendar to keep us here three days?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I cannot agree with the gentleman. We will not adjourn tomorrow.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Does the gentleman know how many days this week we will be here?

Mr. McCANN. At the present time, as I indicated in my remarks last week, we are attempting to clean up the calendar this week because the House will not—will not—be in session next week.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I thank the gentleman and I will now yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, and I may want to make some remarks later on.

INTERROGATION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. For the purpose of interrogating the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Did I understand the majority leader to state that a motion for reconsideration of House bill 1814, printer's No. 2511, would be presented?

Mr. McCANN. It should be in writing right now.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, will you not give me the consideration that I could have some Republicans to co-sponsor the motion, because you are well aware that I was not in position to change since it appeared originally that the bill had passed?

Mr. McCANN. I certainly would be most willing to co-operate with the gentleman. I do not know from the roll call whether he changed his vote or not. I asked Mr. Petrosky to please find two people immediately who would assist in the reconsideration of House bill 1814 so it could be placed on the postponed calendar today in compliance with the House rule. Then after it fell, I voted some House bills to be in the proper House rule. I asked them to immediately prepare it. I understand it is here now, and I certainly would be most pleased to have you join in, if you are permitted to.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. If the House will give me unanimous consent to do so, I will. If not, I will get a Republican to do it for me.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would suggest that the gentleman get a Republican who is qualified under the rule and voted with the prevailing side, which would be the negative.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, so the membership will know, I have been informed that the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth, and the gentleman from Northumberland, Mr. Bower, were to offer the reconsideration motion. Am I correct? Is that satisfactory to the gentleman?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE ON HOUSE BILL NO. 1814

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House bill No. 1814, printer's No. 2511, entitled:

"An Act imposing a tax for general public school purposes in school districts of the first class A on salaries, wages, commissions and other compensation earned by residents thereof and on the net profits earned from businesses, professions or other activities conducted by residents thereof * * * was defeated on final passage Monday, July 24, 1961, be reconsidered.

Mr. BOWER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. How did the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I voted with the prevailing side.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. How did the gentleman from Northumberland, Mr. Bower, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. BOWER. Mr. Speaker, I voted with the prevailing side.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I believe I requested permission to make a statement when the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, had finished.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair apologizes. The gentleman did make that request.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I feel that this should be said. At the beginning of this session it was expressed in the House Republican caucus that one of the most important measures to come before us this session would be a fair and reasonable reapportionment bill. We have been waiting and waiting and waiting for a Democratic plan, because, after all, the Democratic Party is in power here; we are not. We put in a couple of plans, but I know they have had only cursory examination on the part of the Democratic side. We have been given the run-around all session long on reapportionment and the people all over the State are wondering who their Congressman is going to be, what is their congressional district going to be. I think that Stephen McCann, the majority leader, has been given the run-around by the Democratic leaders in this State. They have been giving him a lot of double-talk and he comes before us every week and says we are going to have a bill, we are going to have a bill, we are going to have a bill. I think it is terrible the way the Democratic leaders in this State are acting. They promised to sit down with our Republican State chairman and talk over a fair and reasonable reapportionment bill. Our State chairman sat around all last week waiting for a call. Every day he called here. I went to Mr. McCann and said we are ready this week to sit down; Mr. Bloom cancelled a trip to Washington to sit down and talk about reapportionment.

Here we are this week with a calendar. If we had reapportionment on it, we could call it up in no time. I think it is a waste of the members' time. We are just pawns of the Democratic State leadership who are trying to jockey us into the position where they will get the best deal on this reapportionment. The people in this State want reapportionment and they want a fair reapportionment bill. We are playing with something very dangerous here, and I want to tell you, as the Speaker in his message, "Dispelling the Fog," a few weeks ago said, the Democratic Party stands to lose the most if Congressmen are elected at large. We have been willing all month to sit down with you, and you keep putting it off and putting it off.

I am not blaming the majority leader. I think he is acting in good faith, in excellent good faith, but they will not level with him and tell him what is going on. I think tomorrow or the next day the majority leader ought to give us the word so that we do not sit here and twiddle our thumbs. I know we have education on the pan, but I know we have reapportionment, too, and you cannot have one without the other, as I see it. Let us get down to real work here. Tomorrow, Mr. McCann, we would like to have you say, this week we are going to do this, we are going to do that, we are going to get out of here and you are going to have a fair reapportionment bill.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I assure the gentleman that there has been more to this problem than meets the eye, particularly from the point of view of the Congress of the United States dealing with the bills that you and I know enlarge the Congress of the United States. There is no question that up to the present time there has been great hope that Pennsylvania may only lose two congressional seats instead of three.

I believe that the so-called discharge resolution of last week had 150-some names dealing with that particular resolution although it does require 260-some to enact that proposed piece of legislation.

I am well aware of the situation and I, of course, have always hoped that we would only lose two congressional seats instead of three. It has been a very difficult problem and I assure you that we have been working on a congressional reapportionment bill. There is no question but that you have asked time and time again for the introduction of this bill and we certainly want to introduce this legislation. We want to introduce it and have it in the House and in the Senate this week.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I did not have an opportunity to inform the House about next week. Next week while the House will not be in session, the Senate will be in session. When we adjourn this week we will reconvene on Monday August 7.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 1541, entitled:

An Act relating to the manufacture sale and possession of drugs devices and cosmetics conferring powers on the courts and the Secretary and Department of Health providing penalties and for the revocation or suspension of certain licenses making an appropriation to the Department of Health and repealing certain acts.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mrs. HENZEL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mrs. HENZEL asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendment will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 2, page 3, line 16, by inserting after "intravenously" but not any such drugs which are pre-packaged with complete dosage instructions for use in the care or treatment of poultry and livestock.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

SENATE

TUESDAY, JULY 25, 1961.

The Senate met at 11:00 a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. WILLIAM H. STEBBINS, Pastor of Trinity Memorial Lutheran Church, Allentown, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and most gracious God, we thank Thee for this sacred moment when our hearts may be united in prayer. Make us ever mindful of our need of Thy guidance and help and, forgetting all else, cause us to reach up to Thee as Thou art reaching down to us.

We know, Lord, that in this day and age, we have the tendency to rely so strongly upon our own strength, forgetting that Thou hast given unto us every good and perfect gift. Thou hast given us life itself with whatever talents we possess, and the time and the opportunity to use them. May we use them wisely, lest they be lost or taken away.

Deliver us from the mistake of asking and expecting Thy blessing and Thy guidance in our public lives, while closing the doors to Thee in our private living. Lord, Thou knowest what we are wherever we are. Help us to be the best we can be.

This we ask in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. McGINNIS, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS, OVER IN ORDER

SB 509 (Pr. No. 1103)—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do concur in the amendments made by the House to Senate Bill No. 509.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would like to call the attention of the Majority Leader to the language in the title of this bill as it appears on the Calendar.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may the Senate be at ease for a moment? I was looking at the bill and not at the title, as it appears on the Calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.
(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I wish to withdraw my motion that the Senate do concur in the amendments made by the House to Senate Bill No. 509, Printer's No. 1103.

I find there is some inconsistency in the title of the measure, as it appears on the Calendar, compared to the bill. I believe there may be some other areas which should be looked into.

Therefore, for the time being, I request that Senate Bill No. 509, Printer's No. 1103, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS

SB 529 (Pr. No. 1092)—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do concur in the amendments made by the House to Senate Bill No. 529.

Mr. MCGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—50

Bell,	Hays,	Mullin,	Staisey,
Berger,	Kalman,	Murray,	Stevenson,
Camiel,	Keller,	Pechan,	Stiefel,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS, OVER IN ORDER

SB 589—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT, OVER IN ORDER

SB 588—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request a twenty-five minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Democratic Caucus and I believe a Republican Caucus, to be held in the respective Caucus Rooms.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, that is correct, but it is not necessarily a joint caucus.

Mr. President, may I remind the Republican Senators to please bring their bills to the caucus.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections?

The Chair hears no objection, and declares a twenty-five minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. DEVLIN, by unanimous consent, from the committee on Executive Nominations, reported the following nominations, made by his Excellency, the Governor, which were laid on the table:

TREASURER IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF INDIANA

July 11, 1961.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Earl G. Pifer, 1495 Indian Springs Road, Indiana, Indiana County, for appointment as Treasurer in and for the County of Indiana, until the first Monday of January 1962, vice Hon. Walter Work, deceased.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE

MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF EAST STROUDSBURG STATE COLLEGE

July 18, 1961.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Nicholas Petrole, Market Street, Tresckow, Carbon County, for appointment as a member of the Board of Trustees of East Stroudsburg State College, until the third Tuesday of January 1963, and until his successor shall have been appointed and qualified, vice Mrs. Elizabeth Petrole, Tresckow, deceased.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE

MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF NANTICOKE STATE HOSPITAL

July 18, 1961.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

DAVID L. LAWRENCE

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

July 18, 1961.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Patrick J. Crawford, 1 Monroe Street, Edinboro, Erie County, for appointment as Justice of the Peace in and for the Borough of Edinboro, Erie County, to serve until the first Monday of January 1962, to fill a vacancy.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, the bill which I am about to introduce is designated toward the strengthening of morals in Pennsylvania. I believe the motels and hotels generally offer many seductive—I would call it—opportunities. The only way to stop that is to have a register in each motel and each hotel, to prevent visitors frequenting the place or coming there.

This is not now on our statute books. Therefore, in order to cope with the situation, I read in place and present to the Chair such a bill.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STIEFEL, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 883, entitled:

An Act requiring persons operating hotels, motels and similar facilities to provide and maintain guest registers and prescribing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

WEEKLY ADJOURNMENT

Mr. YATRON, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, July 25, 1961.

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, July 31, 1961, at a time to be fixed by the Senate, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, August 7, 1961, at a time to be fixed by the House of Representatives, unless sooner recalled by the Speaker of the House of Representatives; and be it further

Resolved, That when the Senate adjourns next week, it reconvenes on Monday, August 7, 1961, at a time to be fixed by the Senate.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. RIPP, WEINER, BERGER and SHAFER, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 884, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1997), entitled "An act relating to comic books, magazines and other publications; prohibiting and regulating the sale thereof in certain instances; and imposing penalties," defining the word "obscene."

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

The PRESIDENT. At this time, due to the fact that I must go to Kutztown, Pennsylvania, to meet with certain employees of the State, I will turn the gavel over to the distinguished gentleman from Allegheny County, Senator Ripp.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

INQUIRY CONCERNING SENATE BILL No. 104,
PRINTER'S No. 1058

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, before we proceed to the Final Passage Calendar, I would like to refer to Bills on Concurrence in House Amendments, appearing on pages 1 and 2 of today's Calendar.

I wish to call to the attention of the Chair, and to the Members of the Senate, the fact that the bills appearing on the Calendar which are on Concurrence in House Amendments were passed in the House on July 19, 1961. The day before that, July 18, Senate Bill No. 104 was amended and passed in the House. However, it does not appear for concurrence on today's Calendar.

Mr. President, I wish to inquire whether the message has been received at the desk, stating the amendment to Senate Bill No. 104.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe the gentleman's remarks are out of order. We are now on the Calendar and, therefore, I think the gentleman's remarks should come under the order of business of Petitions and Remonstrances, unless there is a question of personal privilege or some other indication.

In answer to the gentleman's question, I would like to point out that pursuant to the rules of Mason's Legislative Manual, under which this Body operates, under Section 763, we can not only take up these matters immediately, but we can take them up—I believe the wording is—at any convenient time.

Other measures have come over here and we have held them at the insistence of some of the Members of this Body for a day or so. Forgive me for mentioning this, but the House sometimes holds a bill for twenty-four hours or longer, and there are times when someone must petition the Speaker to move it. There is nothing sacred about this problem. It is no different from any other measure. It will be handled in the same manner as any other measure.

It is interesting to note that this bill, on which there is a great deal of pressure from both sides, has become a great matter. It merely involves inanimate objects; namely, trucks. When we were dealing with people, which I think is very important, and when we had matters come over here which dealt with the laboring man and similar measures, I never heard anybody mention a word about bringing those bills out or getting them across the desk very quickly. When we dealt with the education problem or the fair housing problem, I found there was no hurry at all to deal with some of those problems.

If this becomes a serious problem, I will advise the gentlemen on the other side that this measure will receive prompt handling. I can assure the gentleman and the other Members of the Senate, who are quite concerned about this problem, that the bill—if you will excuse the expression—will roll. That will take place as soon as this bill comes across the desk, possibly one day next week.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I wish to compliment the gentleman on the great lesson he has learned from a famous Democrat, and a former President of the United States, on the use of the words "red herring."

Mr. President, in regard to the bill under discussion—which is not a bill that is in committee or is on the Calendar awaiting action—it is one which has been amended in the House. It is a bill which I would assume had been sent over from the House for the concurrence of the Senate.

My only inquiry was whether or not the message had reached the desk. I shall add further inquiry, Mr. President, as to when we may expect it to appear upon the Calendar.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if the gentleman desires to interrogate me, I am always available for interrogation.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I addressed my question to the Chair.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the Chair that under the Rules of the Senate—and we operate under Mason's Legislative Manual—this measure will come before us, I am sure, in due course. I would like to assure the gentleman that from everything I have been able to learn about the measure,—and I am not completely on the inside or in the know—this measure will be before us sometime next week. Everybody will have an opportunity to vote on it and we will have all of the information.

I would like to also point out to the gentleman that this measure, as it left the Senate and went over to the House, was a little bit different from the measure that is coming back to us because I read it when it was over in the House. This is a rather novel way to introduce a bill. It is a new topic, a new subject, and I think not even germane to the original topic. However, that was overruled because, I understand, there is a ruling about that over in the House. We will have an opportunity to deal with this measure when it comes before us.

I would suggest that the Members of the Senate try to pick up a copy of this bill, as it appears with the House Printer's No., so they can familiarize themselves with it because when they concur in it, it will be a new measure, never having gone through our regular committee procedure or our procedure here on the floor by which we have an opportunity to debate, on three separate days, measures that come before us.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I wish to thank the gentleman for the information. I was not questioning the applicability of the rules on parliamentary procedure under which we operate. I appreciate his suggestion that we get copies of the bill and read the amendments placed by the House.

I might point out, however, that it would be more convenient and we could read the bills more readily if they were placed on the desk as part of the Calendar procedure, which would seem the orderly course of business.

GUESTS OF SENATOR GUS YARTON PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. YARTON. Mr. President, we have with us today here in the State Capitol a group of exchange students from Holland, who are studying at Kutztown State College. They are here under the direction of Mr. Bert van Laar, from Holland; Mr. John B. White, Dean of Men; and Doctor Josef G. Gutekunst, Assistant to the Dean of Instruction at Kutztown State College.

They arrived yesterday in New York from Holland. They will be here until September the 12th.

I would like to request the Chair to acknowledge their presence and welcome them to our Capitol.

Mr. President, while I am still on the floor, I note that we also have a few teachers present from the Reading School District, and I would be remiss if I did not ask that they be acknowledged also. They are Mr. Bromer, Mr. Zogas, Mr. Carabella, and Mr. and Mrs. Davis, of the Reading School District.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. First, may I ask the delegation of students from Holland to please rise and be recognized by the Senate?

I do not know how to say "welcome" in your native tongue, but I do say, on behalf of the Senate, that you are most welcome to be with us this afternoon and see our American form of democracy in operation. Thank you ever so much for being present.

I would like to also have the group from Reading rise for applause. Thank you also for being with us.

We will now resume consideration of today's Calendar, on page 3 thereof, Bills on Final Passage.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 1015—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

HB 1099 and HB 1101—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 1099 and House Bill No. 1101 go over in their order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, yesterday I made the request that these bills go over in their order. I have now requested that they go over in order as I have received some communications regarding these bills which I would like to verify by further information over the week end. Then if I am satisfied that the bills do not do as much violence as I believe they do, or can make further explanation as to why I believe they should not be passed, I will be prepared to impart that information at the Session next week.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease for just a moment.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am not objecting formally on the record to these bills going over in order. However, I would like to vote on these measures and pass them or defeat them next week. I think the Senator ought to have an opportunity to get the information he needs on these bills over the weekend. We formally ask that these measures come before us next week since they have been on the Calendar for a long time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At this moment, Senator Weiner, you are not objecting to House Bill No. 1099 and House Bill No. 1101 going over in their order?

Mr. WEINER. No, sir. I want the record to show that we will act on them next week.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bills will go over in their order.

HB 1172—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

HB 1190—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 1190 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to make the same objection as I made to the other bills, House Bill No. 1099 and House Bill No. 1101.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. As of today, you are not objecting to this bill going over in its order?

Mr. WEINER. No, sir.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. However, you are asking that action be taken on Monday?

Mr. WEINER. That is correct, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1232 (Pr. No. 1406)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 1263 and 1367—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1402 (Pr. No. 2192)—Read at length the third time, On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that this bill go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, this matter has been before us for some time, also. I would like to bring this to a vote. If the bill passes, that is fine. If it does not, we will just have to take it from there. Why do we not have a vote on this measure and dispose of it once and for all? It has been on the Calendar for some time, and there are people who do feel strongly about it both ways.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Therefore, Senator Weiner, you are objecting to the bill going over in its order?

Mr. WEINER. May we be at ease for a moment, Mr. President?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. We will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to this bill going over in order.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, just for the record, I would like to tell Senator Pechan that he came in loud and clear today.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, may I inquire of Senator Rooney whether or not that was on radar which made him hear me so loudly and clearly today?

BILLS RECOMMITTED

HB 1452 (Pr. No. 2215), HB 1453 (Pr. No. 1761), HB 1454 (Pr. No. 1762), HB 1455 (Pr. No. 1763) and HB 1456 (Pr. No. 1764)—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that House Bills Nos. 1452, 1453, 1454, 1455 and 1456 be recommitted to the Committee on Corporations.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I wish to inquire of the Majority Leader what the purpose of the recommitment of these bills may be.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I know of many Members on this side who are in favor of this legislation. However, there seems to be some problem and rather than keep these bills on the Calendar, I would like them to go back to committee and have placed in them whatever amendments they need and bring them back out. I have been advised by the Chairman that he will bring these up at his next meeting, or reconsider them after the amendments have been placed in the bills.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, if the Majority Leader assures us that these bills will be again reported from committee, I will certainly not object to the motion to recommit. However, Mr. President, I believe the bills serve a useful purpose. If there are any necessary amendments, then certainly we believe they should be put in. I would, however, like to have the bills reappear upon the Calendar.

Therefore, upon the statement made by the Majority Leader, I will not object to their being returned to committee.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I will publicly ask that the gentleman who is acting as the Presiding Officer of the Senate, Senator Ripp, and who is Chairman of this Committee, duly bring these bills up at his next meeting and also that the amendments be given to him so that he can properly study them before that meeting.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will take heed.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the bills were recommitted.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, that the clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

SB 509 CALLED UP

SB 509 (Pr. No. 1103)—Without objection, the bill, on concurrence in House amendments, which previously went over in its order, was called up from page 2 of the Calendar by Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS

SB 509 (Pr. No. 1103)—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I had originally requested that Senate Bill No. 509, Printer's No. 1103, go over in order because there seemed to be some problem in connection with the wording in the title as set forth on the Calendar. However, I find this discrepancy does not exist in the bill itself. The bill actually is correct as it appears on the desks of the Senators.

Therefore, Mr. President, I move that the Senate do concur in the amendments made by the House to Senate Bill No. 509.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The bills were as follows:

SB 168, 348, 363, 651, 702, 750, 755, 843, 861, 865, 871, 875, HB 156, 238, 320, 376, 564, 1081, 1124, 1125, 1217, 1251, 1273, 1275, 1276, 1277, 1278, 1279, 1280, 1427, 1500, 1519, 1522, 1531, 1554, 1566, 1599, 1609 and 1793.

And said bills having been read at length for the first time,

Ordered, to be laid aside for second reading.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING AN EXPLANATION OF HOUSE BILL NO 1414 FROM THE GOVERNOR

Messrs. WADE, STROUP and WARE, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 88), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, July 25, 1961.

House Bill No. 1414, Printer's No. 1963, proposes to amend the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 343), known as "The Fiscal Code," empowering the Governor to abolish special funds, transfer balances in bond funds to the General Fund, utilize balances in the sinking funds to extinguish the public debt, and providing powers and duties of the Auditor General and the State Treasurer.

In order to thoroughly understand and to intelligently consider this bill, it is imperative that the Administration fully explain its intent and also that it disclose exactly which funds it expects to abolish; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby requests the Governor to explain House Bill No. 1414, and specifically to disclose which funds he would expect to abolish by the authority thereby given; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Honorable David L. Lawrence.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, because of the attendant confusion when the Clerk read the resolution, and also because I would like to ask for the immediate consideration of this resolution, I will make a very brief statement.

In the first place, yesterday while we were on the Calendar, we considered House Bill No. 1414, which would give the Governor and his Administration, together with the State Treasurer and Auditor General, the privilege of transferring balances in any fund to the General Fund, and thereby abolishing that fund.

It was pointed out in debate that the State Treasurer lists some 58 funds. The balances in those funds—and certainly the Governor or the Administration would not have in mind abolishing the General Fund or the Motor License Fund—total some $279,742,644. If we had acted favorably on House Bill No. 1414, we would have given the Administration the privilege of taking this practically $280,000,000 and shifting it as they wished. As it was pointed out by Senator Berger and Senator McMen-min yesterday, that would have been an extremely bad precedent.

This resolution indicates to every Member of the Legislature—and particularly to every Member of this Senate—that there are certain balances in funds that are no longer considered needed by the Office of Administration of the present Administration. Therefore, the adoption of this resolution, as requested by Senator Stroup, Senator Ware and myself, would indicate to every Member of this Senate just what funds can be abolished or what balances can be transferred to the General Fund.

We all know the need for many, many dollars for this purpose and for that purpose, and always when we finish up a Session of the Legislature, we appropriate more money than is in the budget. That is somewhat of a general practice.

I am sure that the information requested in the resolution would be helpful. However, I do not want to appear to indicate that the Administration is going to take this practically $280,000,000 and misplace it. I merely, by the introduction of this resolution, want to find out—and I am sure every other one of the forty-nine Senators will be interested in knowing—what funds can be abolished and what balances can be transferred to the General Fund.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to direct the gentleman's attention to House Bill No. 1216, Printer's No. 1739. It gives in detail the names of the funds and what the Governor would like to do with them. Among these funds are the Banking Department Fund, the Milk Control Fund, State Farm Products Show Fund, Oil and Gas Lease Fund, Special Disaster Relief Fund, Historical Preservation Fund, Anthracite Strip Mining Fund, Bituminous Coal Open Pit Mining Reclamation Fund, Special Administration Fund, Feed and Fertilizer Fund, State Harness Racing Fund, Liquid Fuels Tax Fund, Liquor License Fund, Fire Insurance Tax Fund and the Pennsylvania Fair Fund.

The bill goes on to state concerning these funds as follows:

"... shall be insufficient at any time during any fiscal period to meet promptly the expenses of the Commonwealth payable from such fund the State Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed from time to time during such fiscal period to transfer to the General Fund if the same be deficient from one or more of the enumerated funds or to any of the enumerated funds if such be deficient from the General Fund as the case may be such sums as the Governor shall direct Any sum so transferred shall be available for the purposes for which the fund to which they are transferred is appropriated by law . . ." and so on

This allows the Governor to transfer from the General Fund or the reverse; that is, from one fund back to the General Fund.

In House Bill No. 1414, Senator, what we are trying to do—or what the bill is trying to do—is to set up and allow the Governor to transfer this amount of money from these funds, which no longer have any purpose or serve any useful purpose, back into the General Fund. Most of these funds would then contain very small sums compared to what they have been used to, and no other money would have been fed into them. So, they would either die of their own weight or just last until the end of this term.

All we are doing is giving the Chief Executive of the State of Pennsylvania the same authorization that any executive has in any corporation, any bank, or any other unit of business operation. This is all we are asking for in House Bill No. 1414.

Mr. President, I also object to this resolution being considered at this time. I ask that it be sent to the appropriate committee.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I was looking for the bill and was unable to locate it.

Do I understand from the Chair that the gentleman has objected to the immediate consideration of this resolution?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct, sir. Therefore, the Chair is going to refer the matter to the appropriate committee.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I would like to object to that. I think this resolution would reveal information which Senator Weiner was unable to give us yesterday. I think the answer he gave us today is only partially correct, for the simple reason that the bill he refers to, House Bill No. 1216, indicates only a transfer of funds between different funds and a subsequent retransfer of equal sums or restoration—as I would understand the title; I do not have the bill—of the original fund. If I understood House Bill No. 1414 correctly, it provides for the abolition of certain funds, and the transfer of those balances to the General Fund is to be a final issue. There is not to be a retransfer at any future time.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I cannot—and I do not believe anyone else can—answer the gentleman's question completely. We are also giving it to them in the future. For example, if we had a large flood and we put emergency money into this flood fund and it was not completely used, and perhaps two, three or four years passed and this money was not used, you would be authorizing the Governor to remove the balance from there and put it into the General Fund. I think this is good housekeeping, as well as good bookkeeping.

That is all we are asking for in this measure. I could not tell you what the exact funds are and neither could anyone else. We do not know what they might be. There might be any number of funds thereafter. We are merely asking that we keep our house in order as well as our books.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. In view of the objection to the immediate consideration of this resolution, the resolution will be referred to the appropriate committee.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, despite the fact that the resolution is being sent to committee, I will try to ascertain for the gentleman what specific funds they have in mind, and I will try to get that to him next week. I have already made a telephone call, asking that this information be available to the Senator for his Caucus. If he wants me to give it to anyone else, if he or the person himself mentions it, I will be glad to get a copy for them.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

By unanimous consent, a motion was made by Mr. DEVLIN and Mr. McCREESH,

That the Senate do now resolve itself into Executive Session for the purpose of considering certain nominations made by the Governor.

Which was agreed to.

CONSIDERATION OF EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. DEVLIN asked and obtained unanimous consent for immediate consideration of the nominations made by His Excellency, the Governor, and reported from committee at today's Session.

NOMINATIONS TAKEN FROM THE TABLE

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I call from the table for consideration the nominations reported from committee today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Clerk will read the nominations.

The nominations were read by the Clerk as follows:

TREASURER IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF INDIANA

July 11, 1961.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Earl G. Pifer, 1495 Indian Springs Road, Indiana, Indiana County, for appointment as Treasurer in and for the County of Indiana, until the first Monday of January 1962, vice Hon. Walter Work, deceased.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF EAST STROUDSBURG STATE COLLEGE

July 18, 1961.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O God of tender mercy and everlasting might, it is with the acknowledgment that Thou dost share our joys as well as our happinesses that we approach Thee in this session. We know that success is not an individual matter but an accumulative affair; it means that the combined efforts of all working for one goal are needed to achieve success. O Gracious Father, we humbly pray for the success of Thy work in the hearts and minds of men; and we ask Thee to bring forth the best efforts of these servants of Thine to achieve that purpose. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Monday, July 24, 1961, will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. MARSH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Speaker, upon the introduction of the amendments to Senate bill 716, I was interrogated by Mr. Worley as to the intent of the teaching of communism in our schools. He asked whether this was to be done objectively to which I answered "Yes." It is on this word "yes" that I wish to elucidate.

Our Country faces the most serious crisis in its history. We wonder how the greatest, the richest and the most powerful nation in the world has gotten pushed into a corner as we have been by a seemingly inferior nation. Are we really a giant with feet of clay?

In order to understand something about our adversary, we should understand a little about the geography of the Soviet Union. It is a frightening thing to look in an atlas and see this great country stretched over one-sixth of the earth's surface but, when you think that more than one-third of the country is permafrost, most of the country is over the 50th degree latitude which, of course, is the same latitude as Newfoundland and Canada, it does not seem so frightening after all. The climate, of course, runs down to 40 degrees below zero in winter with tremendously hot summers which make agriculture quite difficult. If there is an Achilles heel to the Soviet Union it is in agriculture. In 1913, with only half the population which it has today, they were not able to feed their people any better than with twice the population which they have today. So agriculture is really their most serious problem which is facing this great Country and our adversary.

We must remember one thing about the foreign policy of the Soviet Union. Through the years of the czars it was expansion to the Pacific, an outlet to warm waters, a window to the Atlantic and Norway, and warm waters to Persia and India and into the Black Sea through the Mediterranean and on to warm waters. It was at this time we came into conflict with the Soviet Union, or the czarist domination of the country which got into conflict with the United States on the Monroe Doctrine. The point I am trying to bring out is that the new communist policy is a continuation of the Soviet policy of world expansion and world conquest.

Forty years ago the Bolsheviks declared war to the death on capitalism. Now it has been necessary to change the communistic ideal to a religion and the strong weapon in this conquest and in this foreign policy of theirs in order to expand their world dominion. No country has ever accepted this policy except through force.

One of the first gospels of the Communists is, of course, that we are to have an ideal socialism, then pure communism, and eventually no government at all. In fact, the opposite has happened. The longer this system continues the more they fasten the yoke upon their people and the more enslaved they become. That is another point which we should teach our children about this insidious program.

Marx intended his theories for Germany and never had the idea of putting this reactionary and unnatural status of man into a country like the Soviet Union. This reactionary and unnatural status of man has no pity, no human kindness. There is no humor in this new religion. It is an evil intended to reduce man to sub-human level to be mastered by State and dictators. It is a monolithic society as old as Egypt. This is a fact we must teach our boys and girls in our schools.

The principal tenet of communism is called "dialectic materialism." It means we are the product of our natural environment just like the trees and plants surrounding us, without any spirituality. One of the other tenets, of course, is the hatred for the middle class and is one of the oldest weapons in the arsenal of communism.

In our own Country 300 years ago, Governor Bradford of the Massachusetts Colony instituted a communistic society and, as we all know, it failed miserably. We have had other societies such as Harmony in Pennsylvania and Zion, Illinois. There has been no revolution which has departed so widely from the aims of the Soviet revolution. For hundreds of years the revolutionary cry was for land and bread and this was to be a classless Utopia where the ideals would be met. Instead we have a classless country which now has become one of the most rigidly stratified privileged classes in the world. These new classes in the Soviet Union are resented tremendously by the common people. The idealistic dynamism of the early revolutionaries is being replaced by primitive incentives and the desire for wealth and power. It is certainly a great departure from the original aim and that is something which our students should know in the study of this new religion of communism.

They have a constitution, it is true. The constitution of 1936 claimed to be the most democratic in the world with all the guarantees of a sovereign people, freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of assembly, and they have all been nullified by one clause which says that the Communist Party must be the directing nucleus in all social and governmental affairs and that the absolute ruler must stand outside the constitution, so their ideal constitution has turned out to be the strictest dictatorship that ever existed in the history of the world.

Three percent of the population runs the other 200 million people in the country. The leaders are hard-driving, aggressive, dedicated men. They put in long hours and they put them in with a vengeance. They have the zeal and fanaticism which our early Christians had in the early centuries of Christendom, and we know that zeal and fanaticism upset the entire Roman Empire and the world at that time.

As far as the workers in the Soviet Union are concerned, more than two-thirds receive less than $100 per month. The average is around $80. Skilled industrial workers get $320 and architects as much as $2,000 a month, up to ballerinas who receive as much as $3,000 a month. This certainly does not sound like a classless Utopia, with such wide variance in salaries. One of the lowest groups, something like 8 million persons, was increased to a subsistence level of not more than $50 a month in our money. When you consider that it takes $40 to buy a single pair of shoes, you must see what a tremendously low wage the people in this country receive.

If communism is so successful, why is it that after 42 years they have no freedom of speech, religion or censorship and they still have the secret police? It is necessary to jam radio and it is a crime to leave. These are some of the facts which we must teach our children about communism.

Why is it necessary to assign a major portion of the budget, manpower and brains to the internal security of the country? Why is it necessary to have a few model farms and a few model nurseries and prisons and factories to show the visitors how wonderfully their plans have succeeded and the rest of the people will never know? The sum and substance of the whole plan is that they promise the people what we already have.

One fact about a despotic state is that they are able to get such dramatic results by funneling their entire economic power and forces like a nozzle on a hose and direct it wherever they need to, wherever it is necessary, much like Pharaoh built the pyramids. These are other facts about which we must tell our students—the effects of communism.

The principal plan, of course, is to overthrow all the governments in the world and replace them with a Communist dictatorship centrally controlled by Moscow. This is another thing we must tell our students about communism.

In order to carry on this revolution it has been necessary to place the people in a straight jacket and after that was done to use a propaganda approach to the entire world such as peaceful democracy, peaceful coexistence, and to credit all good to the Kremlin and all bad to a legacy of the past. They believe in self-determination for the peoples of Africa and other countries but not in self-determination for themselves. That is another fact we must tell our students in our schools.

One of their main policies throughout the long course of history was the indirect approach, deception and distraction, attrition and wearing down. One of their principal plans against the United States, of course, is to make this tremendous all-out push in technology, in engineers and scientists, to export them to other nations to undermine the United States. The second one is to ruin our economy by ruining our best industries by specific attacks and technical advances and wrecking our system at home and abroad. They have embarked on a tremendous program of economic warfare.

The next thing they intend to do is to draw undeveloped areas into the Moscow orbit, shutting off our technical, political and raw materials from the other countries of the world. In short, it is to reduce the United States to a fat Sweden or a fat Switzerland, happy, with no will and ready to drop from the tree like a ripened apple.

We must teach our students about this strange religion, this propensity to falsehood, treachery, deceit, undependability and lack of ethics. Teach our students about our American Revolution, that it is the only true revolution, the shot fired at Concord that was heard around the world and is still reverberating where men want to be free.

The Russian people have long been friends of the Americans. There has never been a greater relief program in the history of the world than that conducted by former President Hoover in 1923 when 20 million Russians were saved from starvation. The trips which the Allies made to Murmansk in which they lost 90 percent of their ships, that is something I hope the Russians will long remember.

In teaching our children in the schools about communism the children will be sure to spot anything phoney. They can see through fakery better than adults. We should shed the light of knowledge on this Communist religion and they will surely understand it. The principal thought, of course, is to make our children safe for ideas and not make ideas safe for students. I trust in our American students' good judgment and that we will all become better Americans because of this.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to remind the members of the House that, under the unanimous consent rule of this House, they are limited to 10 minutes. The Chair feels the gentleman exceeded his time by a considerable amount, but the Chair tried to be as lenient as possible in letting him get his remarks in the record. The gentleman could have made his remarks under the bill as it was before the House.

The Chair will now recognize the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Holliday, who asks unanimous consent to make a statement.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HOLLIDAY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, on April 5th of this year I addressed the members of this legislative body for the purpose of bringing to their attention the contamination of Bells Gap Run in Blair County, the contamination being caused in part by drainage from a coal stripping operation located on the watershed from which tributary streams supply two reservoirs. To substantiate my statement that the water in this stream was contaminated and had a highly acid content, I brought to the attention of the members of this House the fact that over 1,200 brook trout, furnished by the State for stocking purposes, were all found dead within 24 hours after they were placed in the run last spring.

I contacted various members of the Fish Commission, the Department of Mines, the Sanitary Water Board, the Bureau of Health and Mine Drainage, bringing to their attention this contamination. After talking to those contacted, I requested that prompt action should be instigated, not only to stop such contamination, but to see that such situations could not develop in the future.

During my speech on April 5th, I stated that it was my belief that much of the criticism leveled at the stripping industry and the stripping operators could have been avoided by a more stringent enforcement of the laws now on the statutes, and, although I have a certain hesitancy in offering criticism of any department head or officials as to how they administer the affairs of their departments, after reading and listening to the publicity which is currently being given the strip mining industry through the newspapers, radio, television, personal interviews and public hearings, I feel that my inference that "more stringent enforcement of the laws now on the books" might at least tend to eliminate some of the public's antipathy to strip mining and might also be of benefit in helping to eliminate some of its problems in the future.

To more clearly bring into focus and substantiate my implied criticism of the manner in which this Bells Gap Run contamination has been handled over a period of years, I would like to quote from correspondence I have received from different departments in answer to letters I addressed to them.

This letter dated June 22, 1961, is in answer to one I had written Secretary Wilbar, expressing my hope that proper steps would be taken to invoke whatever penalties were applicable for this stream contamination. Here is the first portion of Secretary Wilbar's letter and I quote:

This is with further reference to our correspondence concerning the C. E. Powell Coal Company operation in Antis Township, Blair County, on the watershed of Bell Gap Run.

This operation was originally investigated by the Department on February 26, 1958, at which time it was determined that the operation was a clay stripping operation with all acid-forming materials and other objectionable materials being removed from the Bell Gap Run watershed. At the time, the operation was classified by both the Department of Mines and the Department of Labor and Industry as a clay mine.

That is the end of the quotation. Now, Mr. Speaker, there are various types of coal mines and there are various types of clay mines, but we are concerned only with this particular operation, and in this area the clay lies below the coal seam except at outcrop and, therefore, before one can strip the clay he must first strip off the coal. And if coal is being stripped, I contend, and rightfully so, that it is and must be considered and classified as a coal-stripping operation and subject to all laws and regulations pertaining to that industry. The moment any vein of coal is uncovered, it becomes exposed to oxygen in the air, to rain, snow and other natural elements, all of which tend to set up chemical reaction. Drainage from such exposed coal will absolutely contaminate any uncontaminated stream.

In the light of that statement, let us again examine Secretary Wilbar's statement that, and I quote: "All acid forming materials and other objectionable materials being removed from the Bells Gap Watershed, and that the Department of Mines and the Department of Labor and Industry classified this operation as a clay mine."

Now, let us move ahead one year and examine the next paragraph of the secretary's letter, and again I quote:

"An investigation made early in January, 1959, revealed that coal from the operation was being disposed of off the property and was not salable."

For the life of me, Mr. Speaker, I cannot see how the salability of coal taken from a stripping operation can or should be the determining factor as to the classification of the operation. Coal is coal, some good and some poor, and drainage from either will still contaminate.

Yes, as stated in the secretary's letter, this coal was being removed or disposed of off the operation. It was being hauled down near the tippie to a large stock pile where it could, in time, possibly be mixed in with coal of a better analysis and disposed of in that manner.

Now let us remember those two dates: February 1958 and January 1959 and move on to the next paragraph, and again I quote: "It was not until late 1960 that it was determined that the company was mining and selling coal. Upon notice from the Department, the company discontinued the mining of both clay and coal in December, 1960, as set forth in my letter of May 12, 1961." And so, at long last someone finally discovers that this operator had for the past several years been stripping and selling coal, and no doubt some clay, and all during that time acid contaminated water had been draining out of this pit into what had for years been a pure mountain stream, rendering it totally useless for fishing, and while it may still be considered as potable and safe for human consumption, it is far from being palatable, as the citizens of Bellwood Borough can attest to.

With quotations from this letter from Secretary Wilbar, I have called your attention to three dates: February 1958, January 1959, and December 1960, which covered a period of three years, during which time drainage from this stripping operation was causing stream contamination because someone had decided that the coal being removed was not salable and, therefore, the operation was classified as a clay mine for which no Sanitary Water Board permit was necessary. This poses the question as to the legal basis for such a decision, and also we might paraphrase the old question as to "which comes first, the chicken or the egg?" and ask the courts, "Which comes first, the coal or the clay?"

And now, upon whom and where should the blame and responsibility be placed for permitting a situation and condition such as has been described to exist and continue for over three years? One's first conclusion might be to place the entire blame on the operator. I would agree that the operator must be held liable for and assume a certain amount of the blame, but not all of it, for when permission was granted to open a stripping operation on this watershed, proper investigation by the Sanitary Water Board would have shown that there was bound to be acid contamination draining from this operation into a heretofore uncontaminated stream and, having had this knowledge, the board should have refused permission to strip on this watershed. But when someone is naive enough to believe that you can strip coal and do this without any drainage contamination, and go on record to this effect by stating that such an operation is a clay and not a coal stripping operation and therefore did not need a permit, who can blame the operator for taking advantage of such a decision?

During the Senate committee hearings recently held I heard Mr. Evans, the Secretary of Mines, outline certain limits of jurisdictional responsibility of his bureau with reference to strip mining.

In talking to members of his department, I was also given to understand that the bureau of mines is not responsible for seeing that a stripping operator has a clearance permit from the Sanitary Water Board, and can complete negotiations with an operator regarding his bond and mine permit approval without definitely knowing whether the proposed operation has or has not been approved by the Sanitary Water Board.

It is my belief that, having a Bureau of Mines, that department might well be given the necessary power and authority to govern and administer all phases of the mining industry, whether it be coal, clay, stone quarries, sand, and so forth. And that before any permits were granted, it would be up to the Bureau of Mines to see that all legal requirements as to bonds, maps, safety requirements, stream clearance permits and backfilling agreements had been met and complied with before any permit was issued.

In conclusion, Mr. Speaker, it is my firm conviction that the Joint State Government Committee should set up a task force to make a thorough and complete study of the stripping industry and submit its recommendations as to changing the present laws so as to protect the public, the stripping operators and the property owners. Also, I might say, Mr. Speaker, in this Bells Run controversy, I have received exceptionally fine cooperation from the Fish Commission and steps are now in process to have the State reimbursed for the fish killed. We will now await action on the part of the Sanitary Water Board.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. FRASCELLA from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported as committed, House bill No. 1789, entitled:

An Act to provide revenue for Commonwealth purposes by imposing an excise tax on rents, royalties, interest, dividends and capital gains from investment capital as defined of individual residents and nonresidents of the Commonwealth and of estates and trusts, fixing the rates of tax thereon, providing for the reporting and payment of tax, interest and penalties, assessments, collections, liens reviews, appeals, refunds and penalties, and conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue, fiduciaries, partnerships, associations and individuals.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House bill No. 1789, entitled:

An Act to provide revenue for Commonwealth purposes by imposing an excise tax on rents, royalties, interest, dividends and capital gains from investment capital as defined of individual residents and nonresidents of the Commonwealth and of estates and trusts, fixing the rates of tax thereon, providing for the reporting and payment of tax, interest and penalties, assessments, collections, liens, reviews, appeals, refunds and penalties, and conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue, fiduciaries, partnerships, associations and individuals.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, to be laid aside for second reading.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the clerk is going to read the numbers of the bills that are being re-referred from the Select Committee on Education to the Committee on Education.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, may I say to the membership then that it would be wise for every member of this House to take down the numbers of these bills. These bills may be intensely important in considering an education program, so if the clerk will read them slowly and the members will take these numbers down, it may aid them materially in planning the education future.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The clerk will read the report.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. What is the pleasure of the majority leader?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to request that the chief clerk in the printing of the calendar, beginning with tomorrow, place the special education bills that were just read by the gentleman, plus the one bill reported from the Committee on Ways and Means, in one section of the calendar together, even though the numbers were not called in proper order, and that they be held together in the one section traveling in the calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The bills will be handled as a package. The Chair will so instruct the chief clerk. They will be titled, "Education Bills Second Reading."

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we are going to ask for a recess of one hour and 30 minutes. We are going to ask for 30 minutes immediately for lunch. I ask the Democratic members to bring their House calendars with them and please come to the caucus room promptly—promptly—one-half hour from now for a Democratic caucus which is most important. Every Democratic member should be present. Bring your calendars with you.

The cafeteria is ready for lunch and you will have an opportunity to eat. Then come to the caucus room immediately and be there for an important caucus.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we will call the same caucus. Lunch now for one-half hour, and then meet in caucus. That will actually be 2 o'clock, will it not?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. We will caucus then for one hour.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the Chair will declare a recess of one hour and thirty minutes. The Chair hears none, and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leaves of absence were granted as follows:

Mr. Dougherty for Mr. FOERSTER for today because of illness.

Mr. Dougherty for Mr. CAULEY for today because of illness.

Mr. Dougherty for Mr. WARGO for today because of illness.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 1541, entitled:

An Act relating to the manufacture sale and possession of drugs devices and cosmetics conferring powers on the courts and the Secretary and Department of Health providing penalties and for the revocation or suspension of certain licenses making an appropriation to the Department of Health and repealing certain acts.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 1656, entitled:

A Supplement to the act of April 29, 1874 (P. L. 73), entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations" authorizing the incorporation of pipeline companies for the transportation and storage or distribution furnishing or supplying of a fluid substance known as coal slurry * * *.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Miller.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, last week I sat here and listened to debate on a piece of legislation that would cause employment in the State of Pennsylvania. This week, and today, we have a bill before us that will cause unemployment in the State of Pennsylvania. To me this is a piece of legislation that would have a terrific impact on the economy of Pennsylvania, especially in the field of railroad workers.

Mr. Speaker, I think everyone of us here knows that the greatest revenue received by any railroad is revenue from coal hauling. This bill would do away with the hauling of coal in hopper cars. In my particular area which I represent we have one of the largest railroad shops in the world in which most of the work is building and repairing hopper cars. Just take the building and repair of hopper cars out of that town and our county and we will certainly be a distressed area. Say we are a distressed area now, it will be much greater if this bill were to pass today.

Mr. Speaker, since 1955 in the shops there in Altoona we had a schedule from 1955 to May 1, 1961, of 41,387 hopper cars or freight cars, and most of them hopper cars. What is going to happen to our railroad industry if we take this work away from the railroads? And not only the railroads. There are other car plants in Pennsylvania, Greenville Pullman Car Company, Pressed Steel Car Company and Bethlehem Steel Company also build and repair hopper cars. I am asking the members today, are we going to cause more unemployment in Pennsylvania? Are we going to increase the relief rolls, or are we not, by such legislation as this? I have in my possession here a petition with approximately 500 names from the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen asking me to oppose this piece of legislation as being very detrimental to not only the shop workers but also the railroad workers, the trainmen.

You can just imagine what it would mean if a piece of legislation such as this were to pass in Pennsylvania, what it would mean to the entire railroad system in Pennsylvania, the number of positions which would be lost.

Mr. Speaker, I ask every member here today to vote "no" on this piece of legislation for the good of industry and employment in Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson.

Mr. DONALDSON. Mr. Speaker, I am a co-sponsor of House bill 1656 and want to assure the members of this House that I would not have been a co-sponsor of this bill if I thought there was any conceivable chance of its causing unemployment in this Commonwealth. I think exactly the reverse is the true situation.

Mr. Speaker, I know that we are running against a tight time schedule, but I would just like to make a few remarks in support of the bill. All of us are familiar with the operation of underground pipe lines that carry water, that carry oil, artificial gas and natural gas. All of us are familiar with the transmission of electric telephone and telegraph current by means of overhead wires. In each of these instances, Mr. Speaker, this legislature in years gone by, as modern technology developed, has passed the necessary statutes which authorized companies to incorporate for the purposes of transmission and transportation, to give to them the right of eminent domain under certain restrictions, which restrictions are carried out in House bill 1656. Of course, Mr. Speaker, our constitution guarantees to the owners of the property through which these transmission lines pass the right to have just compensation.

Mr. Speaker, it is now possible because of modern industrial technology to transport coal through a pipe line. Briefly, the coal is reduced to fine nugget size, mixed with water and flushed through the line very much in the same manner as oil and natural gas would pass underground. An examination of the bill will, of course, indicate that as a practical matter the right of eminent domain can only be exercised through vacant ground; it cannot be exercised against a house, or against a school, or a church, or an institution, without the consent of the owner.

All this bill does, House bill 1656, is put the corporate and eminent domain and public utility laws of Pennsylvania in a modern setting, just as this legislature has done with other transmission and transportation companies.

Mr. Speaker, to speak about unemployment, I have just two statistics relative to conditions in the coal area. In 1947, 200 million tons of coal were mined in Pennsylvania; in 1960, 84 million tons, less than one-half; and yet, Mr. Speaker, Pennsylvania has virtually unlimited supplies of coal.

In 1947, 182,000 miners were employed in the coal industry in Pennsylvania; a decade later, in 1960, 40,000 miners were employed in Pennsylvania, a drop in employment of almost 75 percent. Mr. Speaker, there are a lot of reasons why coal consumption has gone down, but one of the principal ones is the fact that competing fuels have been able to undersell coal at the place of consumption, in spite of the fact that the price of coal at the mine today is exactly, or substantially, the same as it was in 1947. But the price of foreign residual oil, which nobody produces in Pennsylvania, the price of transporting that has gone way down, and it has replaced coal in the great consumer areas.

In the next decade coal will be facing increasing competition with atomic energy in its last great consuming field, that being the electric generating plants. Mr. Speaker, if the decline continues as it has since 1947, there is not going to be any coal mined in Pennsylvania for anybody to transport. I say this is progressive; I say this is modern; and I say this legislature has always enacted from time immemorial statutes to put our law in conformity with modern industrial technology. As a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, if we worry too much about the railroads, just about 10 years ago, or a little more than that, 25 percent of the coal produced in these United States, 125 million tons annually, was consumed by the railroads in their locomotives. Now the railroads have converted to diesel and that use of coal is gone forever. I think that was progress and I think that was proper, and nobody would suggest that we pass a statute to outlaw the use of diesel engines so we can save the coal mines. Nor should our law, Mr. Speaker, be in a position to deny one of our great industries the right to modern industrial technology to improve transportation and a chance to compete with foreign residual oil and atomic energy.

I say this is progress and request the members on both sides of the House to examine this bill on its merits and vote to put our law in conformity with modern practices.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, what the previous speaker, Mr. Donaldson from Allegheny County, has said is true in some measure, this possibly might be construed as progress. But I still want to say to you people here, as I have said before on the floor of this House, there are still three major areas of economic distress in Pennsylvania, possibly steel not as much so as coal, both hard and soft, and the railroad industry.

For years we have seen railroads legislated against at the expense of other methods of transportation. This is just another blow at a big system and one of the major systems of transportation in this country. I question whether we are yet ready in Pennsylvania to deal another blow at a distressed business such as the railroads. I do not think that anyone will deny that they are in a distressed condition.

We still have around 400,000 people on the relief rolls of Pennsylvania, and there is no question in my mind that if this bill goes through within the next four or five years you are going to have 75 to 80 percent of all the railroad workers in Pennsylvania today going on public assistance rolls. Who is going to pay that bill? The taxpayers in general in Pennsylvania. Certainly that is going to be another very serious argument about industry expanding in Pennsylvania, or about attracting new industry into Pennsylvania.

The time may come when we can get out of our economic doldrums in Pennsylvania, when we will be able to afford to back such legislation as this because our economic industrial climate in Pennsylvania will be such that we will be able to do it. But I do not believe that we can afford to do it today. I do not think we ought to stand here today and deal another blow at a distressed business, the transportation industry, such as the railroads are, and help put more people on the relief rolls. They have no place else to go in Pennsylvania where they can get jobs or be placed. It is just going to knock them off.

Now, so far as the railroad engines being transferred to diesels, yes, that is so. But the method of transporting this oil into our eastern seaboard where this residual oil is dumped from Venezuela and other countries, it is brought in practically free of charge on the vessels coming in here so that they can have the proper ballast, and they practically carry this oil free into our eastern seaboard. Two rights do not make a wrong. That oil ought to be charged for transportation, and it ought to be charged as it is dumped on our eastern seaboard. If that had been so, possibly the railroads would not have changed from coal to diesel, such as they were practically forced to do in order to effect economies. I am asking you, please—I have stood here and so have my colleagues stood here and voted with the people in the soft coal regions time after time to help you. Now we are pleading with you to help us. We will appreciate your vote against this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Taylor.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this bill. With the recent pipe lines that we have just installed along the Chester branch near Philadelphia from Claymont, Delaware, all the way up into Jersey City, it is the worst piece of competitive business that we have had.

Therefore, I make a plea that you vote this piece of legislation down.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Blair.

Mr. BLAIR. Mr. Speaker, in this present session somewhere along the line we have not been cognizant of the fact that railroads play a major part in our economy. In the field of transportation, and especially in national emergencies, they are called upon to do things that they are not required to do in peace times. Therefore, we are in a position of planning our future economy to the point that we have to keep things in reserve and keep things rolling for times of need and emergency.

For example, the Canadian Parliament recognized that a short time ago and passed an appropriation bill of $90-some-odd-million in a subsidy manner to keep the Canadian railroads operating and in existence. Here just a few weeks ago the State of Connecticut granted a $660,000 tax write-off for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

Waterways and trucks can supply part of our needs, part of our wants from day to day, but in times of emergency, whom do we rely upon? Our railroads.

What you can do is pass this bill today. I am not debating it; I am not questioning whether or not this is good legislation. I am saying this: If you pass this bill, what you are going to be faced with next session is appropriation bills in the form of subsidies that will keep our railroads in existence. We can legislate them out of existence; we can pass this bill; we can force them to hire employees they do not need and they have no use for. We can do any and all things, but, basically and fundamentally, Mr. Speaker, what we have to consider is the fact that we must keep our railroads in operation and keep them in reserve for times of stress and emergency.

Therefore I would ask everybody to keep this in mind when they vote for or against this bill. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Buchanan.

Mr. BUCHANAN. Mr. Speaker, I am one of the co-sponsors of this bill because I believe that it provides for a technological progress in the field of transportation and the coal industry. It is my philosophy that the function of government should be to encourage progress and advance rather than to retard technological progress. This bill will provide for advances in the coal industry and transportation.

I think that some of the opponents of this bill are forgetting history. The railroads took the place of the canal transportation back in the 1840's, 1850's and 1860's. Since then the airplane, the truck and automobile have taken the place, to a certain extent, of the railroads. This bill provides that we will be able to transport coal by pipelines.

Would any of you have voted to outlaw the manufacture of the airplane? I think all of you would answer that by saying "no." Then, why should you vote to retard progress in the coal industry and in transportation. Let us look at countries in Asia and Africa. Many of those countries are backward today because they discouraged technological progress. Let us not, in the United States and Pennsylvania, follow the example of those nations.

This pipeline will not cost the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania one cent. The cost will be paid by the coal companies, or by the companies which are incorporated to construct the pipeline. Who will benefit from the pipeline? The people who will benefit are the ones who will be able to purchase coal and products made from coal at a cheaper rate.

I appeal to you to vote for this bill which will be beneficial to the people of Pennsylvania and all of the United States.

The SPEAKER. As one of the proponents of the bill, the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, requested of the Chair the privilege of closing the debate. Does the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. McInroy, desire to be recognized?

Mr. McINROY. I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. McInroy.

Mr. McINROY. Mr. Speaker, just a short statement. I want to appeal to you, not only from the railroad's standpoint, but there is another phase I do not think has been covered in any of the debate this afternoon, and that is the trucking side. It is the truckers who will be thrown out of work also, and that would concern a lot of businesses that furnish trucks for the truckers and the railroad industry, the steel for the cars, besides all of the workers on the railroad.

I agree with my colleague from Blair, Mr. Auker, that this is not the time to experiment with such a thing as this that will throw so many people out of work and cause so much unemployment. Therefore, I ask that we vote this bill down.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, for the purpose of speaking on the bill and closing the debate.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, in the many years that I have served in this House I have explained many bills, I have been interrogated on many bills, but never have I taken the microphone to speak for a bill which I have personally introduced.

Today, Mr. Speaker, I am going to talk about this bill which I believe is one of the most important bills that has been introduced in this legislature for many years.

Mr. Speaker, much has been said about the plight of the railroads, and I would agree, but I want to say this, Mr. Speaker: as a railroad man of 32 years, and with a family—more people of my family are employed on the railroad than in any other line of work—I certainly would do nothing which would hurt the railroad industry. I want to say, Mr. Speaker, that what this bill will do is to create industrial development in Pennsylvania.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I have been identified with industrial development in Pennsylvania for a good many years. I was one of the original sponsors of the PIDA Act and I have been a member of that board since it was created.

Now I want to tell you some of the things that this bill will do if it is passed and put into law. All the bill actually does, as the gentleman, Mr. Donaldson from Allegheny, stated, it gives the same rights for a pipeline for coal slurry as all other items have. The initial lines would probably be about 300 miles long and would cost approximately $90 million. It would take thousands and thousands of tons of pipe over 300 miles; it would put millions of dollars in labor and end products and in rights-of-way. Over these it would be expected to transport 7 million tons of coal a year from the 28 counties of central and western Pennsylvania to markets in the East which are now served by residual fuel oil which the railroads do not haul, which is dumped in here from foreign countries and which, in the making, we would be able to have cheaper power, which is the basis of manufacturing.

I want to say what happened in Ohio and how they met the challenge. When they knew that the St. Lawrence Seaway was going to break into the ports on the lake front, they knew that the residual fuel oil would be dumped in there and they met the challenge by building the coal slurry pipeline from Georgetown to Cleveland, and kept those markets because with the cheap transportation that coal slurry provides through pipelines you are able to compete and to give a better price than using residual fuel oil.

Now what has happened in the great Ohio Valley where they have all these great aluminum industries? It is cheap power. There they have the rivers. In Cleveland they now have the pipeline and I say to you that in Pennsylvania if we have this we can serve the eastern seaboard. There are 28 counties in central and western Pennsylvania where we have unlimited coal, over 31 billion tons, that a giant market will be created which will not hurt the railroads, which will put many, many miners to work. And I am going to say, ladies and gentlemen, to the people in western Pennsylvania, people in Washington County, I would not want to go back to Washington County and tell those other poor miners there that I had failed to do everything I could to put this bill through.

I live in the town of Avella where back in the 20's we had 17 mines there which turned out over 600 cars a day and it was a thoroughly prosperous community. Now we have one little mine left which I, unfortunately, am one of the part owners of, where we just now make house coal. And I want to say to you, ladies and gentlemen, that the main reason of the decline of the coal industry in western Pennsylvania in our section was the lack of adequate transportation that would let us compete with Ohio workers and with the northern counties where they truck.

Now Mr. Speaker, this is not a bill just for the coal mining areas; this is not a bill just for the coal companies and for the coal miners; this is a bill that will give us modern transportation for coal to the eastern seaboard to compete with the residual fuel oil that is being dumped in there.

Now, Mr. Speaker, as I said before, I have never appealed to you to vote for a bill on account of my sponsorship, and I have a deep feeling for the railroads and the railroaders, having been one all my life, but I read in the Pittsburgh Post Gazette an item which says:

"PENNSY UNIT TO OPERATE OIL PIPELINE"

"The Potomac Public Service Company, controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad, has opened offices in Arlington, Va., to develop engineering studies and final plans for a common carrier pipeline system to serve the major airports in the Washington and Baltimore areas with petroleum fuel."

Now, the railroads themselves are doing this, and I say it is proper because throughout the West for many years the Santa Fe and St. Louis Railroad had the pipeline along their lines. Right now under discussion is the N.P.&P. and the New York Central to do the same thing along their right-of-way. And I think it is proper that the railroads meet the challenge that they have today on modern transportation, and that is what this bill proposes to do.

This is a bill, Mr. Speaker, that will bring back to work thousands and thousands of coal miners who are now unemployed; it will, through the manufacture of pipe and the pumping equipment and the maintenance of it, put thousands of steelworkers to work. It will bring millions of dollars into the landowners of Pennsylvania through rights-of-way, and I believe that coal is entitled to the same pipeline privileges as oil and gas and other products.

Mr. Speaker, I ask the members of the House, I appeal to the members of the House, to vote for this bill which is a bill that will bring industrial development to Pennsylvania and bring a semblance of prosperity to the western counties which have been so severely affected by the decline of the coal industry. It is not a bill just for them; it is a bill for all of Pennsylvania, a bill for progress. I earnestly appeal to you to support this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair asked all the members who wanted to speak and clearly announced that Mr. Polen had asked the privilege of closing the debate and whether any member of the House had anything further to say.

The gentleman from Erie will proceed. It is irregular. The Chair gave everyone the privilege.

Mr. BLAIR. I would just like to remind the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, that the steel that is going to be purchased which makes this pipeline possible would, no doubt, be quite a sizable amount and a very high tonnage. I would like to remind the gentleman that the equipment and the needs and requirements of the railroads are not made out of cardboard.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

MOTION TO EXPUNGE PROCEEDINGS FROM JOURNAL

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House expunge from the Journal the proceedings relating to the appeal from the decision of the Speaker on the vote on the motion to recommit House bill No. 890, printer's No. 979, to the Committee on Rules on Monday, June 13, 1961.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Piper.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this motion. This was a proceeding that took place in this House; it took place on June 13 and the Journal has not been printed as yet—I do not know why—and I rise to oppose this motion very strenuously.

If anyone else in this House makes a bad decision, the record is not expunged. I have no personal grievances against the Speaker or any other member of this House, but I say this, we should not set a precedent. What has been ruled on by the House, that should be it, and I therefore ask all members of this House not to set a precedent and to vote against this motion, and I ask for a roll call.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the membership to vote "aye," and a roll call is agreed to.

Mr. ZEMBER. Mr. Speaker, I am a great one to respect experience, precedent and record. I, as a lawyer, in practicing law, am bound by the record. You, when you speak to your constituents, are bound by the record. You, when you vote on the floor of this House, are bound by this record. If you make one misstep, one misstatement, your words are recorded for posterity.

The previous speaker, Mr. Piper, also from Berks County, mentioned he has no animosity or hard feelings against any member of this House nor against the Speaker. I join with him in pointing out to you that we rise to oppose this motion, not on personalities, but on the matter of the record—a matter that something has been done, and that something should remain, of record, not that it is a personal attack on any one individual. It was a mistake. If you make a mistake it is here on the record. I urge you, vote against this motion. Let the record stand.

The bill was argued, it was debated, and motions were made. Why should we have this procedure for appealing the order of the Chair? If this takes place today, if you pass this motion, then there is no need to have such a procedure in our rules. You will find this proceeding in every rule of procedure. It is there for a reason. It is there for a number of other reasons, not only for this type of instance. Let us not establish a precedent. If this motion is upheld today, we undoubtedly will be besieged with requests from members from day to day, after they have read the transcript of the proceedings in our sessions, besieged with requests to expunge their remarks from the record because what they have said may not sound too well back home.

Let this be a matter of your own conscience. Let it not be a matter of personalities or friendship. Let us uphold the sanctity of the record of the Legislative Journal. Vote against this resolution.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to ask the House to support this motion to expunge certain remarks from the record, and it is with deep sincerity that I debate this motion. I have given it a lot of thought and I want to say to the new members that there is ample precedent in this House of Representatives for expunging matters from the record which the members of the House, engaged in more serious and deliberate consideration, have desired to have expunged.

I have been a member of this legislature for five terms and during all those terms I have been particularly concerned with adherence to the constitution and to the rules of procedure, and I know that in all the time I have been a member the Speaker who has presided over those particular sessions has always conducted himself with the utmost impartiality. We cannot divorce personalities from this motion however much we argue that we should. The present Speaker of the House of Representatives, Mr. Andrews from Cambria County, is a man—I believe that I am entitled to speak about personalities on this motion—who has devoted a lifetime to upgrading and dignifying this very House of Representatives in which we are all privileged to serve. I can say personally as a lawyer that the present Speaker of this House has forgotten more about legislative procedure than I in my lifetime will ever know. I have had many arguments with the Speaker of the House and I know that at all times he has conducted himself with due regard strictly and favorably to the rules of this House and to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The proceedings out of which this motion arises I can recall vividly, and I have heard on many occasions the Speaker calling for a voice vote and recognizing the majority voice in one way or another. I say to you that we, as members of this House of Representatives, pulled the rug from under the Speaker when we, because of the heat generated by the provisions of that particular bill, did not seriously realize what we were doing. I think it is a disgrace for us as members of the legislature to impugn the action of the Speaker of this House, who has, as I say, devoted his whole adult life to the betterment of the people of this Commonwealth and the dignity of the members who represent the people in this General Assembly; it is an affront to him. I say sincerely, Mr. Speaker, that it does not make any difference to "Hi" Andrews how we vote on this motion, but I think we must regard the fact that he has done so much for us; he has criticized us when we needed criticism and he has given us plaudits when we deserved it; he has fought a battle for all of us at one time or another. So I say to you, without regard to partisan spirit, to vote in favor of this motion. We have overruled the Speaker. It is a precedent we established here and I am sure that after mature deliberation we realized we should not have established such a precedent and I therefore earnestly and sincerely request you, having regard for the personality and the dignity of the Speaker of this House of Representatives, to adopt this motion and set the record straight, and I ask both sides of the House to adopt the motion without further rancor and without further debate.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I shall be very brief. I have always believed in the rule of the law and not of men; but as a member of the opposite party and a person who has had many contacts with the Speaker, I would be derelict in my duty as a person who believes in applauding a man who has done a good job not to vote "aye" on this motion.

I have disagreed with the Speaker in many instances, but in my contact with him, he has never been personal. I think we owe him this debt of gratitude to have this matter expunged from the record. I would appreciate everybody voting "aye" on this motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Stiteler.

Mr. STITELER. Mr. Speaker, I voted with my friend, Mr. Piper, for whom I have great respect, and I will do so again. I am going to adopt the suggestion of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Zember, and vote on this according to my conscience because I believe to err is human, to forgive, divine.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. PIPER and McCANN and were as follows:

ANNOUNCEMENT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to inform the House that there will be no more roll calls today, but I do ask that they stay for committee announcements. We also have a motion to reconsider 1656, a reconsideration motion asking that it be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

Mr. Speaker, the House will convene tomorrow morning at 10 a. m., and we will be voting on bills before we leave the floor, on the bills that were caucused and ready for vote today which will be voted on tomorrow, and then we will caucus and cover the balance of the bills. Is that agreed?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I wish the majority leader would reiterate his statement with respect to Thursday.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will make my announcement on Wednesday.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I do not like to press the gentleman although many members have been down here wanting to know whether they should check out of the hotels tomorrow, and so forth. It seems as though you ought to be able to make a statement right now that there will not be a session Thursday. It is a long time until Christmas so we have plenty of time here. A lot of the members would like to go away; their families are at the shore and they feel that three days in this heat is enough.

Mr. McCANN. I will make the announcement tomorrow, in plenty of time, Mr. Speaker. I certainly want them to act on quite a few bills tomorrow.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE ON HOUSE BILL NO. 1656

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House bill No. 1656, printer's No. 2427, entitled:

"A Supplement to the act of April 29, 1874 (P. L. 73), entitled 'An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations' authorizing the incorporation of pipeline companies for the transportation and storage or distribution furnishing or supplying of a fluid substance known as coal slurry * * *" was defeated on final passage Tuesday, July 25, 1961, be reconsidered.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. How did the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I voted with the prevailing side.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. How did the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I voted with the prevailing side.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?
It was agreed to.
On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O God, our Father, as Thou dost love man with an undying passion, as Thou dost forgive with a never recalling memory, and as Thou dost challenge with an unending zeal; make us to be as loving toward our brethren, as forgiving toward our enemies, and as motivated in our own efforts that Thy kingdom may come and Thy will may be done on earth as it is in heaven. In like manner, never let us be taken in by the wiles of the devil, never let us succumb to the false repentance of those who mean us harm, and never let us be so soft-hearted that we compromise our principles of life and tenets of faith. In His dear name. Amen.

An Act amending the act of December 27, 1951 (P. L. 1742), entitled as amended "The Realty Transfer Tax Act" excluding from taxation transfers of property between divorced spouses.

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, what I am going to say has nothing to do with our discussion of education bills or taxes or reapportionment. I may have something to say about reapportionment before the day is over.

I think we should comment a little on the speech of our President last night with respect to the Berlin crisis. How does that affect the State of Pennsylvania? I am a member of the State Council of Civilian Defense by reason of my being the minority leader. We have not had a meeting of the State Council of Civilian Defense since I have been a member this session, and we have had only one meeting since I have been a member for four years.

I am not saying that our State Council of Civilian Defense is not doing a good job, but I think the time has come, in the light of the President's speech, when we, as a State, must reappraise our situation with respect to the protection of the civilians of Pennsylvania.

Three years ago the State Council offered to sell the filling stations in the State mechanical handles to operate gasoline pumps by manual control, without electricity. Very few people, that is, filling station people, availed themselves of that opportunity. I think that every filling station in Pennsylvania should be equipped with manual operations for their gasoline pumps.

I think we should re-examine the stockpiling of hospital beds all over Pennsylvania; the stockpiling of medicines; and I think that consideration should be given by this General Assembly to provide money to build bomb shelters. I am not trying to say that we are in peril in this Nation, but if anything should happen I think that we, as the legislature, should be able to say we provided the civilians of Pennsylvania with the necessary tools for their protection in case of an attack.

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE RESOLUTION RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows, viz:

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 62.

Congress memorialized to adopt the equal rights for women amendment.

With information that the Senate has passed the same with amendment in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The clerk will read the amendments.

The clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Resolution, page 2, by inserting lines 1, 2, 3 and the beginning of line 4, as follows: with the provision that it shall not be construed to impair any rights, benefits or exemptions now or hereafter conferred by law upon persons of the female sex.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House non-concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the amendments inserted in this resolution by the Senate are not being fair to the fair sex inasmuch as they are trying to preserve all the equities and inequities which now exist, instead of trying to give them equal rights. For that reason we will go along with non-concurrence.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to nonconcur in the amendments?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 698, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1939 (P. L. 872) entitled "The Penal Code" making it illegal to buy sell alter or attempt to obtain by fraudulent means a diploma certificate or similar instrument and providing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. A. W. JOHNSON and IRVIS asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 1, next to last line of Title, by inserting after "instrument" prohibiting certain fraudulent acts pertaining to licensing, registration or certification of any person.

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 2, by striking out "a new section" and inserting: two new sections.

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, by inserting after line 15:

Section 674.2. State License, Registration or Certification.—Any employe, administrator or member of any State licensing board who shall alter an examination, inquiry or other record, or sell questions contained in examinations or answers thereto, to be used to secure a license, or who shall otherwise fraudulently influence or interfere with the granting or withholding of any license, registration or certification of any person, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars ($2,000), or to undergo imprisonment not exceeding two (2) years, or both.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the reason for these amendments is that several weeks ago when we were examining the present bill, the question of possible chicanery in the public licensing department came up. We examined the law and it appeared that there was a possible gap in the law as to fraud by employes, administrators and members of State licensing boards. There is quite a comprehensive act which covers fraudulent examination papers, and so forth. We drafted some amendments and submitted them to the majority party. We have gotten together and discussed the amendments, and these amendments are agreed upon by both parties and are co-sponsored by Mr. Irvis and myself. They consolidate into one crime the tampering with licensing and make the penalty $2,000 or two years.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 76, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929" increasing the maximum number of officers and men in the aggregate in the Pennsylvania State Police and making editorial changes.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, this bill increases the size of the State Police force of the State of Pennsylvania. I had intended to offer amendments to this bill, but I find there is presently a law on the statute books covering the subject of my proposed amendments.

I want to read that law. It is the act of April 27, 1927, and it provides: "It shall be the duty of the Pennsylvania State Police to cooperate with agencies of other states and of the United States having similar powers to develop and carry on a complete interstate, national and international system of criminal identification and investigation"—and this is the important part of this section—"and also to furnish upon request any information in its possession concerning any person charged with crime to any court, district attorney or police officers of this Commonwealth or of another state or of the United States."

Mr. Speaker, the Pennsylvania State Police, I think, sometimes lose sight of the fact that they have a criminal investigation division. They are not all highway patrolmen, although the highway patrolmen in the exercise of their functions at times make arrests involving criminal charges. They also assist in criminal investigations, and, when we have cases in which they are involved, I say to you that they are as much bound by this section of the law so far as their duties are concerned as they are in the enforcement of the laws for which they are being hired and paid.

The complaints which I have received from district attorneys around the State of Pennsylvania regarding the closing of the files of the Pennsylvania State Police against their getting information to be able to properly prosecute their cases in court is causing a breakdown in the administration of justice. I certainly think that the Pennsylvania State Police should be directed—and I understand the Attorney General has already issued such a directive, and I want to do so from the floor of this House today on behalf of the General Assembly—that these files of the State Police shall be available to the district attorneys for the proper functioning of our courts of justice. I hope they will take heed to the laws that are on the statute books of Pennsylvania today.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

THE SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, before I call the next bill, I ask that the House consider carefully the situation so there will not be any remarks that are out of order.

Mr. Speaker, I call up Senate bill No. 8, printer's No. 13, which will be debatable, and amendments are being offered.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. We are on exhibition as a parliamentary body, a body deciding great issues, and the public sees us through the eyes of the press. If, in connection with this piece of legislation or anything else, we are disorderly and do not maintain the dignity that we should, we certainly add to the adverse comment and the adverse thinking about us that has appeared in the press.

The Chair hopes, however we vote, that we maintain the dignity of this body by no untoward noises or comments.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 8, entitled:

An Act selecting designating and adopting the Great Dane as the official dog of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy, rise?

Mr. MURPHY. To make a motion, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. What is the gentleman's motion?

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, at a time when we are engaged in many great tasks for the Commonwealth—

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman make his motion and then comment?

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to move that we recommit Senate bill No. 8—

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman please yield?

The Chair would like to consult with the majority leader to find out whether there are any agreements as to procedure—

Mr. MURPHY. I would like to remind the Speaker that I have been granted the floor.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would also remind the gentleman that his parliamentary rights will not be ignored by the Speaker.

Mr. MURPHY. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. There are certain courtesies that prevail in this House which the Speaker desires to observe.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Murphy.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, at a time when this House, when both legislative bodies are engaged in very serious deliberations concerning the—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has the floor for the purpose of making a motion, and then he may have the floor for the purpose of speaking on his motion.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I move that Senate bill No. 8, printer's No. 13, be recommitted to the Committee on Rules.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, the reason that I rise to make this motion is that there are many, many tasks before this legislative body at the present time concerning the educational problem, the problem of reapportionment of the various representative districts, finances, non-preferred appropriations, many things that will keep us in session for many weeks to come. I think that if we were going to deliberate on a bill of this nature it should have been brought up earlier in the session and not at this time when we must devote our entire effort to serious legislative matters.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Schuylkill. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. HEFFNER. To speak on the motion, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I agree with my colleague from Washington, Mr. Murphy. I highly resent the fact that we are going to waste some time here in the House this day to vote on some nonsensical legislation. Mr. Speaker, you made the remark that we are seen through the eyes of the press, and that is true. This bill, frankly, is ridiculous and I believe we ought to kill it right now and send it back to committee.

I do not own a dog, but, if I did, I would not want it to be the official dog in Pennsylvania because it is unnecessary.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Jim.

Mr. JIM. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a short statement in regard to the motion to recommit Senate bill No. 8, a very short statement.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order.

Mr. JIM. Mr. Speaker, I have a statement here from the Joint State Government Commission:

As per your request of July 22, 1961, we have checked the records and find no state with an official dog. The State of Kansas has an American Buffalo; the State of Wisconsin has the Badger; other states have official birds, but we find no state with an official dog.

Therefore, I second the motion to recommit Senate bill No. 8.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the motion for recommitment, and I certainly hope if the vote is sustained and it goes back to the Rules Committee that this bill will receive a real burial.

I spoke on this same thing in 1959. I am going to say again that I think it is asinine to consider such legislation. I ask for a roll call.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be called in due time; the Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I, too, would like to add my voice to those who have already preceded me and add some weight to the motion to recommit this bill.

If ever there was legislation that demeans this body as being a dignified one, this is certainly the type of legislation that does. It certainly demonstrates, when we report legislation out on the floor such as this for serious consideration, that either we have nothing to do, that we are just wasting time, or we are people who are not in the legislative halls to conduct serious business. It is just a demonstration that we have reached the bottom of the barrel so far as legislation is concerned, and that we are just piddling around wasting the Commonwealth's time and money and that we have nothing further of benefit to do except wait for something to come up and have something to talk about. I think that as a legislative body we should act with dignity with a serious purpose, and this type of legislation shows that we do not.

Therefore, I would like to add my voice as strongly as I can to the motion to recommit this legislation, not for further study but so that it can go deep into the well of limbo and will never be reconsidered again by this House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to say that this, of course, is a Senate bill.

For what purpose does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo, rise?

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question, please.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no second.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. AUKER and MURPHY and were as follows:

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I want to make a brief observation here. From the time the motion was made, with several speakers speaking on the bill, it took approximately 9½ minutes to do away with this bill.

Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the time-keeper.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. KING asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to suggest that this House establish some sort of a permanent committee, if this is possible, to take care of bills such as Senate bill 8, instead of burdening the legislature and the taxpayers of Pennsylvania with this sort of legislation. In the future if some party or parties want to promote various breeds of dogs or cats, trees, albino deer, snowy white owls, raccoon meat, or what-have-you, they could act through this committee. I would suggest that this committee, Mr. Speaker, be called the committee on trivia. Thank you.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1771, entitled:

An Act amending "The Fourth to Eighth Class County Assessment Law" approved May 21, 1943 (P. L. 571), authorizing taxation of land owned by school districts for certain purposes.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, at this point we are going to take a break for lunch and for short caucuses to cover specific bills and then return here in order to adjourn as soon as possible. I will ask the Democratic membership, when I make the motion, to have lunch first and then come to the caucus and bring their House calendars with them. When I make the motion it will be for exactly one and one-half hours, which means from 12 o'clock through to 1:30.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I thought maybe we could do the job in one hour, but Mr. McCann says,

"No, it will take 45 minutes for lunch." I believe that on the Republican side we will go to caucus immediately and try to clean the calendar up as fast as we can and then we will go to lunch. There really is not too much for us to caucus on on this calendar. So, I would like to ask the Republican members to proceed immediately to the caucus room.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. R. P. JOHNSON, HOLL, FETTEROLF, WIL-LAREDT and Mrs. HENZEL offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 26, 1961.

We take much pride in congratulating Justice John C. Bell on his coming elevation to the high office of Chief Justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. This is an office which Justice Bell is eminently qualified to fill both by background and judicial temperament. He was elected to his present office in 1950.

We take this method of congratulating Justice Bell upon his succession to the high office of Chief Justice.

Justice John C. Bell is the scion of a prominent Philadelphia family. He is a brother of the late "Bert" Bell, Commissioner of the National Football League. His home is in Wynnewood, Montgomery County; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereby congratulate Justice Bell on his coming elevation to the high office of Chief Justice of our Supreme Court and also commend him for his past judicial services to this State and its people; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to his home in Wynnewood, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 52, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article nine of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania repealing section sixteen thereof which authorized the borrowing funds for the acquisition of toll bridges.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, this resolution is for the purpose of repealing section 16 of our State constitution which presently authorizes the borrowing of funds for the acquisition of toll bridges. I realize it is an unnecessary segment of our State constitution today, but it is really doing no harm in our constitution and it will cost a great deal of money for the people of this Commonwealth to vote on this matter. I think the reason for throwing it out is just for the purpose of pointing out the fact that we probably have some need for changing the constitution in quite a number of particulars which can be done through the amendment method.

It seems as though this is a frivolous matter and a colossal waste of the taxpayers' money. Until we get a ground swell of enthusiasm in the State to revise our State constitution, I think it is very foolish of us to pass this amendment and submit a ridiculous thing like this to the people for a vote.

I am asking everybody to vote against this proposition.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman from McKean has outlined the case of why we should vote for the resolution.

As he indicated very clearly, Senate bill 52 deals with a section in the constitution which authorizes the borrowing of funds for the toll bridges. He is well aware, and so are the members of this House, that this Commonwealth does not borrow in that manner under the constitution for the toll bridges of Pennsylvania or for their construction. I believe it was under their leadership that the State Highway and Bridge Authority was created, which also handles the bridges.

For that very reason I believe the membership of this House should vote "aye" to repeal this section of the constitution which is not used today. I ask every member to vote "aye" on Senate bill 52, printer's No. 53.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 1098.

An Act amending the act of May 17, 1921 (P. L. 789), entitled as amended "An act relating to insurance establishing an insurance department and amending revising and consolidating the law relating to the licensing qualification regulation examination suspension and dissolution of insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and certain societies and orders the examination and regulation of fire insurance rating bureaus and the licensing and regulation of insurance agents and brokers the service of legal process upon foreign insurance companies associations or exchanges providing penalties and repealing existing laws" extending the provisions requiring the licensing of agents to include domestic mutual fire insurance companies and prescribing penalties.

With the information that the Senate had passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The clerk will read the amendments.

The clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 4, by striking out after the word "Licenses" the letter "(A)" and inserting in lieu thereof the letter "(A)"; page 5, by striking out after line 5, the following:

(b) Nothing in subsection (a) of this section shall be construed as requiring agents of domestic mutual fire insurance companies which agents write only coverage other than insurance upon automobile authorized by clauses (1) (2) and (3) of subsection (b) of section 202 of the act of May 17, 1921 (P. L. 682), known as "the insurance company law of 1921" to submit to examination prior to licensure by the insurance commissioner and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(b) Nothing in subsection (a) of this section shall be construed as requiring agents of domestic mutual fire insurance companies which agents write only coverages other than insurance upon automobiles authorized by clauses (1) (2) and (3) of subsection (b) of section 202 of the act of May 17, 1921 (P. L. 682), known as "the insurance company law of 1921" to submit to examination prior to licensure by the insurance commissioner.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 50

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 50.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 4, 1961.

Whereas the Independence Hall Mall is now nearly a completed project of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and

Whereas the Federal Mall East of Independence Hall is also nearing completion and

Whereas the Redevelopment Authority Law which has helped give new life to so many important sections of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is a direct outgrowth of the Independence Hall Mall idea and

Whereas historic Society Hill and the Independence Neighborhood of old Philadelphia are being rebuilt modernized and redeveloped but will maintain a substantial portion of buildings of the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries so that such area will have the largest concentration of continuously occupied structures of early American architecture in the United States of America and

Whereas the millions of dollars expended in the Redevelopment program in and around old Philadelphia are bringing into being many many more millions of dollars of new structures and millions of dollars in revenue to the governments involved and

Whereas The honorable Edwin O Lewis former judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County devoted many years to the stimulation and implementation of these projects and provided the inspiration and leadership so necessary to its success and

Whereas this activity was stimulated and encouraged by petitions of the residents of Philadelphia's Fifth Ward prepared by a former member of the House of Representatives the Honorable Isidor Ostroff and circulated by his committee made up of Harry Faden Jacob Tracer Eugene Kane Louis Ordile Lena Singer Harry Gralnick Barney Brooke Harry Katz Sabina Singer Harry Schmulker Dorothy Schaeffer I L Stern Albert Gerofsky Henry LeBlond and many others and

Whereas such petitions were forwarded to Congressman Leon Sacks who first introduced in the Congress of the United States a bill prepared by the Honorable Isidor Ostroff for the creation of the Independence Hall Mall which bill was introduced in subsequent Congresses by the successors of Congressmen Sacks Gallagher Bradley Hardie Scott and Byrne and

Whereas the said Isidor Ostroff cooperated with Honorable Edwin O Lewis and the Independence Hall Association in many appearances before this and the National Legislature and worked anonymously with Judge Lewis to bring about the realization of this patriotic transformation of Old Philadelphia during which he had the "soubriquet" of "chief errand boy" and liaison and

Whereas it is fitting and proper that the Legislature of Pennsylvania should record for posterity the unsung selfless devotion with which these persons worked with any and all to make possible the proper enshrinement of our nation's most cherished historical structures and the best setting for America's most historic mile square therefore be it.

Resolved That the Legislature of Pennsylvania extends its congratulations and felicitations to the Honorable Edwin O Lewis the Honorable Isidor Ostroff Congressmen Sacks Gallagher Bradley Hardie Scott and Byrne as well as the residents of the fifth ward of Philadelphia referred to above on the transformation of the area in the vicinity of Independence Hall into a site of beauty and a fitting setting for the enshrinement of our nation's most hallowed historic structures and the preservation of so many authentic early American structures and our gratification that their dedicated persistency in the face of ridicule and skepticism made possible the realization of their "dream" for a better Philadelphia and be it further

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Honorable Edwin O Lewis the Honorable Isidor Ostroff Congressmen Sacks Gallagher Bradley Hardie Scott and

Byrne as well as each of the residents of the Fifth Ward of Philadelphia referred to above or their families

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution as amended?

It was adopted.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 83

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 83.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 12, 1961.

Whereas The proper and expeditious performance of the functions of the General Assembly requires continual review and reappraisal if legislative procedures are to be as efficient as is humanly practicable within the limits imposed by the constitution and contribute in the greatest degree to the public knowledge and understanding of the democratic process and

Whereas Archaic and cumbersome procedures tend to divert attention from the rapidly-growing and ever-changing complexities of contemporary legislative activities and create a false image of government therefore be it

Resolved That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to undertake a thorough investigation of legislative procedures and operations and ascertain what methods are available that could reasonably be expected to expedite the conduct of legislative business and be it further

Resolved That the Joint State Government Commission include in its investigation a study of practices in other states where legislative procedures have been modified in recent years or where legislative procedures are in operation which if adopted in Pennsylvania would facilitate the more efficient performance of legislative functions and be it further

Resolved That in order to assure public participation and full discussion of the issues involved the Joint State Government Commission make available its findings as developed and report its findings and recommendations to the 1963 Session of the General Assembly

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 86

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 86.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, June 22, 1961.

The Joint State Government Commission is hereby directed to make a study of the Milk Control Law namely the act of April 28 1937 (P L 417) as amended to determine the present need for such legislation and the advantages and disadvantages and its effect on the economy of our Commonwealth.

The Joint State Government Commission shall file its report with the House of Representatives by January 15 1962

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION
SERIAL NO. 108

The clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 13, 1961.

Whereas, On January 8, 1961 a prison break was attempted by some of the inmates at the penal institution known as The Eastern State Correctional Institution located in the City of Philadelphia. This outbreak was quelled. This prison is one hundred and thirty years old. It houses 991 prisoners of which 177 are maximum security cases, consisting of those who are serving life sentences, awaiting execution and others who require the utmost in security measures.

The facilities of this penal institution are outmoded and woefully lacking in the equipment and necessary facilities in taking care of inmates of this type. It also has become apparent to many that an institution of this kind should not be located in the heart of a residential section as it now is in the City of Philadelphia. There has been widespread fear of the residents who reside around the area where this institution is located.

It is the sense of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that a study should be made by the Joint State Government Commission of the facilities and security measures surrounding this institution, as well as the Western State Correctional Institution, also a study of removal of all institutions from the Cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to a place better located for institutions of this kind; therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission determine and recommend suitable sites to which the Western and Eastern State Correctional institutions may be moved; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission determine and recommend the type of institution that should be built in order to accommodate the inmates of Western and Eastern State Correctional Institutions; and be it further

Resolved, That in developing the study herein provided for, the Joint State Government Commission give particular attention to the possible location of either or both of said Eastern and Western Correctional Institutions in a county in northern Pennsylvania wherein are located large tracts of unoccupied lands already owned by the Commonwealth; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission make a report of its studies and recommendations to the General Assembly by April 15, 1961.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, that the clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION SERIAL NO. 119

The clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, May 24, 1961.

Whereas among Pennsylvania's institutions of higher learning, Drexel Institute of Technology is found in the very vanguard of Pennsylvania's cultural and technological progress, and

Whereas in the fall of the year Nineteen Hundred and Sixty One, Drexel Institute of Technology will celebrate the Seventieth Anniversary of its founding; and

Whereas this great Seat of Learning, located in the heart of Philadelphia, has served with exemplary and intensity of dedication the interests of Pennsylvania from which over three-fourths of its students hail and where an equal percentage of its graduates make their homes and careers following graduation; and

Whereas with an exemplary efficiency of operation from early morning until late at night throughout the year, the Drexel Institute of Technology has been able to provide programs of higher education in science, technology, industrial management, home economics, and library science for over 125,000 men and women during its seven decades of operation; and

Whereas through its program of cooperative education the Drexel Institute of Technology has now conducted for forty years many programs serving as a means whereby young people of ability can complete a college program as well as enhance the meaning of that education by applying same through internships in the professions and in industry; and

Whereas through its evening undergraduate and graduate programs, the Drexel Institute of Technology has made it possible for thousands of men and women, employed by day, to grow in understanding and in professional competence, thereby achieving their baccalaureate and master's degrees, while still remaining fully productive in the working force; and

Whereas through its Graduate School of Library Science, the oldest in Pennsylvania and one of the three oldest in the United States, it has been—and with an expanding program will increasingly be—one of the major sources of professional librarians now so urgently needed in Pennsylvania; and

Whereas under the inspiring leadership of its great President Dr. James Creese and almost exclusively through efforts to obtain support from private sources, the Drexel Institute of Technology has, within the last fifteen years, doubled its capacity for educational service so that, annually, it accommodates now some 9000 students and graduates nearly 1000 young men and women; and

Whereas, the President, the officers and the trustees of the Drexel Institute of Technology, fully cognizant of the educational needs of Pennsylvania generally, and of our National progress in Technology in particular, are initiating a program of construction that will increase the capacity of the Institute to serve nearly 14,000 students by the end of another decade; and

Whereas the Drexel Institute of Technology has persistently endeavored to create, in Philadelphia, a center of higher scientific and technological education and research conducive to the advancement of the commercial and industrial potentialities and interests of the Delaware Valley and the Commonwealth; and

Whereas the corporate example of good citizenship of the Drexel Institute of Technology is equally matched by the examples of responsible citizenship given by members of its staff and their public services on behalf of the City of Philadelphia, the Commonwealth, and the Federal Government, and notably in the case of President Creese who has assumed numerous responsibilities, including that of the chairmanship of the Governor's Committee on Unemployment Compensation; and

Whereas at the time of the celebration of the seventieth anniversary of the founding of the Drexel Institute of Technology, in the fall of 1961, the General Assembly of Pennsylvania will not be in session; and

Whereas the House of Representatives and the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania are desirous to join the people of Pennsylvania generally and the citizens of Philadelphia in particular, in paying tribute to the Drexel Institute of Technology at the time of the festivities, in the fall of 1961.

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the House of Representatives and the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, extend to the President, trustees and officers of the Drexel Institute of Technology, on behalf of the people of Pennsylvania, their profound appreciation of the services rendered by the Institute to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the past and the services being rendered there at the present time,

And Be It Further Resolved that the President Pro Tempore of the Senate of Pennsylvania appoint three Senators and the Speaker of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania appoint three State Representatives, in order that they may convey to the Drexel Institute of Technology at the time of the observance of the seventieth anniversary of the founding of the Institute, this Resolution of appreciation and greetings,

And Be It Further Resolved that upon the passage of this Resolution, the Secretary of the Senate forward an official copy of the Resolution to Dr. James Creese, President of the Drexel Institute of Technology.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate? It was concurred in.

Ordered, that the clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

INTERROGATION

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like the privilege of interrogating the majority leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the majority leader, in line with his declaration earlier this week, did you put in a reapportionment bill, and, if so, what is the bill number?

Mr. McCANN. I did not put in a congressional reapportionment bill. The reapportionment bill is in the hands of Mr. Hershey, director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, being prepared.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the bill is in the preparation stage, is that right?

Mr. McCANN. That is right.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then the Democratic side has agreed on a plan that it is willing to submit?

Mr. McCANN. We will introduce the bill in the House of Representatives.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. When will you introduce the bill?

Mr. McCANN. Well, I assume I will introduce the bill even during the period that we will not be in session, so that it will be printed and placed in the House for distribution so all of you who desire can have it.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. If the bill is left with the chief clerk, it will be available so that we can obtain a copy of it during the interim, is that correct?

Mr. McCANN. Absolutely.

The SPEAKER. It will be printed and at the disposal of the members.

Mr. McCANN. Printed and distributed, yes.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in view of what I said the other day, if Mr. McCann and the leaders have proceeded that far, I will have nothing more to say and we will await the arrival of the bill.

I realize we are getting along rather well on education and if we could just agree on a reapportionment bill, we could wrap this session up quite rapidly. Is that your objective?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there would be no question that when we pass the education program and the necessary revenue-raising measure and the congressional reapportionment, we certainly would be nearing the goal for the completion of the 1961 session of the General Assembly.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield to Mr. Lippincott. I believe he would like to ask a question also.

INTERROGATION

Mr. LIPPINCOTT asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the majority leader.

Mr. Speaker, since the bill is now prepared or being prepared and I assume the gentleman knows what is in it, would he state whether or not the congressional reapportionment bill uses parts of Delaware, Montgomery and Bucks Counties in retaining Philadelphia congressional seats?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I was sure he was going to ask me that question and I am sure he knows the answer. The bill will be introduced and the answer is, it does use sections, and you will wait until you receive the bill.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I thank the gentleman.

BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS PASSED OVER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request that all other bills and resolutions on today's calendar not acted upon be passed over.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. OGILVIE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, August 7, 1961, at 2 p.m., e.s.t.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 1:41 p.m., e.s.t.) the House adjourned.

SENATE

MONDAY, JULY 31, 1961.

The Senate met at 2:00 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. CARL M. FULTON, Pastor of Middletown Second Baptist Church, Middletown, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and most merciful God, our dear heavenly Father, we approach Thy holy throne this day, praying Thy holy blessing upon this governing Body, the Senate of Pennsylvania. We pray that Thou wilt grant them knowledge from on high to perform the great work which Thou hast so graciously appointed them to do for our great State. We also pray, Holy Gather, that Thou wilt bless their families, thier homes and the various communities from whence they come. Also, bless everyone within the sound of my voice today.

We pray, Holy Father, that Thou wilt continue to bless our great State and Nation with peace and prosperity. We are grateful for our freedom and sensitive to the needs of our Commonwealth and Nation. We pray, Holy Father, that Thou wilt continue to make us the greatest Nation on earth, and help us to hold fast to that which we have through the presence of Thy holiness.

We thank Thee for Thy goodness and mercy toward us. We also pray that Thou wilt bring our lives into conformity to do Thy holy and everlasting will. Grant us to remember Thee at all times, and that Thou art the Creator of all things visible and invisible.

We pray Thy holy blessing to be with our Governor and the Lieutenant Governor of our Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We ask these blessings in the name of our Strength and our Redeemer. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. SILVERT, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. WARE, from the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish, reported, as committed, SB 866.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request a five minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Committee on Local Government, to be held in Room 301.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a five minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. MAHADY, WAGNER, McMENAMIN and KELLER presented to the Chair SB 885, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 5, 1933 (P. L. 457), entitled "Building and Loan Code," further defining and limiting the rights, powers, duties and liabilities of such associations and shareholders and further defining terms.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

Messrs. SEYLER and STEVENSON presented to the Chair SB 886, entitled:

An Act amending the act of July 15, 1957 (P. L. 901), entitled "Optional Third Class City Charter Law," further providing for the removal from office of city officers or employees.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Mr. STIEFEL presented to the Chair SB 887, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), entitled "The Vehicle Code," providing for the restoration or issuance of licenses, registrations and operating privileges of nonresidents when judgment creditors cannot be found.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WADE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, the bill I am about to introduce, on behalf of Senator Kessler, Senator Probert, Senator Stevenson and myself, would amend the State Highway and Bridge Authority Act. Later today, when we reach the Second Reading Calendar, you will find an amendment to the General State Authority Act in the form of House Bill No. 1335. We will have amendments to present to that bill, taking out of the General State Authority the matter of constructing driver examination points throughout the Commonwealth.

This bill, Mr. President, amends the State Highway and Bridge Authority Act by having the Authority build these driver examination points for the reason that all rent as payable for Highway and Bridge Authority Bonds are payable out of the Motor License Fund.

Therefore, Mr. President, that is my reason for presenting this bill at this time.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. WADE, KESSLER, PROBERT and STEVENSON presented to the Chair SB 888, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 18, 1949 (P. L. 604), entitled "State Highway and Bridge Authority Act," increasing the powers of the Authority to include the construction of driver examination points and specifying that certain unallocated funds shall be used for that purpose.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, we are rapidly approaching the time when the entire United States, generally, and Pennsylvania in particular, will celebrate the Centennial of the Battle of Gettysburg.

Unfortunately, Pennsylvania is not keeping pace with other States. Even States which formed part of the Confederacy have elaborate groups preparing for the Centennial. In order to stimulate interest and tourism,—and there is no doubt that Gettysburg is going to be the mecca of American tourism in 1963—I am presenting this resolution, asking the Postmaster General of the United States to issue a series of stamps, beginning now, in order to attract the attention of the people of the United States to this great event.

Therefore, on behalf of Senator Chapman and myself, I am offering this resolution and request its immediate adoption.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE ISSUANCE OF SPECIAL COMMEMORATIVE POSTAGE STAMPS ON THE 100TH ANNIVERSARIES OF THE ALTOONA CONFERENCE, THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG, THE GETTYSBURG ADDRESS AND THE BURNING OF CHAMBERSBURG

Messrs. STIEFEL and CHAPMAN offered the following resolution (Serial No. 89), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, July 31, 1961.

Whereas, The leading part taken by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania among the northern States of the United States in efforts to maintain and defend the Union against secession and disruption during the Civil War will induce many Pennsylvanians as well as citizens of other States to visit the historic places of Pennsylvania associated with that great conflict during the present centennial period; and

Whereas, This same interest will lead them to seek significant mementoes reminiscent of these historic places and of the great events which occurred there, and especially commemorative postage stamps, which are among the most valued and treasured mementoes of historic events; and

Whereas, The Altoona Conference, on September 24-26, 1862, was called by Governor Andrew G. Curtin of Pennsylvania to bring together the Governors of the loyal northern States in a firm expression of support for the Union cause; and

Whereas, The Confederate invasion of 1863, which threatened Pennsylvania's rich farm areas and even her great industrial cities, might have brought defeat to the Union, but was halted at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, in the decisive battle of the war on July 1-3, 1863; and

Whereas, President Lincoln in his brief address at the dedication of the National Cemetery at the battlefield of Gettysburg on November 19, 1863 gave classic and lasting expression to the principles of American democracy which men fought for in that battle and in that war; and

Whereas, The people of the borough of Chambersburg in Franklin County showed the extent to which Pennsylvanians were prepared to go in support of the Union when they refused to pay a ransom of $100,000 to a Confederate army, and as a consequence saw their homes and places of business burned on July 30, 1864, at a total loss of more than $1,600,000; and

Whereas, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 1910 erected the largest monument on the battlefield at Gettysburg to commemorate the services of the soldiers from Pennsylvania in that great battle; and

Whereas, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, on July 1 to 4, 1913, was host to a Great Reunion of Union and Confederate veterans when the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans met together in a hearty reunion of former foes which symbolized a united nation; and

"Whereas, These significant events and places in Pennsylvania associated with the great conflict to preserve the Union are all exceedingly worthy of commemoration by the issuance of special commemorative postage stamps; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorializes the Senators and Representatives from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States to introduce legislation or make representations to the Postmaster General of the United States for the issuance of special commemorative postage stamps on the hundredth anniversaries of the Altoona Conference, the Battle of Gettysburg, the Gettysburg Address, and the Burning of Chambersburg, and for a special commemorative postage stamp showing the Pennsylvania Memorial at Gettysburg on the fiftieth anniversary of the final day of the Great Reunion when Union and Confederate veterans agreed that friendship and good will had been completely restored between them.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DEVLIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, the American Flag should be made in America, in place of the Japanese-made American Flags which are now selling for a dime a dozen in our variety stores. I am not urging a "Buy America Campaign." I know if we are to export our goods, we must buy products from foreign countries. However, I put the Flag in a special category which should not be foreign-made. It is one product which we should pre-empt exclusively for ourselves. It is the symbol of America; namely, what it is and what it stands for. That is why I would like to see the Flag American-made, in a union shop, where the high standards of living prevail.

I am particularly disturbed because these Flags are made in Japan which, at best, is a lukewarm ally in the cold war. Just some months ago, serious anti-American riots prevented a visit of a former President of the United States to Japan. It is too early to forget the results and horrors which we underwent during the last war.

Mr. President, I would suggest a two-pronged attack: First, that we urge all State and local agencies, veterans' groups and patriotic societies to purchase only American-made Flags. Secondly, that we urge our Department of Commerce to encourage Pennsylvania plants to engage in a more extensive production of American Flags and, further, to use the funds and facilities of the Industrial Development Authority to aid this program. We would be profaning the memory of Betsy Ross, of Pennsylvania, if we failed to do this. We should be the leader in the move to keep the American Flag completely American.

Mr. President, I show you a package of party favor flags, which were made in Japan, that are available in our dime stores.

Therefore, on behalf of all of the Senators from Allegheny County, I wish to introduce this resolution and request its immediate consideration and adoption.

SENATE RESOLUTION

DIRECTING THE SECRETARY OF COMMERCE TO USE THE FACILITIES OF THE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY AND OF OTHER AGENCIES OF THE COMMONWEALTH TO ENCOURAGE THE MANUFACTURE OF AMERICAN FLAGS BY PENNSYLVANIA PLANTS

Messrs. DEVLIN, SARRAF, STAISEY, RIPP, MCGINNIS and FLEMING offered the following resolution (Serial No. 90), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, July 31, 1961.

Pennsylvania, the home of Betsy Ross, is being flooded with American flags made in Japan.

Japan, a lukewarm ally in the cold war, recently staged anti-American riots which prevented a visit by a former President.

Cruelties inflicted on American Servicemen linger in our memories and we cannot permit Japan to profit from the sacred privilege of producing the symbol of our liberties; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania direct the Secretary of the Department of Commerce to use the facilities of the Industrial Development Authority and of other agencies of the Commonwealth to encourage the manufacture of American flags by Pennsylvania plants; and be it further

Resolved, That public agencies, veterans' organizations and civic groups be urged to assist the program to buy only American flags made in America.

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS

SB 312 (Pr. No. 1067)—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do nonconcur in the amendments made by the House to Senate Bill No. 312, and that a Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate be appointed.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

Ordered, that the clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

Ordered, that the clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

right given to the Fish Commission or the Game Commission to appoint agents for the sale of their licenses.

It is a matter of convenience only, Mr. President. It is not too important, but it would do something in areas where it is difficult for people to get to the courthouses to get their dog licenses. There is nothing particularly earth-shaking about it either way. It seems to me a matter of convenience to the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, in reference to this bill, I might say that it has been common practice throughout the Commonwealth to have the various County Treasurers in the Commonwealth sell dog license tags. In most cases, they receive a commission I believe of ten cents for every tag that is sold. That is considered part of the emolument of the County Treasurers and, should this legislation pass, there is no question but that there would be a decrease in their emolument.

The County Treasurer's office is set up primarily, I would say in the smaller counties, in most cases, as a fee office whereby, although they have a guaranteed salary, they must, of course, make their salary in the form of fees. In this particular case, the ten cent fee is paid direct to the Treasurer for every license that he sells. In most cases, he uses this money in order to hire a clerk to assist him in his operations.

I might say, Mr. President, there is one major defect in the selling of dog licenses, which I think I should bring to the attention of the Members of the Senate. At this particular time, I believe the Department of Agriculture does not submit the licenses to the various counties until around December the 1st. So within a period of forty-five days, the County Treasurer is quite busy selling dog licenses because the deadline, I believe, is January 15th. The Treasurer generally uses this ten cent commission to pay for extra help in order to do the job.

I think we would be doing wrong by passing this legislation, and I am going to vote "no."

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not know what the census would show, but there are probably a comparable number of fishermen and hunters to licensed dogs in Pennsylvania, and I have not heard anybody complain too bitterly about a lack of revenue to the Treasurer because they farm out the hunting and fishing licenses to agents throughout the various counties of the Commonwealth.

Again, Mr. President, it is not a matter of too great moment. However, it is a matter simply of convenience to the people.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, as one of the sponsors of this earth-shaking legislation, I would like to briefly speak on it.

The only purpose that Senator Wade, Senator Hawbaker and I had in presenting this bill was for the convenience of the owners of dogs so that it would not necessitate a visit to the county seat in order to get the license.

Certainly, I think I can speak for Senator Wade and Senator Hawbaker. We do not care if the bill is defeated. If the Department of Revenue feels this would add an additional cost and burden to them, defeat it.

However, I cannot let Senator Lane's statement go unchallenged that this would in any way interfere with the revenue of a County Treasurer. I did a little quick arithmetic. In a county that would issue 10,000 dog licenses, the County Treasurer would realize the magnificent sum of $1,000. Certainly, that could not interfere too much with the operation of any County Treasurer's office. I think this is not a very good reason for being against the bill.

This is one of the few times, gentlemen, when the sponsors of a bill will say to you: "Think nothing more of it. Vote against it."

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I think we should put the problem of the County Treasurers and the Department of Revenue a little bit in the background and consider the problem of the citizens. In my county, around the first part of February of every year, we have a visit from the State dog agents. They go up and down the streets, chasing dogs. Immediately, there is a long line of citizens converging on the courthouse. The lines are very long and the citizens are very irritated.

There is recently-passed legislation which closes the courthouses on Saturday. So, we have a man who has a dog and he has to take a day off from work to get a dog license because the courthouse is not open on Saturday. I would suggest that we vote for this bill, not for the County Treasurers, not for the Department of Revenue, but for the people who own dogs who have to travel across the county and stand in line to get a dog license.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I want to speak briefly on the convenience question which has been raised as far as this bill is concerned.

In the two counties which I have the honor to represent,—both Clearfield County and Centre County—before this State department man starts coming around, our County Treasurers go into every village and town in the two counties and sit late in the afternoon and evening so that all of the owners of dogs can go, at their convenience, and purchase their dog licenses for the coming year. I do not know whether this practice is prevalent in all of the sixty-seven counties of the State, but I suggest that you recommend this to the Republican County Treasurers in the various counties of the State, because these are two Democratic County Treasurers who offer this service to their constituents.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I will certainly heed the advice of Senator Hays. If Senator Devlin or Senator Staisey will go with me to the County Treasurer, Mr. Carpenter, I will suggest that he sit a couple of evenings a week in all of the municipalities in Allegheny County.

BILL ON THIRD READING, DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1172 (Pr. No. 2536)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, again I must excoriate one of the officials in the Department of Welfare. However, this is not the main issue.

The question is whether or not we were wise in combining certain parts of different departments and forming a big, sprawling empire. The question now is, on what should be the accent? Should it be on mere custodial care or on geriatrics? If it is on geriatrics,—to improve the health and lot of elderly people—then this bureau should be in the Department of Health. If it is to be mere custody, where people will be vegetating and awaiting the day of their death, then it should be in the Department of Public Welfare.

What is the reasoning behind putting all of the nursing homes in the Department of Public Welfare? Is it because the elderly people are receiving grants from the the Department of Public Welfare? There has been no effort to improve their lot or no stress and underscoring of geriatrics. This is the main issue. All of these nursing homes should be under the capable, experienced hands of Doctor Wilbar. This is where they belong.

Last summer, a panic was created in the city of Philadelphia. A certain administrator of the nursing homes decided that the best system of fire prevention was fire sprinklers and not a fire detection system. Despite the fact that the Fire Commissioner of Philadelphia, as well as the Secretary of Labor and Industry, maintained that a fire sprinkler system is not sufficient and not adequate, Mr. Elias Cohen decreed that the people must install, at the expense of thousands and thousands of dollars, a fire sprinkling system. For those who did not comply, he simply cut out the grant of old age pensions and assistance to the inmates of those nursing homes.

I feel House Bill No. 1172 is adding more power to a man who lacks circumspection, a man who is not flexible, and a man who is asserting himself to the detriment of the many citizens who maintain these nursing homes.

If there was ever anything un-American, oppressing and detestable, it is the methods of this man who has been vested with tremendous power. House Bill No. 1172 gives him more power to crush and annihilate. For this reason, Mr. President, I am going to vote against this bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, to get on the lighter side for a moment, I would like to announce that in the Professional Golf Association Tournament, Don January was just defeated by Jerry Barber, by one stroke. Don January had a 68 and Jerry Barber had a 67.

The All-Star Game has been called off at the end of nine innings because of rain.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you, Senator Rooney. That information is helpful.

INTERROGATION

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton, Senator Rooney.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Rooney, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, in anticipation of the question, the score, at the time the game was called off, was 1-1.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I merely wish to ask the gentleman, if I may, why he told me the score was 1-1 in the tenth inning.

Mr. ROONEY. The game was going into the top of the tenth inning when they called it off.

Mr. BERGER. I thank the gentleman.

HB 1450 CALLED UP

HB 1450 (Pr. No. 2376)—Without objection, the bill, which previously went over in its order, was called up, from page 2 of the Final Passage Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE DEFEATED

HB 1450 (Pr. No. 2376)—On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I merely wish to state that this bill would allow the sale of alcoholic beverages, such as beer, at exhibitions which are held in Convention Hall. It would help the city earn some more money. It would also provide a certain revenue to the Commonwealth. It would not be on a regular basis since it would only exist when these exhibitions are held in Convention Hall.

Therefore, Mr. President, I would like all of my colleagues to vote "aye" on this measure.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I cannot tell how much money the city might anticipate making out of this particular type of license. However, I do observe that it must create a new category of liquor licenses, known as municipal liquor licenses. I do not know of any of our municipalities—first, second and third class cities, townships, boroughs or anybody else—which have municipal liquor licenses. I hope the gentleman has included in the bill this new category of licenses for which he is pressing.

BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDED

HB 1617 (Pr. No. 2386)—Read at length the third time, On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WEINER, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Title, page 1, next to last line of Title, by striking out "and".

Amend Title, page 1, last line of Title, by inserting after "vehicles": and providing that persons receiving such plates or markers shall not be relieved from certain taxes

Amend Bill, page 3, by inserting after line 17:

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall not be construed to relieve the person receiving the temporary registration plate or marker certificate of any tax imposed under the provisions of the act of March 6 1956 (P L 1228) known as the "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act"

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, if I understood this bill, it was to relieve the person who bought an automobile under such circumstances from having to get license plates. Is that correct?

Mr. WEINER. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, would these amendments, in any way, change that provision?

Mr. WEINER. No, they would not. These amendments will merely guarantee that the sales tax is paid if, in fact, it is due in this Commonwealth. If, in fact, it is not due in Pennsylvania, it will be paid wherever the tax might fall, depending upon where the person lives.

Mr. BERGER. I thank the gentleman, Mr. President.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

Without objection, the bill, as amended, was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

Mr. STAISEY. Mr. President, I tried to get to the microphone before the Chair gave the vote on House Bill No. 1140, Printer's No. 2200. I would like to be recorded as voting "no" on this bill.

The PRESIDENT. The vote has been announced, Senator Staisey. It would not, however, make any difference. If it means anything to you, I think we can make you duly recorded as voting "no."

Mr. STAISEY. Mr. President, may the record show that my sentiments are "no"?

The PRESIDENT. Senator Staisey, if you really feel that strongly about it, we will record you as having voted "no."

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I am sure you were not observing me, but I was talking on the telephone during the calling of the roll on House Bill No. 1140. Therefore, if you will be as nice to me as you were to Senator Staisey, I would very much appreciate it if you would also record me as voting "no."

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the gentleman will be so recorded. However, this is becoming a little tough on my Calendar.

SB 23 CALLED UP

SB 23 (Pr. No. 154)—Without objection, the bill, which previously went over in its order, was called up, from page 3 of the Third Reading Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON THIRD READING, DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

SB 23 (Pr. No. 154)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, this bill merely provides for the calling of a Constitutional Convention in Pennsylvania. We have not had a new Constitution in this Commonwealth, nor even anyone to deal with the problem, since 1874.

This is a measure which would call for the appointing of a Constitutional Convention, and the democratic form of the operation of that Convention would then deal with the problems.

As you realize, Mr. President, at this Session and during previous Sessions, we have had myriad bills which have come in that have dealt with constitutional amendments. Each of these amendments takes two Sessions of the General Assembly. They must be in the exact form, exact wording, and exactly the way they passed the previous Session. If even one word is changed or misspelled, there is some question whether this is the exact bill, and it must finally be approved by the electorate after it passes two Sessions. Before we had Annual Sessions, we always had the problem of it running five years before we could make any change in the Constitution. With Annual Sessions, it now takes three years. We feel this is a way to deal with the problems which are presently before us. We have many problems that do not belong in the Constitution; such as the corporation setup, the setting up of profit and nonprofit corporations, all of which are covered in separate codes and legislation which we have set up.

We are, therefore, asking that our colleagues support Senate Bill No. 23 and that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have a Constitutional Convention, as set out in this bill. We feel that by doing so, we will not only modernize our Constitution, but we will bring it up-to-date in dealing with the problems which we, as a modern State, face at this time.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, so as not to be accused of plagiarism, instead of delivering a speech of my own, I am going to read a statement which was prepared by a great Pennsylvanian and a great legal authority, who is none other than the Dean of the School of Law of the University of Pennsylvania, Jefferson B. Fordham.

In a few words, he summarized the need for a new Constitution in Pennsylvania. However, may I say that at the time, in 1874, when the third Constitution of Pennsylvania was promulgated, the people were beset by many problems of corruption in government; such as, you will recall, the Tweed era in New York. That was reflected here in Pennsylvania. Our Constitution is full of statutory provisions to provide against the possibility of corruption. Furthermore, at that time, it was a most violent era when the hinterland of Pennsylvania was opposed to Allegheny and Philadelphia Counties. Therefore, everything was done to militate against Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties.

Many measures, which today would be obviated, stem from the fact that our Constitution is inadequate. For this reason, Mr. President, a new Constitution, which would reflect the needs of the people of Pennsylvania, would be in order. There are many people who are opposed to a new Constitution because it may provide for a graduated income tax. However, this is only a farfetched possibility. The fact is that today, we have many places in our State Government which would be in much better condition if and when we would have a new Constitution in Pennsylvania.

Doctor Jefferson B. Fordham had the following to say:

"The present Constitution has been a dated instrument from the very time it took effect; it is fraught with ephemeral material.

"The process of piecemeal amendment over the years, instead of serving the function of revision, has aggravated the problem of updating the Constitution as a basic organic instrument. By and large, the amendments which have been adopted have been directed to particular aspects of basic policy or governmental organization and many of them have been detailed and contemporary-minded. The effect has been to render all the more needful a thorough and thoughtful re-examination of the whole ground, with a view to making the Constitution a basic flexible charter of government within the framework of which the Commonwealth can move to discharge its just responsibilities in the total governmental scheme of things. To put the matter a little differently, we find no basis in experience for supposing that general revision can be accomplished piecemeal."

Mr. President, even in our own practices here in the legislative halls of Pennsylvania, one person, by getting up and objecting to certain edicts, may stymie all the processes of legislation. The time is at hand when we have to prepare and promulgate a thorough, updated—and in line with the present needs of Pennsylvania—new Constitution.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I rise to oppose this bill for several reasons.

One reason is that an amendment was submitted to this bill, after it was initially introduced, which would give to the President pro tempore of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, each, five personal appointees to this convention. No place in this bill does it say that they shall come from both political parties. I am not naive in politics. I will say that this would give to the Party which controls the House and the Senate ten committed delegates. They would be committed because they will be from the same political party which controls the two houses.

Next,—and this is very important—the convention is supposed to submit to the people a proposed new Constitution. It is to be voted upon, as I recall, on the third Tuesday of February, 1963. All of us in this Chamber are a little bit politically experienced. We know very well how hard it is to turn the electorate out, even for a General Election. You are going to have a Special Election on this in the third week of February. Speaking from a practical point of view, this means that those who turn out to vote will perhaps be thirty or thirty-five per cent of the voters, at the most. I do not think that is right.

Finally, if we call a Constitutional Convention at this time, you will see flocking to Harrisburg, or wherever the convention is held, all of the legislative engineers and representatives of the special interest groups. They readily can get together and confederate and push through things in this new Constitution which would be harmful to the people of Pennsylvania. Who is going to be up there fighting for the people of Pennsylvania? Who is going to represent them as their legislative engineers? I say that with this type of a Constitutional Convention, they will be opening Pandora's box.

Mr. President, I do not concur with the learned Dean of the Pennsylvania Law School. I heard him speak at one of the public meetings, when he took the attitude that anything that is old is no good except the Constitution of Alaska, which is a wonderful one. I do not believe in that type of thinking. There are many basic laws which govern our living which are very old. I could wave the Bible and refer to the Ten Commandments. I could refer to many of the other basic laws which are old, and they are good.

I vigorously oppose this concept of calling a Constitutional Convention which will have ten committed votes, and a Constitutional Convention that will submit a proposed Constitution at a Special Election, to be held in the month of February.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, my learned colleague, Senator Bell, stressed two things in his argument for voting "no," and both of them come down to the point of a fear of the people or rather a nontrusting of what the people are likely to do. I, for one, have a lot of faith in the people. I think sometimes they are smarter than the people they send down here to represent them, and that includes myself.

Speaking practically, as a practical political matter, people go to the polls usually to vote "no" or against something rather than for something. Running a Special Election gives an advantage to those people who oppose.

Let us return to the fact that we held extensive hearings. We sat in Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Philadelphia. Only one person spoke against a Constitutional Convention. We had the Deans of all of the Law Schools in attendance. We had an outstanding Republican and Constitutional lawyer, who is recognized as such, appear before the Committee. His name is John Buchanan. He came to Pittsburgh and he described this not as a Constitution, but as a great piece of legislation. It has more "don'ts" in it than it has "do's." It is a Constitution of "don'ts." That was agreed to in all of the testimony. In all of the testimony, one thing was pointed out, and that is the opponents of this measure all agreed that a new Constitution was necessary but they feared an income tax.

We are going to elect by Congressional Districts two members to this Convention, and those people will be chosen by the people. Those people can keep the same clause they now have in the Constitution which prohibits an income tax, if they so desire and that is the will of the majority. The question of what this Constitutional Convention will do is being predetermined by those who would like to have it killed.

The last time a new Constitution was put to a vote of the people,—and many of the people who testified referred to this—during the last week, vested interests spent thousands of dollars in newspaper ads alone to kill, by misrepresentation, the Constitution that had been worked out.

The question comes down to this: It has been labeled a Constitution of "don'ts" and a piece of legislation rather than a Constitution. The authorities all agree to this. Everyone agrees that we need a change.

Now we are permitting the fear of an income tax, which may or may not be the outcome of the work of these people, to influence our consideration of this matter. Why not vote on the fear of an income tax at the time we adopt the Constitution? However, let us not prohibit the study and development of a new Constitution.

Suppose, suppose—we can suppose anything. It is a question of what will happen. If the people think of what is liable to happen at the time they select their delegates, they will give to this State a new and an up-to-date Constitution; a Constitution under which we can work.

I submit to you, Mr. President, that we are not working under the Constitution of Pennsylvania today. We are using Authorities; Authorities which are increasing our taxes because the people who are spending our money are not responsible to the people, and they cannot be removed from office by an election if the people do not agree with them. As a result, they are creating bond issues of up to one hundred years in length, because an Authority cannot be dissolved as long as there is a single outstanding bond existing in that Authority. For most legislation, we can say: "This Act is repealed." However, we cannot repeal an Authority Act as long as one bond is outstanding. This, in itself, without the fact that it is removed from responsibility to the people, is enough to call a Constitutional Convention.

I submit to you, Mr. President, that I can point even in this Capitol to the Office of Administration, which normally would have required a constitutional amendment. However, it was necessary, and we did it.

Mr. President, I stood on this floor when a piece of legislation was passed by this Senate in this Session when we tried to do something which the people, under the Constitution, had refused to do. We tried to give relief to the school districts. When we tried to amend the Constitution, the people said "No." However, we passed legislation here in the Senate saying: "Yes, and to all practical intents we do not care about the Constitution."

I could go on and give example after example where we are deliberately ignoring the Constitution of Pennsylvania because we say to ourselves—and honestly say to ourselves—that it is outgrown, it is outmoded, and it is inadequate.

For this reason, I ask everyone, from the fairness of their conscience, from the deepness of their heart, and for the consideration of the progress of Pennsylvania, to vote "aye" on this legislation.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, in 1957 we created in the General Assembly a Constitutional Revision Commission, which met in the year 1958 and submitted its report to the General Assembly in 1959.

I had the honor and privilege of serving on that Commission and certainly, excepting myself,—and I do want to except myself from my analysis of the membership of that Commission—I have never seen a body of men and women more capable of dealing with the problem, or any commission or committee that dealt more capably with it. We had, as heads of that Commission, two of the most outstanding authorities on the Pennsylvania Constitution and on constitutional law as I have ever met in my lifetime. They were former Chief Justice Stern and Judge Robert Woodside, of Dauphin County.

The Commission deliberated long on whether or not we would recommend a Constitutional Convention, and as late as 1958, by a majority vote of that Commission, we recommended to the General Assembly that a Constitutional Convention not be called and that revisions to the Constitution be submitted by specific amendment.

At that time, we issued a report,—a copy of which was sent to every Member of the General Assembly, and copies were made available to all interested parties—in which I believe there were twenty-one major amendments recommended, several of which were acted upon in the 1959 and 1961 Sessions of the General Assembly. Many of them were not acted upon.

However, I want to say to the Membership of this Senate that in both the House and the Senate, every major recommendation of the Commission was submitted in the form of a Constitutional amendment. For reasons best known to themselves and for reasons with which I have no quarrel, the Members of the respective committees in the House and in the Senate did not release them to the floor of the respective houses for a vote. However, that was the prerogative of the Members of the General Assembly.

I think, at this date, we can well follow the suggestions of the Commission on Constitutional Revision, and get through some of the amendments that were recommended.

The previous speaker, for whom I have a high regard, Senator Mahady, spoke about the inroads that Authorities have made on constitutional government, and with that I am in thorough accord. However, I would remind the gentleman that in both the House and the Senate, we had an amendment to the Constitution which would clearly take care of that, and, for some reason, the General Assembly, in its wisdom, did not see fit to pass the measure and have it submitted to the voters for a vote.

I would also call to the attention of the Members of the Senate that on several occasions a Constitutional Convention has not been approved in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and in my time of service here,—and I am not quite sure of the date, but I know it would have to be within the last ten or twelve years—there was submitted to the voters of Pennsylvania the question of whether or not we should call a Constitutional Convention. It was overwhelmingly defeated by the voters of Pennsylvania. I would predict the same fate for a new Constitution, if it were to be submitted again.

I would say to the Members of this Senate that the wise course for us to take would be to submit—even though it may take just a little longer—the amendments that we think are necessary to bring about a better type of government in Pennsylvania. I think we have a fine document at the present time. I think if some of the amendments were enacted, we would have to go a long way to operate under a finer Constitution in Pennsylvania.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, I cannot hope to equal the eloquence or the knowledge of my esteemed and learned colleague from Westmoreland County. However, I deem it a real privilege to have the opportunity to speak on what I consider will be one of the most important pieces of legislation which will ever come before me while I am in the Senate during my first term.

I wish in a way I would have had an opportunity to prepare more carefully. Unfortunately, we were not aware of the fact that the bill would be called before us today.

However, I do feel, without a doubt, that this legislation is imperative and absolutely necessary if we are to improve and remodify our government here in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We can discuss many aspects of the present Constitution. However, what it comes down to, basically, is whether or not this Senate is prepared to allow the people of Pennsylvania to have placed before them a new Constitution, drawn in the light of our needs today; a Constitution which will consider the fiscal policies that have to be reviewed, and a Constitution that is going to outlaw and throw out some of these outmoded amendments that date back for eighty-six years.

Gentlemen, let us talk about amendments. You know, we had a Constitution first in 1776, and our people saw fit to draw a new Constitution in 1790. Then only forty-eight years later, they drew up a new Constitution in 1838. They were not content with that because thirty-nine years later, they drew up another Constitution in 1874. Since that time, we have page after page of amendments which have been passed until this Constitution has become a patchwork.

We have many examples of this outmoded Constitution; one of the most important being our debt limit, which has forced us into this evil of Authority financing. The League of Women Voters, for example,—which is probably one of the most informed groups of our citizens and which has no ax to grind and represents no private interests—has urged from the beginning the calling of this new Constitutional Convention.

The question is whether or not we want oligarchy; whether we are afraid to take it to the people and go out and say to the people: "This is a new Constitution. Let us explain it to you in all good faith and then you vote whether you want it or not."

It is for you gentlemen on the other side of the aisle to decide whether or not we should have this new Constitution. You should weigh this matter carefully in your conscience. It is not a question of whether or not we may enact an income tax or whether we might abolish the minor judiciary. It is a question of whether or not we are prepared to face the future, with the full responsibility and trust that our people in this Commonwealth can govern themselves wisely.

If any of you believe at all that this Commonwealth can be governed by its people, then you should have no real and valid objection to the passage of this legislation. If you are sincere in the belief that the people—all of the people, each and every one—can consider this, then vote for it. If you think not, then vote against it.

As to the last speaker's statement in regard to the testimony of experts, I believe that one of the foremost experts is Chief Justice Horace Stern. My impression is that at the last hearing held on this bill, Chief Justice Stern came before that Committee and urged the enactment of a new Constitution.

I will not go into the technicalities of a new Constitution. We could stand here for hours and talk about the defects and the patchwork of this Constitution. We need a new Constitution, and we need it this year. We will need it next year and two years from now. We have got to start today to do it. I think we should take this into serious consideration and be willing to face the fact that the people can make a new Constitution. I urge you all to give it serious consideration. Let us not vote as Party people. Let us vote as public servants. As a public servant, I want a new Constitution and I hope we have a new Constitution.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, Senator Fleming mentioned that in 1957, we had appointed a commission to study the question of constitutional revision and that this commission, consisting of fifteen members, met. He failed to mention, however, that under the power of appointment, the President pro tempore of the Senate appointed five, the Speaker of the House appointed five, and the Governor named five. It so happened that in 1957, Governor Leader was a Democrat. Senator Taylor was, and still is, a Republican. The Speaker of the House was a Republican. Therefore, the line-up was ten to five on this commission.

I recall that it was just about two or three months ago when I attended a hearing in Philadelphia on this question of a Constitutional Convention. I want to say that Senator Fleming was absolutely right when he said that one of the leaders was Justice Horace Stern. Although the gentleman is past eighty years of age,—he might be close to Senator Taylor's age—his mind is just as keen today as—

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, what is wrong with that?

Mr. SILVERT. If you will just listen, Senator Taylor, I was going to say that his mind is just as keen today as is yours. Although he is a Republican, Justice Stern expressed the opinion that our Constitution has been patched, repatched and double-patched so many times that it is time we had a new Constitution. He, although a Republican, expressed himself in favor of a new Constitution.

I just want to say a few more words and then I will stop.

Both of the colleagues on my side stated that perhaps what is in back of the oppositon to a Constitutional Convention is an income tax. They did not mean that. I am sure what they had in mind is not an income tax, because we can impose an income tax today. Of course, they had in mind a graduated income tax. I want to say to the Members of this Senate that if we are going to face up to the responsibilities of this Commonwealth on the question of education, the time is coming when we must have another broad based tax. We cannot depend on the sales tax alone. An income tax, without graduation, would punish the working people too much. Unless we are in a position in Pennsylvania to be able to vote for a graduated income tax, we are going to be faced in the next few years with an insoluble problem on the question of education.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I read the History of the bills and, in this Session alone, there are forty-three House Bills providing for Constitutional amendments. Today, in the Senate, there are forty-five Senate Bills. This makes a total of eighty-eight proposals to amend the Constitution of Pennsylvania. Some of them, no doubt, are duplications.

However, Mr. President, the Constitution should be a simplified document and one which should not require amending every so often. It should be one which is flexible, one which can be of service to the people of Pennsylvania, and one which would permit this Commonwealth to be governed properly, without resorting to continuous amendments.

During every Session since I have been up here, since 1955, there have been constitutional amendments passed and placed on the ballot. One or two will probably be put on the ballot in November. I do think we are entitled to one Constitutional Convention.

I was very much amazed when I saw the puny report which came out of that so-called brilliant Constitutional Revision Commission. If any mountain groaned and brought forth a mouse, it was that commission. They absolutely did nothing to correct the situation in so far as the Constitution of Pennsylvania is concerned. They did not even appropriate sufficient funds to allow it to function as a Constitutional Revision Commission. I remember when they cut down the requested appropriation from $275,000 to approximately $25,000, or perhaps $50,000. I do not think that was a decent and fair attempt to bring about a revision of the Constitution.

Naturally, we do want a Constitution. I think we should all work together in order to see that we have the best Constitution of any State in the Union. That is what we aim for and I think we should get it.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, since one of the mountaineers who brought forth this Constitutional Revision Report is a constituent of mine, I think I should bring his activities up-to-date.

It is true what Senator Fleming said; that a majority of the committee, in 1957 or 1958, agreed they would not call a special Constitutional Convention. However, it was my privilege to be in attendance at the hearing held in Harrisburg by Senator Mahady's committee. I recall, at that time, the constituent to whom I refer, Doctor Nelson McGeary, came before Senator Mahady's committee and testified that although he voted in 1957 or 1958 in opposition to calling a Constitutional Convention, he now, after further deliberation, believed that a Constitutional Convention should be called. He came to testify in support of Senate Bill No. 23.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I only want to speak very briefly on this question.

I wish to call the attention of the Members of the Senate to the fact that the Constitution of the United States, which is probably the greatest living document for the government of people ever devised or conceived, went into effect in March of 1789. Since that time, Mr. President, it has served as the foundation of our Federal Government. When it has needed revision, it was sent to the various Legislatures and to the people and has been amended in the respects in which it was found to be necessary.

Mr. President, the Constitution is the basic law of the land and of the State. It is something that is not to be lightly altered or changed, either in its entirety or in part. There is no fear as far as I am concerned—and I believe I speak for every man in this Senate—regarding the people and their ability to govern themselves.

However, Mr. President, we are living in parlous times. A great many things which ordinarily would be carefully and maturely considered might be too hastily—and by way of expedience only—adopted and made into a basic law which would require a tremendous amount of effort and almost, possibly, an impossibility to alter or to amend.

Mr. President, I believe the recommendations made by the Commission on Constitutional Revision are sound. I believe the method by which our Constitution—our basic law, our Bill of Rights—can be changed or altered should be by amendments submitted in series to the people. There is no question, Mr. President, that this will provide a much sounder method for consideration of this tremendous question than the calling of a Constitutional Convention, as provided by this bill.

To go further, Mr. President, if we wish to test the sentiment of the people on the matter of holding a Constitutional Convention, we can easily pass a bill which will submit the question to the people as to whether or not they want a Constitutional Convention called and the machinery, if the vote should be favorable in that respect, for a Constitutional Convention can then be set up by the Legislature in accordance with the wishes of the people. However, simply by legislative action, to call into being a convention for the drafting of a constitution, I do not believe is the way in which it should be done at this time.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not wish to burden the record or take undue time, but I think the record should clearly state what the basic issue is. I have heard all these people speak about it. Some spoke very eloquently and very logically. However, I think if we are going to be candid about this situation, I believe we should get right to the heart of the matter.

The reason why we do not hold a Constitutional Convention in Pennsylvania is because people are very frightened that we will take up the problem of an income tax. This is the heart of the entire story. If we could guarantee, in this Chamber or any place else, that you would not take this up as part of the Convention, I think you would have no difficulty, regardless of who appointed, how many were appointed, who the people were, or what part they were going to play in this.

We have arrived at a point in Pennsylvania where the continued burden of taxation is being placed on the same people over and over again. To my mind, an income tax is a fair way of financing government. It puts the burden upon those who are able to pay in the proportion that they can pay.

Also, I think one of the basic problems which you have is that this unwieldy document—you must bear in mind that the Constitution of the United States has been in existence almost 185 years. The time it took to write it, the people who thought about it and the bringing it into being, actually amounts to about 175 years. Prior to that, however, there was quite a bit of discussion. If you will look through the documents and letters, you will see that many people had many of these programs in mind and they finally wound up in this instrument. This is rather a tight instrument and approximately only twenty-two amendments have been made to it. Those amendments are basically—the heart of the amendments or half of them—the Bill of Rights or basic concepts which people have lived with and found, through experience, that they should protect themselves against any sort of tyranny.

This document which we have in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is a rather unwieldy one. It goes all the way from whether people should have passes to ride on the railroads down to whether a corporation should have X or Y number of directors or stockholders or shareholders. This does not belong in a constitution. It is not part of it and it should not be part of it, as of this date and this time.

Having laid that down, I think the gentlemen on both sides of the aisle—and I can only speak for the gentlemen on this side of the aisle, with whom I have talked rather closely about it—ought to search their conscience and find out whether we should address ourselves to the problem which is very basic, and that is this: How are we going to continue to finance education? How are we going to continue to finance the programs in this Commonwealth? If we do not have the means with which to do it and we do not want to face up to these problems,—regardless of the patchwork and continued patching of the same kind of document which we have been doing—we will end up in the same place we end in every Session, and that is by having to find more taxes and going back to the same people over and over again in order to ask for more and more money. I think we should face this problem squarely. We should have a Constitutional Convention convene and deal basically with this problem.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, very briefly, I cannot agree with the gentleman that the fear of an income tax is the barrier to a Constitutional Convention in any respect. As a matter of fact, what was suggested here by Senator Fleming and by myself can still be effective. If it is the sentiment of the Members of the Legislature to place the question of an income tax upon the ballot, the people can decide that question.

I believe, Mr. President, that it is because of a very deep-seated reluctance on the part of a great, great many people to tinker with the basic law of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, rather than anything else, which stands in the way of a Constitutional Convention.

If the people, however, do want a Constitutional Convention, that question should be an can be decided by the people.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, I cannot but forebear to answer our very learned Minority Leader, for he normally produces arguments which are hard to answer.

However, in his comparison of the Constitution—and may I state of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania rather than the State of Pennsylvania—to the Federal Constitution, we must realize that we granted specific powers to the Federal Government. All other powers were reserved to the people. Now the people, in turn, gave to the State Government all powers, but they reserved a few safeguards for themselves. That is a normal State or Commonwealth Constitution.

May I say to you, Mr. President, that everyone who is an authority on constitutional laws not only draws the analogy that I just drew, but they add to it the fact that a constitution is basic principle alone, and not legislation. Admittedly, we have a good piece of legislation in this Commonwealth, but we do not have a constitution. If we had a declaration of policy and a declaration of basic rights and stopped there, we would say this is a lasting accomplishment.

I say to you again—and I repeat—that it is but legislation. As one of the witnesses at the hearing well put it when he referred to the television program "The Rebel," in 1874,—which is the same time period represented by "The Rebel"—when people were riding horses and chasing Indians over muddy roads, and doing all of the other things we think of as being outmoded, you did not pass a constitution of fundamental principles and concepts, but rather you passed a series of "don't" statutes and statutes which limit you.

If we are to become the leading Commonwealth or State of tomorrow, we must have a document which contains only fundamental principles and the ability to act as the occasions arise and to meet the necessities of tomorrow. We must not be bound by legislation which is called a constitution. We must be free to legislate. Above all, we must come back to the fundamental concept that we believe the people themselves are fit to govern themselves and speak for themselves, and they are to be trusted to speak for themselves, even though it be through their representatives.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—25

Camiel,	Lane,	Mullin,	Seyler,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Murray,	Silvert,
DiSilvestro,	McCreesh,	Ripp,	Staisey,
Donolow,	McGinnis,	Rooney,	Stiefel,
Haluska,	McMenamin,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
Hays,	Miller,	Sesler,	Yatron,
Kalman,

NAYS—23

Bell,	Hawbaker,	Pechan,	Van Sant,
Berger,	Keller,	Propert,	Wade,
Chapman,	Kessler,	Scott,	Wagner,
Confair,	Kromer,	Stevenson,	Ware, III,
Ehrgood,	Madigan,	Stroup,	Wolfe,
Fleming,	Mallery,	Taylor,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative, and the bill was defeated.

INTERROGATION

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Potter, Senator Berger.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Berger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BERGER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, on page 7 of today's Calendar, House Bill No. 1190, Printer's No. 2420, I believe the gentleman asked for this bill to go over in its order. Will the gentleman please advise when we might work on this legislation, as we have I believe cleaned off quite a bit of legislation here today, and this bill has been on the Calendar for sometime?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I will be delighted to inform the gentleman. House Bill No. 1190 provides that all mutual insurance companies shall make uniform reports and classified accounts and records.

Mr. President, there is no objection to that whatsoever, except the smaller mutual insurance companies would have to file the same type of reports and records that the larger ones would file with the Insurance Department.

I hope, Mr. President, that we can work out something whereby this particular burden can be modified. Probably they would not be able to do it properly if they were required to file those long reports for the reason that they are small businesses. They do not have paid bookkeepers and accountants. They have to work their affairs pretty nearly by their board of directors and by their officers. They do not have agents, excepting as their officers may be agents.

Consequently, Mr. President, in order to protect that type of company, I believe something should be worked out whereby they would be excused or the requirements modified as far as those companies are concerned. I would hope to have something worked out possibly by tomorrow or possibly by Monday, at which time this bill can be disposed of. It is on the Third Reading Calendar, but it is a House Bill and I am not sanguine enough to believe that we are going to find ourselves released from the Session of 1961 much before the week after next.

The PRESIDENT. At this time, the Chair turns the gavel over to the distinguished gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Ripp, to preside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. CARL M. FULTON, Pastor of Middletown Second Baptist Church, Middletown, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and most gracious God, our dear heavenly Father, we beseech Thee this day, praying Thy holy blessing upon these lawmakers of the Senate of our Commonwealth to help them in their great work. We pray, holy Father, that Thou wilt unite their hearts so they will be able to perform their great work in unity and brotherly love. We pray Thou wilt continue to bless this Senate for the remaining days of this Session with good fellowship and brotherly love.

Holy Father, we are grateful for the good government that we have in our State and Nation. Bless our efforts to promote friendship among the races of our Country. Grant us the power of Thy Holy Spirit that we may be able to meet the demands of this day. Also grant us strength to overcome the temptations of our daily work.

Holy Father, gracious are Thy promises, and may everyone of them be very precious unto us. When this day is finished, we pray that Thou wilt grant these Senators and officials a safe journey to their various homes, both far and near.

We ask these blessings in the name of our Strength and our Redeemer. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. HAYS, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

INQUIRY REGARDING COMMITTEES OF CONFERENCE ON HB 715 AND 716

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, a little over a month ago, the present Presiding Officer, Senator Ripp and I were named as members of Conference Committees on House Bill No. 715 and House Bill No. 716.

I would like to make inquiry regarding these Conference Committees of either Senator Ripp, who I understand is otherwise engaged, or yourself, as the Presiding Officer. Since it would be out of order, however, to interrogate the Presiding Officer and, as I said before, since Senator Ripp is not on the floor at the moment, being otherwise engaged, I will defer the matter until later, if I may.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Wade, you may defer any questions you have until later, although I am prepared to give you some information.

I understand that the matter is being gone into with the House. The plans are, for consideration by the committee, that we amend the bills so as to take out all prior amendments and change the effective date to, I think, July 1, 1962. They are the present plans. However, the Committees of Conference have not acted on this as yet, and we cannot act until the House convenes next week.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I sincerely appreciate the remarks of the Chair regarding these two bills. They are extremely important to State employees who are no longer in the service of the Commonwealth, and to teachers who are no longer in the service of the State or who will leave the service in the near future.

I am sure it is not necessary for me to call the attention of the Chair to the fact that I submitted a suggestion to the present Presiding Officer and I have had no notice, whatever, of any Conference Committee Report. I merely wanted to call the attention of the Members of the Senate to the fact that these Conference Committees were appointed on June 28, 1961, which is more than a month ago. Now, it would seem that it is time the committees meet and come to some decision.

I am not being critical of the present Presiding Officer. Senator Ripp was the first appointed and, therefore, as I understand it, would become Chairman of the Conference Committees. However, I further understand that when a bill originates in the House, then the first appointed on the Conference Committee from the House would be the Chairman of the Committee. It would be his duty to call the group together so that some arrangement might be agreed upon.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I want to assure you, Senator Wade, there will be action on the Conference Committee Reports early next week.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. MULLIN, from the Committee on State Government, reported, as committed, HB 1162.

Fleming,	McGinnis,	Shafer,	Yatron,
Haluska,	McMenamin,	Staisey,	Silvert,
Hawbaker,	Miller,		Presiding Officer

NAYS—0

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

EXECUTIVE SESSION RISES

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I move that the Executive Session do now rise.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. RIPP and WEINER, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 891, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1939 (P. L. 748), entitled, as amended, "The Pennsylvania Securities Act," exempting limited partnerships from being constituted "dealers" because of certain transactions.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. HALUSKA, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Local Government, reported, as committed, SB 876 and HB 1498; as amended, SB 877 and HB 1422.

SENATE RESOLUTIONS

COMMENDING AND CONGRATULATING THE PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE

Messrs. STAISEY, DEVLIN, SARRAF, RIPP, McGINNIS and FLEMING, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 91), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, August 1, 1961.

The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette is this year celebrating the one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of its existence. To detail more specifically, this almost spans the history of the United States of America. This newspaper has been one of the leading forces not only in the development of Pennsylvania, but also in the tri-State area of West Virginia and Ohio.

The City of Pittsburgh and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are justly proud not only for the longevity of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, but also for its indefatigable adhesion to good journalism and the truth.

This newspaper has a continuous record of one hundred seventy-five years of journalistic independence and service to the City of Pittsburgh and this Commonwealth.

The Editor, William Block, is hereby commended and congratulated for the high quality of journalism he has maintained in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby commends and congratulates the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette on this its one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary, and also for the great service it has rendered to the City of Pittsburgh, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and our great Nation, the United States of America; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be sent to William Block, Editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, in Pittsburgh.

REQUESTING THE SECRETARY OF PROPERTY AND SUPPLIES AND THE EDITOR OF THE PENNSYLVANIA MANUAL, TO PUBLISH, IN FUTURE ADDITIONS OF THE PENNSYLVANIA MANUAL, A SECTION ON HISTORICAL PRESERVATION

Messrs. STIEFEL and CHAPMAN, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 92), which was read and referred to the Committee on Historical Preservation:

In the Senate, August 1, 1961.

WHEREAS, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is the first State in the United States to provide by general legislation for the establishment of historic districts by local governments, and the protection of the historic character of these districts, by the enactment of Senate Bill No. 172, which was approved by Governor David L.

Lawrence on June 13, 1961, and became immediately effective; and

WHEREAS, The many and varied statutory provisions for the protection and preservation of Pennsylvania's rich historical heritage are too little known by the officers of the units of county and municipal government and by the people of Pennsylvania, and ought to be made readily available in the Commonwealth's standard reference work, the Pennsylvania Manual; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby requests and directs the Secretary of Property and Supplies and the Editor of The Pennsylvania Manual to publish in future editions of The Pennsylvania Manual a section on historical preservation in Pennsylvania, which section shall include a summary and explanation of the Act approved June 13, 1961, enabling local governments to protect the character of historical areas; a summary and explanation of other Acts relating to historical preservation; and a listing of the historical buildings and sites under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission with locations, descriptive information, and representative illustrations; and be it further

RESOLVED, That upon the adoption of this resolution, the Secretary of the Senate shall forward an official copy of this resolution to both the Secretary of Property and Supplies and the Editor of the Pennsylvania Manual.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

RECALLING SB 735 FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. WEINER, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, August 1, 1961.

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That Senate Bill No. 735, Printer's No. 855, entitled "An act amending the act of December 22, 1951 (P. L. 1726), entitled 'An act relating to the loyalty to the United States and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania of public officers and employees, including teachers and other employees of the public school system and officers and employees of State-aided institutions of learning, requiring oaths or affirmations by applicants for public office or employment and by present appointed officers and employees, prohibiting appointment or employment and requiring discharges after hearing in certain cases; imposing conditions on the payment of appropriations to State-aided institutions of learning; requiring statements under oath or affirmation of candidates for elective public offices and imposing duties on State and local appointing authorities and certain other State officers,' excluding from the provisions of the Act certain teachers who are citizens or subjects of foreign countries," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request a forty-five minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding both, I believe, a Democratic Caucus and a Republican Caucus in their respective Caucus Rooms.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a forty-five minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. SILVERT (By Request), by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 892, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 20, 1937 (P. L. 728), entitled "An act providing for the creation of a Board of Arbitration of Claims arising from contracts with the Commonwealth; . . ." increasing the jurisdiction of the Board of Arbitration.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Messrs. DEVLIN, STAISEY and SHAFER, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 893, entitled:

An Act requiring certain persons in criminal proceedings to appear at preliminary hearings, imposing liabilities and prescribing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS,
OVER IN ORDER

SB 104—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 104 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I object to Senate Bill No. 104 going over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner, wish to make a motion for the bill to go over in order?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 104, Printer's No. 1058, go over in its order.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease a moment.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may the record show that the Members who vote for or against this motion are not voting on the bill, but merely on whether the bill should go over in its order today or not?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, if the Chair intends to grant the request of the Majority Leader, I would inquire as to just how the record is going to show that.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I have made no request. I merely made a motion that the bill go over in its order. The gentlemen on the other side—I do not know who—are asking for a roll call and are objecting to the bill going over in order. I think the usual procedure is that you vote to either have the measure go over in its order or not to go over, and that is not a vote for or against the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair agrees with the Majority Leader and the Clerk will call the roll.

Mr. YATRON. Mr. President, I wish to second the motion that this roll call vote will indicate that it is only a vote for or against the bill going over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This vote is not a vote for or against the bill.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I think that is for the public to decide for themselves.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Clerk will call the roll.

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, may the Senate be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease. (The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, the roll call has been interrupted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The roll call has not started and we are now at ease.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. STROUP, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—27

Bell,	Hays,	Mullin,	Staisey,
Camel,	Kalman,	Murray,	Stiefel,
Chapman,	Lane,	Rooney,	Taylor,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
DiSilvestro,	Mallery,	Sesler,	Yatron,
Donolow,	McCreesh,	Seyler,	Ripp,
Haluska,	McGinnis,	Silvert,	Presiding Officer

NAYS—20

Berger,	Hawbaker,	Propert,	Van Sant,
Confair,	Kessler,	Scott,	Wade,
Ehrgood,	Kromer,	Shafer,	Wagner,
Flack,	Madigan,	Stevenson,	Ware, III,
Fleming,	Pechan,	Stroup,	Wolfe,

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the motion was agreed to.

INTERROGATION

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will always permit myself to be interrogated, Mr. President.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, several months ago, we had a similar motion here that a bill go over in its order. At that time, it was not clarified as to how long the bill would remain over in order. Will the Majority Leader specify a date when this bill will be considered again?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the gentleman asked me two questions and I shall answer both of them. The bill will go over in its order until Monday, when we meet again, which will be August 7. That is the date when we will consider this bill. At that time, this Body will decide whether or not they want to consider it.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, do I understand the gentleman correctly that the bill will go over in its order until Monday, but that he is not specifying there will be definite action on the bill at that time?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if the gentleman will answer any question of the same sort regarding any other bill, I will be happy to answer his question concerning this bill.

Mr. VAN SANT. In other words, Mr. President, am I to assume that the bill is over in its order until—period?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the gentleman may assume anything that he cares to. I am not here to tell him what assumptions he can make. However, I think the clear assumption on this matter is that the bill will go over in its order until Monday. At that time, if this Body decides to consider it, it shall be considered the same as any other measure is considered here.

Mr. VAN SANT. I thank the gentleman, Mr. President.

INTERROGATION

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senate Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, to use the words which I have heard so often in this Chamber, may I inquire of the gentleman when we may expect action on this bill?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I expect action on Monday. I am hopeful that on Monday, Tuesday or on whatever date this Body decides to consider this measure will be the appropriate time for us to take a vote on it.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, would the gentleman inform us as to when we may be expected to vote on this bill?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I cannot answer that question for anybody here except myself. I expect to vote on this bill when it comes before us. If Monday is a good day for that, I will be very happy to vote on it, along with everybody else.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman for his very definite answer.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, from the way I read this bill, you will not be able to own a dog anymore unless it is inoculated against hydrophobia. That would take in a lot of dogs in Pennsylvania, and it looks to me like the only ones who would benefit would be veterinarians. I think we should not require everybody who has a dog to get a certificate from a veterinarian, stating that the dog has been inoculated.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, there is no inhibition in this bill against owning a dog. It is not going to prevent ownership. However, if a person wants to license the dog, he will have to have it certified against rabies.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, you cannot legally own a dog unless you have a license. Therefore, it amounts to the same thing.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not care to argue that point with the gentleman. I might offend somebody in the Senate Chamber.

BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDED

HB 1446 (Pr. No. 2538)—Read at length the third time, On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STIEFEL, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5.2), page 2, lines 9 and 10, by striking out "Under the immediate supervision of a licensed barber".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5.2), page 2, line 16; page 3, line 1, by striking out "Under the immediate supervision of a licensed barber".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, the purpose of these amendments is to rectify a wrong which is reminiscent of the lamb of the poor and the parables in the Bible.

A few orphans in the Scotland School for Veterans' Children have an opportunity to acquire certain experience in barbering. Somebody introduced an amendment which would impede this possibility for such experience. The purpose of these amendments is to strike out the other amendments.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

Without objection, the bill, as amended, was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. STIEFEL.

BILL ON THIRD READING, DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1616 (Pr. No. 2030)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, on behalf of this measure, I would like to point out to the Members of the Senate the need for this bill. There exists today in I do not know how many counties, but in this particular county we are speaking about, Montgomery County, specifically, a blue card if you register Republican, a pink card if you register Democratic, and a buff card if you register Nonpartisan. I do not know if it is a coincidence that the pink card and being Democratic happen at the same time. My suspicions are that it probably is.

Most communities give a single card, regardless of how you register. I do not want to say there is any problem in Montgomery County about this. However, there may be some correlation between certain activities which take place in a community depending on your registration. I think everybody in this Country ought to be allowed to register, vote, worship or do anything as they please, as long as it does not affect the commonweal or the general public. I think what we ought to have here is a uniform system of registering people regardless of their registration.

It might very well be that no one is interested in the registration. However, I think the gentlemen on the other side and, more specifically, the gentleman who represents that county in this Chamber can enlighten us on that fact.

There used to be a time in the city of Philadelphia when your assessment and how many violations you might have in your house depended upon your registration. It might have been a coincidence that a person registered a certain way might have been living in a condemned house to begin with, and it just so happened to work out that way.

I would suggest that my colleagues on both sides of the aisle support this measure as being good legislation. One of the other gentlemen here, who has been speaking on behalf of doing the right thing in the right places, I am sure will vote for this measure. I am asking him to not only vote for it, but I think he can speak with a few Members on his side, with whom he has some communication, and use his good offices to get this measure through.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would not suggest that the possibility of the practice referred to by the gentleman might be totally unknown to the present generation. However, I see no objection if they care to issue a different colored card to their registrants in Philadelphia, or their registrants in Allegheny, or their registrants in Clearfield or any county whatsoever.

I understand the logic of the different colored cards is simply to make for ease in identification of the voter when he comes to the polls. You always have to state your Party affiliation in a Primary. Of course, it would be embarrassing for a man with a blue card or a yellow card to present it to the registrar and get a different designation than that of his political Party. This helps to clarify that situation, Mr. President.

Senator Bell just handed me different types of licenses here. He points out that the operator's card is blue and the registration card is yellow. That, of course, goes to clarify the situation.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I feel there should be no coaching of the witness.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, the gentleman's point may be well taken. He was in the coaching box.

However, it has been explained to me, Mr. President, that this method of identification of registrants does help in the identification of people and certainly does no harm. I should think the person who would register Democratic would be proud to have a card so identifying him, and the same way with a Republican. I do question whether the same pride might be felt by one who registered Nonpartisan. That, of course, is a matter of individual conscience and belief.

Consequently, Mr. President, I do not believe this bill, which would prohibit issuing different colored cards, is necessary because it would interfere with the operation of the registration boards in certain counties which might want to follow this practice.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am sure that if the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania issued different registration cards for automobile or drivers' licenses depending on how people were registered, the wails of screaming in here would be so loud and so intense that we could hardly hear ourselves speak. I think it is in bad taste, and I think it is certainly undemocratic—both with a little "d" and a big "D"—that this practice continue. I would ask, in the interest of fair play, that these gentlemen take the position of voting for this measure.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—25

Camiel,	Lane,	Mullin,	Silvert,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Murray,	Stalsey,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease. (The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I just want to make a few remarks regarding this bill before we—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BERGER. Has the roll call commenced?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It was barely audible to the Chair and, therefore, the Majority Leader may speak.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I voted on this bill and, therefore, the roll call had started.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I will not debate this point, but I believe I asked the Chair to recognize me and the Chair probably did not hear me. However, I will not get into an argument here about what the point of order is or whether we should debate this bill. I think the people who are going to vote on this measure should search their conscience before doing so. This is a labor measure.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative, and the bill was defeated.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I wish to make just a brief observation.

All that was required in this measure is that they pay people three times a month instead of twice a month. I think that is certainly very little to ask for people who work for a living.

I would respectfully ask the gentlemen on the other side to search their conscience. The power is within them to bring this bill back before us again for a vote. We have twenty-five votes on this side in favor of this measure. I think the gentlemen should reconsider it. We are not asking anybody to do anything which would be overbearing or would cause them great difficulty in any way, shape or form.

This bill merely asks that they pay a man for working on a basis whereby he can get along and budget his salary and earnings.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, certainly no one would disagree with the desirability of a man being able to budget his earnings. If it would assist him, certainly there would be no debate about this bill. However, as I understand it, it would entail a great deal of unnecessary expense in changing records, books and machines, in order to set up a different pay period.

Under our present law, the requirement that a man be paid once every two weeks seems to be an adequate provision and it will protect any employee in the collection of his wages. I certainly do not see how making it tri-monthly is any more efficacious than having it twice a month.

INTERROGATION

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Let the Chair state that he feels you are all out of order.

Mr. BELL. I know we are, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill has been defeated.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I ask for unanimous consent to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, will the Majority Leader tell us how often the State employees are paid?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, it is my understanding that the State employees are paid twice a month sometimes, and sometimes more often than that.

Mr. BELL. Thank you.

Mr. WEINER. I do not believe when anyone in this Chamber is asked a question, Mr. President, that he should be cut off from answering. If the gentleman would ask me whether I beat my wife, I could answer that question by answering "yes" or "no," and he could go on from that point. However, I think he should permit me to explain how I beat her, whether it is with a stick or whether it is with a stone.

I am trying to explain to the gentleman that the reason we use this method with the 60,000 employees of the State is because you have the basic problem of dealing with employees who are close at hand and who are available to us and who also work out their budgets on that basis. In this case, we are talking completely about a different type of situation. We are asking that these people be paid on a regular basis. The Members of the Legislature are paid once a month. However, that also is a different type of situation than this.

Most employees who work in most plants are paid at the end of every week. They are usually paid every Thursday or every Friday. In this situation, we are merely asking that these people be paid on that same basis.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman for his very brief answer that the State employees are paid twice a month.

SB 668 (Pr. No. 778)—Without objection, the bill was called up from the Postponed Calendar by Mr. WEINER.

BILL RECOMMITTED

SB 668 (Pr. No. 778)—Upon motion of Mr. WEINER, seconded by Mr. LANE, and agreed to, the bill was re-committed to the Committee on Agriculture.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. STASEY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The bills were as follows:

SB 665, 666, 742, 835, 836, 876, 877, HB 518, 621, 720, 911, 944, 1162, 1281, 1422, 1473, 1498 and 1510.

And said bills having been read at length for the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. STASEY and DEVLIN, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 894, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 30, 1947 (P. L. 1154), entitled, as amended, "Oleomargarine or Butterine Law," permitting the serving of colored oleomargarine in certain places.

Which was committed to the Committee on Agriculture.

Messrs. KELLER, VAN SANT, YATRON and ROONEY, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 895, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 22, 1933 (P. L. 853), entitled "The General County Assessment Law," exempting fall-out shelters from taxation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

They also, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 896, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 21, 1943 (P. L. 571), entitled as amended "The Fourth to Eighth Class County Assessment Law," exempting fall-out shelters from taxation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OF HB 257

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which House Bill No. 257, Printer's No. 2460, failed of final passage on July 18, 1961.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, this bill having been previously defeated, I ask my colleagues to vote "no" on this motion, and ask for a roll call.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, just so everybody understands what we are voting on, this would make unlawful and prohibit the employment of professional strike-breakers in places where there is a labor dispute. I ask my colleagues to vote "aye" on the motion to put this measure back on the Calendar for the purpose of bringing it before the Senate for a vote.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I reiterate that it was before the Senate for a vote.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BERGER, and were as follows viz:

YEAS—25

Camel,	Lane,	Mullin,	Silvert,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Murray,	Stalsey,
DiSilvestro,	McCreesh,	Rooney,	Stiefel,

Less than a majority having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative and the motion was defeated.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OF HB 107

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which House bill No. 107, printer's No. 1825, failed of final passage on July 18, 1961.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I understand that I, too, voted with the prevailing side.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call on this motion.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, so that we all understand what we are voting on, this is a motion to bring back a measure which would allow people who serve on jury duty to receive from their employer the difference between what they receive as jurors and what they would have received had they been employed, so that there is no loss to them and so that we can get capable people to serve on jury duty.

I ask my colleagues to vote "aye" on this motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BERGER, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—25

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I have in my hand a petition from a private citizen, who is one of my constituents, relating to Article I, Section 20 of the Constitution, directed to this body, which I request be received and incorporated in the Journal.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This petition will be printed in the Legislative Journal.

PETITION TO THE STATE LEGISLATURE IN THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA,
UNDER ARTICLE ONE, SECTION 20,
CONSTITUTION OF PENNSYLVANIA

BE IT KNOWN, that the PETITIONER herein, RAYMOND R. START, Esquire, is a Citizen living in the County of Delaware, Township of Upper Darby, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

(1) That he is herein Petitioning the Senate of Pennsylvania, by RIGHT OF PETITION, set forth in Article 1, Section 20, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania;

(2) That he is Petitioning in behalf of the common good of the Citizens of the County of Delaware in particular, and for the general good and political welfare of all the Citizens in the Commonwealth;

(3) That this Petition seeks to bring to light—and effectuate proper remedy—grievance of the said Citizens and this Petitioner by reason of the failure of the State Legislature to properly carry out, as the duly recognized members in the Pennsylvania General Assembly, its mandated task of reapportioning the State's Legislative Districts;

(4) That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania is now, and has been since the First of January, 1961, meeting for the first Session since the completion of the 1960 Federal decennial census;

(5) That Section 18 of Article II of the Constitution of Pennsylvania of 1874, the section entitled "Time of Apportionment," provides specifically for reapportionment of districts of the State Senate and House of Representatives, at this time. The context is in these words:

"The General Assembly . . . immediately after each United States decennial census, shall apportion the State into Senatorial and Representative districts agreeably to the provisions of the two next preceding sections." (Section 16 and 17 on State Senate and House apportionment procedures respectively)

(6) That neither House's districts have been realigned on the basis that the Constitution sets forth; that the Senate has not reapportioned its districts since 1921; that the House last reapportioned its districts in 1953; that lawsuits have been brought in Courts of the Commonwealth challenging the Legislature's failure to redistrict after the Federal decennial census;

(7) That, in all three categories of legislative districts,—State Senatorial, State Representative, and Congressional—the General Assembly is under a State Constitutional, or Congressional, mandate to reapportion in line with the 1960 census;

(8) That the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania sets forth, with respect to Senatorial District apportionment, as follows:

"The State shall be divided into fifty Senatorial districts of compact and contiguous territory as nearly equal in population as may be, and each district shall be entitled to elect one Senator. Each county containing one or more ratios of population shall be entitled to one Senator for each ratio . . . No ward, borough, or township shall be divided in the formation of a district. The Senatorial ratio shall be ascertained by dividing the whole population of the State by the number of fifty."

(9) That, with the mandate of the Constitution in mind, and the rights of the Citizens of Delaware County and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania General Assembly has reapportioned the Senatorial Districts only twice since the passage of the Constitution of 1874; namely, in 1906 and in 1921;

(10) That, on the basis of the final 1960 census figures, one Senatorial ratio—one-fiftieth of the Commonwealth's population—is 226,387, and to apply Section 16 of Article II of the Constitution, we find that every county containing between four-fifths of a ratio and a whole ratio, i.e. between 181,110 and 226,387, is entitled to one Senator, and each county is entitled to one Senator for each whole ratio;

(11) That the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania provides, with respect to "Representative Districts," as follows:

"The members of the House of Representatives shall be apportioned among the several counties on a ratio obtained by the most recent United States census by two hundred . . . Every county having five ratios or more shall have one Representative for every full ratio . . . Every city containing a population equal to a ratio shall elect separately its proportion of the Representatives allotted to the County."

(12) That the final 1960 census figure shows that a ratio is 56,597, with reference to the State Representatives in the Legislature;

(13) That the population of the County of Delaware, according to the 1960 United States decennial census, is 553,154;

(14) That, according to the population figures hereinbefore set forth, the County of Delaware is entitled to be represented in the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by TWO SENATORS, and TEN MEMBERS IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, instead of the present ONE SENATOR and SEVEN REPRESENTATIVES;

(15) That, there has been a failure in both the Senate and the House of Representatives to reapportion the Senatorial and Representative Districts, and this failure has constituted a condition of "TAXATION WITHOUT EQUAL REPRESENTATION," with respect to the Citizens of the County of Delaware, in the Commonwealth;

(16) That the Petitioner, by and on behalf of the Citizens of the County of Delaware, and for the general welfare and constitutional rights of all the people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Petitions for Redress, and requests that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, without Final Adjournment, continue in Legislative Session until reapportionment of the Legislative Districts is accomplished, and the mandated right of representation is recognized and fulfilled, in conformance with the Constitution of the Commonwealth; and

(17) That the Petitioner seeks this Redress and sets forth the supporting statements of fact without ulterior or partisan motive, and in the light of his own conscience to see that Justice and Right prevail for the Citizens of the County of Delaware, and all the Citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

AND SO THE PETITIONER WILL PRAY.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request a short recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Committee on Appropriations, to be held in the Appropriations Committee Room.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a short recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Jo Hays) in the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. McGINNIS, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, HB 1216, 1397 and 1579; and rereported, as amended, SB 195; as committed, HB 945.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of the bills just reported from committee for the first time at today's session.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The bills were as follows:

HB 1216, 1397 and 1579.

And said bills having been read at length for the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

SENATE

MONDAY, AUGUST 7, 1961.

The Senate met at 2:00 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Right Reverend ROBERT J. MAHER, Rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Harrisburg, offered the following prayer:

Enlighten and direct, O God of justice and truth, the deliberations of this Senate. Bring to fruition the thinking of these distinguished lawmakers. Grant this day a share of Thy divine light to illumine the minds of all involved in this process of lawmaking. Allow compatible talents and abilities to harmonize in this esteemed Assembly so that the best legal instruments may issue for the common good of our beloved State of Pennsylvania.

No man is an island but rather he is the divinely invented microcosm; a teeming inner world of ideas and dynamic will power, His Maker's image is on him and in him. In a measure, he can express divine justice by giving his fellow citizen what is rightfully due him. He can serve divine order by helping to regulate the household of men in society. He can reflect God's revealed law as he engages in the formulation of civil law.

Divine Helper of all that is right and good, give us this day high motivation in our legislative considerations that, overcoming selfish designs, we may direct our thoughts and purposes to the attainment of the common good. Only with this expressed intention will we achieve in this day our high and noble objectives; namely, to serve our fellow citizens and Thee, our God and our Judge. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. LANE, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR

APPROVAL OF SENATE BILLS

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor, advising that the following Senate Bills had been approved and signed by the Governor:

Edward Dumbauld, resigned.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

BILLS SIGNED

The President (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the presence of the Senate signed the following bills:

SB 106, 405, 456 and 589.

HONORABLE TERESSA PIERCE FLETCHER, MEMBER OF HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF NORTH CAROLINA, PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, we are singularly honored today by a visit of the Honorable Teressa Pierce Fletcher, who is a Member of the House of Representatives from North Carolina. Her district is Alexander County.

She is a distinguished Member of the House of Representatives and, may I say, Mr. President, a Republican.

I would appreciate it very much, sir, if you would extend the official welcome of the Senate to this distinguished guest.

The PRESIDENT. The lady is, indeed, distinguished. Mrs. Fletcher, we are very happy to have you here, Perhaps, you would say a few words to the Members of the Senate.

REMARKS BY HONORABLE TERESSA PIERCE FLETCHER

Mrs. FLETCHER. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, it is indeed a great pleasure for me to be here with you. I happen to have the honor of representing my county of Alexander in the House of Representatives in the State of North Carolina. This past spring was the beginning of my first term. I greatly enjoyed it and enjoyed the work.

I am an attorney by profession, and I happen to be on one of the Judiciary Committees and I also enjoyed that very much. I did a lot of research work and we killed many foolish bills in our committee. In fact, we had the reputation of killing more bills than any other committee in the General Assembly. Believe me, they can come to you with some crazy ideas sometimes.

We have 120 Members in the House of Representatives and fifty in the Senate, which I believe is the same as you have here. We have an even 100 counties. We are having our problems with reapportionment this year. Because of the past census, we have to reapportion the State Senate and we will also lose one Member of Congress. That creates quite a problem because neither the Republicans nor the Democrats want to give up. We have only one Republican Member in Congress, as you know. He is Representative Charles R. Jonas, who is very well known and very well liked. Many Democrats vote for him, although he is a Republican. I do not believe I told you, but I happen to be a Republican.

It is a great deal of pleasure to be here. I will not take up much of your time. If you ever get down my way, come by and see me. I live in Taylorsville, North Carolina, in the western part of the State. It is a small town. We are mountain people and that is where most of the Republicans live in North Carolina, although we are growing. We failed by only seven per cent of electing our Governor in the State of North Carolina this past election. We hope to do a little better next time.

I might say, however, that I like the Democrats very much. They were mighty nice to me down in Raleigh and we did not have any trouble at all. As soon as they became acquainted with me, the few little local bills which I wanted passed were passed without any trouble whatsoever. I voted with the Democrats on many issues because when I felt they were right, I voted with them. When I felt they were wrong, I did not vote with them. I think that was the way all the Republicans down there did. In other words, politics were largely forgotten as far as I could tell. The main thing was: "You vote for my bill and I will vote for your bill." Perhaps you have a little bit of that here, too. I would not be surprised if you did.

I will not impose further on your time, but I would like to say that it is a great pleasure to meet you. I would like to meet all of you, if I can. However, if I do not meet you here, come and see me if you ever have the opportunity.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you very much, Mrs. Fletcher. Having such a charming Republican woman with us has certainly been a pleasure, as was indicated by the very fine reception she received from both sides of the Senate. We hope that we may have the occasion to see her again.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. BELL presented to the Chair SB 897, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1959 P. L. 392), entitled "State Employes' Retirement Code of 1959," making certain changes in military leave coverage.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

ANNOUNCEMENT CONCERNING MEETING OF COMMITTEE ON LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I would like to announce that tomorrow morning at 11:00 a.m., in Room 301, there will be a special meeting of the Committee on Local Government to discuss two bills,—and two bills only—House bill No. 1438 and House bill No. 1221.

I am making this announcement so that every Member may have the opportunity to attend this meeting and be heard. I ask that all interested Members please attend this meeting.

The PRESIDENT. As stated by Senator Haluska, there will be a special meeting tomorrow morning of the Committee on Local Government to discuss House bill No. 1438 and House bill No. 1221. All Members, having any position on either of these two bills, are invited to be present and they will be heard.

CALENDAR

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS

SB 104 (Pr. No. 1058)—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do nonconcur in the amendments made by the House to Senate bill No. 104, and that the President pro tempore appoint a Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate to confer with a similar committee of the House, if the House takes a position to stand by its amendments.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, anticipating a roll call, I desire to be recorded as voting "no".

The PRESIDENT. There will not be a roll call vote. The statement was in the negative and, therefore, does not require a roll call vote.

Mr. SEYLER. I am not asking for a roll call, Mr. President. I am simply stating that I desire to be recorded as voting "no" on any kind of a vote.

The PRESIDENT. Then let your voice be heard.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, I am going to vote against the Majority Leader's motion because I have heard, of course, of the alleged compromise which has been worked out in the front office and, after all, I wonder whether this alleged compromise will be part of the Governor's Highway Safety Program. Since everyone seems to be compromising, I wonder whether or not the motorist has been taken into consideration in this compromise when the fifty-five foot tractor and trailer will be put into effect.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I simply want to state that if there should be a roll call, I would vote "no" on this motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

COMMITTEES OF CONFERENCE APPOINTED ON SB 104 AND SB 716

The PRESIDENT. BILLS ON THIRD READING AMENDED

SB 413 (Pr. No. 445)—Read at length the third time, On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. PECHAN and FLEMING, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments.

Amend Title, page 2, next to last line of Title, by inserting after "health": changing the time for circulating petitions in certain cases

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5.1), page 3, line 14, by inserting after "department": nor earlier than five years following another referendum on the same question

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, it seems that this bill for some reason or other has been unacceptable to some people. Therefore, I have offered these corrective amendments, which would not allow counties to have a referendum more often than once every five years.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

The amendments were agreed to.

Without objection, the bill, as amended, was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. PECHAN.

HB 522 (Pr. No. 2305)—Read at length the third time, On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROONEY, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Title, page 1, fourth line of Title by inserting after "tractors": further providing for the contents of registration cards

Amend Title, page 1, sixth line of Title by striking out "your".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 405), page 3, line 6 by striking out "ALL".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 405), page 3, line 6 by striking out "ADDRESSES" and inserting: address

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 407), page 5, line 8 by striking out "ALL".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 407), page 5, line 8 by striking out "ADDRESSES" and inserting: address

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 407), page 5, line 10 by striking out "ALL".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 407), page 5, line 10 by striking out "ADDRESSES" and inserting: address

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 407), page 5, line 12 by striking out "OR ADDRESSES".

Amend Sec. 5 (Sec. 814), page 23, line 7 by striking out "AND SECOND".

Amend Sec. 5 (Sec. 814), page 23, line 8 by inserting after "departments": and when a fire department has three (3) or more pieces of apparatus a second assistant chief of the fire department

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

Without objection, the bill, as amended, was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. ROONEY.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 564 (Pr. No. 609)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

Ordered, That the clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

SB 644 (Pr. No. 1046)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no".

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—47

Ordered, That the clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDED

SB 702 (Pr. No. 1141)—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WEINER, by unanimous consent offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 10 by striking out "fifteen" and inserting "ten".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, may it be noted that I am opposing this amendment? However, I am not going to ask for a roll call.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, might I point out to the gentleman that this is really a corrective amendment? It corrects the original amendments which corrected the last part of the bill,—I think it is page 5 and page 6 of the bill—but failed to correct page 2 and page 3. This amendment just corrects it again, or else the bill does not read properly as it is now.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President. I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Philadelphia state whether or not this amendment cuts the mileage for constables from fifteen cents, which is sought by the bill, to ten cents per mile?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the previous amendments cut the mileage, but that is not being done by this amendment. That was done by last week's amendments. What this amendment does is merely make it uniform throughout the bill. If you will look at the bill now, on page 2, you will note there has been no change made, and that on page 5 and page 6 of the bill changes have been made. You cannot have the bill reading two different ways in two different places.

If I were against the measure, I would say that I would be against the amendments also, because the Governor cannot sign this bill the way it is now.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I would be very happy if they amended it back to the way it was—to fifteen cents per mile.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the gentleman well knows that all he has to do is offer an amendment and take his chances like all of us do.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, kindly note my objection to this amendment.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendment was agreed to.

Without objection, the bill, as amended, was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 750—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL PLACED ON CALENDAR UNDER EDUCATION BILLS ON THIRD READING

HB 810 (Pr. No. 892)—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that House bill No. 810, Printer's No. 892, be placed on tomorrow's Calendar under Education Bills on Third Reading.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, this bill can in no sense, in my opinion, be considered part of the so-called education package.

I would inquire if Senator Weiner will permit himself to be interrogated.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Majority Leader whether or not he would consider this as part of the education package that we are keeping on the Calendar? I understand this bill simply is to correct an inequity existing between professional employees of county boards and regular professional employees of school districts.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the gentleman is correct in what he says the bill does. However, if you will look at the education bills on page 2 and page 3 of today's Calendar, you will note there are a number of bills on there that are part of the education program which are not directly concerned with the Governor's recommendations.

I believe if we are going to handle this problem dealing with the employees and dealing with the county school boards, I think we ought to do it as a unit instead of doing it piecemeal. In other words, we are liable to pass this legislation and some of us might even forget that we have done this, and we might pass some other legislation which might be inconsistent or incongruous with what we have already done.

I am sure that a day or two will not hurt this matter, unless there is some extreme urgency for moving it. That is why I ask that the bill appear with the education bills on the Calendar.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President. I am not objecting to it appearing there. However, it does not seem to me to be one of the bills which ought to be on that particular list. I agree there are a number of them on there that we could just as well move without affecting the general education situation as far as legislation is concerned.

This has nothing to do with it. I mean, we could work on this bill, I would assume, under any circumstances, whether or not there was a separate category or whether we wanted to wait and consider everything later. I do not quite get it.

The PRESIDENT. Are you, therefore, withdrawing your objection to this bill appearing under Education Bills on Third Reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I did not object. I merely inquired as to why it should.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thought there was at least a hint of an objection, and wanted to make sure it was not there.

There being no objection, the bill will be placed on tomorrow's Calendar, under Education Bills on Third Reading.

BILL ON THIRD READING, DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

HB 1515 (Pr. No. 1868)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, this bill allows a person to vote if his name is either on the street list or in the binder.

One of the reasons why this bill is necessary is that there are a number of people who are disenfranchised because they come to a polling place and find that their cards are not in the binder. This necessitates them going all the way down to City Hall. At the last election, we were able to obtain, by special order of the court, persons to sit in various districts. This applies only to the city of Philadelphia where you are involved with over two and one-half million people.

Therefore, Mr. President, I think this legislation is necessary. There are almost sixty wards in the city of Philadelphia and there are a comparable number of divisions which fit with each of these wards. It entails almost 3,000 divisions and committeemen throughout the city. Due to the great number of names which exist and this number of divisions and wards, it is quite possible that sometimes they make an error either in putting the name in the binder or putting it on the street list.

In order for us to have a more orderly election, Mr. President, and in order not to disenfranchise anyone, I respectfully ask that my colleagues vote "aye" on this measure.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Camiel,	Lane,	Mullin,	Seyler,

The PRESIDENT. Gentlemen, the hour has arrived. The vote on the final passage of House bill No. 1515 is 25 "yeas" and 25 "nays".

In accordance with an opinion of the Attorney General, the Lieutenant Governor, as President of the Senate, has the right to vote in the case of a tie on the final passage of a bill. This bill refers to the city of Philadelphia, in which I make my home.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not wish to interrupt the—

The PRESIDENT. Are you going to influence the vote of the President of the Senate?

Mr. BERGER. I certainly hope to, Mr. President.

Mr. President, before the President undertakes to exercise what I am sure he is going to regard as the privilege and prerogative of the office of Lieutenant Governor, I would like to state that I believe, although the Attorney General has given an opinion on this matter stating that the Lieutenant Governor may vote on the passage of a bill in the case of a tie, we are very much in disagreement with that opinion. We feel the Attorney General could have arrived at the opposite conclusion as well, from the reasons set forth in it.

Consequently, Mr. President, we will be prepared to protest the vote of the Lieutenant Governor upon the passage of a bill. We feel the Constitution does not authorize the President of the Senate, the Lieutenant Governor, to vote upon the passage of a bill, in the case of a tie, although he certainly is, without question, entitled to vote upon a resolution, a motion, or any other matter which does not involve a law.

Therefore, Mr. President, I wish to have this protest and this disagreement with the opinion of the Attorney General, and the course which the Lieutenant Governor is about to take, placed upon the record.

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease a few moments.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I believe the vote was announced as 25-25. Am I correct?

The PRESIDENT. You are correct.

RECONSIDERATION OF HB 1515

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which House bill No. 1515, Printer's No. 1868, failed of final passage.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that House bill No. 1515 go over in its order and appear on tomorrow's Final Passage Calendar.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bill will be placed on tomorrow's Final Passage Calendar.

DAUGHTERS OF HONORABLE FRANCIS R. SMITH, INSURANCE COMMISSIONER, PRESENTED TO SENATE

The PRESIDENT. At this time, may the Chair present two charming young ladies to the Members of the Senate? They are Miss Joan and Miss Kathleen Smith, who are the daughters of our Insurance Commissioner, Francis R. Smith. Will they please rise?

We are very happy that you accompanied your distinguished father here today. We are glad to have you with us. For a moment, I thought you were going to be in on a history-making event.

MRS. LEONARD C. STAISEY PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. STAISEY. Mr. President, generally, when we make introductions, we say that is a great pleasure or that it is a great honor. However, it is a matter of great personal pride to me to introduce a very gracious and lovely lady. She is the one sure vote I have in my district. I am speaking about my wife, Emilie Consuelo Staisey.

The PRESIDENT. We are very happy to have the lady with us today, Senator Staisey.

Mr. STAISEY. Mr. President, I think I have embarrassed the lady. I wonder if I might have the protection of the State Police to the hotel.

The PRESIDENT. I am sure you would have the protection of the entire body of the State Senate.

Mr. STAISEY. Mr. President, I wish to make one final comment.

Mrs. Staisey and Senator John Devlin both celebrated their birthdays yesterday. May I say that he is her senior?

The PRESIDENT. Congratulations to you fellow Leoites.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 1621 and 1678—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, many of us were shocked to learn last week of the resignation of Harrington Adams as Assistant Attorney General for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Adams, who comes from Bethlehem and who is represented by Senator Rooney and myself here in the Senate, has served under six Governors, and on several occasions has served as the Acting Attorney General for the Commonwealth.

It is my belief that it is fitting that such service to the Commonwealth, regardless of political affiliation, should be recognized. At this time, on behalf of my colleague, Senator Rooney, and all of my colleagues on the Republican side, with the invitation for anyone else to join us on the other side of the aisle, I read in place and ask for the immediate consideration of this resolution.

SENATE RESOLUTION

EXTENDING TO HARRINGTON G. ADAMS THE THANKS AND DEEP APPRECIATION OF THE SENATE

Messrs. VAN SANT, WEINER, LANE, SILVERT, ROONEY and ENTIRE REPUBLICAN MEMBERSHIP, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 93), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, August 7, 1961.

On August 15, 1961, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will be losing the services of one of its most faithful public servants, for on that day Attorney Harrington G. Adams' resignation as Deputy Attorney General will become effective.

Mr. Adams, who resides in Bethlehem, is an outstanding example of the career people who form the backbone of the State Government and survive shifts of political control.

Harrington started with the State in 1939 and since that time he has served under four Republican Governors and two Democrats. During his span in the Justice Department, he has been named Acting Attorney General no less than three different times and by three different Governors.

The significant point about Mr. Adams' service to the State is found in his role as a bridge between Administrations. Within the government structure, there are many like him who survive exercise of the spoils system because even the most political-minded executive knows the need for a continuity of some sort to prevent a completely chaotic condition when political turnover is taking its toll.

The people of Pennsylvania should be thankful that we have such fine spirited public citizens who are willing to devote their talents to the populace; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth extend its heartfelt thanks and deep appreciation for a job well done by Harrington G. Adams; and be it further

RESOLVED, That we wish him the best of luck in his retirement; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Deputy Attorney General Harrington G. Adams in the Justice Department.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I would like very much to have my name added to this resolution. I had quite an experience with the distinguished gentleman from Bethlehem, Harrington Adams. I must say that most of us on this side of the aisle feel he is one of the greatest Deputy Attorneys General Pennsylvania has ever had.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair suggests that you sign the resolution, Senator.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was adopted.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, this is probably one of the first resolutions to be offered for Members of the Senate hailing from other counties.

In connection with the Centennial of the Civil War, this is a tribute to the volunteers of Warren County, who flocked to the defense of the Union in such numbers that the Pennsylvania units were not sufficient to accommodate them. Therefore, the same volunteers joined the New York Militia, and in that way participated in the various battles for the preservation of the Union.

On behalf of Senator Chapman and myself, I am offering this resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

SENATE RESOLUTION

TRIBUTE TO THE YOUNG MEN OF WARREN COUNTY WHO SERVED IN THE UNION FORCES DURING THE CIVIL WAR

Messrs. STIEFEL and CHAPMAN, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 94), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, August 7, 1961.

WHEREAS, The Confederate attack on Fort Sumter on April 12, 1861, and President Lincoln's proclamation calling out militia and volunteers to defend the Union, brought an overwhelming response throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and nowhere greater than in Warren County; and

WHEREAS, The number of men volunteering for service from Warren County exceeded what could be taken into the regiments authorized for Pennsylvania, and many of them joined New York State Regiments; and

WHEREAS, The entire company, known as the Tidicut Rifles, joined General Daniel Sickles' New York Brigade at Staten Island. Company B of the Ninth New York Cavalry was recruited almost entirely from Sugar Grove Township in Warren County, and many other Chautauqua County companies included young men who had crossed the State line from Warren County, Pennsylvania; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby pays especial tribute to the young men from Warren County whose zeal to defend the Union from disruption during the Civil War led them to enlist in New York State companies rather than be denied the opportunity to serve their Country.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO JUSTICE JOHN C. BELL UPON HIS ELEVATION TO CHIEF JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT OF PENNSYLVANIA

Messrs. TAYLOR and DiSILVESTRO, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 95), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, August 7, 1961.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania can be justly proud in the elevation of Justice John C. Bell to the high office of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Chief Justice Bell has devoted many years of his life to public service, having served as Secretary of Banking of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Lieutenant Governor, President of the Senate and Governor of Pennsylvania, and since March 18, 1950, he has served as Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Because of his background and judicial temperament, we know that he will exercise the powers and duties of his office without fear or prejudice; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania congratulate Justice John C. Bell on his elevation to the high office of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and commends him for his past public service to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and be it further RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Chief Justice John C. Bell at his home in Wynnewood, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair might make just one remark. I am glad to note that former Lieutenant Governors of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are appreciated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution has been unanimously adopted, and that is good for the Lieutenant Governors.

BIRTHDAY FELICITATIONS EXTENDED TO SENATOR SAMUEL B. WOLFE

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, unfortunately, The Pennsylvania Manual does not list the birthdate of one of our distinguished Members, who has one of the most illustrious war records of any of us. He is a man who served in the House of Representatives in the Sessions of 1920 and 1922, and a man who served in the Spanish-American War, the Mexican Border War, World War I and World War II. He distinguished himself in service there and retired as a Brigadier General.

On Friday, August 4th, this gentleman celebrated his eighty-third birthday. I refer to our distinguished colleague, Senator Samuel Wolfe.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Wolfe, we are very happy that you celebrated your eighty-third birthday, and we hope you have many more to celebrate.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. RIPP and STIEFEL, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 898, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 20, 1956 (P. L. 1478), entitled "An act creating a commission to arrange plans for the celebration of the One-hundredth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address; and making an appropriation," increasing the membership of the commission.

Which was committed to the Committee on Historical Preservation.

Messrs. RIPP and WEINER, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 899, entitled:

STATEMENT BY THE MAJORITY LEADER CONCERNING SENATE BILL NO. 668, PRINTER'S NO. 778

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out, for the purpose of the record, that on page 22 of today's Calendar, I believe the action taken by the Senate last week was that Senate Bill No. 668, Printer's No. 778, be recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture. It now appears today, again, on our Calendar and I believe that to be in error.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Weiner, I believe that has been corrected.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. BERGER, PECHAN and ROONEY, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 902, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 12, 1931 (P. L. 510), entitled, as amended, "An act providing for the licensure and regulation of certain private nursing homes, private convalescent homes and private hospitals; . . ." providing for the transfer of licenses to the purchasers of private nursing homes, private convalescent homes and private hospitals, from the vendors of the same, provided only that such purchasers are found to be proper and responsible persons.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

Mr. McCREESH, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 903, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1939 (P. L. 872), entitled "The Penal Code," further defining the unlawful activities relating to obscene literature and objects.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Messrs. McCREESH, LANE, SCOTT and STEVENSON, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 904, entitled:

An act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1997), entitled "An act relating to comic books, magazines and other publications; prohibiting and regulating the sale thereof in certain instances; and imposing penalties," clarifying the comic books, magazines and other publications the sale of which is prohibited.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, the citizens of Delaware County have been outraged about a matter which apparently has come to a head today. Today, the news medium carried a story stating that four townships in Delaware County, and some of the townships in Bucks County, under a bill which is about to be introduced somewhere, are to be annexed into various Congressional Districts of the city of Philadelphia.

I have in my possession two telegrams. One is from the Secretary of the Board of Supervisors, in Newtown Township, Delaware County. The other telegram is from the President of the Board of Commissioners of Haverford Township, Delaware County. They are protesting this annexation of voters of Delaware County into a Philadelphia Congressional District.

I do not want this to be misunderstood. This is not a personal attack on a very fine lady; namely, Mrs. Kitty Granahan, who represents the Second Congressional District and who has been loyal and faithful to the city of Philadelphia. She has done a fine job for the city of Philadelphia. However, as fate would have it, these four townships are now to be annexed into the Second Congressional District.

Mr. President, rather, I attack this move on a principle.

You know, Philadelphia has 2,002,515 people, according to the last census. It takes approximately 419,000 to justify a Congressman. Five Congressmen would require a population of 2,085,000 people. Six Congressmen would require 2,460,000. Philadelphia is not entitled to six Congressmen. They just barely spread to five Congressmen.

What is being done to keep six Philadelphia Democrats in office? Here we have a scheme to annex, into Philadelphia's Congressional Districts, the voters of a part of Delaware County and Bucks County. Democrats and Republicans, alike, in my county, are up in arms over this bartering, in bodies, of my constituents.

The Delaware County Labor Council, of the C.I.O.-A.F. of L., has condemned this move. The Delaware County Council of the V.F.W.—and nobody can call them political—has denounced this move. This is an invasion of the basic principles of democratic government; that is, the right of American citizens to be represented by one of their own neighbors.

Mr. President, I have some figures here. I find that these four townships have a total of 71,100 people residing within their confines. They produced a Republican majority in 1961 of approximately 9,200 votes. However, in 1959, they produced a Republican majority of approximately 23,800 votes.

I am just warning those who call the moves from City Hall in Philadelphia that if this goes through, there will be a Republican Congressman in that district. The people in my county, Republicans and Democrats alike, in this district which they seek to annex, are going to vote solidly in opposition to it. You know, these people live close to Philadelphia. They are suspicious of the designs of City Hall in Philadelphia. We have had to fight against the wage tax, which is ancient history in this Chamber. In 1955-1956, we had the fight of the regional supergovernment plan. These voters and citizens from my District are very suspicious of anybody, who is controlled by City Hall in Philadelphia, coming out to be their representative. We in Delaware County resent any Philadelphia intrusions into our county.

Personally, I condemn and I will fight this scheme. Why are these gerrymandering tactics wrong? One of the basic principles of American citizenship is the right to be represented in Congress by men and women whose interests are akin to their constituents. This is violated by this scheme.

If Radnor, Haverford, Marple and Newtown Townships are incorporated into a Philadelphia Congressional District, where will be the loyalty of the incumbent of that Congressional District? Where will it lie? Will it lie with City Hall in Philadelphia or with my constituents in Delaware County? The people of Delaware County protest the incorporation of the citizens of these four townships into the political slavery of the Philadelphia Democratic machine. I have received hundreds of protest letters. However, I only heard of one person in Delaware County who is favorable to this scheme. That was in a press release which was issued by the Delaware County Democratic Chairman, Mr. Connor.

Last spring, one Philadelphia Congressman is reported to have said: "Philadelphia Democrats carried Pennsylvania for Kennedy in 1960 and nobody is going to take a Congressional seat from Philadelphia." I serve notice on this gentleman that politics does not mean feudal ownership of the electors. You cannot barter with the bodies of our citizens to self-perpetuate a political feudal dynasty. People are not to be treated as sacks of cement. Seventy-one thousand, one hundred Delaware Countians are not to be shipped into the political domination of Philadelphia merely to perpetuate six Congressional seats.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, first of all, the gentleman is completely out of order in discussing a measure that has just been introduced over in the House and is not even in the Senate. Be that as it may, I would like to point out to the gentleman that the median figure used in arriving at the number of constituents any Congressman will have is 419,000 or 420,000, for this discussion.

Down in the Delaware County area where this gentleman comes from, there are 560,000 people. That means approximately one hundred and some thousand people are without representation.

Secondly, this is not new, this is not shocking and this is not a development which has not taken place. I would like to respectfully point out to the gentleman that county lines have been set up the same as townships, boroughs, and all of these other manifestations that we have in our society, primarily because communications between the people were so bad. They were set up primarily to have a county seat so that people would know where to go, and they did not make it too far distant so that they could not travel to these different points.

Today, Senator, I would like to point out that Delaware County and the counties surrounding Philadelphia enjoy many of the things that they have because of the city of Philadelphia. This is the hub around which revolves the entire community. You share in our police powers, you share in our fire fighting facilities, you share in our water programs and you also share in the denaturing of that water so that it becomes usable again after industry or some of the homes have used it. This is the entire community that makes up the Delaware County area.

I would think, Senator, coming from your area, having the city of Chester in your area and having the myriad problems that go on in that community,—to wit., one of your large plants moved out and the help that you needed came from the city of Philadelphia and the communities surrounding it—that you would be more interested in having a Legislature that is interested in those problems and that is sympathetic to them, instead of continuing on with having people who are not in sympathy with the big communities, not in sympathy with the large city areas and not in sympathy with the programs and problems that you are trying to forward in this Body yourself.

For example, let us take one or two of the bills which you have introduced in this Session. They certainly do not militate on behalf of the type of people who represent the Congress or represent these Members of the Legislature here today. However, people who come from the big cities think along these same lines, and I think you are to be congratulated that you are getting around to that type of thinking and that you are moving in that direction to try to help your community.

Basically, you are talking about a Port Authority down in Chester, which I think is a forward-thinking process which moves in the direction in which we have been moving in Philadelphia and have been moving for some time.

Many of the things that happen in that community, where you are representing the people, are needful of what the things are that are in Philadelphia. You remove the Philadelphia area from this entire scene and see how that community of yours will thrive, see how far they will go, see what your transportation problems will be, and see what the entire picture will be. Take away the taxing power that the city of Philadelphia provides, not only in the National picture but in the State, and see what your community will suffer and see what the entire State will have to make up if we take this out of it.

Instead of you taking the position which you think is a politically sound one and with which I happen to disagree, I think you would rather take the position to get people who are sympathetic to the type of things that you are interested in, regardless of whether they come from the city of Philadelphia or whether they come from Delaware County.

I am very happy to see that you are interested in the labor movement and their thinking, because I want to suggest to you a number of bills that are on this Calendar to which they also subscribe, and hope you will go along with us. As you have found, we have been lacking a vote on many occasions on some of these labor measures. I would be very happy to have you join us on some of them. If these are the people whom you listen to, I will be happy to have them write to you, and maybe they can influence you along these lines. I did not realize that you put such great store in the position they take. However, as long as you do, I will certainly have them get in touch with you.

This has gone on for many years in the State of Illinois and in many other States that are enlightened. They do have people who represent people living in different communities and across county lines.

The city of Philadelphia, for example, is now the fourth largest city and Los Angeles is now the third largest. The only reason for that is because Los Angeles has now spread out over a large area. They have removed these county lines whereas, in the city of Philadelphia, we are bounded by this square area that was set up back in the days of William Penn.

I think you will find there are more people who live in your community—and whom you represent, sir—who have more interest in the city of Philadelphia and whose interests are directly bound up with the city of Philadelphia more so than they are with the interests of Delaware County, because they merely sleep in Delaware County. Their livelihood, their economic well-being, and all of the fine things that come to them and allow them to continue to live out in Delaware County come from the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, the terms feudalism and slavery, coming from my colleague from Delaware County, are merely an echoing of the conditions in his county.

We all know Joe Pew and we all know John McClure, and we all know the barony they exercise down there. They are still there, but all of their contemporaries in Philadelphia have passed from the scene.

Philadelphia City is undergoing a seven and one-half million dollar renovation, and the Philadelphia city government has gone through that renovation and is still going through it. I know they consider it a feudal territory to see a district expanded to take in population in order to give proper representation to people in those counties where they do not have any at all at the present time.

We sort of regret losing some of our men. Take, for example, Bill Green. He would represent half of the ward I represent. They would be very fortunate in Bensalem Township, in Bucks County, to have him represent them because they would then get some service. I do not think there is a working Congressman who does more for his people than William J. Green, Jr. I am pretty sure that Kathryn E. Granahan will perform much better service for the people of Delaware County than the service they are getting now.

These people are accessible, and they pay attention to the requests made of them by their constituents. It is our loss that we should lose any of them. However, it is the gain of those people who will have these representatives represent them in these counties.

I certainly do not like to see people misunderstand and be misinformed about Philadelphia's city government. We are a modern city government. Our Mayor tends to his business. He is up here today looking out for some of the things which concern the people whom he represents. We are fortunate and proud to have him as our Mayor.

We are proud to have a real leader and not a boss. There is nothing bossy about Bill Green. That is the image some people like to make of him. He is not a boss. He is a man who leads his organization and he leads it successfully. That is what hurts other people in the opposition organization. However, we do think the people who get Kathryn Granahan and Bill Green to represent them will be very fortunate indeed.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I would like to inform Senator Bell that crossing county lines in congressional reapportionment is not something new. I should like to inform the gentleman that Congressman Joseph Martin, the former Republican Majority Leader of the House of Representatives, under a reapportionment bill, crossed county lines in order to stay in the House. Therefore, please do not make it appear as though we are introducing something unheard of.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I am not going to discuss the merits of any bill because I have not been privileged to read any bill and I have not even heard the terms of any bill. However, I would like to talk sense to Senator Bell, if I may and if this is possible. I would like to tell Senator Bell that under the present congressional reapportionment, I suppose he realizes that he lives in a county which is grossly underrepresented. In other words, the median size of the present Congressional District is about 360,000. That means that in most of the counties in the Commonwealth, there is one Congressman to 360,000 people. In Senator Bell's County, there is one Congressman to 552,000 people. If we are going to reapportion and get down to the basis of twenty-seven Congressmen, we will then have one Congressman to every 419,000 people. That is the average we hope to strike. There will be some slightly larger and some slightly smaller districts. However, in Senator Bell's county, if he insists that the Congressional District remains at one county, the people of Delaware County will be grossly underrepresented because there will be 552,000 people represented by one Congressman.

This suggests to me that any way you deal with the problem, the county of Senator Bell is a problem county. It is not a problem county, however, because of Senator Bell or the people in it. I am sure they are fine people and I think Senator Bell is a fine Senator. However, because of its size and because it has a large percentage,—over twenty-five per cent more than the ratio that we should strike across the Commonwealth—it makes a problem.

In order to see to it that the people of Senator Bell's county are treated fairly, I would say that one of two things must happen. Either a piece of Delaware County has to be put with some other Congressional District or a piece of some other county has to be put with Delaware County, in order to make two districts. Otherwise, it is obvious that we are going to be unfair to the people of Delaware County. We are going to have the people of Delaware County have less voice in the lawmaking of the United States Government than the people of the other counties of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and, as a matter of fact, of the other counties throughout the United States of America.

Therefore, I would say to Senator Bell that if he wishes to represent the interests of his people in Delaware County and wishes to see to it that they get the kind of representation which they should have, equally with the other people of the Commonwealth and of the Nation, it would be incumbent upon him to support a proposal which would see to it that the ratio of representation is somewhere around 419,000 constituents to one Congressman, rather than the present 552,000. Whether he likes this present plan about which he is talking—which, as I said, I have not had the advantage of seeing—or some other plan, I am sure that Senator Bell will not want to see the people of Delaware County underrepresented as they are at present.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, when I pulled the tail of the Philadelphia Democratic donkey, I did not think I reached as far as York County. I have heard some very naive and poor excuses. You know, it is common sense that it is better to have one good excuse than a lot of poor ones. To me, what I have heard are poor ones.

First of all, I heard an attack upon the Republican leadership of Delaware County. The reason why the present organization has continued in power down there is because the people of Delaware County want it in power. We have a very enlightened county. We have had move into it, in the past ten or fifteen years, a great number of the best residents of the city of Philadelphia. I think that is one of the reasons why Philadelphia wants to come out after them. However, Mr. President, these people have voted to continue the Republican organization in power because they give good government in Delaware County.

Secondly, with respect to this ratio, I am forced to rely on newspapers. I am one of those who believe that newspapers, a greater part of the time, are very factual. I have been informed that one of the new districts set up under this bill, the Tenth District,—and I do not know where the bill is being introduced—will have 589,000 people in it. There goes that argument.

Gentlemen, by whatever name you call it or how much perfume you put on it, and no matter what you call a bouquet of flowers, this is still crossing the line from Philadelphia into my county and into Bucks County. If you folks in Philadelphia County do not have enough problems, which I think you do, I would suggest that you stay at home and clean up there.

You only are justified at the most in having five Congressmen. This is nothing more than a scheme to annex into two Philadelphia districts the suburban residents of the counties of Bucks and Delaware. I condemn it and if you ever bring it onto this floor, I am going to tell you that you had better have your votes.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am delighted that the gentleman has such an open mind on this subject. Without even seeing the bill, he is against it. That is pretty hard to do. I think after he sees the bill, he will even be more confused because he is already against it.

It is like that old story: "Don't tell me about the facts; they only confuse me." I will not do that. I just hope the gentleman will continue to have an open mind and will read the bill, after which we will be able to discuss it.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. WEINER (By Request), by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 905, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 12, 1951 (P. L. 90), entitled "Liquor Code," excepting certain restaurants from the prohibition of granting licenses to places of amusement.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE INSISTS UPON ITS AMENDMENTS NONCONCURRED IN BY THE SENATE TO SB 104, AND APPOINTS COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House insists upon its amendments nonconcurring in by the Senate to SB 104, and has appointed Messrs. DOUGHERTY, PETROSKY, and A. W. JOHNSON as a Committee of Conference to confer with a similar committee of the Senate (already appointed) to consider the differences existing between the two houses in relation to said bill.

RECONSIDERATION OF HB 1075

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which House Bill No. 1075, Printer's No. 1192, failed of final passage on July 24, 1961.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I voted with the prevailing side.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 1075 go over in its order and appear on tomorrow's Final Passage Calendar.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, House Bill No. 1075 will be placed on tomorrow's Final Passage Calendar.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE SUBMITTED

Mr. WEINER submitted the Report of Committee of Conference on SB 104, which was placed on the Calendar.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O God of Infinite Wisdom, we look to Thee in the recognition that Thy glory is revealed in all of the world about us; we thank Thee for the glory which Thou didst manifest in Thy Son, and for the glory which Thou dost show in the guidance of Thy Spirit; and we humbly pray that Thy greater glory may be revealed in the work which Thou hast called us to do, and in the work we bring to maturity through Thy help and direction: through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JOURNALS APPROVED

The SPEAKER. Are there any corrections to the Journals of Tuesday, June 13 and Wednesday, June 14, 1961? If not, and without objection, the Journals are approved.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Wednesday, July 26, 1961, will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. McCANN and PETROSKY.

HOUSE BILL No. 1840.

An Act amending the act of July 15, 1897 (P. L. 292), entitled "An act to provide revenue by taxation" clarifying provisions for imposing, collecting and paying tax on deposits and shares of savings banks without capital stock, building and loan associations and federal and state savings and loan associations measured by their surplus, undivided profits and reserves.

Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. POLEN.

HOUSE BILL No. 1841.

An Act amending "The General Appropriation Act of 1961," approved May 25, 1961 (Appropriation Act No. 5-A), changing certain amounts appropriated to the Department of Public Instruction and the Department of Revenue, and making an appropriation to the Department of Public Instruction for community colleges.

Referred to the Committee on Education.

MEMBER OF NORTH CAROLINA GENERAL ASSEMBLY WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. We are honored today by having a distinguished visitor, a member of the General Assembly from North Carolina; a lady member. There are several lady members in the General Assemblies of the various States, and they will be crowding us pretty hard if their numbers increase.

Our visitor is The Honorable Theresa Pierce Fletcher, a member of the House of Representatives of North Carolina. She is here primarily visiting relatives, and she is in the House today as the guest of the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Kistler. It gives me great pleasure to introduce to the members of this House, the Honorable Theresa Pierce Fletcher who will, I hope, say a few words to us.

ADDRESS BY THE HONORABLE THERESA
PIERCE FLETCHER

Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen, fellow members of the House, of this honorable body, it indeed is a great pleasure and a great honor for me to be here with you today. I was visiting relatives in and around Harrisburg and I did not even know that you were still in session. Our session in North Carolina closed the latter part of June, but when I heard that you were still here I just could not resist the opportunity of coming by and saying "hello." I really feel very much at home, once more, because our bodies look so much alike, and I have been studying your procedure somewhat today and I find that it is very much like our procedure in North Carolina. So I just feel that I have gotten back among a whole host of friends.

I do not know whether you know much about North Carolina or not, but in my section—I am from Alexander County—the political parties are almost equally divided, almost 50-50 Democratic and Republican. We are just about equal. Sometimes as much as 50 votes will swing the election either way. The State is, of course, Democratic, as you know, and I am a Republican. We came within 7 percent of electing a Republican governor this last fall. We feel as though we have a little way to go yet, but we think we shall make that in time.

Our House consists of 120 members. There were 15 Republicans in the House, and our Senate had 50 members, the same as yours, and we had 2 Republican Senators in the Senate. So we do have some way to go yet, you see, before North Carolina is entirely Republican. I must say that after I arrived there I did not know but what the Democrats would think I had horns, and I think possibly for a few days they did have that idea. But after we got acquainted they were as fine a bunch as I have ever seen, and politics seem to me to have been entirely forgotten. It was not what party you belonged to, but the main thing was, "You vote for my bill and I will vote for yours." We worked together a great deal and, of course, as you know, all Democrats do not agree with each other and neither do all Republicans. That is what makes America what it is, because we can check on each other. As long as we have the two great parties checking on each other and lambasting each other whenever they need it, I do not think we need to fear about the future of America. It is all a wonderful game and I feel that we are all in it for patriotic reasons. We are certainly not in it for the money in our State because legislators are paid very little and it is a sacrifice to everyone of them to accept the position. So they are there to really help our State and our Country in general.

We have five women members; three Democrats and two Republicans. They were two and two at first but one of our members died and his wife was appointed in his place, so that gave the Democrats a majority of one in the lady membership. We all get along fine and we are very happy together.

We had a lot of problems this time. Of course, the prevailing problem with us, and I guess with all of us, is the matter of taxation and when and how and where to find these taxes. We had this problem very seriously because our schools are in need of improvement and teachers' salaries were too low, and our government was very much for a straight across-the-board sales tax. Many of them opposed it, including myself. I did not believe in a tax on poverty. I felt that we should go where the money was. I do think we have many interests in North Carolina that were not taxed at all, and I thought they should be taxed first before we put taxes on the poor peoples' food. But, anyway, the bill passed and we shall see how it works. I hope it is to the benefit of all.

Again, I will say that I am very delighted to meet all of you. I would like to speak to all of you that I can, and if I do not speak to your personally, remember I am delighted to be here and delighted to see you. If you ever get down to North Carolina, come and see our legislature if it is in session; if it is not, come to see me at Taylorsville, North Carolina. I live right in the little crossroads town. Anybody can tell you where I live. Thanks a lot for letting me speak to you. I really enjoyed seeing you. Good luck to your State and to all of you individually.

The SPEAKER. Incidentally, the lady from North Carolina is an attorney-at-law.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. With your permission, we will go into what might be called a "Committee of the Whole" for a period not to exceed an hour.

You know we sent two members of the House to Albany to look-see how they did things there. They will prepare written reports which will be printed in the record and then may be printed in pamphlets. They will probably make recommendations as to procedure. It occurred to the Chair that perhaps members would be interested in hearing a verbal report. Our idea is to divide the time and take an hour, a half hour for each gentleman, for a verbal report and then take 15 minutes for questions from the floor, if the members care to ask them.

They are going to speak off-the-cuff.

The Chair will recognize the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, and if he prefers to speak from the rostrum, he will be privileged to do so. It may be easier to speak from here.

As I said, we are theoretically in a Committee of the Whole although there has been no formal motion to that effect.

I am sure you will be interested in what these two gentlemen have to say.

REPORT BY Mr. TOMPKINS

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I hope that I have this mike at an angle where you can all hear me.

Our Speaker, of course, together with some other members of this General Assembly, has for a number of years been interested in improving the procedures under which we operate. The Speaker had one idea in mind and that was, how does New York State adjourn its General Assembly by the first of April each year? For that purpose he sent the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, and myself, accompanied by a member of the press, Mr. John Scotzin, to Albany last week to take a look-see.

Well, we want and we looked and observed and we have a report to make which, in some respects, may be revolutionary so far as our long traditional and State habits are concerned in connection with legislative procedure.

To begin with, just a little preliminary. In Harrisburg we talk about Capitol Hill. When I got to Albany I had that one idea in mind. They have their capitol located on a mountain; they call it Capitol Mountain. You really climb one to get up there.

Secondly, their edifice was erected and first used in 1879 and it does not have the color and the lustre of the Pennsylvania Capitol. Apparently in its day it was built more as a showplace rather than as something to be utilized for governmental purposes. Nevertheless, it is a very imposing structure.

The gentleman from Allegheny and myself have decided to try and divide our impressions of the New York State operations insofar as possible. I might say this: With the gentleman of the press who accompanied us, the first thing he did was to grin from ear to ear when he ran into Mr. Irvis and myself and we asked him what the big story was, and he said, "Well, you know the first thing I found out is that the press have the privileges of the floor during session."

Well, of course, we told him that inasmuch as we were paying our own expenses, we could make mention of that without ruffling the fur of the Speaker too much. Although in going over the matter with certain other members of the press here today, they said they do not know if they would like that because they are afraid of the jungles out there. So there you have the reaction with regard to the privileges of the floor.

The New York State House inside is only about one-third the size of this hall. They have 150 members. They have no general public-address system. They have a mike at the Speaker's desk and at the clerk's desk and they have two podiums down in the well of the House to which you repair in case you wish to debate a bill or say something to the members of the House.

In dividing our report as to our impressions as to how they do it in 100 days in New York, Mr. Irvis, Mr. Scotzin and myself came to the very emphatic impression that the General Assembly in New York is a co-ordinate and not a subservient branch of the government, and I think some of the things they do perhaps makes them that way as well as places them in a position of being able to quit at the end of 100 days.

Now what are some of the things they do? Their constitution provides that the Governor shall submit his budget message to the General Assembly not later than February 1 of each year. Beginning in September, the budget office which has a staff, I might say, of 150 people, starts sending out for requests from the departments for the budget for the ensuing year. When they send in their reports to the budget office, copies of this report must also be sent to the Ways and Means Committee of the House, which corresponds, of course, to our Appropriations Committee in Pennsylvania, and to the Finance Committee in the New York Senate, which, of course, corresponds to our Finance Committee in the State Senate here.

In about October they start scheduling hearings of the departments before the budget office, which the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, the chairman of the Finance Committee, their budget analysts and any members of those respective committees who so desire may attend and have full voice in the hearings. So when February 1 comes, they have completed their hearings and when the Governor submits his budget the only thing they then do is perhaps have a public hearing or two in order that taxpayers' groups and chambers of commerce, or what have you, may have an opportunity to express their views. In that way they do not have the long drawn out departmental hearings that we have in Pennsylvania, which delay the work of this session until those things are done.

Now, what else do they do?

In Pennsylvania there is House bill No. 808 of your 1961 session which was your general appropriations bill. It is 71 pages long. We think that is a big bill, but in New York their general appropriations bill contains 688 pages and, if I want to find how many prison guards they have at Dannemora Prison in New York State, I turn to the section on correctional institutions and go to Dannemora and they have listed in there the number of guards for which they are providing money in the 1961 budget. Or, if I want to find the number of professors they have in a certain category in Brockport State Teachers College in New York State, I turn to the education section in this budget and I go to Brockport State Teachers College and I find the number of professors that are being provided for.

The General Assembly has a full printed report of the number of employees for which they are providing funds for that session, or for that year. There is a complete working document, line by line of what they are doing. The General Assembly is informed, and is it any wonder they are a coordinate branch of the Government when they have that kind of information? We very strongly recommend that such a system should be adopted in the State of Pennsylvania to give this General Assembly a better idea of what is going on.

In addition, you have a working staff during the session augmented by quite a number of people, but during the interim still maintained in skeleton force that keep continually working on these matters on behalf of the Ways and Means Committee and the Finance Committee and cooperating through the budget office.

Something else that gives them an opportunity to know what is going on: In New York they do not permit the Governor to shift funds from one project to another at his discretion. In order to shift funds from one project to another they must also get the approval of the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and the approval of the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. In that way the General Assembly has a copy, full information copy, as to what is going on and what is being done with the Commonwealth's money that the General Assembly is charged with the responsibility of providing through the taxes which they are asked to vote.

What else do they do? They establish an emergency fund of some multi-million dollars for the purpose of taking care of shortages that might arise in the operation of any particular function of government or in a case of emergency, but the Governor does not have the sole power to determine when those shall be used. He can use them only after he gets the approval also of the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. The General Assembly in that respect knows what is going on. They have the information before them. Therefore, they become a coordinate branch of the government.

What else do they do? Some of those things, I might say, such as controlling the shifting of funds, the allocation of emergency funds, and so forth, could very well be an appropriate function of the "watchdog" committee which we have created in the State of Pennsylvania. If they are looking for something to do, there is one item they might look at, in my opinion.

Now what else do they do? Whenever a contract is signed involving the State of New York by any independent agency, such as the turnpike commission—their Throughway Commission, rather—copies of that contract must also be filed at that time with the Ways and Means Committee of the House and the Finance Committee of the Senate. Can you imagine how much knowledge we would have in the State of Pennsylvania as to what is going on, how much knowledge the General Assembly would have, if copies of all GSA contracts, if copies of our educational building authority, if copies of our highway and bridge authority, if copies of the contracts of our Welfare Department and all the other branches of government had also to be filed with our Appropriations Committee, or perhaps with our "watchdog" committee? Can you imagine how much we would know about what is going on and how coordinate and independent we could be as a General Assembly in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

There lies the power of a coordinate branch of the government—that they know what is going on—that the membership is informed.

Another thing which they did which was initiated by Governor Rockefeller: They have what they call a campus, located about four miles from the main Capitol Building in Albany, consisting of large acreages, contiguous acreages of land, including, I might say, a country club which they had to take over on which they are building the several departmental office buildings. Now how are they financing this capitol improvement? Governor Rockefeller, and this is only surface information, and I certainly, for one, intend to dig further into this because I think it is an answer to some of our problems in Pennsylvania, Governor Rockefeller took the retirement funds in the State of New York and is building these buildings and has lease rental arrangement whereby these retirement funds are repaid and in that way they avoid the payment of long-term interest on their building program in the State of New York. How much money that would amount to in the State of Pennsylvania, I do not know, but I venture to say right offhand that the interest money right today out of such an arrangement in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would give you the money for your educational program for this year.

They do business in a businesslike way, as far as I can see and so far as I was able to observe. They are trying to do things for the benefit of the taxpayers of the State of New York.

Just a side tip on these Departmental offices and on this governmental office situation: When we were in the Lieutenant Governor's office, he told us that they had rented one entire office building downtown in Albany for the purpose of housing a lot of the departments and he said, suddenly this year notice came through to them that the rent from a certain date would be payable to Joseph B. Kennedy; he says he went down and bought the building. So, he gets his revenue from quite devious places.

Now, I think that I have reported enough in that regard on the budget and methods of financing in the State of New York, and, if there are any members at this time who have any questions that they would care to ask in that field or any other field regarding that procedure in the State of New York, I would be glad to answer them if I can.

Is there anything that anyone is curious about in that connection?

Now, I think that when you get the additional report from the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, and you tie these two reports together, you will begin to gather some idea as to how they do it in 100 days in New York and how they operate their functions.

Now, I do not know whether the gentleman from Allegheny will tell you this or not but another item which I thought was very important was the fact that they have a cut-off date for the introduction of administration and departmental bills and they enforce it, and, if any department or the administration is late in getting any of its program in, they just say to him very politely, very well, we will make that a study in committee for the interim and we will be back in nine months' time and take care of it.

Are there any questions? If not, I thank you very much for your attention to our running report on this situation. Copies of a great number of things in connection with the operation of the State of New York are on file in my office and I think Mr. Irvis has copies for himself as well as extra copies for the Speaker. If at any time any of you care to see any of these, you can do so by calling at my office or seeing Mr. Irvis or calling the Speaker's office. I thank you for your courtesy.

REPORT BY Mr. IRVIS

The SPEAKER. Now we will hear from the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis.

Mr. IRVIS. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I am fully aware of the fact that no one of us on the first day of the week's session is apt to be paying too much attention to what goes on up here in the beginning of that session.

However, ladies and gentlemen, what the gentleman from Cameron and I are reporting to you today is that we have spent entirely too long a time in session here this year and we think we have found the tools whereby next year or the year after the General Assembly of Pennsylvania will not have to stay as long as we have stayed this year and in 1959.

I would like to emphasize what Mr. Tompkins has reported and I would like you to remember it. Whereas, we started in session the first day of January 1961 and here we are, on the seventh day of August 1961, not yet finished and with no set date as to when we shall finish, the Assembly and the Senate of the wealthiest and the most populous State in the Union began in the early days of January 1961 and finished its session by the first of April and went home.

Incidentally, for working that period the members of the Senate and the Assembly of New York were paid $7,500 in salary and $2,500 in expenses, plus the actual travel mileage to and from their homes. Beginning in 1963, they will be paid $10,000 a year in salary and whatever expense account they vote for themselves.

I think also you will be interested in several devices which they have used over the years to shorten their sessions.

We come here the first of January with practically nothing prepared. In New York State it is different. In New York State they have what is called a pre-filing of bills. If you were in New York State by November 15, 1960, you would have been privileged to have started filing proposed legislation with the clerk of the Assembly, of the General Assembly, in New York State.

Now, out of a total of approximately 5,000 bills which were filed in the Assembly, that is their lower house, 1,275 of those bills were already filed and all ready for action the very first day that the Assembly met. This means, of course, that their committees, instead of waiting for two or three months to get in motion the way some of our committees are forced to do, start meeting the second day of the session and they begin voting on legislation the first week of the session. They move.

This pre-filing of bills is new in New York State. It has existed only for three years. The leadership of the Assembly and the Senate is now discussing whether or not they can permit pre-filing to start even earlier than November 15th. They hope to get most of their legislation filed before the session starts so that they may shorten the session even further.

We recommend that this be studied by this House as a possibility for shortening the sessions which we hold here in Pennsylvania.

There is another tool which I think is tremendously important, which all three of us agree is tremendously important. They appoint what they call joint-legislative committees. These committees are appointed by resolution, either in the Assembly or in the Senate, and they spring into life 30 days after the adjournment motion. They are, therefore, interim committees. They are investigative committees. They are the committees which hold public hearings in the various cities and hamlets and townships of New York State. They are given adequate appropriations; they are given counsel and staff; they are given expense accounts. And they are told to bring back to either the Assembly or the Senate a report which must be made by the end of March of the following year. It is usually made much earlier. They may either recommend in general or they may recommend specific legislation. And, of course, their recommendations carry great weight in the Assembly. These interim committees, in our opinion, constitute one of the strongest devices in the hands of the Assembly of New York State for shortening its sessions and for sharpening the attention of the membership, for the members who sit on these committees and travel with these committees perforce learn something about the subject matter of the committee and do not have to rely solely on briefs which are given them by their research counsel, but learn it for themselves.

There is another tool which I think ought to be mentioned and that is something which our Speaker has recommended to us and something which I have found a personal need of in the years that I have spent here so far. They call in the New York State Legislative Index. Now the New York State Legislative Index is a weekly publication which abstracts every bill and every resolution introduced in the Assembly of New York State. It does not merely give its title; it does not merely give the people who introduced it, but abstracts the core of the bills for each member, and, if he wishes, he can read in brief what each bill does, or what each bill purports to do.

This is a private service, paid for by the State of New York but done by a nonpartisan business firm; not by Republicans for the benefit of Republicans, and not by Democrats for the benefit of Democrats, but a nonpartisan private firm publishes this and hands it out to every single member, so that every member may know exactly what each bill does. I am informed that the cost is $150 per member per session.

Ed says if the State were out of general funds, the lobbyists would have to buy their own services, which is not a bad idea.

There are other devices which the New York State Legislature has used but I do not think at this time I should go into them. We are going to put them in our written report, and we hope that you will read the report and that you will study it, because if you do, and if we are able to move on this, on the things we have found out, all three of us, John Scotzin, Ed Tompkins and I are convinced that we can get more business done in the General Assembly in Pennsylvania in a much shorter time more effectively. We can strengthen this arm of the government.

I want to emphasize what Mr. Tompkins has said here at this microphone: I don't want anyone to think that he is saying it as a Republican and I want to say it as a Democrat, with a Democrat sitting in the chair of the governorship. In New York State the members of the General Assembly there do not wait for the governor to propose a program. They have their own program officials and they draw up their own programs. They are truly a coordinate branch of the government. I trust that those of us who sit in this Assembly understand exactly what I am saying and what Mr. Tompkins has said here. They are truly a coordinate branch of the government. They work on their own programming and they sit with the governor to see which part of his program they approve of. I think this is something that we need to devote a considerable amount of time and thought to.

Thank you for your attention.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I would like to say, to supplement what the gentleman from Allegheny has said, that interim study and investigating committees are the only thing they authorize in the State of New York. They do not permit any study or investigating committees to operate during the course of the session.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate Mr. Tompkins?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that Mr. Tompkins and Mr. Irvis are going to, in addition to their report, make recommendations to this General Assembly, wherein we can improve our system as the result of your trip to New York?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Yes, that is proposed.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I might add, if we cannot proceed on our own initiative, at least we are going to try to have a committee appointed with funds and staff to study legislative procedure to see what we can do to break the shackles in the State of Pennsylvania on our legislative processes.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Cameron and the gentleman from Allegheny.

All that he has said simply emphasizes the fact that in order to do good work you have to have the facilities with which to work. You have to have a place in which to work. This House and the other chamber are hampered and crippled by reason of the fact that their committees do not have the facilities with which to function on a year-around basis. Every chairman of every committee should have a private office of his own with a secretary. Adjoining that office should be a committee room large enough, not only for the committee meetings, but for hearings of a minor nature. The space problem is imperative. All of these things that we have talked about will not get anywhere if we cannot have space in which to operate.

The members of this House and the members of the other chamber have not seemingly been interested in those matters. In the other chamber they are crowded worse than we are. They seem to accept that sort of thing as an Act of God, something that comes down from times past and is sacred. We ought to have, come the next fiscal session, better committee facilities, and, come the next session after that, we should have adequate space in which to operate. In other States they have, one by one, been moving bureaus and departments out of the main capitol building to the end that in many of the States the General Assembly now occupies what was once the entire capitol building. That is the direction in which we must go, unless we want to jog along as we have been jogging along.

The Chair thanks the members of the House for their attention.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

Mr. McCANN. On bills on final passage postponed, Mr. Speaker, I call up House bill 1448, for the purpose of amendment by the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. McCANN.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House bill No. 1448, entitled:

An Act amending the "Milk Control Law" approved April 28, 1937 (P. L. 417), further regulating the sale of milk on farms directly to consumers.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. FOX. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. FOX asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 402), page 4, line 4, by inserting a bracket before "Provided"

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 402), page 4, line 7, by striking out "has not been pasteurized and"

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 402), page 4, line 12, by inserting a bracket after "act"

Amend Bill, page 4, by inserting after line 12:

Section 2. Article IV of the act is amended by adding, at the end thereof, two new sections to read:

Section 413. Sales of Pasteurized Milk at Producers' Farms to Consumers.—A producer selling pasteurized milk directly to consumers at the farm operated by such producer shall be exempt from regulation under this act, except the commission, after a public hearing, shall fix by an appropriate order minimum prices and may fix maximum prices to be charged and received by such producer for such milk sold, handled or consigned within any marketing area of the Commonwealth to consumers at producers' farms: such prices shall be based upon all conditions affecting the milk industry in each milk marketing area, including the amount necessary to yield a reasonable return to such producer, which return shall not be less than cost plus a reasonable return, and in ascertaining such returns the commission shall utilize a cross-section of these producers representing the average or normally efficient operations; and except, further, that such producers shall be subject to Articles IX and X of this act

Such producers shall not sell any milk as provided in this section until he has first received a license issued by the commission for which a yearly fee of fifteen dollars ($15.00) shall be charged and collected. The commission may decline to issue or to reissue such license and may suspend, revoke or refuse to transfer a license already granted if the producer after hearing shall have been found by the commission to have violated any of the rules, regulations or orders of the commission applicable to such producer. In any case where the commission shall suspend a license, the commission may accept from the licensee an offer in compromise at the rate of fifty dollars ($50.00) for each day of suspension as a penalty in lieu of such suspension, and thereupon rescind the suspension.

A producer, to qualify under the provisions of this section, shall comply with the following requirements:

(1) All pasteurized milk sold to consumers must be produced on the farm operated by such producer, and shall be sold at the farm where produced.

(2) Sales to consumers must be on a cash basis.

(3) Consumers must own the containers in which they purchase the pasteurized milk.

(4) The producer must not hold a milk dealer's license issued by the commission nor be engaged in the delivery of milk on retail or wholesale routes.

If the producer does not comply fully with each and all of the requirements set forth in this section, he shall then be subject to full regulation as provided throughout this act.

Section 414. Sales of Raw Milk to Consumers.—A producer selling raw or unpasteurized milk where such sales are on a cash basis and do not exceed two gallons to any one consumer in any one day, at the farms of producers to consumers in containers owned and provided by the consumer, the producers so selling milk shall be exempt from the provisions of this act, provided such producer does not hold a milk dealer's license as issued by the commission nor be engaged in the delivery of milk on retail or wholesale routes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Down.

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, could I ask that the amendments be explained please?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox.

Mr. FOX. Mr. Speaker, these amendments are mainly for the purpose of clarifying the bill. The bill, as you recall, is the bill which would apply under certain provisions of the Milk Control Law to farmers selling milk to the public on their farms.

At the time that the bill was before the House before, there was considerable confusion about the intent and purpose of it. These amendments, I think, will clarify the intent of the bill.

I would say this in explanation: As the bill would be amended with these amendments the only provisions of the Milk Control Law that would apply in this case would be the provision relating to the pricing of milk by the Milk Control Commission in these particular operations. Certain provisions that regular milk dealers have to abide by, such as keeping records of the volume of their sales and many other records, and paying a license fee based on the volume, such things as that would not apply to these farm operators. Really the only provision that would apply would be the pricing provision. There would be a nominal license fee, of course, for the purpose of administration, but it would be a set fee for all such operators.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Down.

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Lawrence permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FOX. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, do the amendments mean that the farmer must get a license from the Milk Control Commission?

Mr. FOX. Any operator, any farm operator, who is selling pasteurized milk to the public at his farm would have to get a license. I think it is necessary that he get a license in order that the Milk Control Commission would know who these operators are and where they are, so he would be required to get a particular license. The fee would be $15 a year, and they would not be charged a license fee on the same basis as licensed milk dealers.

Mr. DOWN. But, Mr. Speaker, would they be charged a fee?

Mr. FOX. Yes.

Mr. DOWN. They would?

Mr. FOX. Yes.

Mr. DOWN. And did the gentleman say that it does eliminate all the paper work that ordinarily a milk dealer would have to go through?

Mr. FOX. That is true. The many records that a milk dealer has to keep would be eliminated in the case of these farm operators.

Mr. DOWN. In other words, Mr. Speaker, the only thing that is not eliminated with these amendments is the farmer being put under the price control structure of the Milk Control Commission, is that right?

Mr. FOX. Yes, that is right. It specifies in the amendments—this is a question that was raised at the previous discussion and this is spelled out specifically in the amendments—that hearings would be held and conditions relating to the marketing of milk in this manner would be considered in establishing the price.

Mr. DOWN. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I might say that I do not object to the amendments but it still does not help the philosophy of the bill any. Thank you.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1789, entitled:

An Act to provide revenue for educational purposes by imposing an excise tax on rents royalties interest dividends and capital gains from investment capital as defined of individual residents and nonresidents of the Commonwealth and of estates and trusts fixing the rates of tax thereon providing for the reporting and payment of tax interest and penalties assessments collections liens reviews appeals refunds and penalties and conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue fiduciaries partnerships associations and individuals.

Amend Section 306, page 11, line 2, by inserting after "plan" and trusts established in compliance with section 302 subsections (c) 5 (A) and (g) of the Labor Management Relations Act, 61 Stat. 157.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, this being a very important bill, I believe it would be in order for Mr. McCann to explain his amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the amendments to 1789 deal with section 306. This is the section that excludes the interest and the health and welfare funds. This amendment inserts, "and trusts established in compliance with section 302" of the Labor Management Relations Act 61, Statue 157.

All this is is a technical clearance dealing with these funds. We believe that they were all properly excluded in section 306. The amendment just is the language in that section. I believe you will find that on page 10 of the present bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the lady from Northampton, Mrs. Reibman.

Mrs. REIBMAN. Mr. Speaker, House bill 1807, printer's No. 2405, which is on the calendar today and to which we are offering amendments, has provided for the raising of the reimbursement level to school districts and the appropriate local effort to be increased over a ten-year period. If this bill were passed in this condition, it would mean then that the legislature would be on record as recommending to the school districts that every year the reimbursement level would be raised by a certain amount.

In addition, on page 15 of House bill 1807 there has been incorporated a new theory of giving additional teaching unit credit for three additional teaching units to the school districts for specialized services. The Governor's Committee on Education has recommended that there be given incentive payments to school districts for guidance counselors and librarians. There are many people in education who feel that the additional teaching unit credit should not be limited to just those two areas of guidance counselors and librarians.

The Education Policy Commission of the National Association for Education has recommended that there be additional professional units for other fields other than just guidance counselors and librarians. And so on page 15 of this report we have included in this bill that additional teaching unit credit be given not only to guidance counselors and librarians, but to psychologists, curriculum specialists, reading development teachers, whatever it is that the school district feels is necessary to provide for a well-balanced, well-rounded program. This does not mean that the State will willy-nilly give these additional teaching units. There are things that the school districts would have to do. First of all, there would have to be prior approval; they would have to meet standards set by the State Council of Education.

The Select Committee on Education, both the House and the Senate, in joint session had felt and had made the agreement that a reimbursement level should only be increased for the interim period of one year, and that these amendments should be offered to strip House bill 1807 of everything except an interim subsidy of raising the reimbursement level from the present $5,800 to $6,200 with the appropriate local effort. That is what these amendments do, they carry out the agreement of the Select Committee in stripping the bill of everything except just an interim subsidy program for this one year.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the amendments?
They were agreed to.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1817, entitled:

An Act amending the "Public School Code of 1949" approved March 10, 1949, providing for minimum compensation and increments and maximum mandated salary and increments and for qualifications for administrators and members of the faculty of State colleges, providing for leaves of absence * * * .

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. POLEN asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2015), page 6, line 10, by striking out "degree" and inserting degrees.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 520, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), granting a credit for certain suspensions toward revocation penalties including motorcycles within the provisions relating to reflectors and reflective materials providing for enforcement of equipment requirements, further defining the duty to stop in the event of an accident * * * .

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 817.1), page 5, line 13, by striking out "peace officer" and inserting: members of the Pennsylvania State Police

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 667, entitled:

An Act creating and establishing a continuing career system for technical and professional personnel in or assigned to the Department of Highways establishing and vesting certain powers in the Highway Technical and Professional Personnel Board and making an appropriation.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McCANN asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendment will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 3, page 2, line 18 by inserting after "to" only

Amend Sec. 3, page 3, line 14 by inserting after "to" only

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the minority leader rise?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Just to inform the membership on this side of the House, these are amendments being offered to the State Highway Department's civil service bill. The amendment that is being inserted now is a corrective amendment and inserts the word "only" in the bill.

Tomorrow on the Republican side we will offer comprehensive amendments to the bill which will be debated at length.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leaves of absence were granted as follows:

Mr. Dougherty for Mr. MIHM for the week.

Mr. Tompkins for Mr. ASHTON for the week because of illness.

Mr. Tompkins for Mr. WILLAREDT for today.

Mr. Tompkins for Mr. STECKEL for today.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair returns the gavel to the Speaker of the House.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1829, entitled:

An Act amending the "Parking Authority Law" approved June 5, 1947 (P. L. 458), authorizing the extension of the term of existence of an Authority by resolution or ordinance of the municipality.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Will one of the sponsors of the bill consent to be interrogated concerning this bill?

The SPEAKER. Will Mr. Eilberg consent to be interrogated?

Mr. EILBERG. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, what is the present life of the parking authority in Philadelphia today?

Mr. EILBERG. I did not hear the gentleman's question.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. What is the present life of the parking authority in Philadelphia today?

Mr. EILBERG. Fifty years.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Fifty years. And if during that 50-year period, say in 1990, city council wants to extend it another 50 years, then it can go over to 2040? Is that correct, under this act?

Mr. EILBERG. That is correct as far as I know.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Thank you.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I believe the authority was established by statute as a means of avoiding a serious tax problem, and to allow council to extend an authority for 50 years would be a very dangerous thing as far as taxpayers are concerned.

We think the bill is unsound and it should be defeated.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

ANNOUNCEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the next bill is House bill 1831 which would create common pleas court No. 8 in Philadelphia. I have been informed that at the present time some bills creating some of the courts are favored by some and not favored by others. The total number of judges that are to be created in legislative bills in the House and the Senate, I believe, should travel as a package and be a part of an agreement. There is a bill for one judge in Bucks County; that is Senate bill No. 20. That is on the calendar. We have a bill for one judge in Butler County in House bill No. 1625; it is on the calendar; a bill for one court in Philadelphia, three judges, House bill 1831 on the calendar; a bill in the Senate dealing with the Montgomery County judge seat, and one in the Senate dealing with the Berks County judge seat.

In the House we have at the present time the two House bills on Butler County and Philadelphia, and the Senate bill dealing with the Bucks County judge seat. I am going to call up the Philadelphia judge seat bill, the Philadelphia court bill dealing with three judges. It is my understanding from information from many who have talked to me that they prefer to vote for one and not for the other. If the bills are to fall they will all fall. None will pass or they will all pass. Therefore, I will call up House bill 1831 and ask you to support the entire judges' plan, these judges' seats dealing with Bucks County, Butler County, Montgomery County, Berks County and Philadelphia County.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, rise?

Mr. A. M. LEE. To debate the bill at the proper time, Mr. Speaker.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1831, entitled:

An Act increasing the number of courts of common pleas in the County of Philadelphia establishing therein a distinct and separate court of common pleas designated court of common pleas number eight and providing for the appointment and election of judges for the court.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee.

Mr. A. M. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to debate House bill 1831. I would like to say first a word apropos of the remarks of the majority leader, that it certainly seems to me that he takes a very crass and cynical approach to legislation creating judges in the State of Pennsylvania when he tries to tie them all together in a package. It seems to me that the various counties and judicial districts in the State of Pennsylvania either have the need and the demand for additional judges, or they do not. There is nothing to prevent all sorts of bills being introduced creating additional judges all over the Commonwealth. Therefore it seems to me right and proper that each one of these bills should be dealt with on its individual merits and on the situation as it seems in the judicial district in question and I therefore reject completely the comment he has made as to these bills going as a package and there being some sort of agreement of some kind. If Bucks County needs a judge, they should get one; if Philadelphia County needs judges, they should get them, and they should be dealt with individually.

With reference specifically to House bill 1831, as far as that bill is concerned, Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to it. I do not feel that there has been a demonstrated need as far as the city of Philadelphia is concerned for the creation of three additional judges in the court of common pleas. There is a substantial movement on foot at the present time to have a complete survey of the operation of the judicial system down there before any additional judges are created. I would also like to point out that from my own experience I do not know where in the world they would put them if they created them. At the present time the physical facilities of the court in the city of Philadelphia are appalling, and I just have no conception as to where these judges could set up shop if they were created. I therefore ask the members to vote "no" on House bill 1831.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, consent to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. M. LEE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has stated that there is no need for a common pleas court No. 8 in Philadelphia. I would ask the gentleman, is it not a fact that if a civil suit were to be started in common pleas court in Philadelphia, any common pleas court, it would take an average of three years for that suit to come to trial in a civil jury trial case?

Mr. A. M. LEE. The answer to that question, Mr. Speaker, is, "Yes." It would take three years for the case to come to trial, but I think the period could be materially shortened if there were courtroom facilities available for the trial of the cases because at the present time they are operating in all the courtrooms all the time and additional physical facilities could, in my opinion, go a long way in solving that problem.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, I would also like to inquire of the gentleman, is it not a fact that plans are presently on the drawing board for the erection of a new city administration building on Reyburn Plaza?

Mr. A. M. LEE. Yes, it is my understanding that those plans are on the drawing board. It is in my brief knowledge a controversial project. I have no idea what court facilities are to be provided in this particular building and I would certainly suggest that as long as those plans are on the drawing board, House bill 1831 should be left on the drawing board, too.

Mr. EILBERG. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, we are in the session of 1961 and we will not have the opportunity again until 1963, at the earliest, to consider the possibility of creating a new common pleas court No. 8. As I have pointed out in my interrogation, there is a backlog of approximately three years in the trial of civil jury trial cases in the city of Philadelphia. We must do something about this problem.

As far as the facilities are concerned, I am not impressed with the remarks of the gentleman that there is not room in city hall. I believe there are courtrooms that could be used, because there are courtrooms that are not in use every day of the week every week of the year. Moreover, as I pointed out in my interrogation, there are plans afoot now, controversial or not, to erect a new city hall, a new hall for courts, as well as other departments of the city of Philadelphia.

I urge everyone to vote for this bill on the merits of this bill alone.

The SPEAKER. We had a prior request. Does the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Piper, desire to be recognized at this time?

Mr. PIPER. I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Piper.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I object to the majority leader putting all of these bills into a package for the simple reason that Philadelphia may need an additional judge. There may be other counties that need an additional judge, but Berks County does not need an additional judge and I earnestly request that that bill, if it is going to be printed, be put in separately. Our president judge appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee and he testified that we do not need a new judge in Berks County, that we had all the work they could handle, they sat out 60 days last year, and for that reason I object to these bills being taken in a package. I thank you.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I intend to vote against every bill creating a new judge in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, regardless of the mandate directed at us by the majority leader. His remarks were rather presumptuous, and I so state.

Regarding the merits of this bill, we should not vote for additional judges in Philadelphia or Allegheny County until we have a court administrator bill. We have House bill No. 1634 which has been in the Committee on Judiciary since June 5, and I understand that the Democratic administration is in favor of the court administrator bill. The judges' bill was introduced on July 13—four judges in less than a month; no court administrator in more than two months. Let us vote against all the bills.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, a court administrator would not be able to try cases. A court administrator in Philadelphia would cost $60,000. We are requesting $60,000 in connection with the creation of common pleas court No. 8. We think the best way to try cases in Philadelphia is to provide the judges to try the cases.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask a question. I notice in all these judges' bills there is an appropriation. Is there any money available in the budget for these sums in view of the tremendous decrease in revenue?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, these items are not included in the budget because they are additional pieces of legislation that have been passed, or in the process of being passed, since the budget was made. However, the amounts contained in the bills as appropriations have been allocated and put into our figures. In other words, if these bills pass, the estimated revenues as we now have them would cover them. I must once again remind the House, though, that it will be necessary for the two bills languishing in the Senate to be passed in order to provide these necessary funds.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, in view of the statement of the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, we realize there is no money in the budget, and we do not think there is any money in the Commonwealth's general fund to pay this in view of the frightful decrease in revenue owing to the business recession. It seems, in view of the debate here, that a city hall is going to be built in Philadelphia. In view of the huge undertaking there, we should, therefore, lay the request for these judges aside until they have chambers in which to place these judges and until we have adequate funds in the Commonwealth with which to pay the salaries of these judges.

Therefore, I ask that the members vote "no" on this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg, permit himself again to be interrogated?

Mr. EILBERG. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, this bill as it appears in the caption on the calendar asks that an additional court, No. 8, of common pleas be created in Philadelphia. In doing so, how many additional judges would this incur?

Mr. EILBERG. Three judges.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Three judges. That would be a president judge and two additional judges?

Mr. EILBERG. That is correct.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the Constitutional Revision Commission took this question up and looked at it very thoroughly. When we had hearings in the city of Philadelphia, the then chancellor of the Philadelphia Bar came before us. We had serving on that committee, also, former Chief Justice Stern of the Supreme Court of this State, who is also a Philadelphia resident. Also serving on that committee was Mayor Dilworth of Philadelphia. Now, the consensus of opinion, objectively and in connection with a part of the problems in Philadelphia, was not more courts and more judges, but a consolidation of the seven presently existing courts in Philadelphia into one, whereby they would have one president judge and the balance of the 20 judges operating as such.

When we get information of that kind from that calibre of individuals in the city of Philadelphia, then I say to you that the creation of an additional court is not going to help solve the court problems in the city of Philadelphia.

There is in this session at the present time a bill to provide for that consolidation, a constitutional amendment, and, rather than pass a piece of legislation like this, that constitutional amendment should be trotted out and get your courts in shape where they can do business in the city of Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg.

Mr. EILBERG. Very briefly, Mr. Speaker, in reply to the remarks of the gentleman, Mr. Tompkins, if we have to wait for a constitutional amendment, by the time that amendment is voted upon by the people and additional court facilities provided, I venture to say that the backlog would be more like five years instead of the present three years.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Warren, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. J. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, on this question of the creation of additional judges, I think that the legislature should take into consideration the question of sound fiscal responsibility. We have before us a very momentous question of appropriations for schools and school subsidies. I think if there is any money that is available we should spend that money in order to educate our youth properly so that they can, in time, become judges and at that time receive the salaries of the present judges and the additional ones. I think the first thing to think of is the education of our youth.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED SENATE BILL RECALLED FROM THE GOVERNOR RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 114.

An Act reenacting and amending section 13 and Article VII of Chapter II of the act of December 15, 1959 (P. L. 1779), entitled "An act relating to fish and amending revising consolidating and changing the law relating to fish in the inland waters and the boundary lakes and boundary rivers of the Commonwealth" removing the requirement that fishermen be licensed in order to fish in certain regulated fishing lakes further regulating the issuance of permits or bills of sale for fish caught in such lakes changing penalties relating to such lake and harmonizing language of existing law.

Said bill having been recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment. The vote had on final passage and third reading on said bill was reconsidered in the Senate and the bill amended, in which amendments the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The clerk will read the amendments.

The clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 5, line 16, by striking out after the word "license" the following: "prior to January 1 1961 or" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "and" and by inserting after the word "lake" on line 19, the following: "or water to which the fishing lake has riparian rights".

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, we have not caucused on this bill, but it is a bill recalled from the Governor, and, as I understand it, the amendments inserted by the Senate are amendments to meet objections of the attorney general.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Clearfield.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, this bill was passed and went to the Governor and it laid on his desk; it was studied by the Justice Department and one of the sections was found unconstitutional. It was recalled from the Governor and these are the amendments to make it constitutional.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I am still of the opinion that this is not good legislation. The Fish Commission is in trouble financially and this will put it deeper and deeper into trouble. I still oppose the bill, constitutional or not.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request that the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL No. 1284.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
Governor's Office, Harrisburg

July 28, 1961.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I return herewith, without my approval, House bill No. 1284, printer's No. 1481, entitled "An Act amending the act of May 4, 1927 (P. L. 519), entitled 'An act concerning boroughs and revising amending and consolidating the law relating to boroughs' authorizing ordinances and certain resolutions to be in force after attachment to the borough ordinance book and validating certain borough records."

This bill would amend Sections 1008 and 1009 of the act of May 4, 1927 (P. L. 519) as amended, known as the "Borough Code." Its purpose is to permit ordinances or resolutions of a legislative character to be attached to the ordinance book by stapling or by glue or any other adhesive substance before such legislative action would be considered in force. Presently, the Borough Code requires that such ordinances or resolutions be recorded in the ordinance book.

The bill in effect seeks to ease the task of borough secretaries who are required to record such ordinances in an ordinance book. With the advent of voluminous codes such as zoning codes and building codes, the physical copying thereof may seem impractical and inefficient.

However, the very existence of such codes and a multitude of other councilmanic enactments is indicative of the growth in the home rule philosophy of government and while all means to effect more efficient operations on the local level are desirable, it becomes imperative more than ever, that a permanent record of such enactments be scrupulously maintained for the benefit of the public.

It must be pointed out that the choice is not between this bill and recordation in longhand since the law presently provides that the records may be "typewritten, printed, photostated or microfilmed."

Because of the risk of loss of the basic law of the community through the deterioration of adhesive materials and the impermanence of stapled entries, it is not in the public interest to permit the compilation of ordinance books as provided for in this bill.

This bill would go further and validate all past actions performed in the new manner prescribed in the bill. To condone such illegal actions on the part of borough officials is unthinkable.

For these reasons, the bill is not approved.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The communication and bill will lie on the Speaker's table.

RESOLUTION

APPRECIATION

Mrs. MARKLEY, Messrs. McCANN, A. W. JOHNSON and J. A. O'DONNELL offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, August 7, 1961.

On August 15, 1961 the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will be losing the services of one of its most faithful public servants for on that day Attorney Harrington G. Adams' resignation as Deputy Attorney General will become effective.

Mr. Adams, who resides in Bethlehem, is an outstanding example of the career people who form the backbone of the State government and survive shifts of political control. Harrington started with the State in 1939 and since that time he has served under four Republican Governors and two Democrats. During his span in the Justice Department he has been named Acting Attorney General no less than three different times and by three different Governors.

The significant point about Adams' service to the State is found in his role as a bridge between administrations. Within the government structure there are many like him who survive exercise of the spoils system because even the most political-minded executive knows the need for a continuity of some sort to prevent a completely chaotic condition when political turnover is taking its toll.

The people of Pennsylvania should be thankful that we have such fine spirited public citizens who are willing to devote their talents to the populace; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth extend its heartfelt thanks and deep appreciation for a job well done by Harrington G. Adams; and be it further

Resolved, That we wish him the best of luck in his retirement; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Deputy Attorney General Harrington G. Adams in the Justice Department.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. CAPANO asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to a bill to be introduced by him.

BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS PASSED OVER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request that all other bills and resolutions not acted upon at today's session be passed over.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair hears no objection.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. ARLENE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Tuesday, August 8, 1961, at 12 o'clock noon, e.s.t.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 4:37 p.m., e.s.t.) the House adjourned.
